STATEWIDE SAVE-A-LIFE CAMPAIGN

Announced by Proclamation Issued by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie

In an effort to reduce automobile accidents and eliminate loss of life caused by motor vehicles in Maryland, a state-wide "Save-A-Life" campaign will be conducted from June 15 to July 15, it was announced today by E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

The campaign was announced today for the State by a proclamation issued by Governor Albert C. Ritchie at the Capitol this morning. The proclamation calls upon all municipal authorities, motor organizations and civic and commercial bodies to cooperate in the "Save-A Life" movement and also calls attention to the new Motor Vehicle Inspection Law.

Under the provisions of Chapter 257 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland as enacted at the Session of 1929, the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is authorized to require an inspection of the safety factors of all motor vehicles in the State. The inspection of motor vehicles shall consist of brakes, lights, horns, steering mechanism, windshield wipers, rear view mirrors, obscure license tags and operators' licenses.

Service stations and garages in every community in the State will be appointed to serve as official inspection stations from June 15 to July 15, inclusive. During this period every motor vehicle owner is requested to drive or send his car or truck to one of these official inspection stations to be examined regarding its mechanical condition. This inspection will be made entirely without charge at official garages and service stations and the motor vehicle owner is free to choose any official inspection station he desires.

Official windshield stickers will bo issued in the name of the State Motor Vehicle authorities and one of these will be placed on every motor vehicle that passes inspection as being in good mechanical condition insofar as its safety factors are concerned. Cars that reveal mechanical defects which render them unsafe will have to be put in good order before the official State sticker will be issued to the owner.

"The proposed 'Save-A-Life' inspection of automobiles will be devoted chiefly to the brakes, horns, lights, steering mechanism, windshield wipers and mirrors," said Commissioner Baughman in announcing the campaign to reduce automobile accidents and prevent fatalities in the State. "These are the items most likely to get out of order on the average automobile and truck and statistics show that they are the most frequent causes of accidents.

"We want no unsafe automobiles on the roads in Maryland and co-operation of every citizen and motorist in getting his car inspected free of charge between June 15 and July 15 will go a long way towards saving lives and preventing accidents.

"It is perfectly obvious that the best driver in the world cannot stop a car that has no brakes or warn pedestrians and other cars if the horn is not working. Inspection of drivers is not sufficient; the vehicle they drive must also be in a safe condition to prevent injury to themselves and others.

"Forty per cent of deaths from automobile accidents in the United States are caused by defects in the mechanical condition of the automobile itself. A modern automobile is good for tens of thousands of miles of service and it is entirely safe in the hands of a careful driver, but being a piece of machinery it requires regular mechanical inspection at least once a year to keep it in good running order and to operate it economically and safely."

Governor Ritchie's proclamation calls upon the officials of every community and various civic and industrial organizations to lend their whole-hearted support to the State-wide movement for greater motor vehicle safety. The text of the proclamation follows:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
ANNAPOLIS, MARYLAND
SAVE A LIFE CAMPAIGN
June 15 to July 15, 1929, Inclusive

WHEREAS, Experience has demonstrated that a considerable portion of the accidents involving motor vehicles is directly chargeable to defective mechanism or equipment; and

WHEREAS, These accidents leave in their wake untold suffering and loss of human life and limb, entirely aside from wanton waste of and damage of and to property; and

WHEREAS, It is believed that careful and frequent inspection of such mechanism and equipment will eliminate most, if not all, accidents chargeable to such defects; and

WHEREAS, By Chapter 259 of the Acts of 1929, the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of the State of Maryland is authorized to require the inspection of any motor vehicle or trailer to determine whether or not it is unsafe or improperly equipped or otherwise unfit to be operated, such inspection to be made at such times and in such manner as the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles may specify; and

WHEREAS, Numerous owners of garages and service stations throughout the State have been designated by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to make the said inspections without expense to the State or to the owner of the motor vehicle, which said garages and service stations will be identified by and will display an official poster; and

WHEREAS, E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of the State of Maryland, pursuant to the power and authority vested in him by the aforementioned statute, and in co-operation with the automobile industry of the State and the owners of the garages and service stations aforesaid, has arranged for such inspection, free of charge, the same to include examination of brakes, horns, lights, steering mechanism and mirrors, during the period from the 15th day of June to the 15th day of July, 1929, inclusive.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RITCHIE, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARLAND, do proclaim the period from the 15th day of June to the 15th day of July, 1929, inclusive, as SAVE-A-LIFE PERIOD.

And I hereby order and direct, and earnestly call upon, all owners and operators of motor vehicles to avail themselves of this opportunity to have their motor vehicles inspected without charge, and upon learning of any defects in mechanism or equipment or the adjustment thereof, to have such defects eliminated immediately.

I respectfully recommend to the municipal authorities of each city, town and village of the State that they make similar proclamations to their townspeople, that Presidents of Chambers of Commerce and luncheon and motor clubs and civic organizations stress the significance of this safety movement, and I further recommend the subject of public safety as an appropriate theme for the clergy and public speakers during the public safety period aforesaid to the end that greater success will attend the effort to reduce car accident hazard.

GIVEN under My Hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, at the City of Annapolis, this fifth day of June, in the Year of Our Lord, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Twenty-nine.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE,

By the Governor:
DAVID C. WINEBRENNER, 3d,
Secretary of State.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Watch your garden beans for bean beetle is here again. Be ready for him. Spray or dust with some good arsenical.

Dusts

This can be purchased ready mixed and should be used according to the manufacturer's directions.

Or for very heavy infestations, magnesium arsenate dust: Magnesium arsenate, 1 tablespoonful, hydrated lime, 3 tablespoonsful.

Sprays

Calcium arsenate Bordeaux spray: Home-made Bordeaux (directions for preparation follow) 3 gallons; flour or other spreader, 1 tablespoonsful; calcium arsenate, 4 tablespoonsful.

Dissolve 1 oz. of powdered copper sulphate (Bluestone) in 2½ gallons of water. Use a wooden bucket or tub as the copper sulphate will destroy most metal containers. Add 2 oz, of the finest grade of hydrated lime to ½ gallon of water. Pour the lime solution into the copper-sulphate solution and stir thoroughly. Use only a sprayer having a brass tank as this mixture will ultimately destroy a galvanized tank. Prepared Bordeaux may be used instead, following the manufacturer's directions and adding the arsenical.

Magnesium spray: Magnesium arsenate 4 tablespoonsful; flour or casein spreader one tablespoonful; water, 3 gallons.

It costs in the neighborhood of $50,000,000 a year for cattle owners, dairymen, feeders, butchers, and tanners to support the cattle grub, yet this pest can be destroyed. Either the old method of hand extraction may be used, or the newer methods, developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The department advises the application of Derris as a wash, ointment, or powder, pyrethrum ointment, fine tobacco powder or nicotine dust, or the injection of benzol or carbon tetrachloride. A concentrated drive on the cattle grub is necessary to eradicate it from a locality. The pest is becoming more serious, says the department owing to the spread of a second species of grub, known as the northern, or European grub.

Sanitation in Poultry Yard Performs a Double Function

Care exercised in keeping poultry yards clean and in sanitary conditions has a double function in keeping the flock clear of parasites that undermine the health and sap the vigor of the birds. The injury by mites, lice, fleas, and other parasitic organisms is sometimes obvious, but it also happens that some insects and other small creatures are carriers or intermediate hosts of some of the internal parasites of poultry.

For example, according to specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture, one variety of round worm must develop for one stage of its life outside the poultry it affects. The roundworm lays its eggs within the chicken and they are eliminated in the droppings. They will not mature if picked up by a fowl. They do mature if a water flea picks up the eggs. Then if a hen takes in the water flea with her drinking water the roundworm parasite of the flea develops into a poultry parasite.

Many similar examples are known, and others are suspected. The grasshopper, for instance, has recently been shown to transmit at least one important parasite of domestic poultry.

Sanitation and cleanliness which prevents such insects from having access to the droppings may thus break a cycle through which infestation reaches the flock. The insects in themselves may not be harmful to poultry, but if they have had an opportunity to feed on contaminated droppings they may be the means of spreading these particular parasites.

MT. LAKE PARK.

United Presbyterian Convention

It is not too early for Park residents to make ready for the entertainment of the United Presbyterian convention which is to be with us in July.

From present indications it promises to be one of the largest gatherings held at the resort for several years. Coming as they will from widely separated sections of the country, representing all walks in life, it behooves everyone who is interested in the welfare of this community to bend every energy to make these coming visitors comfortable and happy while with us. A satisfied customer is the best advertisement. Ask any merchant. Those who have interests at Mountain Lake Park, who want to see it go forward, who believe in its future, are merchants in every sense of the word, and each man and woman should see that our goods are displayed in the most attractive manner and that every customer gets value received.

Any merchant will tell you that it is the repeat order that makes for success.

We can either send our visitors back to their homes at the end of their stay talking advertisements, singing our praises or we can send them home a bunch of knockers.

We have the best stock of merchandise of its kind in the country, so let's tell the world about it.

Mr. Lee M. Bender and Miss Elizabeth Bender, his daughter, accompanied by their house guest, Miss Elizabeth Carpenter, Baltimore, have opened their cottage for the season.

The chicken supper given last night at Hamilton Hall by the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church, was largely attended and was successful from every standpoint.

Supervisor Echard has a corps of men working on the streets and roads in all sections of the Park with the result that they are in fine condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Murphy, of Fairmont, have opened their cottage here for the season, having arrived a few days ago.

Miss Isobel Hill has returned from a trip of several weeks to the Pacific Coast.

Mr. P. T. Lipscomb spent Sunday with Mr. E. C. Cuppett on the U. B. charge at Evansville where Mr. Cuppett filled engagements.

Mr. H. M. Weeks and daughter Miss Virginia spent Sunday in the Shenandoah Valley.

A. L. Biggs and son Harland, and Elmus Ream spent Sunday in Washington, D. C.

A very large crowd from all parts of the county and West Virginia attended the I. O. O. F. memorial services in Loch Lynn Sunday afternoon.

Gerald Biggs and Miss Margaret Leighton, University of Maryland students, are home for the summer.

Dr. C. W. Baldwin and family, Baltimore, arrived at the Park a few days ago.

Mr. C. P. Hicks and family of Marion, Va., are here for a brief visit with the former's sister, Miss Octavia Hicks, at the Deaconess' Rest Home.

Mrs. Ruhl, Clarksburg, has arrived and will spend the summer at her cottage in the Park.

Mrs. E. L. Meadows is to be here tomorrow and no doubt will soon have her book store in operation.

Mrs. W. W. McConnell, of Wheeling, is here putting her property in condition for the summer's occupancy.

The children's day service was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all, as the children took their parts splendidly.

FRIENDSVILLE

Shower for Bride

A shower was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Friend on last Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. John H. Carter, a recent bride. A large number of beautiful gifts were received by the bride and very elaborate refreshments were served by the hostess. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Those present were the honoree, Mrs. Carter; Mrs. J. W. McCullough, Mrs. A. J. Mason, Mrs. Paul Friend, Mrs. L. L. Friend, Mrs. Gladys Phillippi, Mrs. F. C. McCullough, Mrs. J. W. Glenn, Mrs. Asa Rush, Miss Rosella Bishoff, Mrs. Ethel Roberts, Miss Mary E. Friend, Miss Grace Coddington, Mrs. Percy Friend.

Aid Societies Meet.

The Lutheran Ladies' Aid Society held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Hiram Humbertson recently. Following a service of devotions a brief business session was conducted and then a two-course luncheon was served by Mrs. Humbertson. Those present included Mrs. John W. McCullough, Mrs. Clarence Nicklow, Mrs. Allie Liston, Mrs. Foster Glover, Mrs. Mattie Kamp, Mrs. Florence Wolf, Mrs. Susan Sellers, Mrs. Katheryn Hevrin, Mrs. Jennie Frazee, Miss Emma Humbertson, Mrs. Hiram Humbertson and Rev. G. W. W. Amick, as a guest of the society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. W. J. Glenn on last Thursday afternoon. A devotional service was conducted after which a delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Glenn. Those attending were Mrs. L. L. Friend, Mrs. W. C. Nedrow, Mrs. Asa Rush, Mrs. A. J. Mason, Mrs. Earl Friend, Mrs. Basil Garletts, Mrs. Ella Augustine, Mrs. John Dye, Mrs. John Holman, Mrs. W. J. Glenn and Rev. T. E. Shea.

Herd Improvement Association

The Friendsville Herd Improvement Association, formed under the direction of the Friendsville Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, has just completed its second month of active service.

With a larger enrollment of boys and more cows tested during the month of May than in April, the members feel confident that the association will prove helpful in developing the dairy industry in the Friendsville community.

Some of the purposes which members are hoping to accomplish through the work of this association are to eliminate the boarder cows by knowing what each cow produces; improve the herd through better feeding and better breeding; increase the efficiency of production by knowing the cost of production.

Realizing that the average cow in Garrett county produces less than 3000 pounds of milk as compared with 3250 in the State, 3527 in the United States, and 7,585 pounds in the Netherlands (the country in which cow testing associations originated) it is the sincere wish of the association that every boy in the community will take advantage of opportunities which it offers.

The ten highest cows in the association during the month of May produced from 54.5 pounds of butterfat to 23.5 pounds. The ten cows are owned by Glenn Fike, Ernest Hauser, Wade Umbel and Karol Rush.

Home For Vacation

Those of the community who are home for the summer vacation from their respective schools are Miss Mary E. Friend, Western Maryland College; Raymond McCullough, Potomac State School; James W. Coddington, Maryland University.

Personal and General.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Harlow and daughter Janet and Miss Lillian Ryland, of Washington, D. C., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. W. Ryland over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Harlow returned to Washington Sunday afternoon, while the young ladies of the party will remain here during the summer.

The W. C. T. U. held a regular monthly meeting of the organization at the home of Mrs. Norman Frazee on last Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance of members.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fike, of Pittsburgh, Pa., were visiting friends here last week.

Mr. John Williams is at his home from Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. M. J. Forsythe is building a new garage on his property here.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

—OF—

A VALUABLE SMALL FARM

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from Haymond Z. Rodeheaver and wife to Gilmor S. Hamill, dated the 23rd day of December, 1922, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 83, folio 544, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, default having occurred under the provisions of said mortgage, the undersigned attorney for the mortgagee named in said mortgage will, on in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, and at the hour of two o'clock p. m., on said day, sell at public auction to the highest bidder all of that part of Military Lot No. 1586 situate, lying and being in Garrett county, and about three miles north of Oakland, it being one of the originals of a tract of land called "EMANCIPATION," granted by the State of Maryland to Robert, Oliver and James Cunningham, by patent dated August 4, 1830, and being the same land as described in a deed from David Wakefield and wife to George W. Shank, dated the 24th day of November, 1919, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 77, folio 116, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, especial reference to which said deed and the record thereof is herein made for a more particular description of said parcel of land, said parcel of land containing the quantity of 31 acres, more or less.

Said property is improved by a small dwelling, barn and outbuildings and would make the purchaser a desirable home, as the same is situated 700 yards from the State road and is partly cleared and under cultivation.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on the day of sale, but if any responsible bidder desires to purchase the same on time, the mortgagee is willing to take one-third down and the balance in two equal installments at one and two years from the date of sale, which deferred payments are to be secured by a mortgage on said property and to bear interest from the date of sale, payable semi-annually, or all of the purchase money may be paid down upon the ratification of the sale by the Court, at the option of the purchaser. Possession given upon ratification of the sale by the Court.

MEMBERS OF STATE ROADS BODY ARE ENTERTAINED

Were Guests of County Commissioners With a Number of Local People at Dinner Yesterday

Members of the State Roads Commission and a number of officials of Garrett county as well as business men of Oakland, were guests of the Board of County Commissioners at a dinner given yesterday noon at the William-James Hotel in connection with an inspection trip being made by the members of the Roads Commission in Garrett county.

Those present at the dinner included the guests of honor, Messrs. Clinton, Uhl, John Shaw and Howard Bruce, members of the Roads Commission; Harry Hilliar, chief engineer; Leo T. Downey, district engineer; D. P. Lefevre, road engineer of Allegany county; Judge Albert A. Doub. Senator A. D. Naylor, Delegates Arthur Lawton, Albert Markley and Arthur Green; John W. McCullough, J. O. Thayer and H. A. Loraditch, members of the Board of Education; F. E. Rathbun, County Superintendent of Schools; Clay Stanton, H. P. Miller, Charles O. Keller, Grantsville; R. L. Wilson, Kitzmiller; Mayor L. M. Fraley, Delbert Davis, Berne Teter, J. C. Renninger, W. R. Offutt, W. O. Davis, Benj. H. Sincell, of Oakland. and the County Commissioners, George D. Browning, Daniel E. Orendorf and Harvey Gortner.

Following the dinner, Senator Naylor made a few remarks relative to the assistance he had received from the members of the Roads Commission in having an appropriation made for the completion of the Northwestern Turnpike and then introduced Mr. W. R. Offutt, who expressed himself as being happy in welcoming the Roads Commission to Garrett county.

Chairman Uhl, of the Commission followed Mr. Offutt and claimed kinship to Garrett county, he having been born and reared in Allegany county while Garrett was still a part of the parent county. Mr. Bruce, another member of the State Commission, spoke briefly on the subejct of furthering the good roads movement and expressed his pleasure upon having the opportunity of visiting Garrett county and beholding its great natural beauties.

The program of reorganization to be followed by the new State Roads commission was outlined in an interview with Mr. Bruce by the editor of The Republican.

After complimenting the preceding commissions for the road system they had evolved Mr. Bruce pointed out the present board had decided to make important changes in those branches of the department concerned with accounting and administration.

Among the changes are a new payroll system a monthly public report of the commission's activities, a strict cost accounting system and new way of handling the motor vehicle equipment belonging to the commission. The last will be based on the results of a survey undertaken for the State free of charge by the Chesapeake and Potomac telephone company.

Mentions Three Units

Mr. Bruce pointed out that any business enterprise may be divided into a sales department, a manufacturing department and accounting department.

He then pointed out that State road building differed only in that it did not require a sales department. Taking up the manufacturing department he asserted that "delving into activity of our predecessors. we came to the same conclusion that every informed body in this whole country has reached, namely, that the State roads system of Maryland has been wisely conceived, has been well designed from an engineering standpoint and has been splendidly and economically constructed."

Praises Workers

He then praised the men in the engineering and construction department "selected and trained by John N. Mackall."

Passing on to the accounting or administrative department, he said the new commission had not been so favorably impressed. Appointments to this branch from outside the State roads service were thought advisable, he said, and when they had been made a reorganization of the system was begun.

"We have adopted a new pay-roll system which we believe to be as near burglar-proof as possible," Mr. Bruce asserted. "We consider the pub-

PICTURES NEXT WEEK ARE FOR BENEFIT OF FIREMEN

New Feature Pictures and Special Two-Reel "Talkies"

Proceeds from all pictures to be shown next week at the Maryland Theatre, Oakland, will go for the benefit of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, it has been announced, and a number of first class attractions, with special two-reel talking pictures, have been booked.

Each night there will be a feature picture comedy, and a special talking film. Admission will be 15 and 35 cents.

The following pictures will be shown: Monday, Reginald Denny in "On Your Toes"; Tuesday, Karl Dane and George K. Arthur in "Brotherly Love"; Wednesday and Thursday, Rod LaRocque in "Hold 'Em, Yale"; Friday, Natalie Kingston, in "The Harvester"; Saturday, Ken Maynard in "Phantom City."

The Maryland Theatre, completely repaired and improved, will resume operatoins with a talking picture, Douglas McLean, in "Carnation Kid," Friday evening of this week.

Extensive improvements have been made since the building was damaged by fire several weeks ago, and Mr. B. I. Gonder, manager, finds the house better equipped than ever before to give to the people of Oakland and vicinity the latest in screen successes.

Garrett County Girl Has Good Foundation in 4-H Work

The Southern Planter, issue of June 15, a magazine published at Richmond, Va., in the interest of bettering agriculture and live stock conditions, etc., carries a story and picture of Dorothy Welch, Mt. Lake Park, who has been active in 4-H work for the past several years. The article follows:

Dorothy Welch, member of Mountain Lake Park 4-H club, Maryland, is now a senior in high school and has completed four years of club work. During the past year she selected room improvement as her major project. The exhibit of this at the county fair brought her orders for similar sets of bureau covers from various parts of the county. She, also, made all her own clothes. In canning she compieted the requirements in a county-wide canning club project.

In addition to her club work she has organized two clubs and served as leader to both. She was assistant editor of the 4-H club paper, tribe leader in the county camp, member of the high school orchestra and last summer assisted the county home demonstration agent in many ways.

She is planning to go to college and major in home economics and thus continue her work in the 4-H club field.

She says, "June 21 will soon be passed and with it these happy high school days. In the tomorrow of life there looms up before me a vision of still greater opportunities—college days with training and preparation and then life work. I shall always be thankful for the 4-H ideals as a foundation for life."

Oakland Civic Club to Hold Regular Monthly Meeting at Park

The Oakland Civic Club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. James Willison in Mountain Lake Park, Tuesday, June 25, at 3:00 o'clock. Those wishing to attend will meet at the home of Miss Lottie Loar on Second street, Oakland.

Mrs. Walter B. Brock will give a talk and discussion on an important subject which is open for legislation. Each club in the state is to vote on the subject and the decision sent to the local Congressman. Another interesting feature will be a talk by Miss Elsie Benthien, on "Better Homes." A record attendance should be had is the desire of the officials of the club.

Schools to Re-open September 9.

The public elementary and high schools of Garrett county will re-open for the coming school year 1929-1930 for actual instructional purposes on Monday morning, September 9, according to F. E. Rathbun, Superintendent of Schools. On Saturday, September 7, the enrollment of new students will be made and assistance will be given in selecting courses and outlining the work for new as well as former students.

Students who have graduated from a high school and who wish to re-enter must have the permission of the County Board of Education

LAST OF RADIO PROGRAMS TO BE GIVEN ON MONDAY

Reception Monday Evening Better—Dr. McComas' Address

The last of a series of radio programs given under the auspices of a number of business men of Oakland and Mountain Lake Park to be presented over Station WMMN, Fairmont, Monday, June 24, will contain a number of local talent artists. The address of the evening will be delivered by William R. Offutt, local attorney, who will speak about Garrett county.

Abel and Thomas Browning, well known fiddlers of Garrett county, who have broadcast from KDKA and WCAE, Pittsburgh, Pa., will render several selections and will be accompanied by John Browning with his harp, and also by Frank Shank.

Mrs. James P. Treacy, Oakland, and Miss Hasaleah Yutzy, Crellin, will play piano solos and Miss Ruth Conley will sing. Robert Ford, of Crellin, yodeler, will be on the program. The Four Horsemen quartet, the Harmony Boys and Wilmer Brown with his accordeon, will also be included in the program, it was stated, and Miss Mary Jane Offutt will sing.

Monday's program, known as Oakland Hour, given between eight and nine o'clock, was better received by Oakland radio enthusiasts than the two previous programs. They heard Dr. H. W. McComas deliver an address, string music by Ray Browning, Joe Browning and Ray Cogley; a yodeling chorus by Robert Ford, accompanied on the piano by Miss Hasaleah Yutzy, of Crellin; a piano selection by Miss Helen Virginia Jones and a solo and reading by Mrs. D. Edward Offutt, of Oakland.

Dr. McComas' address follows:

"After passing through an electrical storm coming here this evening and confronting a door-knocker apparatus would stir to its depths a much stronger heart and mind than mine. However, at this time of the year, with graduating exercises taking place, new life budding everywhere, we would naturally consider health and education.

"I a mhere this evening because I am personally interested in your health and your education. I am here beenuse a body of representative citizens of Oakland requested me to make this visit.

"We are all here in the interest of health and service to our community. Upon you depends the national welfare.

"I wish to arouse your ambition in the direction of health and education. Every day in New York public schools thirty-two thousand children are absent because of illness. Ninety-eight inspectors are supposed to look after one million three hundred thousand. There is one nurse to five thousand children.

"Some day prosperous civilization will realize that there is cash value in intelligent children and will find it worth while to take care of them.

"There is no record of a man with a six and a half head ever making a ripple on the intellectual sea.

"The object of education is that a man may benefit himself by serving society.

"To benefit others, you must be reasonably happy; there must be anination through useful activity, good cheer, kindness and health—health of mind and health of body. And to benefit society you must also have patience, persistency and a firm determination to do the right thing and to mind your own business so that others, too, may mind theirs.

"Then all should be tinctured with dash of discontent with past achievements so you will constantly put forth an effort to do more and better work.

"When what you have done in the past looks large to you, you haven't done much today.

"There you get the formula of education, health and happiness thru useful activity, animation, kindness, good cheer, patience, persistency, willingness to give and take seasoned with enough discontent to prevent smugness, which is the scum that grows on every stagnant pool.

"Of course no school can fill this preseription, no institution can supply the ingredients, all that the school can do is to supply the conditions so that these things can spring into being.

"Plants need the sunlight, mushrooms are different. Sunlight is the best quality of the actinic ray.

"The old time academic college, that cultivated the cerebrum and gave a student his exercise in an indoor gymnasium, or not at all, has ruined

Class Night.

Class night exercises were held last evening in the school auditorium and after the singing of their class song, a play, entitled, "O. Kay." was presented by members of the senior class. The attempt to catch the "Black Terror," and the character portrayed by Dorothy Welch as "Gram" Pembroke kept the audience in laughter much of the time The play was well received.

The bacealaureate sermon was preached to the graduates last Sunda by Rev. B. T. Trevey, pastor of St. Paul's church, in the school auditorium, who was assisted in the service by Rev. Walter B. Brock and Rev. C. A. Shilke.

Eight Garrett County Women Attending Short Course

Garrett county is represented by eight women at the Rural Women's Short Course at College Park, which opened June 17 and which will continue until Saturday, the 22nd inst.

The following is a list of the Garrett county women attending: Mrs. T. C. Bittinger, Oakland Homemakers' Club; Mrs. C. C. Beachy, Bittinger club; Mrs. E. O. Fouch. Mrs. C. E. Hardesty and Mrs. L. A. Purnell, Mt. Lake-Loch Lynn club; Mrs. Henry P. Miller, Miss Christina Winterberg, Miss Cora Opel, Grantsville club.

This year Mrs. C. C. Beachy will be the graduate from Garrett county. Mrs. H. P. Miller, Miss Winterberg and Mrs. E. O. Fouch are all postgraduates.

The week's program is most attractive with class instruction, assembly programs and lectures. Friday afternoon a sightseeing trip to Washington and picnic supper at Rock Creek Park will conclude the course.

Many Taking Advantage of Free Car Inspection

Quite a number of car owners are taking advantage of the free car inspection, offered by the majority of Oakland garages, in connection with the "Save-a-Life" campaign being conducted by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of the State of Maryland.

The campaign dates are from June 15 to July 15, and designated garages will inspect brakes, horns, lights, steering mechanism and mirrors and suggest repairs necessary to the owners of the vehicles.

A recent act of the Legislature empowers the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to order every car in the State to be inspected and the owners of garages are asking that all customers get their cars in early in the campaign. Every car must be inspected by July 15, according to the order.

Several new features are to be found in the sixth edition of The Oak, year book publication of Oakland High School, which was delivered to the school on Monday from the commercial printing department of The Republican.

The book is dedicated to Mr. George D. Browning, president of the Board of County Commissioners, and contains greetings from him, from County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun, and the usual class pictures, accounts of athletic activities, class activities and the activities of the several clubs organized among the students of the school. One of the features of the book is a page of senior baby pictures.

The Oak, which is published each year by the senior class, is bound in a green morocco cover and constitutes eighty pages. The issue was 150 copies.

Three Slightly Injured in Auto Wreck on King's Hill Saturday

Three person—a man and his wife and the driver of the automobile—were injured last Saturday morning at a point on the Oakland-Accident highway in the vicinity of King's Hill, three miles north of Oakland. All were treated at the office of Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh.

The man and wife Mr. and Mrs. Herman Durst, were the more seriously hurt than the driver of the car, Henry Beeman. Mr. Durst sustained a dislocated shoulder and a number of bruises while his wife was painfully bruised about her arms and also suffered an injury to her elbow. One of Beeman's fingers was nearly severed as he was catapulted through the windshield of his car after it had been crowded off the road by a truck and ran into a telephone pole.

It is said that the Beeman car had attempted to pass the truck and that the driver of the latter failed to give the right of way but on the other hand kept steadily to the left and as a result the wreck occurred.

The injured persons were brought to Oakland by Mr. Sylvanus Schlossnagle who happened to be near when the accident took place.

Oakland Girl Wins Scholarship To Mt. St. Agnes College

Miss Frances Filsinger, 8th grade pupil of St. Peter's school, Oakland, has won a scholarship to Mt. St. Agnes college, Baltimore. Participating in the examination were the best in the eighth grades of all Sisters of Mercy schools in Baltimore, Washington and Maryland counties.

CIRCUIT COURT FOR JUNE TERM ENDED YESTERDAY

Judge Albert A. Doub, Who Occupied Bench This Week, Discharged Jury Last Night

The June Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court closed yesterday evening when Judge Albert A. Doub, presiding during the last days of the term, discharged the petit jury.

Last Thursday when The Republican was being printed, the jury sitting in the case of the State vs. Ray Kight, indicted for the manufacture of liquor, brought in a verdict of guilty and on Friday, Judge Sloan sitting, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $600 and be committed to the Maryland House of Correction for the term of nine months.

Charles Kight, brother of Ray Kight, indicted at the December term for the manufacture of liquor, was tried Friday and found guilty. He was fined $500 or serve a term of six months imprisonment in the Maryland House of Correction.

State vs. Dayton O. Friend, bastardy; guilty; to pay $8.33 per month for 14 years to the prosecuting witness and to give bond in the sum of $500 conditioned to meet the requirements of the order of the Court.

Henry W. Stuart, in jail since last February and indicted at the present term for bigamy, was sentenced to serve four months in the Garrett County Jail.

Joseph Likins, tried during the early part of last week on the charge of having stolen copper wire from a mine in the Potomac Valley, was sentenced to five years in the Maryland Penitentiary.

The case of C. G. O'Brien, of the North Glade community, who brought suit against the Board of County Commissioners on an appeal from the board's decision allowing the plaintiff the sum of $100 as damages in the location of a road through his farm, was tried before a jury. There were nearly sixty witnesses examined and the trial of the case consumed all of Tuesday afternoon and yesterday until noon when the jury returned a verdict in favor of O'Brien, allowing him the sum of $100 as damages.

Scouts Pass Tests at Out-of-Doors Meeting.

A number of Boy Scouts of Oakland Troop, No. 1, took advantage of the out-of-doors meeting last Friday and passed their tests on judging and pacing. A short march was made to a vacant lot at the north edge of town where speedball and other games were enjoyed. Those passing judging were David Walter. Richard Glotfelty, William Tillett, Stuart Hamill, Richard Gonder, Carl Hinebaugh and Walter Dawson. Richard Gonder also passed pacing.

Tomorrow the scouts are planning to meet on Ferguson's Hill, overlooking Oakland, where they will build a camp fire and hold their weekly session.

The local troop is in receipt of a Coleman gasoline lamp, which was won at Kingwood during the Boys' Week celebration in that town. The prize was donated by the Kingwood Rotary Club and is much appreciated by the members of the troop. It will be used on camping trips and overnight hikes.

Girls' County Camp To Be Held July 8 to 13.

A camp for older girls in training for leadership will be in session on July 5, 6 and 7. This special three-day camp will be conducted this year for the first time at Camp Algajoy, on the Casselman River, near Grantsville. It is open to 4-H girls in Allegany and Garrett counties who will assist the home demonstration agents and have charge of activities at Camp Algajoy the week of July 8-13.

The Girls' Annual County camp is open to all 4-H girls in Allegany and Garrett counties who have completed the required work. The daily program includes setting-up exercises, class work instruction, handicraft, recreation, K-P duty and swimming. Friday, July 12, is set aside as visitors' day.

Miss Dorothy Emerson, Girls' State Club Agent; Miss Maude Bean, Home Demonstration Agent Allegany county, and Miss Elsie M. Benthien, Home Demonstration Agent, Garrett county, will be in charge. Local leaders from both counties will assist.

Detailed information regarding the camp will be mailed to all 4-H girls eligible to attend. Last year 23 girls attended from Garrett county.

Lesson for June 23

A PSALM OF PRAISE

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 103:1-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—Bless the Lord, O my soul.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Song of Praise.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Song of Praise.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Privilege of Worshiping God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Habit of Thankfulness.

This beautiful psalm of praise follows one of the importunate pleadings for help in time of great need. Andrew Bonar calls it "A Song of a Redeemed One by the Redeemer's Side." It is entirely given up to praise; not a single supplication being found in it.

I. Adoration for Personal Benefits (vv. 1-5).

The Psalmist calls upon his soul to bless God's holy name. Man's whole nature, intellectually and spiritually, is called upon to adore God. Note the benefits recognized by the Psalmist:

1. "Forgiveth all thine iniquities" (v. 3) Pardon of our sins is the most important of all God's benefits.

2. "Healeth all thy diseases" (v. 3). Healing here refers to that of the body and the soul. Renovation of the entire nature, especially the moral, follows forgiveness of sins.

3. "Redeemeth thy life from destruction" (v. 4). The sinner is in the position of a debtor. All the demands made against him because of his sins, were paid by Jesus Christ.

4. "Crowneth thee with loving kindness" (v. 4). The redeemed one not only has forgiveness of sins, but is invested with the full rights of heavenly citizenship.

5. "Satisfieth thy mouth" (v. 5). When one enters into saving relationship with Christ he does not incur loss, but great gain. He is not deprived of any rights.

II. Praise for God's Excellencies (vv. 6-13).

The Psalmist now looks away from the benefits bestowed to the very quality of the being who bestowed them.

1. His justice (v. 6).

"He executeth righteousness." God is always against the oppressor and on the side of the oppressed. This points to the time when Messiah's reign shall extend over the whole world.

2. He reveals Himself (v. 7). This He did in a peculiar way to Moses and the children of Israel. The very name Jehovah means Self-revealing One (Ex. 3:14). God created man in His likeness and image in order that He might not only reveal Himself, but that He might share His goodness with the creature.

3. Merciful and gracious (v. 8). As a sinner man needs pardon and favor. God in His mercy pardons the sinner who calls upon Him and through His grace He bestows favors upon him.

4. Not always contending (v. 9). God's love for His children moves Him to contend with them. When they turn from their sin, He ceases to chasten them. God holds no grudges. He forgets our stubborn follies as soon as we turn from them.

5. God's forgiveness (vv. 10-13).

This forgiveness is manifested in His not dealing with us according to our sins, in showing supreme mercy, in putting away sin as far as the East is from the West, and in fatherly pity. We usually think to praise God for what He has done. How much we ought to praise Him for what He has refrained from doing.

III. Man's Frailty and God's Eternity (vv. 14-19).

1. His frailty (vv. 14-16).

(1) He is but dust (v. 14). God constituted man's body out of the dust of the ground, therefore He knows his frailty. (2) His days are as grass (v. 15). He flourishes as the flower of the field. As the grass disappears under a blighting wind (v. 16), so a small blast from God will destroy man's life.

2. God's eternity (vv. 17-19). God's goodness and mercy are from everlasting to everlasting. This goodness and mercy He shows from generation to generation.

IV. Call to Universal Thanksgiving (vv. 20-22).

Since His dominion is over all, it calls for recognition by all.

1. Angels (v. 20). Intelligent spirits that hear His messages and go on His errands are called upon to praise and adore Him.

2. His hosts (v. 21). By hosts here is likely meant the sun, moon and stars. They are called upon to give Him due praise (I's. 19:1).

3. His works (v. 22).

Whatever He has done, whether in creation, providence or redemption, His works made known his goodness.

Belief and Faith

And Jesus answering saith unto them, Have faith in God. For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith. Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them. —Mark 11:22 to 24.

By Scoop

No Cut-offs on This Trail

Prof. Jenkins was asked by Kermit Lohr, one of Oakland High's to-be graduates this evening, if he couldn't take a shorter course in college than the one laid down in the prospectus of the institution.

"That depends," Mr. Jenkins said, "upon what you wish to make of yourself. When nature wants to make an oak she works away on the job for a hundred years, but if she only wants a weed she needs only about 6 days."

Archibaldson, that naive wit of the back office, who incidentally is an authority on girls, says, "many a girl who is as pretty as a picture is handicapped by an ugly frame of mind."

Vacation on the Lake

"While swimming between the Allegheny Boat club and Lakeside Park rest yourself at Horn Inn. Fresh butter, eggs, and servants. Get the air and all the 'dirt' at Horn Inn."

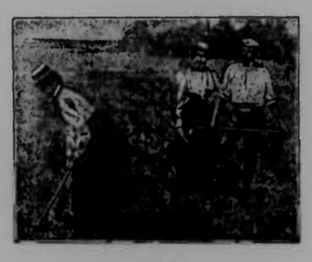
"Learn to swim at Allegheny boat club. Members teach you how in two lessons Money back if you go under the third time."



"Rent a ear, take your girl and see the country around Deep Creek in the moonlight. No stop signs inside of ears. Go as far as you like but return the car.

Local Golf Hounds

In his rounds this week Col. Bell happened to spy some of Oakland's leading society people killing themselves a few golfs. They are dressed in the latest styles taken from Fashion Hints in Vogue. The gentleman in the picture is none other than Doc Sturgiss.

A Personal Interview

Having nothing better to do this week and nothing in particular to write about Scoop interviewed the editor boss concerning his views on all newspaper subscription contests. He didn't act at all like Col. Lindberg did by hiding himself away from the inquisitive reporters, but blasted out with plenty. "Newspaper subscription contests are the bunk," he softly began. The outsider comes into town, grabs 30 or 40 percent of all money taken in, and the newspaper is left holding the bag, comparatively empty.

"A newspaper ought to be sold on its merits, like The Republican and all other successful newspapers are doing and have done since their beginning. Letters come into this office almost daily from 'campaign artists' who want to grab off a little dough for themselves and leave everybody else in the hole. They paint a rosy picture of health and happiness for the newspaper as the result of a contest, but experiences lead us to know better.

"In a political campaign any defeated candidate can tell you that the expense of running for office is high indeed, with no recompense to anyone except the winner. In the newspaper contest, the outsider who grabs almost half of the receipts is the winner. The newspaper and those who are talked into subscribing for it are the losers, and are the doormat for the 'campaign artist.'"

Hot Under the Collar

The Boss In Person

The editor boiled over at this point and had to be taken down to Harned's to get cooled off with an ice cream cone but Scoop adds this parting bit: "In two years following a campaign, the newspaper has less subscribers than formerly, and the cream of the payments has gone with the outsider, leaving only the skimmed milk, and darned little of that. It's the ruination of any newspaper. Just give them enough rope and they'll hang themselves."

The Firemen's convention in Coney last week was a big success judging from the noise the boys made when they returned home. If they don't watch, Scoop will have to class Firemen's conventions on the same plane with American Legion affairs. Soldier Halsey said he didn't see how.

Republican Cured Him

This week's prize testimonial was received from Neil Fraley who states that he won a great victory over ill health by reading The Republican, the wonder tonic of the age.

He says: "I suffered untold agonies with my stomach and had 'gas' pains and sech. I had no strength at all and was not able to work (hence my membership in the Amalgamated Society for the Suppression of Work), I went down hill fast( due to gravity) and couldn't make the return journey at near my former speed. I finally started reading The Republican and now am a walking example of what that paper can do in restoring all my health and wit I am still as averse to work as I ever was, but have hopes that in two more years of treatment with Garrett county's leading newspaper, I will snap out of it and become the leader of a new organization, "Willing Workers."

82 MARRIAGE LINCENSES ISSUED IN THREE WEEKS

Record for Past Month Below Number Issued for May, 1928

A tottal of eighty-two permits were granted during the three weeks ending Monday noon. Seventeen of these were marked "don't publish," while eight applicants were refused licenses.

It is highly improbable that the June record for marriage licenses will be broken. Last June there were 149 issued, the highest number ever to be granted in the local court in any one month.

Fifteen licenses were granted on last Saturday, the greatest number for any one day in several months.

A SAFE AND SANE FOURTH OF JULY IS BEING URGED

State Board of Health Warns Against Toy Pistol

Going to celebrate the Fourth of July? If you are, the advice of Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of health is to concentrate on pageants, picnics or parades; flag raisings; community singing and band concerts; fried chicken and ice cream, of course; and if you close the day with fireworks, buy the safe and sane kind; above all things cut out the toy pistol and other explosive machines fitted with blank cartridges.

"The Fourth of July has become associated in the mind of every health officer," Dr. Riley said, "with accidents resulting from the use of blank cartridges, and with the possibility of lockjaw-tetanus, to give the disease its scientific name—following injury from explosives of that sort. Accidents from explosives of this kind usually result in deep seated wounds in which dirt and other solid particles along with the paper wadding containing the gunpowder are forced far into the flesh. The germs of tetanus are practically always present in such dirt, and unless very prompt action is taken and sometimes even when it is taken, lockjaw develops.

"The heavy toll of deaths from the Fourth of July accidents that used to occur every year throughout the entire country, was considerably reduced by the campaign for safety and sanity in the Independence Day celebrations, that was carried on for a number of years by the American Medical association and the leading newspapers. But we are likely to forget such precautions unless some tragedy, that might have been prevented, happens.

"Last year, several deaths from tetanus occurred in the State, on or near the Fourth of July. At least five of these deaths in Baltimore city were due to injuries of the hand in which paper wadding and dirt had been forced into the hand.

"Within the last few days, the Baltimore City department of health has sent a letter to every physician in the city and to all of the hospitals advising them as to the treatment to be given in every accident of this sort. This gives some idea of the seriousness with which such injuries are regarded by health officials.

"The treatment includes the opening and thorough surgical cleansing of the wound and the administration of tetanus anti-toxin. For both of these measures, the prompt and continued services of a doctor are needed. The tetanus anti-toxin used for the preventive treatment of injuries likely to produce lockjaw whether from July Fourth accidents or from any other cause is supplied, in the counties, free of charge, by the department of health. The larger quantities that are necessary for the treatment of advanced cases are furnished at cost."

MARYLAND'S 297TH BIRTHDAY

On the 20th day of June, two hundred and ninety-seven years ago, King Charles I, of England, delivered unto Cecilius Calvert, second Lord Baltimore, the Charter for what is now the State of Maryland.

Looking back over the 297 years that have passed since this state was born, one can but marvel at the changes wrought through the foresight and by the indomitable courage of our progenitors. Sailing in the Ark and Dove from the Isle of Wight on the 22nd day of November, 1633, the little band of hardy pioneers, leaving friends, relatives and the culture of an old established society, resolutely set their faces toward an unknown land, landing on Maryland soil on the 25th day of March, 1634. A journey of four months, which can now be accomplished by ship in less than four days and by air in a few hours.

Then this state was a wilderness, through which wild beasts and savage men roamed at will. If one of their number had then predicted that within less than three centuries the wilderness would be subdued and the red man all but exterminated and that a million and a half people would live within the border of the state they were then founding, he would have been looked upon with suspicion. Or if he had said that, within a few miles from where they landed, a great city would be founded within a century and that within three centuries it would house more than three quarters of a million people; or that persons within that time could travel from tide water to the western boundary of the state over a hard-surfaced road in less time than it took to travel from the first capital, St. Mary's, to Baltimore, that person would have been deemed fit to be confined as irresponsible.

Two Washingtonians Interested In the Appearance of Local Cemetery and Will Co-operate in Improving It.

To the Editor of The Republican.

We have read with interest the letter of "A Citizen" in The Republican of June 6th calling attention to the condition of the cemetery and advocating taking steps to have those conditions improved A walk through the cemetery will show the urgent need of this. While some of the plots are well kept many need attention.

The place where are beloved dead are sleeping should not be neglected, but should be made beautiful. As owners of one of the burial plots, we are heartily in favor of making it so, and will be glad to co-operate.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Last Saturday evening the citizens of Loch Lynn to the number of about 75, gathered in the Aid Hall to celebrate the completion of a section of hard-surfaced road through a large part of one of the principal streets of the town. It was an event well worthy of a celebration, for with only 203 inhabitants, with a comparatively small amount of property assessible for the purposes of taxation and therefore with a limited income, even the completion of 800 feet of good road is quite an undertaking.

The evident spirit of goodwill and community pride was manifest on all sides. To start things off just right, the ladies of the town had prepared a most excellent chicken dinner, which was well cooked and well served. While much credit must be given to the members of the town council and the Mayor of the village, too much stress can not be laid on the fact that during the construction of the street the good women and many of the young men donated many hours of valuable service. The street commissioners, Martin and Biggs, as well as the Mayor and Messrs. Hutchinson and Harvey put in days of valuable time aiding and assisting Mr. Hamill, the contractor.

During the smoker which followed the banquet there were short, snappy talks by the members of the council as well as by Mr. George D. Browning and Mr. Daniel E. Orendorf, County Commissioners, Mr. Leighton, Mr. O'Donnell, of the B. &. O. Railroad, Mr. R. R. Gilbert, of the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company, Mr. Carter, a former Mayor, and the Rev. Fultz, U. B. Minister. Interspersed with music, a song by the Mayor and a duet by Mrs. Hardesty and Mrs. Purnell, both of which were composed by local talent, made the celebration a delightful occasion.

Mrs. Wilson Camden has returned to the Park after a delightful ten days' visit with relatives and friends at Staunton and Lexington, Va.

Mrs. Katherine Hardy has rented her cottage on N street for the months of July and August to Mr. Elmes, of New York City.

Rev. C. W. Baldwin and family have moved into their cottage on Youghiogheny Drive and will have as guests for part of the summer Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chamberlain, of Baltimore.

Mr. William Wooden and family are again occupying the Fouch cottage on N street for the summer months.

Mr. Raymond H. Brown, who will have charge of the stands in the Park this summer, has arrived and is on the job.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Gillin and their daughter are with us again this season. They have a host of friends who welcome their return.

Mrs. Thomas Seaman, Mrs. Frank Seaman, Mrs. Cordelia Lawhead, Mrs. Robinson and Miss Pauline Smith motored from Uniontown Thursday and had dinner at Allenhurst. They had as guests Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Camden.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Annan, Fairmont, W. Va., are occupying the Clark cottage this season.

Mr. James O'Boyle, of near Loch Lynn, sailed from New York on last Saturday for Crossmalia, Ireland, where he will visit his mother for several weeks

Mrs. H. J. Gibson and daughter were shopping in Cumberland last Thursday.

Mrs. E. C. Fouch Mrs. C. E. Hardesty and Mrs. Lou Purnell are at College Park, Maryland this week, taking a course in the Home Demonstration work.

Mr. Allen Moon and mother have been visiting relatives several days at Morgantown W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fleming, of Fairmont, have opened their cottage for the season.

PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN NOW GET HEALTHY START

Health Is First Requisite of the Youngsters Ready for School

As the older boys and girls walk off the stage with their diplomas in their hands, the attention of parents and teachers and health officers is turning to the youngsters who will start on the road of the Three R's in the fall. Once upon a time the preparations for this important event included principally a visit to the outfitters for little new suits, shoes and hats. Now, the first thought is given to outfitting the youngsters for a healthy start in the school.

So important is the health of the prospective first-graders that all over the State—all over the United States, as a matter of fact—special child health conferences are being held in schools, churches, health centers and other conveniently located buildings, for the health examination of the youngsters who will enter school this year. Over a hundred conferences were held throughout the counties of Maryland in April and May, and more than 1,800 children were examined at the "round-ups" arranged under the auspices of the State Department of Education, the local Parent-Teacher Associations and the Bureau of Child Hygiene, State Dept. of Health.

The purpose of the examinations is to discover conditions that need attention and that would be a handicap to Jack or Betty, or would make them susceptible to disease if they were left uncorrected. The examining physicians pay particular attention to the general health, as indicated by weight, posture, heart and lungs, hearing and vision, throat, nose and teeth. When corrections are needed, the parents are urged to go to their family physicians for advice and treatment.

In some of the counties, blue and gold health buttons have been given to the children who measure up to all of the requirements of healthy childhood.

The counties in which special conferences have been held include Wicomico, Worcester, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Kent, Dorchester, Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Charles, St. Mary's, Prince George's, Montgomery, Harford and Washington. Arrangements have been made in a number of places for the continuation of the conferences throughout the season.

GARRETT COUNTY NATIVE RATED HIGH IN COLLEGE

Harland Casteel Gained Wide Reputation For His Ability

A special to The Republican under date of June 19, from Waynesburg, Pa., says "With what was probably the most extensive record in student activity work ever attained by any student at Waynesburg College, Harland Casteel, graduated with the largest class ever to leave the local institution. Casteel, who came to Waynesburg from Redstone Township High school, has participated in nearly every activity on the campus during his four years here and has gained a wide reputation for his ability. He was captain and manager of the negative debate team which met with such brilliant success during the past season. During the past year he participated in more than fifty debates, and he has been a member of the teams which scored triumphs over such teams as Oxford University, West Virginia University, Pitt, Wittenberg College, Grove City, Geneva, Westminster and Bethany.

"Casteel was president of the student body and of the student council, vice-president of the Laurels Club, an honorary society in the school; president of Tau Kappa Alpha, a forensic fraternity; vice-president of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity; captain of the negative debate team, and president of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society. He graduated with honors in a class of 47 at Waynesburg and next year attends law school at the University of Pittsburgh."

Young Casteel is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hamill Casteel, former residents of Garrett county, and a grandson of Orphans' Court Judge Truman W. Casteel, of Oakland.

Sunday School Class Has Reunion of Pupils and Teacher

Thirty-two years ago Miss Mollie Hamill of Mountain Lake Park, now a Deaconess of the Methodist Episcopal church, taught a class of youngsters in the Sunday school of St. Paul's church in Oakland. These boys never forgot their teacher and after many years she was in slight measure repaid for her kindly work at a reception and dinner given in her honor last Saturday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Naylor, at which six of the boys of thirty-two years ago were present. The two other members of the class could not be present, but they sent messages hearing congratulations and best wishes. The class was composed of Paul Naylor, Fred. Cropp, Wellington Crane, Ralph Thayer, Wilbur Davis, Harry McComas, Paul Felty and Philip Peddicord. The absentees from the reunion were Messrs. Felty and Peddicord. In addition to the guest of honor, Messrs. F. A. Thayer and E. R. Jones, were also present upon the occasion. The evening was a most delightful one and was thoroughly enjoyed by the honoree, who had no intimation of what had been planned for her entertainment.

To prove that women are more easily satisfied than men, just look at some of the husbands that the dear ladies have picked.

Explorer discovers a trihe in Africa whose women wear no clothes at all and have perfect morals. Our morals must be mighty near perfect.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY
BALTIMORE, MD.
SCHOLARSHIPS
School of Engineering

Scholarship applications in the School of Engineering, established under provisions of Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, competitive examinations will be held Friday, September 20, 1929, beginning at 9 A. M., in Room 101, Remsen Hall.

Each legislative district of Baltimore City, with the exception of the Second, and each county in the State, with the exception of Harford, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for 1929-1930.

Scholarships are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances make it impossible for them to obtain engineering courses unless free tuition be granted.

The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition textbooks and exemption from laboratory fees. One scholarship in each county and each legislative district of the city with the exception of Fifth and Sixth, carries also the sum of $200. Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland (Maryland Agricultural College), Mount St. Mary's and Rock Hill College.

Applicants should address the REGISTRAR, JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, for application forms and circulars of information regarding examinations, awards of scholarships and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, October 1.

MARRIED.

Sigler—Young — Announcements have been received by members of the Lutheran congregation at Grantsville of the marriage of their pastor, Rev. Samuel D. Sigler, to Miss Dorothy Lucille Young, both of Salisbury, Pa., the bride being a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. L. P. Young and Mrs. Young, of Johnstown, Pa. The ceremony occurred Friday, June 7, and Rev. Wm. I. Good, president of the Allegheny Synod of the Luthheran church, officiated at Johnstown, Pa.

Mrs. Sigler is one of Salisbury's most popular and accomplished young women and has taught in the public schools of Elk Lick Township and Salisbury for several years. Rev. Sigler, besides being pastor of the church at Grantsville, is also pastor of the churches of the Lutheran faith at Salisbury and the village of St. Paul, Pa. He has been pastor of these three charges since his graduation from Susquehanna Seminary and has been very successful and popular among the members of the churches and with the people of the communities which he serves.

Following a honeymoon trip of two weeks the couple will be at home in Salisbury after June 24th.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

—OF—

A VALUABLE SMALL FARM

Situated on the State Road 3 Miles North of Oakland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from Haymond Z. Rodeheaver and wife to Gilmor S. Hamill, dated the 23rd day of December, 1922, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 83, folio 544, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county, default having occurred under the provisions of said mortgage, the undersigned attorney for the mortgagee named in said mortgage will, on in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, and at the hour of two o'clock p. m., on said day, sell at public auction to the highest bidder all of that part of Military Lot No. 1586 situate, lying and being in Garrett county, and about three miles north of Oakland, it being one of the originals of a tract of land called "EMANCIPATION," granted by the State of Maryland to Robert, Oliver and James Cunningham, by patent dated August 4, 1830, and being the same land as described in a deed from David Wakefield and wife to George W. Shank, dated the 24th day of November, 1919, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 77, folio 116, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, especial reference to which said deed and the record thereof is herein made for a more particular description of said parcel of land, said parcel of land containing the quantity of 31¾ acres, more or less.

Said property is improved by a small dwelling, barn and outbuildings and would make the purchaser a desirable home, as the same is situated 700 yards from the State road and is partly cleared and under cultivation.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on the day of sale, but if any responsible bidder desires to purchase the same on time, the mortgagee is willing to take one-third down and the balance in two equal installments at one and two years from the date of sale, which deferred payments are to be secured by a mortgage on said property and to bear interest from the date of sale, payable semi--annually, or all of the purchase money may be paid down upon the ratification of the sale by the Court, at the option of the purchaser. Possession given upon ratification of the sale by the Court.

STUART F. HAMILL,
Attorney for Mortgagee named in said Mortgage. 17-4t

SAVE-A-LIFE CAMPAIGN

Official Details Announced by E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

Official details of the Save-A-Life Campaign and mechanical inspection of all automobiles and trucks in this State from June 15 to July 15, inclusive, just announced by proclamation of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, were announced today by E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

Under the provisions of Chapter 257 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland as enacted at the Session of 1929, the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is authorized to require an inspection of the safety factors of all motor vehicles in the State. The inspection of motor vehicles shall consist of brakes, lights, horns, steering mechanism, windshield wipers, rear view mirrors, obscure license tags and operators' licenses.

The official inspection will be entirely free of charge due to the co-operation of garages, car dealers, repair shops and service stations in every community of the State, which have indicated their willingness to serve as official State inspection stations and make the required examination without any charge to the owner, the State or community.

Every leading motor organization, commercial and civic bodies, insurance companies, moving picture industry and railroads have expressed their willingness to co-operate in the Save-A-Life movement.

The new law is being put on in the form of the Save-A-Life Campaign and really is an intensive effort to cut down the accident rate in Maryland and to make the State a model in this respect. The Campaign is directed solely against reckless driving and the mechanical defects that are apt to develop in the safety factors in cars and trucks under service conditions, because such defects are one of the leading causes of motor accidents. It is the belief of automobile authorities throughout the United States that if all motor vehicles could be quickly and easily controlled by their drivers the accident rate would rapidly diminish. "The Save-A-Life Campaign is a national movement in this direction and Maryland should take a leading role," the Commissioner said.

The official method of the Campaign and of the inspection according to the law will be as follows:

1. Every automobile and truck in the State to be inspected by a competent mechanic in a reliable service station to be designated and appointed with approval of the Motor Vehicle Department, and if the car or truck is found unsafe or to have mechanical defects it must be put into safe condition before an official inspection tag will be issued to the owner.

2. Official inspection stickers will be issued to all cars and trucks that have been examined and found to be in good condition, or that have been put into good condition after being examined and found to need adjustment.

3. In order to remove any possible cause for resentment, inconvenience, hardship or loss of time on the part of the automobile or truck owner, this inspection will be made absolutely free of charge at official inspection stations, and the vehicle owner is at liberty to choose any official station he prefers.

4. Any adjustment or repair found necessary to insure safe operation may, at the owner's order and with his permission, be charged for at the usual rate of charge for such mechanical service by the station. Any agreement in this connection is solely between the vehicle owner and the inspection station

5. Brakes, horns, lights, steering mechanism and mirrors will be the chief points of inspection.

6. Brakes will be tested as follows:

Two-wheel brakes car going 20 miles per hour must stop in 50 feet. Four-wheel brakes car going 20 miles per hour must stop in 35 feet. Emergency brakes car going 20 miles per hour must stop in 75 feet. Trucks over three tons going 20 miles per hour must stop in 75 feet by foot brake. In case a brake testing machine is used the equivalent of above is required.

7. Horns shall be tested by pressing the horn button and determining whether the signal is prompt and gives sufficient warning.

8. Lights shall be tested as follows: Bulbs in headlights shall be checked for conformity to State law. Bulbs showing signs of blackening or a whitish discoloration inside the glass are insufficient and should be discarded. All bulbs which are burned out or missing must be replaced. Lights must have proper lens and the reflector must be bright. All tail lamps must have a red lens.

9. Steering mechanisms must be examined in all their wearing parts. These wearing parts must appear to be sufficiently strong to avoid any possibility of breaking under ordinary conditions, thus causing an accident.

10. Windshield wipers (if automatic or electric) must operate sufficiently to give clear vision at all times; (if manual) the rubber "sweeps" shall be in such condition as to clear the glass properly.

11. Truck mirrors are to be inspected to make sure that they are in such condition and so placed as to good rear visibility.

12. Operator must show operator's license.

The co-operation of the motoring public is earnestly requested to make the Save-A-Life Campaign a great success, and in the interest of public safety every car and truck in Maryland should be wearing its official inspection emblem of civic co-operation and mechanical good order by July 15 when the Campaign ends.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

The Mexican bean beetle is appearing in all sections of the county and is causing considerable damage. It is very important that methods of control start before the beans are destroyed by the insect.

The extension department of the University of Maryland recommends a spray or dust of some good arsenicals. The following have been found effective . Spreaders are used to retard settling.

Dust

This can be purchased ready mixed and should be used according to the manufacturer's directions.

Spray

Calcium arsenate Bordeaux spray.

Homemade Bordeaux (directions for preparation follow) 3 gallons; flour, or other spreader, 1 tablespoonful; calcium arsenate, 4 tablespoonsful.

Dissolve one ounce of powdered copper sulphate (Bluestone) in two andone-half gallons of water. Use a wooden bucket or tub as the copper sulphate will destroy most metal containers. Add two ounces of the finest grade of hydrated lime to one-half gallon of water. Pour the lime solution into the copper sulphate solution and stir thoroughly. Use only a sprayer having a brass tank as this mixture will ultimately destroy a galvanized tank. Prepared Bordeaux may be used instead, following the manufacturer's directions and adding the arsenical.

Plants must be entirely covered with the chemical being used or control will not give results. Time between treatment will depend upon the number of beetles present and the condition of the weather. The plants should be covered with spray or dust at all times. It is necessary to look at the beans every day or so, so as to be sure the beetles are not doing their destructive work.

These materials may be obtained at the Oakland Hardware and Furniture company, or A. D. Naylor's by the last of the week; also Mr. Keller at Grantsville.

The potato clubs of Garrett county will meet this week to discuss the progress and problems they have experienced this spring.

Garrett county is near the quarantine line for the European corn borer. Therefore, it is important that everyone in the county keep a close lookout for the corn borer's appearance in the county. Anyone discovering a corn worm which is unknown to them, get in touch with the county agent.

Dry weather is the time to cultivate crops. It kills the weeds and preserves the moisture.

GLADES.

lic as our stockholders and we contemplate issuing monthly reports that are available to the public and press.

Monthly Reports Made

"The first step toward decreased cost or cost control is for operating organization to know its costs. To run an organization without such detailed data is like playing golf and not keeping score; you don't play very well. With this in mind the commission has divided the roads of the state into classifications based on maintenance cost and subdivided them again as to mileage, with the result that we will know at the end of each month the detailed expenditure per mile for maintenance of each piece of road in Maryland.

"The State Roads commission owns and operates approximately three hundred trucks and passenger cars and in addition, hires many trucks, especially during the busy season. The operation of a motor fleet of this size offers the opportunity of great saving or loss, depending upon the efficiency of its management.

Survey Was Sought

"In order to quickly get a grasp of this problem we called upon the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company for advice and assistance; we selected this company as they are operating in the State a comparable fleet under similar conditions. The telephone company volunteered to have made for us, without cost to us, a comprehensive survey of our motor equipment, garages, repair shops and our system of control.

"They placed on this work, for a period of many weeks, a group of their experienced men, who have submitted to us a report which I can best describe by saying it completely covers the subject and contains many recommendations and suggestions that will be of great value to the State.

"Without going into details, I can say that we are rapidly approaching a management of motor equipment and accessories that will compare favorably with that of any commercial enterprise."

its line of thousands. To have top head and no lungs is not wholly desirable.

"Health is primarily important and the development of an intellect equally so. But intellect alone is too cold to fuse the heart something else is required, and for lack of a better name we call it personality.

"This glowing, winning personality that inspires confidence and trust is a bouquet of virtues. The chief flower of which is right intellect, honesty may be a bit old fashioned, but do not try to leave it out.

"I will do my best to point the way. Education means evolution, development, growth. Education is comparative, for there is no fixed standard. All men know more than some men and some men know more than some other men. Every man I meet is my master in some particular, Emerson said.

"But there are few men in history who had minds so developed and involved beyond the rest of mankind so far, that they form a class by themselves, and deserve to be called educated men. The men I have in mind were Percelius, builder of Athens; Aristotle, tutor of Alexander, and the world's first naturalist; Leonardo, the all-around man, the man who could do more things and do them well, than any other man who ever lived; Sir Isaac Newton, the mathematician, who analyzed light and discovered the laws of gravitation.

"Alexander von Humbold, explorer and naturalist who compassed the entire scientific knowledge of the world, issued his books in deluxe limited editions at his own expense and sold them at three thousand dollars a set.

"Your America has produced two men who stand out so far beyond the rest of mankind that they form a class by themselves; Benjamin Franklin wore a seven and one-half hat and Thomas A. Edison seven and three quarters.

"Success is in the blood. There are men whom fate can never keep down. They march jauntily forward and take by Divine right the best of everything that earth affords.

"They don't lie in wait, nor scheme, nor fawn, nor seek to adopt their sails to catch the breeze of popular favor. Still they are ever alert and alive to any good that may come their way. And when it comes they simply appropriate it, and tarying not, move steadily forward.

"Whenever you go out of doors draw the chin in, carry the crown of your head high and fill the lungs to the utmost, drink in sunshine, greet your friends with a smile and put soul into every clasp.

"Don't fear being misunderstood and never waste a minute thinking about your enemies. Try to fix firmly in your mind what you would like to do, and then without violence of direction you will move straight to the GOAL.

"Fear is the rock on which we split and hate is the shoal on which many a bark is stranded. When we are fearful the Judgment is unreliable as the compass of a ship whose hold is full of iron ore; when we hate we unship the rudder and if we stop to meditate on what the gossips say, we have allowed a hawser to befall the screw.

"Keep your mind on great and splendid things you would like to do and then as the days go gliding by, you will find yourself unconsciously seizing upon opportunities that are required for the fulfillment of your desire. Just as the coral insect takes from the running tide the elements that it needs.

"Picture in your mind the able, earnest useful person you desire to be and the thoughts you hold is hourly transforming you into that particular individual. Thought is supreme and to think is often better than to do.

"Presume a right mental attitude, the attitude of courage, frankness, and good cheer. To think rightly is to create. Darwin and Spencer have told us that this is the method of creation. Each animal has evolved the parts it needed and desired. The horse is fleet because it wishes to be, the bird flies because it desires to, the duck has web feet because it wishes to swim. All things come through a desire and every sincere prayer is answered.

"Many people know this but they do not believe it thoroughly enough so that it shapes their lives.

"We want friends. The only way to secure friends is to be one. And before you are fit for friendship you must be able to do without it. That is to say you must have sufficient self-reliance to take care of yourself, and then out of the surplus of your energy you can do for others. The man who craves friendship and yet desires a self-centered spirit more, will never lack for friends. If you would have friends cultivate solitude instead of society. Drink in the ozone, bathe in the sunshine and out of the silent night, under the stars, say to yourself again and yet again, 'I am part of all my eyes behold.'

"And the feeling will surely come to you that you are no mere interloper between earth and sky, but that you are a necessary particle of the whole. No harm can come to you that does not come to all, and if you should go down it can only be amid a wreck of worlds.

"'Not of the sunlight, not of the moonlight, nor of the starlight; oh, young mariner, down to the haven call your companions: launch your vessel and crowd on your canvass, and ere it vanishes over the margin after it; follow it; follow the gleam.'"

MARYLAND TEACHERS QUIT JOBS CHIEFLY TO MARRY

150 of 391 Who Resigned From County Schools Last Year Did So In Order To Wed

Of the 391 teachers in the Maryland county white elementary schools who resigned last year, 150 did so to get married, according to a statement issued Saturday by the State Department of Education.

In addition to these resignations, there were forty-four teachers on leave of absence for study, illness or other reasons during that period.

Forty-Two Were Married

On the 156 teachers in the white high schools who resigned, forty-two were married, the statement said. There were eight high school teachers on leave of absence for various reasons.

The causes of resignation are summarized as follows:

| | Elementary. | High. |
|---|---|---|
| Marriage | 150 | 42 |
| Teaching but not in Maryland counties | 43 | 46 |
| Work other than teaching | 44 | 21 |
| Dropped for inefficiency | 33 | 21 |
| Dropped for low certificate or failure to attend summer school | 37 | 2 |
| Illness | 24 | 5 |
| Retirement | 14 | 2 |
| Moved away | 10 | 3 |
| Death | 10 | 2 |
| Other and unknown | 26 | 14 |
| Total | 391 | 158 |
| Leave of absence | 44 | 8 |

"From the above figures," the statement continues, "it is evident that, especially for teachers in white elementary schools, marriage is the chief reason for losses from the teaching profession.

More Pay A Reason

"Since ninety-three per cent of the white elementary teachers and only sixty-six per cent of the white high school teachers are women, the proportion leaving for this cause is naturally greater in the elementary than in the high schools.

"The attraction of other communities with higher salaries was next in importance in causing resignations, forty-three leaving the county white elementary schools and forty-six white high schools. Since there are three times as many elementary as high school teachers the number leaving service in the county high schools is of importance.

Fewer Resignatios

"The counties lost to Baltimore city sixteen of their white elementary school teachers, varying in years of experience from one to seven.

"On the whole, the reduction in resignations from preceding years indicates a greater stabilization of the teaching staff. The establishment of a higher salary schedule for teachers of experience may tend to reduce the number of teachers leaving the county for work in Baltimore city and other States."

Training For Leadership To Be Given at Camp

The older 4-H girls will have an opportunity to receive training for leadership when an encampment will be held at Camp Algojoy, on the Casselman River, near Grantsville, July 5, 6 and 7. Mildred Stemple, Virginia Gilbert, Hasaleah Yutzy and Dorothy Welch will attend the camp as Garrett county members.

These girls, with others from Allegany county, will assist the Home Demonstration Agents from Garrett and Allegany counties during the week of July 8 to 13, when the following 4-H girls of Garrett county will attend th eannual outing of the organization: Betty Broadwater, Annabelle Stemple, Helen Schlossnagle, Adeline Stuck, Betty Naylor, Martha Mitchell, Helen Giessman, Margaret Stanton, Catherine Rice and Sarah C. Stanton.

Schedule for July 3

On July 3 the Grantsville Homemakers' group will meet at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John Folk. Reports of the Rural Women's Short Course at College Park will be made by the women who attended.

Road Workman Has Collarbone Broken.

While assisting in unloading barrels of tar at the east end freight yard in Oakland last Friday morning, to be used in road repair work, Harry Bittinger, lost his balance and fell from a truck to the ground, breaking his collar bone. He was given surgical aid by Dr. Hinebaugh.

ONLY 149 ARE EXAMINED AT PRE-SCHOOL CLINICS

Very Small Percentage of Children Receive Physical Tests

A very small percentage of children of pre-school age were examined at the eleven pre-school clinics held at the various school centers throughout the county during the past week or more, according to Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse. In all there were 149 children examined.

The attendance at Deer Park, Jennings and Friendsville clinics was considered good, but in Oakland and Grantsville only 18 attended at each place, where there should have been approximately eighty. This is the last opportunity for free examination of children who are eligible for school in the fall, Miss King stated.

Following is the number attending the clinics at the various centers: Grantsville, 18; Oakland, 18; Mt. Lake Park, 3; Crellin, 5; Accident, 14; Hoyes, 9; Deer Park, 15; Swanton, 11; Long Stretch, 15; Jennings, 18; Friendsville, 23.

MOUNTAIN LAKE CHURCH DEDICATES SOCIAL ROOM

Tuesday Evening Witnessed An Enjoyable Occasion at Park

It was a time of rejoicing for the members of the Methodist Episcopal church of Mountain Lake Park when approximately two hundred people gathered in the church on Tuesday evening to take part in the celebration and dedication of the new social room recently completed.

The program was well arranged and pleasingly rendered. First, there was a piano solo by Miss Helen Leighton, followed by singing of the old familiar song, "Sunshine in My Soul" by the congregation. A violin solo by Miss Dorothy Welch delighted the audience.

Mr. H. V. Leighton, chairman of the building committee, then presented the key to the new addition to Mrs. Lee, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, who in her gracious manner accepted the key as an evidence of the responsibility of the Society to liquidate any indebtedness existing and to care for the rooms. Mrs. Lee then presented the key to the pastor, who in turn presented it to the Mountain Lake Park Community as represented by Miss Lorraine Weeks.

Miss Elizabethh Bender delighted the audience with a charmingly rendered vocal solo, which was followed by a recitation by Glenn Moore. Responses were made hy Rev. J. L. Marquess, pastor of the Thomas M. E. church; Miss Mollie Hamill, Mr. Lee M. Bender and Mr. Frank E. Baker, Superintendent of the Park Association.

Following the singing of "Blest be the Tie that Binds," and benediction pronounced by Rev. R. H. Brown, assistant superintendent of the Association, those assembled entered the social rooms where refreshments were served.

The congregation is to be congratulated on the completion of these well equipped rooms. The list of those contributing to the success of the enterprise includes nearly every member of the local church.

Mr. Harrison Arnold, Clarksburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Arnold, donated three beautiful ceiling lights with equipment.

Pictures Are for Benefit of Volunteer Firemen

Pictures to be shown at the Maryland theatre, Oakland, during the balance of the week are all for the benefit of the Oakland Volunteer Fire department. Tonight the feature is "Hold 'Em Yale," starring Rod LaRocque; Friday, Natalie Kingston, in "The Harvester"; Saturday, Ken Maynard in "Phantom City."

Each night there is a feature picture, comedy, and a special talking film. Admission will be 15 and 35 cents. "Thus far the proceeds have not been encouraging," a member of the fire department said this morning.

Many Expected for Annual Camp Meeting at Park

Several thousand people, the largest number in years, are expected for the annual camp meeting season which opens at Mt. Lake Park today. The camp meeting will continue until July 7.

Some very prominent preachers in the United States will be present, according to those in charge, and take part in the activities of the camp.

Garrett County Boasts Three Veteran Forest Wardens

Three forest wardens of Garrett county have served the State department of forestry since 1907, a report from the department in Baltimore shows. These men are James H. Sims, W. F. Steyer, and D. W. Wilson. They have served twenty-two years or more.

In the first biennial report of the State Board of Forestry in December, 1907, there were 53 forest wardens listed. Seven of these men, in addition to F. W. Besley, State forester, still retain their commissions, the three above listed being among them.

TALKS FEATURE MEETING OF OAKLAND CIVIC CLUB

Miss Elsie Benthien and Mrs W. B. Brock Give Addresses

Two addresses featured the regular monthly meeting of the Oakland Civic club held at the home of Mrs. James Willison, Mt. Lake Park. Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Walter B. Brock were the speakers.

The meeting was considered the most successful one held this year and a number of interested members were present. Miss Benthien spoke on Better Homes, and sub-topics under this heading included furnishing a room, placing of furniture, color combination, window treatment, picture hanging and grouping, and accessories in the room.

Mrs. Brock spoke in favor of the Shepherd-Towner bill, which is soon to come before the national legislature. Her topic was "What Risks Motherhood?" and stated that there was a higher death rate in the United States than in any other country. The causes of death from motherhood were given as inefficient clinical work, ignorance of mid-wives, poor teaching. Only ten states require diplomas for this work and only two have schools, it was pointed out. The Shepherd-Towner bill is to relieve this condition.

Following a short business meeting refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned, to meet again on July 30.

A four-page folder containing an account of the activities of the Department of Vocational Agriculture at Oakland High School, is being distributed today by O. T. Graser, instructor. The folder carries an interesting account of the year's enrollment, class work, home project work, the Agriculture club and leading activities of the year, including judging contests, the father and son banquet, outing on Deep Creek Lake, etc. This is the second annual report to be made and shows much improvement

The Board of Directors of the Garrett National Bank, at their regular weekly meeting held today, declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $8.00 per share and an extra dividend of $2.00 per share, payable July 1st.

Roy Frantz Receives Serious Injuries in Auto Wreck

Roy B. Frantz, of Oakland, was seriously injured yesterday morning near McHenry, when the steering apparatus of the Chevrolet sedan in which he was riding became loosened, wrecking the car completely.

Mr. Frantz had four ribs broken and received numerous cuts and bruises over his entire body. Eleven stitches were required to dress the wounds on his head and face.

Mr. Frantz is employed as mail carrier for the Accident route, but was not on duty at the time of the accident.

SCOUT INSPECTION TO BE HELD TOMORROW EVENING

One Merit Badge Awarded at the Court of Honor Meeting.

Harley Dawson was awarded a merit badge in scholarship at the regular meeting of the Court of Honor of the Oakland Troop, Boy Scouts of America, held Monday night in the Scout hall. Members of the Court of Honor present included H. L. Jones, chairman; D. R. Sincell, Scott Shirer, W. E. Shirer, A. D. Naylor and George H. Hanst, scoutmaster.

The annual Boy Scout camping expedition was discussed by members of the court, who are also members of the Troop Committee, and it was decided to hold the camp during the latter part of July and the first of August. It was also decided that members of the Scout troop in former years who had gone away to school, in good standing, could attend camp for the sum of $5 each week; and that also members of other Scout troops who could present a paid-up dues card and who showed interest in Scout work, could attend for a like sum, providing they would abide by the camp rules.

Inspection Tomorrow Night

The monthly inspection of the troop will be held tomorrow night, when members of the Troop Committee will approve or disapprove the appearance and general morale of the troop. Every boy is supposed to be present and in uniform.

To Hold Picnic

The Mount Bethel Sunday school will hold its annual picnic and children's day exercise in the grove by the Altamont Springs farm, two miles east of Deer Park, July 4. The children's program will be given in the morning with music and speaking in the afternoon. Various amusements, weiner roast and marshmallow toast will be held at night. Everybody will be welcome to attend this service and picnic.

Card of Thanks

We desire in this manner to thank our many friends for their expressions of sympathy and aid during the illness and after the death of our wife and mother; and also to those who donated the use of their cars and for the lovely floral tributes.

J. C. FORMAN AND FAMILY.

EIGHT MARYLAND PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS STOCKINGLESS CREATE MOB SCENE IN NEW ORLEANS

Crowd Gathers Around Schoolmams In Lobby of Fashionable Hotel, Forcing Them To Take To Their Rooms

A special to the northern press under date of June 20 from New Orleans, La., relates an incident which occurred in that city the previous evening in which eight Maryland school teachers, one of whom is well known in the Grantsville section of this county, were involved.

The story reads:

Eight schoolmarms from Maryland towns blew in here last night and made this center of Creole pulchritude, Old World wickedness and personal liberty feel like an Alabama town on a hot Sunday afternoon.

Their heads were wrapped in scarfs colorful enough to make anybody stop and look at them, but nobody did. Everybody in the lobby of the fashionable St. Charles Hotel was looking at something else.

All Without Stockings

For there was not a single stocking on the sixteen legs in the party.

New Orleans never saw the like before. A crowd gathered around them and stared the way the Podunk Center boys and girls did the time Susie Sucrow came back from Akron with her dresses almost to her instep.

The Maryland girls at first seemed indifferent to giving the local lads a thrill and at the same time an eyeful, but soon they became embarrassed and asked to be shown to their rooms.

They said they were:

Miss Louise Linthicum, teacher at the Millersville High School.

Miss Clarice Bersch, a teacher at the Annapolis Grammar School, who in 1924-25 was helping teacher at the Grantsville, Garrett county, school.

Miss Margaret Waltz, Westminster teacher.

On Way to Texas

They said they were on their way to El Paso, Texas, and had no trouble along the road until the mob scene in the hotel was staged, except for an automobile breakdown in Alabama. They said they just waited on road until a man came along and fixed it.

"If you wait long enough," said Miss Ruth Parker, "a man always comes along."

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL TO BEGIN JULY 8

To Be Held for Two Weeks in Oakland Grammar School Building

A Daily Vacation Bible school will be held at the Oakland Grammar school building, beginning July 8 and continuing two weeks, Rev. B. T. Trevey, has announced. The hours will be from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., and school will be held every day excepting Saturdays and Sundays.

Competent supervisors and instructors will be in charge. This is a community affair and all children are invited to attend. The school will open each morning with a devotional period of one-half hour, followed by Bible study, story telling, music and manual training. There will be a recess period of supervised play.

One hundred fifty have already enrolled, and it is expected that this year's school will be the most successful of any in former years.

CASTLEMAN RAILROAD TO AGAIN RESUME OPERATING

Transfer of Railroads in Garrett and Somerset Counties Authorized by Interstate Commission

The Interstate Commerce Commission last Friday authorized John Hersker and the Castleman River Railroad company to acquire and operate lines of railroad in Garrett county, Maryland, and Somerset county, Pennsylvania.

One line formerly owned hy the Castleman Valley Railroad company extends from a point about four and one-half miles south of Jennings to the Maryland-Pennsylvania state line, 12.8 miles in length and all in Garrett county.

The other, property of the Pennsylvania-Castleman Valley Railroad, extends from a connection with the Castleman Valley North to a connection with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad nt Worth Junction. It is one and one-fifth miles long and is in Somerset county.

Sold To Hersker

The Castleman Valley operated the first line until May 27, 1927, when a receiver was appointed by the district court of the United States for Maryland. Subsequently the line was sold to John Hersker individually and as agent for the majority stockholders of the Castleman Valley, the sale being ratified by court order on last August.

As Hersker was not prepared to assume operation of the line at that time he arranged to have the receiver continue operation. Hersker and his associates organized the Castleman River railroad company under the laws of Maryland, last October, and the present decision is the sequel to that organization. Hersker intends to transfer the properties to the Castleman River. The Pennsylvania-Castleman Valley had been operated by the Castleman Valley and receiver under a lease for a term of ten thousand years, October 7, 1924. Hersker now has the ten thousand year lease.

Owners of coal mines, suffering from depression in recent years, have signified intention, the decision says, of commencing operations when the railroad is placed on a staple basis. During the first year of operation the road expects to handle 600 carloads of lumber products, 6,000 carloads of coal, 3,000 carloads of fertilizer and much other traffic.

LOUIS B. BRYDON

Funeral services for Louis B. Brydon, 53 years old, well-known coal operator, who died Saturday at his home in Bloomington, this county, were held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at St. James' Episcopal church, Westernport, the Rev. J. G. Gantt, Baltimore, officiating. Interment was in Rose Hill cemetery, Cumberland.

Mr. Brydon was a son of the late William A. Brydon and had been a coal operator in this county for more than thirty years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace B. Brydon, and four children: Mrs. F. B. Warder, Canal Zone; Miss Susan Virginia Brydon, William Brydon and Rebecca E. Brydon, all at home, and the following brothers and sisters: Howard P. Brydon, Richard C. Brydon, John C. Brydon, Scranton, Pa.; W. Schley Brydon, Burlington, W. Va.; S. Bernard Brydon, Keyser, and Miss Edna Brydon, of Kingston, N. C.

GIRL INSTANTLY KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Four Others Seriously Injured When Car Strikes Tree Near Aurora Sunday Night

Hazel Wahle, aged about nineteen years, was instantly killed and her sister Margaret, brothers Charles and James, Jr., and father, James Wable, promient farmer living near Terra Alta, were seriously injured Sunday evening about nine o'clock when the car in which they were riding ran into a tree standing by the side of the Northwestern Turnpike near Aurora.

The father and his family had driven to Rowlesburg earlier in the day and were returning home, with the son Charles driving the car. On entering Aurora the car was going at a rather high rate of speed and it is thought that a tire blew out, as the car was thrown crosswise of the highway, and the rear end struck against a tree standing only a short distance from the side of the roadway.

Hazel, in the rear seat, was instantly killed, her head, it is thought, having come in contact with much force against the tree. She was also badly bruised and cut. Mr. Wable suffered internal injuries; Charles had one of his arms broken and many cuts and bruises; Margaret was severely cut on her chin and had her legs bruised, while James, Jr., had his lips cut and suffered many bruises on his legs.

The injured members of the party were all taken to homes nearby where medical aid was summoned and the dead girl was taken to a mortuary in Aurora.

Funeral services for Miss Wable were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from Pine Run church of which she was a member. Rev. O. M. Cross officiated.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES ENTERTAINED BY ROTARY

Seniors and Facluty Are Guests of Local Service Club Friday

Graduates of Oakland High school who received their diplomas last Thursday evening, together with members of the faculty, were guests of the Oakland Rotary club at a chicken dinner last Friday evening at the Manhattan hotel. Covers were laid for 74 people. The program consisted of the following:

Rotary songs; duet, Adeline Sincell and Dorothy Stevenson; violin solo, Dorothy Welch; class song by the graduates; vocal solo, Reeves Blandford; presentation of the class to the Rotary club, by F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of schools; response, J. E. Harned, president of the club.

During the presentation of the class it was discovered that 25 of the 37 graduates reside outside of the corporate limits of Oakland, and that only one boy, Richard Stemple, was a resident of Oakland.

The address of the evening was made by Delbert Davis, president-elect of the Rotary club. His talk centered on the two mottos of Rotary International. "He profits most who serves best," and "service above self."

Tomorrow evening at the weekly meeting, to be held at the William-James hotel, Mr. Joseph E. Harned will address the members. This will be his last meeting as president of Rotary for the past term. He will be succeeded by Delbert Davis, who will deliver the address the following Friday.

DIED.

MRS. LULU LOUISE FORMAN

Mrs. Lulu Louise Forman, wife of John C. Forman, of near Oakland, died at her home last Thursday morning, at the age of 42 years. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Forman is survived by her husband and the following children: James, Carroll, Mary Katheryn, Marguerite, John IL, Josephine, Calvin, Jean, Louise and Lu Ann. The deceased was a daughter of Mary E. Kitzmiller, of Oakland, and the following are brothers and sisters: O. N. Kitzmiller, Mrs. Wright Thayer, Oakland; Mrs. A. T. Baker, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. Julius Kitzmiller and Mrs. A. E. Beachy, Philadelphia, Pa.; W. O. Kitzmiller, Cumberland.

Relatives from Keyser, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Akron attended the funeral services which were conducted from her late home by Rev. F. L. Fultz with interment in the Underwood cemetery Saturday afternoon.

Lesson for June 30

REVIEW: PROPHETS AND KINGS OF JUDAH'S DECLINE

GOLDEN TEXT—I have loved thee with an everlasting love, therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories Retold.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Learning to Serve God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—True and False Leaders.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's True Prophets.

The quarterly review always brings its problems. No set method can be prescribed. The grade, the aptitude of the pupils and the genius of the teacher are determining factors of the problem. For seniors and adults, two methods are suggested.

I. Character Study of the Kings and Prophets of the Period.

Biography is always fascinating and profitable. In the use of this method, assignments should be made a week ahead. As to the kings of this period, a study should be made of their strong and weak points, and suitable lessons be drawn from them. As to the prophets, the nature of the ministry of each should be studied.

II. The Summary Method.

This method involves the terse statement of the salient facts of each lesson with its central teaching. This method, to be effective, calls for assignments to be made a week in advance. Different minds will greatly vary. The following statements are offered as suggestions:

Lesson for April 7.

Either at the beginning of Isaiah's ministry or later when called to a deeper experience, he had a vision of the majesty and holiness of the living God. The leading lesson is that a real sight of the living God discloses the sinfulness of man.

Lesson for April 14.

In leading the people back to God Hezekiah proclaimed a passover. The passover was a memorial of the nation's deliverance through the shedding of the blood of a sacrificial lamb. The lamb typified Christ. The only way for a sinning and divided people to get back to God and be united is around the crucified Lord.

Lesson for April 21.

Isaiah sought to comfort the people by assuring them that the Lord God as the Messiah was coming to reign over the earth, and deliver them from bondage, and shepherd them. The only possible deliverance from the world is the coming of Jesus Christ and the establishment of His Kingdom.

Lesson for April 28.

Salvation of God's people was to be accomplished through the suffering of their Messiah. At Christ's first coming He suffered the penalty of our sin. His suffering resulted in a spiritual progeny. Life out of death is the law governing the universe—natural and spiritual.

Lesson for May 5.

While the temple was in process of renovation, the law of God was found and read to the king. This brought great disturbance to his mind as he realized the enormity of the nation's sins. God's Word has power to convict of sin and effect a revival.

Lesson for May 12.

God called Jeremiah before he was born, overcame his timidity, and sent him to warn his people of coming judgment. Though violently opposed and persecuted, God delivered him.

Lesson for May 19.

Jeremiah called the people to obedience to God's Word. The only way to avert God's judgment is to return unto Him and render obedience.

Lesson for May 26.

God will restore Israel to Palestine. Israel will return and possess the land. Jesus Christ will then come and enter into a new covenant, writing the law of God in their hearts.

Lesson for June 2.

Because Jeremiah faithfully declared God's law, he was hated and cast into a dungeon. Those who faithfully declare God's law shall suffer.

Lesson for June 9.

The Rechabites out of filial loyalty to their father abstained from the use of wine. Jeremiah gave them a public test as an example to Judah. Obedience to earthly fathers brings blessings, but obedience to God brings greater blessings.

Lesson for June 16.

Judah went into captivity according to God's Word, which cannot fail.

Lesson for June 23.

Psalm 103 is entirely devoted to praise to God. Those who have experienced the life of God in the soul will bless Him with all their being.

God Knows All

I will govern my life and thoughts as if the whole world were to see the one and to read the other, for what does it signify to make anything a secret to my neighbor, when to God, who is the searcher of our hearts, all our privacies are open?—Seneca.

Religion Is Necessary

Education without religion is worth very little, just as cleverness without character is very barren.—Ald. Leslie Owen.

RADIO LISTENERS ENJOY FINAL OAKLAND PROGRAM

W. R. Offutt Tells of Advantages of Garrett County

More advantages of Oakland and vicinity were heard from radio station WMMN, Fairmont, on Monday night in the concluding program of "Oakland Hour," which was broadcast from eight until nine o'clock. W. R. Offutt, local attorney, was the speaker of the evening and the night's program included the following:

Piano selection, Mrs. James Treacy; vocal solos, Misses Mary Jane Offutt, accompanied by Mrs. Treacy; yodeling by Robert Ford, accompanied by Miss Hasaleah Yutzy, Crellin; trumpet duo by Harold Moon, accompanied by Mrs. Treacy; and a piano selection by Miss Yutzy. C. L. Ayers, of Cannonsburg, Pa., and Mr. Patterson, Bridgeville, Pa., two well-known fiddlers and warm friends of Messrs. Thomas and Abel Browning, rendered a selection for the Oakland Hour. The Messrs. Browning were unable to be present during the program due to illness.

Many congratulations came into the station during the hour, one telegram coming from Martinsburg, W. Va. Monday's program was the last of a series of four which have been given throughout the month of June.

Mr. Offutt's address follows:

I trust that you will not be disappointed when you are advised that the subject of my remarks this evening is Garrett county, Maryland; already preceding me have been three prominent men of Oakland who have talked to you and have told you about Oakland, the public school system of Garrett county, and Garrett county as a health resort respectively. In their talks they have touched upon the county in a general way; upon its prosperity, its progress and achievement and upon its being an unusually healthful place in which to live and to rear children, but they are far from advising you all the virtues of this county and in the brief time allotted me I will not be able to more than touch upon some of its many attractions and opportunities.

As I have intimated we have so many advantages, attractions and opportunities to offer in this county that we never fear contradiction or criticism for exaggeration of its praises, and if you will take the time and come and see for yourselves you will not wonder that we are all boosters. To hear us praise our county you would think that we are Californians instead of Garrett countians. You know that Californians are all boosters and take advantage of every opportunity to extol the virtues of their state and municipalities, and this recalls a story about a citizen of Los Angeles who was visiting one of the large cities of the east; that after attending to what business he had he thought that he would walk around and look over the city, so in his walk he pasesd a church on one of the streets in which a funeral service was in progress so not having anything else to do he decided to walk inside and hear what the minister had to say; the deceased was a very prominent citizen, and finally the minister arose and prefaced his remarks by saying that in view of the fact that the deceased was so prominent and well known that he hardly knew what to say; at this juncture the Californian seized the opportunity and arose and stated that inasmuch as the minister hardly knew what to say, he would like to talk a while about Los Angeles and California.

Garrett county is the youngest county in the state of Maryland; having been cut off from Allegany county in 1873, and named after John W. Garrett, deceased, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company for many years. It is the largest county in area in the State; has a population of over twenty-five thousand and is situated principally on the crest of the Allegheny mountains, although part of the county extends to the foot of the mountains giving us the advantages of diversified climate; the cool, dry and invigorating atmosphere which is found on the crest of the mountains and that gradual warmer temperature as you begin to descend.

Oakland, a small city, approximating three thousand inhabitants, is the county seat of Garrett county. Also within the vicinity of Oakland, but beyond its corporate limits, are a number of small towns and villages which do their principal business in Oakland, giving it the appearance and advantages of towns with larger populations. A number of retired farmers have made their wealth upon the productive lands and farms of Garrett county live in Oakland and nearby. A beautiful county court house is of course located here and other well equipped county buildings. The town itself is strictly up to date and modern; it possesses all conveniences such as an excellent water and sewage system, natural gas, paved streets, electric lights, furnished by the West Maryland Power company over a high tension line of almost unlimited capacity; the same when built anticipating the furnishing of power for manufacturing purposes for any plant which may locate here. At this point I want to call your attention to the fact that great advantages can be secured and cooperation rendered to any concern or parties contemplating the erection or establishing of manufacturing plants. If interested in this feature would suggest that you write the Business Men's Club of Oakland, Maryland. We also have in Oakland many good stores, garages, churches, schools, banks and all other advantages necessary and essential to a modern and up to date town. It is really a good place to live, being located on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and connected by bus lines to almost any point one could desire to reach. The county itself extends from the National Pike on the north, route 40, to the Northwestern Turnpike on the south, route 50. Both of these historical thoroughfares are of great interest and convenience to the public. Oakland reaches both of these, and other routes by hard surfaced roads.

Garrett county adjoins Preston, Tucker and Grant counties of West Virginia, and many of the citizens of West Virginia have for many years past been summer residents of Mt. Lake Park and Deer Park, and many of them own homes and farms in Garrett county. We always welcome them and are glad to have them and extend to others a cordial invitation to visit us and locate in our county.

As to climate, I cannot say more than that for more than fifty years it has been recognized that it possesses one of the best summer climates in the United States, this being evidenced by the facts that Deer Park hotel which is nationally known is located here, besides many other resorts which are visited by throngs each summer. It is also an ideal and healthful climate in which to spend the winter, the atmosphere being dry and cool.

As an added attraction to this county as a resort is a large body of water known as Deep Creek lake, about nine miles north of Oakland. This lake is owned by the Associated Gas and Electric company. There is a shore line around this lake of more than 65 miles. Already a number of cottages have been built around the lake where both boating and fishing are enjoyed. There are a number of camping sites close by the lake, which at times are thronged with motorists and campers. It is indeed a beautiful sight to observe the motor and sail boats gliding over this wonderful body of water; bathing is also enjoyed in this lake. As you approach it from any direction you will be amazed to observe such a grand body of water on the mountain crest.

Most of the roads in Garrett county are being or have been hard surfaced; we have had the main lines of the State roads here for a number of years, and now have a number of lateral roads, and the county commissioners for several years past have adopted the policy of hardsurfacing the county roads, so we might say that it will not be in the distant future when all of our roads will be hard surfaced over which traffic can pass conveniently at all seasons of the year.

When you approach Garrett county either from the National highway or the Northwestern turnpike your attention will be attracted almost immediately to the many beautiful farms improved by good dwellings, barns and other buildings; you will notice the splendid cattle grazing in the fertile fields and on the hillsides, and the farmer with his modern machinery reaping the bountiful harvests. An air of prosperity pervades this section of Garrett county through which you would pass, and you will be impressed with the grandeur of the scenes which you will witness.

Garrett county's main industry for many years past has been agriculture and it is well adapted for most all crops. You can raise wheat successfully, corn, oats, buckwheat, potatoes and in fact most all crops; also truck farming is carried on successfully, and the vegetables grown here, owing to their quick growth, are said to be of a most superior quality. The land is naturally productive and does not require much fertilizing.

Underlying a great deal of the land in Garrett county are valuable seams of coal and other minerals. A number of coal mines are now being successfully operated. Acres of coal are located along and near the railroad and can be purchased at reasonable prices. We also have fire clay and quantities of other mineral substances which are valuable and could be profitably worked and marketed.

Conveniently located throughout Garrett county, and almost all of which can be reached over hard-surfaced roads, are small towns and villages. Among these is Grantsville, a thriving little town situated on the National Highway about thirty miles north of Oakland. This town has a number of good hotels, stores, garages, two banks and schools with all the modern equipment and conveniences.

Kitzmiller is another good town which possesses about the same conveniences as Grantsville. They are both surrounded by valuable farms and also coal mines, which are successfully operated.

Deer Park and Mountain Lake Park are thriving towns and are summer resorts of note.

Look our county over and you will find that it possesses splendid opportunities for mining, manufacturing and farming.

The young man who should turn his attention to agriculture and stock raising will find it especially attractive, as it offers him, owing to its natural resources, unusual opportunities and advantages. It is not rural; it is not rough, but on the contrary is beautiful, modern, productive, prosperous and a delightful section of the country in which to live.

Besides the many profitable and productive farms we have in Garrett county, we have an almost unlimited acreage of land which is particularly adapted to stock raising, furnishing at modest prices land for sheep, cattle and other stock raising. Cattle, sheep and hogs are successfully raised here in large and profitable quantities. This has grown to be quite a profitable industry in this county in the past few years, as has been satisfactorily determined.

Dairy farming also is being conducted here on a large and profitable scale. All modern barns being equipped with the most sanitary arrangements for this purpose. It is not unusual to see large herds of dairy cattle as you drive about the county.

Electric lines run in a great many sections of the county, thus furnishing electric lights and power to the farmers and others living away from the centers. These lines are constantly being established in new territory, affording conveniences in sections where the same heretofore were unknown. Many of the farm houses are equipped with electric lights, running water, baths and heated with either hot water or steam; in fact possessing all city conveniences.

I might also call your attention to the fact that Garrett county is a law abiding community, being almost free from serious crime. I point to this fact with pride and regard the same as typifying the high moral character of its citizenship.

VACATIONISTS ARE ASKED TO SHUN THE POISON IVY

Use Your Eyes, Is Advice of State Health Department

Vacationists, campers, and hikers through the Maryland woods are warned against the danger that lurks in the familiar three leaved vine, the poison ivy, that climbs over old fences, festoons itself over stumps and bushes, clings to trees and form a carpet over uncleared grounds. "It is worth while for every out-of-doors person to learn to use his eyes," Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health said in issuing his warning, "so that he may be able to distinguish between vegetation that is friendly and the plants and vines and other growing things that should be avoided.

"Poison ivy is one of the worst offenders and in a season like this when all vegetation is especially luxuriant, the growth of this clinging, clambering vine is particularly abundant. But you can avoid it if you will remember that poison ivy is readily distinguished from other vines by its three leaflets. The old saying: 'Leaflets three let them be,' is worth recalling. The Virginia creeper, or woodbine as it is also called, with which poison ivy is often confused and with which it is often entangled, has five well marked leaflets.

"The dermatitis, skin poisoning, that is caused by poison ivy and by other members of the same family of plants, among them the poison sumac and the poison oak, which is not an oak at all, is due to an irritating resinous substance in the sap of plants. The slightest bruising of the bark or of the leaves seems to release this substance. Some people are immune to its effects. Children and certain adults are very sensitive to it and very slight contact will produce characteristic symptoms. Direct contact does not seem to be necessary, as the sap is readily carried on the shoes or clothing, on farm or garden implements, on the fur of animals, on golf clubs and golf balls, and in some instances in droplets in the smoke of burning brush containing the branches of the vine.

"The symptoms of ivy poisoning often include in addition to painful and severe irritation of the skin, a swelling of the affected parts, constitutional disturbances, fever, digestive and kidney complications. It is obvious that the first precaution to be taken is to learn to recognize the plant and to avoid it. If, inadvertently, as often happens, in taking a tramp through the woods, you come in contact with it, the first thing to do is to lather and wash the affected parts thoroughly with a good alkaline soap, strong kitchen soap, and water, rinsing frequently in clean water. The washing must be thorough and care must be taken not to spread the irritating poison.

"The itching and redness that are the first symptoms of the dermatitis may not appear for a day or even for several days. But if these symptoms do appear, don't wait for further developments, consult your doctor. He will tell you what to do next."

BALTIMORE, MD.

SCHOLARSHIPS

School of Engineering

Scholarship applications in the School of Engineering, established under provisions of Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, competitive examinations will be held Friday, September 20, 1929, beginning at 9 A. M., in Room 101, Remsen Hall.

Each legislative district of Baltimore City, with the exception of the Second, and each county in the State, with the exception of Harford, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for 1929-1930.

Scholarships are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances make it impossible for them to obtain engineering courses unless free tuition be granted.

The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition textbooks and exemption from laboratory fees. One scholarship in each county and each legislative district of the city with the exception of Fifth and Sixth, carries also the sum of $200. Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland (Maryland Agricultural College), Mount St. Mary's and Rock Hill College.

Applicants should address the REGISTRAR, JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, for application forms and circulars of information regarding examinations, awards of scholarships and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, October 1.

FOOTPRINTS.

To view the side lights in the lives of the great men of our nation is a pleasing pastime as well as being instructive.

In the inauguration ceremonies of President Herbert Hoover, for instance, in taking the oath of office administered by Chief Justice Taft, all doubt as to whether or not he would follow the teachings of the religious sect of which he is a member, being a Quaker, was set at rest, for it was noted that in accordance with the ancient customs and tenets of his faith, instead of the word "swear" the word "affirm" was used. This age old objection to "swearing" on the part of the Quakers, is interesting to Marylanders, for the same objection was raised and had to be met in the very early formation of this state, for it was during the reign of Charles Calvert as Governor in the late sixteen hundreds, following that of Governor Fendall, when a conflict arose between the two Houses of the Assembly, the Lower House excusing the Quakers from taking oaths when giving testimony, the Upper House refusing to agree.

It is also interesting to note that when President Hoover took the oath, the Bible was opened at his favorite passage, "Where there is no vision the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he." His public pronouncements as President signify that the verse was not selected haphazardly.

In reviewing the induction of George Washington into the office of President his character as a Freemason was emphasized in the taking of the oath. The corner stone of the National Capitol was laid by him, acting as Grand Master, while clothed as a Master Mason. With these incidents in mind it does not seem strange that Washington should take the oath of his high office on a Bible taken from an altar of a Masonic Lodge.

When William McKinley took the oath of President, that oath was administered on a Bible furnished by the colored Bishops of the South, the only instance on record in our history when the colored people through their representatives furnished the Bible on which a President of the United States took his oath of office.

Grover Cleveland's hand rested upon a small pocket Bible which had been his mother's and whose name was inscribed on the fly leaf.

Calvin Coolidge took the oath the first time with his hand resting reverently on the old family Bible, the oath being administered by his father, who was a Notary Public. When he was inducted into office the second time, he used a Bible given to him by his grandmother on his father's side, Almeda Coolidge. It was from this Book that she had taught the President to read when he was but five years old.

A REMINDER OF DUTY

That the Supreme court of the United States has not succumbed to the widespread agitation of elements both sinister and sentimental which would render the republic defenseless indeed against insurrection or invasion, is indicated by the recent epochal decision affirming denial of citizenship to Rosika Schwimmer, alien applicant who disclosed that she did not approve the use of force to repel force directed against the government and institutions of the United States.

The oath required of applicants for American citizenship prescribes that they shall be ready to defend the constitution and laws of the United States against enemies foreign and domestic. There is no discernible basis for the clamorous yawp of reds, pinks and yellows against the decision of the Supreme court that those who refuse to do this or desist from advocating refusal so to defend our government are not entitled to the privilege of naturalization.

Lawlessness is the outstanding feature of the agitation against the acceptance of the obligation to serve the national cause in time of war. The national and state constitutions impose that duty upon the citizen, and under the constitutions of the states, citizens are made members of the organized militia, subject to call in case of invasion or insurrection. This provision was the plea of the founders of our government to prevent the necessity of a vast standing army.

An attempt is made to excuse Madame Schwimmer on the ground that she would not in any event be liable to military service and only proposes to preach to others the doctrine that those who enjoy the privileges and opportunities of America are not bound to join their countrymen in repelling insurrection or invasion. Such agitation is given the fantastic name of "free speech" by the American Civil Liberties Union, which declared that "free speech" carries the "right" of aliens or natives to advocate the overthrow by violence of the government of the United States. Does "free speech" include the right to publicly advocate the assassination of members of the Civil Liberties Union? Presumably they would not think so. They would defend such pleas for violence only when directed against the American government. Their attitude apparently measures the comparative quantity of their consideration for their own safety and that of our country.

Lincoln, in pardoning a soldier sentenced to death for desertion, went to the heart of this matter when he said that he could not see the justice of shooting a soldier who had been influenced by "wily agitators" to forswear his duty and let these agitators go free. Those who inculcate the idea that when our next war arrives, should it ever arrive, and the life of the nation is at stake, citizens should do that which amounts to treason, are much more to be blamed than those who may be influenced by such counsels of disloyalty.

Quakers and conscientious objectors are mentioned as sharing the attitude of those who on political grounds object to defense of the life of our government in case of invasion or insurrection. Shades of those heroic Quakers, General Nathaniel S. Greene, and of thousands of Quaker youth who have been glad to fight in a cause their consciences approved!

It is well at this time when many agencies are actively operating to undermine the loyalty of American youth, that the Supreme Court of the United States should call the attention of the American people to the fact that they have duties to perform as well as privileges to enjoy, and that the most fundamental of these duties is not to shoulder off on others in cowardice or treason, the entire responsibility for repelling attacks upon their country and upon the lives of millions of American men and women and children who live within the shelter of our flag.

FOUR CAUSES OF CRIME

During the last twenty years 20,000 young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five years have been admitted to the Indiana Reformatory now at Pendleton.

More than 85 per cent of them came from broken homes where the father and mother had separated and remarried.

Only one per cent of Indiana's population cannot read or write, but that one per cent furnishes 37 per cent of the reformatory inmates. Only one college graduate and only fifteen high school graduates were in all that 20,000 youth. Get those figures.

Not a single Boy Scout has ever been sent to the reformatory.

Only four per cent of the 20,000 prisoners belonged to a church. The percentage of negroes and foreigners is very low, most of the criminals being every-day Americans, born and reared in this country.

These figures mean something to every good citizen. That broken homes breed crimes, and the person who breaks up a home should be punished as a criminal.

That our compulsory education laws should be strengthened, as education lessens crime.

That the Boy Scout movement should have the moral and financial backing of every good citizen. It is apparently the surest way to keep boys out of the penitentiary.

That church membership seems to be 96 per cent effective and should be encouraged. To oppose our churches is to encourage crime. Here are four splendid ways to discourage crime—lessen divorce, support education, the Boy Scouts and the church.

Miss Mollie Hamill, Teacher in St. Paul's Sunday School 34 Years Ago, Kindly Remembers Her Class of Boys Then, Now Men.

To the Editor of The Republican.

I see in The Republican a reference to the reunion of our Sunday school class of the Oakland Methodist church.

This class of twenty-one boys from seven to nine years of age, was taught by me thirty-four years ago. I felt honored to be given this class by our beloved Superintendent, the Rev. John M. Davis, who loved his boys and girls and had confidence in me as a young woman to train and guide them. We were very happy together, and felt that nothing else was quite so important in the Sunday school as our class. The years have passed, the boys have grown to manhood and are now in the prime of life.

God has been merciful to us and so far as we know only two have gone from our midst, Edward Kildow and Harry Ferguson.

Our reunion was a great occasion. I seemed to forget for the time that they were men of affairs.

They were my boys of long ago and it was wonderful how we all for the time lived over those days; they were so real and full of interest to us.

I had often wondered as I looked over a picture we had taken (eight in number) how it was with the boys, not so much the thought of their temporal welfare (although I was interested in that), but their relation to God, hoping that some little effort or some memory of the class meeting as Sunday school scholars might be an influence in helping them nearer to Him. The picture referred to I had thought might long have been forgotten by them, and when I got a little hint that we were going to reunite, thought possibly that they were coming to my home, I intended to have the picture there to remind them and was surprised to see the picture at Mr. and Mrs. Paul Naylor's home, where we were so royally entertained. Most of the boys, if not all, still had the picture.

We though and talked of the other boys who were not present and hope that sometime in the future we may all meet on another such happy occasion.

We believe more than ever that the things belonging to God are lasting, and the fact that we met in His name to study the word of life will be to us all the real life that shall last forever.

It was wonderful for Mr. and Mrs. Paul Naylor to do so much to bring us together. It was and will be a blessing to us all and we thank them. It was a great pleasure also to have with us the then assistant superintendent, Mr. F. A. Thayer; also the present superintendent, Mr. E. Ray Jones.

Thanking you for giving this publicity. MOLLIE HAMILL.

Mt. Lake Park, June 25, 1929.

Tentative Report on Forest Fire Given in News Letter

Tentative statistics showing results of the spring fire season of Maryland have been published in the News Letter, a publication issued by the State forestry department, and show that to date 423 fires were reported in all. As the spring season runs from January 1 to June 30, the detailed report will not be announced until later.

The report states: "To date, 423 fires were reported this spring. Late fires will probably bring this total to 450 or slightly more. District 2, the Western shore led in the number of fires, with a district total of 245. Western Maryland reported 133 fires and the Eastern shore, 45. Western Maryland suffered the greatest loss in acreage, a total of 6,064. District 2 suffered a total acreage burned of 5,338, while 1,101 acres were reported from district 3.

"The Western Shore district showed the best suppression practice with an average acreage per fire of twenty-one and one-half. The average on the Eastern shore was twenty-four and one-half while Western Maryland reported an average fire of forty-five and one-half. The average for the State was twenty-nine and one-half.

"The acreage figures show a satisfactory improvement over those of last year when 27,155 acres were burned in the same period. The average fire in the spring of 1928 destroyed 51 acres. It is interesting to note, however, that the area burned this spring is over ten times the amount allowable under the state standard of adequate protection, one-tenth of one percent per annum.

"As compared to 528 last year, 423 fires were reported this spring. This season, particularly the last part, was far more favorable to fire control than last year.

"The forest wardens of the State may look again this year upon the record with a good deal of satisfaction. It shows, in no uncertain manner, the general determination among our wardens to reduce the size of the fires down, down to the irreducible minimum!

Prevention of fires is also a most necessary part of the program and it is suggested that we all strive particularly hard during the next year in preventing fires from starting, by counsel, advice, and caution among neighbors, friends, and acquaintances.

IN GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND.

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett County, Maryland by Section 52 of Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and the several amendments thereto, the undersigned Treasurer of said County will, on at the hour of ten o'clock A. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all of the following described pieces and parcels of land, situate, lying and being in Garrett County aforesaid, to-wit:

No. 1.—All the coal and minerals, gases and oils, being in, on and underlying all that lot or tract of land situate, lying and being in Election District No. 2 of Garrett county, Maryland, commonly known as "The Ross Home Farm," containing the quantity of 399½ acres, more or less, as reserved and excepted in a deed from George Jones and others to Samuel A. Kendall et al., dated the 20th day of January, 1905, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 52, folio 81, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland. Said minerals will be sold to satisfy and pay the State and county taxes due and in arrears thereon for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of George and Uriah Jones.

Absent-Minded Professor

The absent-minded professor has nothing on "Doc" Gonder, of Gonder's Pharmacy, for did he not buy a ticket for the Business Men's Luncheon, held at the gas office last Saturday, walked past the plaee to his home where he found the house deserted; walked past the gas office again and went into a restaurant where he bought his noonday meal? And all the time he was wondering how eome, forgetting that he had given notice that he would dine down town.

The ticket is now on sale at any old price offered.

False Charge Made

It is rumored that Neil Fraley is going to sue Scoop for charging that he doesn't work. Scoop's star witness will be Jerry Stanton who says he can produce 67 witnesses who will testify and prove to the satisfaction of the court that he never did work. The ease will come before Sergeant Joseph Gonder, who wears the only Confederate uniform extant in this section of the country. Betty Dawson will be the lawyer for the defense while Neil is expected to argue his own ease. There is no telling what may happen when these three members of the honorable court get together.

A Weighty Problem

Answers that will solve a problem at the Allegheny Boat club will be received by Scoop at any time. Here is the problem that is perplexing the members of the organization: Every time Babe Tower goes out on the pier it sinks. The stays have all been broken and likewise the diving board. When he jumps in the lake the waves wash the foundation of the club house, causing considerable damage. It has not been decided which would be the easier—to move the boat club or move Babe. Send in your answers.

Brave Onee More.

Since the June Term of Court has closed the missing witnesses in the alleged moonshine cases will in all probability return. Other ereatures are also expected to be out from under cover and running around with brazen faees—and brass eoils.

"Weighed in The Balance"

The Boss Editor had another radical disturbanee this morning when he received another advertisement about a "travel club" plan of subscription eampaign or contest.

Regardless of the fear that some free advertising may be given, Scoop prints part of the appeal below:

"Old-fashioned automobile contest weighed in the balance and found wanting. It is generally agreed that the old-fashioned automobile contest eost too much for the results it obtained, but it had another glaring fault—too limited appeal.

"Our new travel cluh plan overeomes both faults—" and so on far into night.

When it is known that six months ago this same company was urging an automobile contest on us, Scoop thinks of that right noble wit of the past, Shakespeare, who said, "Consistency, thou art a jewel." These out-of-town artists try to get you one way or another.

Monday a visiting editor who was hooked into running a contest two years ago said, "If I ever thought of running another one, I would put it on myself. The out-of-town chap eomes along with a lot of prepared hokum, sits around and grabs off thirty per cent or more of the money taken in and leaves you high and dry. Newspaper contests are false stimulants and benefit nobody but the outder."

Probably within a few days The Republican will receive another advertisement with a scheme still hetter than the "travel club" plan. Let it come. It will just go into the wastebasket where its predeeessors have gone.

For a period of six weeks Seoop is golng to offer The Republican to Garrett county residents for $1.50 per year, payable In advance, after which time the subseription price will revert to its former price of $1.50 per year. Get in on this offer while it is fresh and sweet, like new mown hay. Read what this week's testimonial has to say about The Republican.

Troubled With Goose Pimples

"For years I was troubled with goose pimples," says Jerry Stanton, well-known personage of town, "and could get no relief from quaek doctors or areheologists. My stomach had a lining in it and my shirt would run up my back like a window shade at the first sign of iee or ice cream.

"My tongue was like rubber and the wheels of my larynx had been stretched to their capacity. My tonsils and adenoids were worn to a frazzle from continued prating and I got so weak I couldn't cut my corns. Friends told me about The Republican and although a Demoerat I decided to subscribe. Now I will never do without it. It tells so much news of the county there is nothing left for me to say.

"When wedding couples ask for news I throw them a copy of The Republican. I always keep a stack of them in my taxi office and give full eredit for my reeovery to that noble institution of Garrett county."—Mr. Jeremiah M. Stanton, T. D., taxi service day and night.

Miss Nelle Alexander left Monday for Frostburg State Normal where she will attend summer school, and Mr. John A. Speicher left Wednesday for the University of Maryland, College Park where he will attend school.

Liebmann—Haenftling

Miss Elfreda Haenftling, of Fort Wayne, Ind., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haenftling, of Accident, and Mr. Paul G. Liebmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto G. Liebmann, of Fort Wayne, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Zion Lutheran church, Rev. A. W. Gode, pastor, officiating, the double ring ceremony being used.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by Miss Amelia Nahrwold as maid of honor, and Misses Martha Muehlenbruck and Meta Liebmann, cousins of the groom, bridesmaids. Little Ada Cramer was flower girl. Mr. Henry Moellering, Jr., was best man and Messrs. Fred. Miller and Urban Haenftling were ushers. All members of the bridal party, except the two latter are residents of Fort Wayne.

The ehurch was very beautifully decorated with mountain laurel and an arrangement of palms and ferns interspersed with eandleabra holding tall white eandles. Bows of ribbon marked the pews of special guests. Preceding the ceremony, Rev. Carl Harmon, graduate of the St. Louis Theological Seminary, sang "O Perfect Love." He was accompanied by Miss Amelia Miller, who also played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The bride wore a white satin gown fashioned with a basque waist having a trimming of lace with clusters of orange blossoms. Her veil with cap effect was trimmed with lace and pearls and she also wore a stran of pearls and white kid shoes.

The gowns of the bride's attendants were fashioned alike of taffeta with the basque style waist and full skirts of uneven hemline finished with petals in silver. Maline bows on the one shoulder formed the only trimming on the gowns. They also wore strans of pearls and blonde kid shoes. Miss Nahrwold's gown was orchid; Miss Muehlenbruck wore green and Miss Liebmann, blue. The flower girl wore a yellow crepe frock with the hemline eut in points. Her headdress was a yellow maline bow, and she wore yellow hose with black slippers.

The young couple have gone for a honeymoon trip to Washington and other points of interest in the east. Upon their arrival in Fort Wayne the latter part of next week the couple will be at home temporarily with the groom's parents.

The bride and groom are prominent in Walther League activities and are members of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Fort Wayne. The bride has resided in Fort Wayne for the past five years. The groom is a graduate of the Fort Wayne high school and is employed as a teller in the First National Bank in that city.

Among the guests from Ft. Wayne who attended the eeremony aside from the wedding party were Mr. and Mrs. Liebmann, parents of the groom; Mrs. Henry Moellering and daughter Margaret, Mr. Winston Koehlinger, Miss Della Scheiman, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Lepper and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Cramer and family.

COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Among all the delightful performance characteristics of the Outstanding Chevrolet—none is creating more widespread enthusiasm than its thrilling speed and flashing acceleration!

The great new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine responds to the accelerator with an eagerness that is literally amazing. Touring speeds are negotiated with such smooth, silent, effortless ease that you almost forget there's a motor under the hood. And when the throttle is opened wide—the pace is faster than the most experienced driver would care to maintain!

Back of this exceptional performance is a brilliant array of engineering advancements—typified by a high-compression, non-detonating cylinder head... automatic acceleration pump... hot-spot manifold ... semi-automatic spark control ... and a heavier crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced.

Come in and drive this car. Learn for yourself, at the wheel, that no other car can approach it in the price range of the four!

A STORY WITH AN APPLICATION

We have often heard it said that one ought not to spoil a good story on account of friendship or affiliations.

There was a Scotchman who was taken to a hospital for a major operation. The surgeon was skillful, but the attendants and nurses were careless and the patient escaped just after his brain had been removed. Naturally they hunted for him every place and at last located him in Oakland editing a newspaper.

This story recurred to us after reading a book on newspaper editing and writing which a chap known as "Scoop" handed us at The Republican office and we came to the conclusion that a man who engages in the enterprise of running a weekly newspaper must be lacking in something--for it is some job!

We wonder if the average reader ever stops to consider that he receives 52 copies of his county paper at the rate of less than three cents a copy? The successful achievement of such an undertaking, week by week, year by year, requires a large investment of capital, extensive equipment and effective organization. Not all newspaper offices have these requisites.

Publishing a newspaper is unlike any other business. When a man is engaged in practicing law, or a physician, a preacher or merchant, a carpenter, bricklayer or painter, he receives a call for services in his special field and he genarlly knows just what he is to do in order to earn his fee or wage. But in the case of a newspaper editor, whether his paper is interesting or uninteresting depends not so much on himself as upon the happenings in his county and community. If there is a fire, a murder, an accident, or some outstanding social event he is sitting pretty. If on the contrary nothing "breaks", if events move along in the same old rut, with no one of the community getting married or divorced, with no society doings of note, then is the time he recalls the old song of "Silver threads among the gold" and adds a new wrinkle to his brow.

Then, he doesn't get the work he has a right to expect. Perhaps the local merchants send to Baltimore or Philadelphia for their best grade of printing when it could have at least been offered through the local newspaper office if he thought the editor did not have the proper equipment for the job. Or, he discovers that the local camp meeting association has gone into another state to get its programs nnd publicity matter printed and gets a bum job—one which would induce no one to attend the meeting—whereas he knows he could turn out work infinitely better, and then the editor is approached by the management who wants oodles of space free of charge to boost the same meeting and put money in the pockets of the private individuals. Is there any equity in such a proceeding?

Then if we want some pet scheme boosted, in which we do not have a financial interest, we also and at once go to the editor.

This for the community good, is altogether different from any private enterprise. For instance Buddy Weeks wants Mountain Lake Park to have a Home-Coming Week. What does he do but meet your correspondent on the street and suggest that it would be a good thing. We at once were in accord with the idea and then, says he, "give it a boost."

Well, if this "blurb" finds its way into print, consider the suggestion "boosted." We seriously and sincerely believe it can be made a success, especially if all interests will work together. We believe there are lots of folks who will be glad to come back and renew their youth on this beautiful mountain top.

POLA NEGRI'S SON TO BE GUEST OF W. VA. SCOUTS.

Juan Bushland Visits in Grafton at Home of Rev. A. J. Torrey—an Old Friend

While the Boy Scout troop, sponsored by the Grafton Kiwanis Club, of Grafton, West Va., is in its first annual encampment the first two weeks in July at the permanent camp of the Oakland, Md., Scouts at Deep Creek Lake in Garrett county, they will have as their guest and adviser a real celebrity—in his own right and by reason of the fact that his mother is a famous motion picture star.

The other day Juan Edwardus Richard Carlos Negri Bushland, son of the beautiful Pola Negri, stopped a few hours in Grafton to visit his old friend, the Rev. A. J. Torrey, rector of St. Matthias Protestant Episcopal Church, erstwhile scoutmaster of the Kiwanis troop, and widely experienced in boys' club activities in Oakland and elsewhere.

Eagle Scout

Because he is an Eagle Scout, envied by all Scouts below that cherished rank, which bespeaks unusual proficiency in the craft so dear to the hearts of American boys, Juan, as he prefers to be called, promised Scoutmaster Torrey he would accompany the Grafton Scouts on their camping trip.

In Hollywood, known to most of the world only for its divorce scandals, Juan is "Assistant Scoutmaster Negri" of Troop 24, Mounted Boy Scouts, one of the two organizations of its kind in the United States of America. Included in the membership of the troop, which is mounted on fiery Mexican bronchos, are Tom Mix, Jr., Richard, son of John Gilbert; James Fairbanks, son of "Doug"; Francois, son of the lovely Dolores Del Rio, and scions of many another famous movie family.

$1,000 a Month

In spite of the fact that his wealthy mother has endowed her devoted son with an income of $1,000 a month, Juan has one extravagance—if such it can be called when his income is considered—and that is a sport model of a famous imported automobile, which is his chief pride.

Although only 18 years old, Juan is a graduate of the University of California, where his grades won him many scholastic honors.

True to his Spanish ancestry, Juan ranks as a maestro in his ability to produce beautiful music from the guitar, which he carries always in his automobile.

In addition to his other claims to fame, Juan is a twin. This was revealed when he visited the Rev. and Mrs. Torrey at the St. Matthias Rectory. He is four minutes "older" than his beautiful twin, the Senorita Delores Juanita le Riquo Negri.

Although the pair made their screen debut in "The Rat," it was explained by Juan that he is undecided as to whether he will make this his life work. However, he was en route to Annapolis, Md., where he explained a conference with motion picture officials probably would decide his future.

Union Young People's League Formed by Three Churches

The Luther League, of St. Mark's Lutheran church, the Epworth League of St. Paul's M. E. church and the Christian Endeavor of the Garrett Memorial Presbyterian church have made plans for forming a Union Young People's League for the entire months of July and August. The three leagues are to work collectively. The meetings are to be held in the three churches and if the weather permits some of them will be held out of doors. Some very interesting meetings have been planned, as well as a number of social functions. At a business meeting on June 28, the following officers were elected: Ellwood Hauser, president; William McRobie, vice-president; Hasaleah Yutzy, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Leary, treasurer. Miss Beryl Davis will be the leader of the first meeting next Sunday at 7 o'clock, P. M., at the Lutheran church, and if possible the meeting will be held on the lawn in the rear of the church. Miss Davis' topic will be "America, what made it what it is." She has some very interesting material on the subject. The leader for July 14 will be Miss Geraldine Nordeck. All the young people of Oakland are invited to attend and take part in these meetings.

FUNDS FOR SCOUT CAMP TO BE RAISED BY MOVIE

Benefit Picture Will Be Shown On Wednesday, July 17

For the purpose of raising funds for the summer camp of the Boy Scouts of America of Oakland Troop No. 1, a benefit picture will be held on Wednesday, July 17, at the Maryland theatre, Mrs. Bernard Gonder, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, has announced.

"Quite a bit of expense is connected with sending the boys to camp," Mrs. Gonder stated, "and everybody who is interested in the Boy Scout movement is asked to attend or purchase a ticket." The camp will be onened the latter part of July, and food must be purchased before this time as well as many other incidentals and it is hoped that the picture will be well attended.

Regular prices will prevail, and there will be talking features besides the feature picture.

VOLUNTEER FIREFIGHTERS LAY PLANS FOR BIG TIME

At Meeting Decide To Take Over Hallowe'en Celebration

Plans for a mammoth celebration on Hallowe'en were made at the regular meeting of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department held Tuesday evening at the City Hall.

The first celebration of this kind to be held in Oakland was last year, under the auspices of the local lodge of Knights of Pythias, and was so much of a success that it was hoped some organization would make it an annual affair. It was in charge of the Knights last year because of the fact that they were unable to hold their annual Labor day picnic due to health condition then existing. The benefit to be derived from the affair this year will be applied toward liquidating the debt incurred in the purchase of a new fire truck.

A large cedar chest has been donated by the Bolden Undertaking Co. to be given away the night of the celebration. The chest will be filled with many useful articles, donated by the women of Oakland, and which will be displayed in a store window in a few weeks. In addition to the street activities there will be a dance in Fraley's Hall.

Scouts Get Recognition

The firemen decided at the meeting Tuesday evening that the two active Eagle Scouts of Oakland Troop, No. 1, would be given special privileges and duties to perform as assistants to George Kerins, fire chief, at fires. The two Scouts, Bernard Gonder and Thos. Gonder, will be in charge of traffic, guarding any material that might be carried from buildings, and in keeping people back from the scene of action.

Providing this plan works out and the boys relaize the seriousness of their position, permission may be granted for them to ride the fire truck later on, Fire Chief Kerins stated. The entire Scout troop will assist the two Eagle Scouts in their work.

Th members of the department will take part in the Fourth of July parade to be held this morning at ten o'clock at Terra Alta, it was also decided at the meeting.

Camp Minnetoska, with Increased Number, Now Open.

Camp Minnetoska, a training ground for girls, situated by the lake on the farm of Dr. Henry W. McComas, five miles west of Oakland, opened for its third year on Monday, July 1, Frank Hansen, one of the directors, has announced.

The camp opened with an enrollment of approximately 35, and this number is expected to be increased later on in the season. It is considerably more than at any time last year. The camp will close during the first week in September.

Training of the girls will be along the lines of tennis, hockey, baseball, swimming, boating, etc., and all recreation will be handled by Mr. Hansen, Miss Lucy Hyde, who is director of athletics in the Forest Park Senior High School, Baltimore, or an able assistant.

Fined For Not Paying Dog Tax

Nelson Custer, Hanson Beachy, J. W. King, J. U. Peck, J. W. Green, and George Parnell were all brought before Justice A. S. Teets, Oakland, recently, charged with not paying dog tax.

They were fined $5 and costs in each case. The arrests were made by Asa Coddington, constable.

CANNING OPERATIONS TO BEGIN AT PARK FRIDAY

Pea Crop Fairly Good in Places —To Employ Approximately 125 for Period of Six Weeks

The Mt. Airy Canning company will open its canning season at Loch Lynn Heights Friday morning according to Howard Reinhardt, manager, and will operate for a period of five or six weeks.

The plant will employ approximately 125 men, women and boys as has been the case for the past two or three years. The efficiency of the plant in the quick handling of the product was materially increased last year. Extensive improvements and additions were made, and this year's crop is expected to be easily handled.

Every department of the plant will be kept going continuously due to the addition of larger bins and speedier operation of the machinery which was installed last year.

The plant will probably have a straight run of thirty days or more in canning peas, after which time the corn crop is expected to be ready for harvesting and canning. The pea crop is considered fairly good in the highlands, but rather poor in the lowlands due to numerous rains and floods.

The total amount of power required to operate the plant this year is 460 h. p. The power is produced by two 150 horse power boilers and four 40 horse power electric motors.

Mr. Reinhardt will superintend the operations.

Two Auto Wrecks Occur But No One Is Injured

Two automobile wrecks occurred during the past week-end, but none of the occupants of the cars were injured, nor were the cars badly damaged.

Clyde Breedlove and Edwin Hamill collided Saturday afternoon near Oakland, and Breedlove was fined $2 and costs for not having his registration card.

On Sunday Harvey Knepp, of Jerome, Pa., ran into the car driven by Dan Spiker, at the top of Columbia hill, at the edge of Mt. Lake Park. Knepp was fined $5 and costs for reckless driving and paid $30 for damages to Spiker's car. Both hearings were heard by W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace.

Has Hand Crushed In Accident.

He was engaged in sanding the track in front of a motor and as he went to change the sand tube his hand was caught beneath one of the wheels. He was given medical attention by Dr. H. W. McComas, of Oakland.

Miss Elsie Benthien returned Tuesday from Chicago where she had gone to meet her mother from the State of Washington, who will spend several weeks in Oakland as her guest.

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD GIRL ATTACKED; YOUTH HELD

Bernard Preston, Frostburg, Arrested on Charge of Rape—Other Person Sought

Bernard Preston, Frostburg, about 35 years of age, is being held in the Garrett county jail for the action of the December Grand Jury, on a charge of rape. One other person is still being sought by county officials.

Three young men were alleged to have attacked a 15-year old girl Ethel Rosenberger, about four miles west of Frostburg Sunday afternoon. The girl, who resides on a side-road near the Johnson church, this county, was walking along the road when the young men, traveling in a car, are alleged to have accosted her.

Sheriff William D. Casteel and other Garrett county officers were notified and they started an intensive search for the alleged assailants. They arrested Preston on Monday and he was given a hearing before Justice W. A. Gonder Tuesday afternoon who held him for the action of the grand jury.

The driver of the car will not be sought, but it is expected that the other person will be arrested within twenty-four hours, and given a hearing on a similar charge.

JAKE BONNER PAROLED BY MARYLAND GOVERNOR

Garrett County Youth Among Those Granted Clemency

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Annapolis, Tuesday granted 24 paroles recommended by Commissioner Ambrose J. Kennedy, and five which had been recommended by Commissioner William Parrish before his death some time ago. The executive also reduced the sentence of Albert Wells, negro, sentenced to life imprisonment, to 15 years.

Among the paroles granted was that of Jacob Bonner, of Garrett county, sentenced to three years in the House of Correction for theft. Bonner, of White Church, was convicted of stealing meat and other articles from various farmers in the vicinity of White Church. He was first arrested at Thomas but made his escape before county officials could reach that town. He was apprehended later at Keyser, W. Va., and brought to Oakland where he was sentenced to serve three years.

He was apprehended May 22, 1928, and was convicted at the June Term, 1928, Circuit court. He has served a little over a year of his sentence, and the stolen goods were returned, the governor said in connection with the parole, and added that the 19-year-old youth would go to West Virginia to live with his parents on a farm.

Carlton McComas is ill at his home suffering with an attack of influenza.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR IMPROVING CASTLE HALL

Brick Veneering of K. of P. Building to Start Monday

Work of brick veneering the Knights of Pythias building, on Third street, will be started on Monday of next week, according to those in charge of the work. The contract has been awarded to Arthur Cogley, and he will employ four or five bricklayers in the construction, which is expected to take several weeks.

Mr. Cogley also has the contract for extending the kitchen and paraphernalia rooms on the third floor, in rear of the building, so that they will consume the space above the dressing rooms of the Maryland theatre. The stucco now on the building will all be removed and brick will be laid on all four sides. It was originally planned to have the front of the building in stone, but this was changed recently.

To Install Officers

Edward P. Kahl will be installed as chancellor commander of Garrett Lodge, No. 113, Knights of Pythias, at the regular meeting to be held tomorrow evening. He will succeed M. W. Mann, who will be installed as master of work. Other officers who will be installed at this time include Irvin R. Rudy, vice-chancellor; Olin Hardesty, prelate; Melvin Lee, master at arms; George Fulk, inner guard; and Paul Riley, outer guard.

BIBLE TEACHERS NAMED FOR VACATION SCHOOL

Daily Vacation School To Open Monday, July 8

Superintendents and teachers in the Daily Vacation Bible School to be held at the Oakland Grammar school building, beginning July 8 and continuing two weeks, were named at a recent meeting. Mrs. W. W. Grant has been named superintendent of the lower grades, and Mrs. Delbert Davis, superintendent of the Junior department.

Mrs. Grant will have as her teachers Mrs. Byron Besse, Mrs. Irene Smouse Bond, Mrs. Ralph Kercheval, and Mrs. Hervey Smouse. Mrs. Davis will have as her teachers Miss Marion Leary and Miss Virginia DeBerry. Mr. O. T. Graser, instructor in Oakland High school, will have charge of the boys at stated periods, and will instruct them in manual training.

The school will open each morning with a devotional period, followed by Bible study, story telling, music and manual training, dramatization, etc. There will also be a recess period of supervised play.

This year it is planned to charge an enrollment fee of 25 cents to cover the cost of pencils, paper, books, and other material that is used in the course of instruction. Last year this expense was met by offerings at the end of the two weeks. One hundred fifty have already enrolled for instruction, but it was stated that more could be handled if any desired to enroll.

To Hold Union Evening Services During Summer

Union evening church services will be held during the months of July and August, the first one to be held Sunday, July 14, in the Methodist church, at 8 o'clock. It was originally planned to begin this Sunday, but has been postponed one week due to services at Mt. Lake Park.

Services will be held in the Lutheran church and Presbytterian church on succeeding Sundays, and the sermons will be delivered by the ministers of the various congregations. These services should command the interest of the people of Oakland and surrounding communities, said one of the ministers, and all are urgently requested to attend.

Rotary President to Be Installed Tomorrow Night.

Delbertt Davis, cashier of the First National Bank of Oakland, will be installed president of the Oakland Rotary Club at its regular weekly meeting tomorrow evening at the William-James Hotel, and will give the chief address of the evening. Mr. Davis is succeeding Mr. Joseph E. Harned, who has served the organization as its president during the past year.

Mr. E. R. Jones, local attorney, is vice-president; W. O. Davis, secretary, and Rev. C. A. Shilke, treasurer, all of whom were chosen at a recent meeting of the board of directors elected at a meeting of the club in May.

COUNCIL TO PIPE WATER INTO OAKLAND CEMETERY

May Be Used by Lot Owners Free—Other Matters Discussed at Regular Session

An order to pipe water into the Oakland cemetery where it could be used by the lot owners free of charge was passed at the regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Monday night. Work on this will start immediately, according to L. M. Fraley, mayor, and the water will be placed in a convenient spot for all users.

This order came freely from the council as its members felt that keeping the cemetery neat and beautiful should be encouraged among all lot owners. There has been a movement on foot during the past month or so for the lot owners to organize, and hire a caretaker to keep the entire cemetery in good condititon and the council passed this order as an added incentive.

To Begin Oiling

A number of streets of Oakland will be oiled, beginning next week, the street committee reported at the meeting. The oiling will be under the supervision of the State Roads commission, and the following streets will be gone over: Liberty street, Pennington street, Center street, Wilson street, and part of Third street, between Oak and the Youghiogheny river bridge.

A letter was written by Harry D. Williar, chief engineer of the State Roads commission, by the council, asking that "Stop" signs be placed at all street intersections in the city where they crossed the State roads. Third street and Oak street are State roads, and the council felt that all traffic coming out from side streets onto these thoroughfares should come to a complete halt.

To Enforce Traffic Regulaitons

The traffic light regulations are going to be rigidly enforced, it was stated at the meeting. A number of cards have been printed and anyone going under a red light will be notified. If he is caught a second time, the council plans to have him fined to the full extent of the law. Thomas R. Currie, state policeman, may be sworn in as a town officer, and he will then be empowered to make arrests for violations at all three corners where the lights are placed, Mayor Fraley stated.

Mr. C. N. McIntire appeared before the meeting in connection with the extension of Oak street and Ninth street, but action on this matter was deferred until next meeting. Passing of the monthly bills occupied the remainder of the meeting. The next session will be called for August 5.

Homecoming Meeting to Be Held at Meadow Mountain

A grove meeting will be held in the James O'Brien grove, one quarter mile from John Mason's store on Sunday, July 14. This is to be a homecoming meeting of all persons who at any time have been members of the Meadow Mountain church, but all others are invited to attend.

There will be preaching in the forenoon, communion services in the afternoon, and also several addresses. Rev. C. A. Shilke, Oakland, is expected to talk on the benefits of a Sunday school to a church and a community; while Rev. W. E. Waybright, Red House, is expected to talk on what the attitude of a man should be toward a church in his neighborhood. Rev. G. W. W. Amick, Accident, will speak on the origin and future of the Lutheran church.

Eagle Scouts of Oakland Troop to be Guests of Rev. Torrey

Eagle Scouts of Oakland Troop No. 1, and George H. Hanst, scoutmaster, will be guests of Rev. A. J. Torrey, scoutmaster of Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of Grafton, West Va., at their summer camp on Deep Creek Lake next Thursday evening.

Rev. Torrey with 31 members of his troop and an instructor, arrived in camp Sunday evening, and will remain for two weeks. He is planning an investiture ceremony and campfire program for Thursday night, July 11, and he is asking that his former eagle scouts of the Oakland troop be with him on that evening.

Those expecting to make the trip are Kenneth Stahl, Thomas Gonder, James Lee, Bernard Gonder, McClelland Dixon, George Altstetter, Robert Stemple, and the present scoutmaster.

OFFICERS RECOVER STOLEN MAZUMA FROM GYPSIES WHO TRAVEL AROUND COUNTRY FOR THEIR "HEALTH"

74 Roaming Rumanians Spent Short Time in Oakland Plying Their Trade

A band of "Roaming Rumanians," better known as Gypsies, seventy-four of them in number, were plying their trade in Oakland on Friday and in other nearby cities on Saturday, Sunday, and the first part of this week.

They are up-to-date in their mode of travel, affording 16 high powered cars, and they go about flim-flamming whoever and whatever they can. Pretending to fortell the future is one way of getting money. Another is "blessing" money, the owner of which is supposed to have good luck after they work their hokus-pokus, but in most cases one is lucky to ever see his "blessed" money again.

Usually the women of the party work each town in pairs, one doing all the talking while the other—well—just looks around. The men have all they can do to take care of all that the women manage to accumulate in the various towns, and possibly they find pleasure in driving the automobiles.

Sometimes, however, there is a slip-up and the money is recovered. Friday, on their way to somewhere, they stopped at Weber's greenhouses, near Oakland, where they slyly slipped a wallet containing $50 from the pocket of Robert Gemmell, while he was busily engaged in watching the worthy cash register. Sheriff Casteel was notified and he recovered the money at the White Church, which Sheriff Bill says "was an ideal place to take up a collection."

Wednesday a portion of the Gypsy band motored to Thomas and entering a business place, "blessed" the proprietor's money. When he checked up at closing time blessed if he didn't find himself short $107.40. Officer William McVeigh got on the trail and about 4 o'clock Thursday morning drove up and demanded that they cough up, which they did under protest and threat of having their "queen" taken as hostage, it was learned.

"The sooner the Gypsies get out of town, the quicker," Sheriff Casteel said. "I'd hate to have 74 of them in the Garrett county jail. They'd purloin the very bars out of the door."

Having Busy Time

Col. Bell has been having a busy week, running to White church, Halsey's at the bridge, Allegheny Boat club, Hooppole hill, and all around town, getting pictures for Scoop. He got lazy last week and had to make up for it or get the gate. He even made a trip to Terra Alta to get an advance picture of the K. of P. picnic up there. He spied Judson Loar, Howard Stuck, Harry Stemple, Paul Naylor, and Dave Walter in the thick of it all. They haven't missed a K. of P. affair within miles around for the last 67½ years.

BITTINGER.

A black and white spotted Jersey cow, the property of Rev. E. E. Campbell, strayed from the pasture a few days ago and cannot be found. The animal is about three years old and has horns. If any one knows of the whereabouts of this cow and will notify Rev. Campbell, at the Lutheran parsonage, in this village, they will confer a great favor.

Communion services in the Lutheran church, in this village, last Sunday morning were well attended.

Mrs. Herbert Buckle, a student at the Frostburg State Normal school, spent the week-end with her family here.

Young P. Lohr and son, Ronald, of Oakland, motored to this village last Sunday afternoon to visit his old home and while here had a very pleasant greeting for old friends in the village.

NOBLE PILE ON SITE OF JOHN HANCOCK HOME

Adoption of Declaration by Congress

(From Jefferson's Autobiography.)

In Congress, Friday, June 7, 1776. The delegates from Virginia moved, in obedience to instructions from their constituents, that the Congress should declare that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; that measures should be immediately taken for procuring the assistance of foreign powers, and a confederation be formed to bind the Colonies more closely together.

The House being obliged to attend at that time to some other business, the proposition was referred to the next day, and the members were ordered to attend punctually at 10 o'clock.

Saturday, June 8. They proceeded to take it into consideration and referred it to a committee of the whole, into which they immediately resolved themselves, and passed that day and Monday, the 10th, in debating on the subject.

It was argued by Wilson, Robert R. Livingston, E. Rutledge, Dickinson and others—

That, Though they were friends to the measure themselves, and saw the impossibility that we should ever again be united with Great Britain, yet they were against adopting them at this time;

That the conduct we had formerly observed was wise and proper now, of deferring to take any capital step till the voice of the people drove us into it;

That they were our power, and without them our declarations could not be carried into effect;

That the people of the Middle Colonies (Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, the Jerseys and New York) were not yet ripe for bidding adieu to British connection, but that they were fast ripening, and, in a short time, would join in the general voice of America.

On the other side, it was urged by J. Adams, Lee, Wythe and others, that no gentleman had argued against the policy or the right of separation from Britain, nor had supposed it possible we should ever renew our connection; that they had only opposed its being now declared.

That the question was not whether, by a Declaration of Independence, we should make ourselves what we are not, but whether we should declare a fact which already exists.

That, as to the people or Parliament of England, we had always been independent of them, their restraints on our trade deriving efficacy from our acquiescence only and not from any rights they possessed of imposing them, and that so far our connection had been Federal only and was now dissolved by the commencement of hostilities.

That, as to the King, we had been bound to him by allegiance, but that this bond was now dissolved by his assent to the last act of Parliament, by which he declares us out of his protection, and by his levying war on us, a fact which had long ago proved us out of his protection; it being a certain position in law that allegiance and protection are reciprocal, the one ceasing when the other is withdrawn.

It appearing in the course of these debates that the Colonies of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and South Carolina were not yet matured for falling from the parent stem, but that they were fast advancing to that state, it was thought most prudent to wait a while for them, and to postpone the final decision to July 1; but, that this might occasion as little delay as possible, a committee was appointed to prepare a Declaration of Independence. The committee were John Adams, Dr. Franklin, Roger Sherman, Robert R. Livingston and myself. Committees were also appointed at the same time to prepare a plan of confederation for the Colonies and to state the terms proper to be proposed for foreign alliance. The committee for drawing the Declaration of Independence desired me to do it. It was accordingly done, and being approved by them, I reported it to the House on Friday, the 28th of June, when it was read and ordered to lie on the table. On Monday, the 1st of July, the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole and resumed the consideration of the original motion made by the delegates of Virginia, which, being again debated through the day, was carried in the affirmative by the votes of New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Georgia. South Carolina and Pennsylvania voted against it. Delaware had but two members present, and they were divided. The delegates from New York declared they were for it themselves and were assured their constituents were for it; but that their instructions having been drawn near a twelve-month before, when reconciliation was still the general object, they were enjoined by them to do nothing which should impede that object. They, therefore, thought themselves not justifiable in voting on either side, and asked leave to withdraw from the question; which was given them. The committee rose and reported their resolution to the House. Mr. Edward Rutledge of South Carolina then requested the determination might be put off to the next day, as he believed his colleagues, though they disapproved of the resolution, would then join in it for the sake of unanimity. The ultimate question, whether the House would agree to the resolution of the committee, was accordingly postponed to the next day, when it was again moved, and South Carolina concurred in voting for it. In the mean time, a third member had come post from the Delaware counties and turned the vote of that Colony in favor of the resolution. Members of a different sentiment attending that morning from Pennsylvania also, her vote was changed, so that the whole twelve Colonies who were authorized to vote at all gave their voices for it; and, within a few days, the convention of New York approved of it and thus supplied the void occasioned by the withdrawing of her delegates from the vote.

Congress proceeded the same day to consider the Declaration of Independence, which had been reported and lain on the table the Friday preceding and on Monday referred to a committee of the whole. The pusillanimous idea that we had friends in England worth keeping terms with still haunted the minds of many. For this reason, those passages which conveyed censures on the people of England were struck out, lest they should give them offense. The clause, too, reprobating the enslaving the inhabitants of Africa was struck out in complaisance to South Carolina and Georgia, who had never attempted to restrain the importation of slaves, and who, on the contrary, still wished to continue it. Our Northern brethren also, I believe, felt a little tender under those censures; for though their people had very few slaves themselves, yet they had been pretty considerable carriers of them to others. The debates, having taken up the greater parts of the 2d, 3d and 4th days of July, were, on the evening of the last, closed; the Declaration was reported by the committee, agreed to by the House, and signed by every member present, except Mr. Dickinson.

Fraunces' Tavern Relic of Revolutionary Days

Fraunces' tavern, in New York city, was once a meeting place for Revolutionists, later a warehouse, and still later a saloon, but now stands restored to its aspect as a tavern. The Sons of the Revolution in the state of New York bought the old building after it had descended to the status of a saloon. It has been reconstructed, and its interior and exterior conform as nearly as possible to the Fraunces' tavern of Revolutionary days.

John Adams and the delegates to the second Continental congress stopped overnight there on the way to Philadelphia. The Sons of Liberty and the Vigilance committee met there on April 22, 1771, and planned the attack on the London, New York's "tea party." In August, 1777, a shot fired from the British ship Asia struck the building. The New York provincial congress assembled there from May 18 to June 30, 1776.

During the Revolutionary war the tavern contributed its lead window weights to the manufacture of bullets. These bullets were used with effect at Forts Montgomery and Clinton. It also was the birthplace of the first chamber of commerce in America, in 1780.

PASSING OF TWO GREAT AMERICANS

"JEFFERSON STILL LIVES."

John Adams smiled serenely, closed his tired eyes, and ended his active career. None of the Indians watchers told him that Jefferson, his bitter opponent and dear friend, had died two hours before.

July 4, it was, fifty years after the two patriots had affixed their signatures to the Declaration: "That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved."

Strange that July 4, which stands for the birth of America as a nation, should also mark the death of the two sons who did so much toward her creation. "All men are created equal." Those had been Jefferson's words when he was thirty-five years old. It was he who framed the Declaration of Independence. It was Adams who had taken the most active part in the debates that preceded the signing. "The colossus of that debate," Jefferson called Adams. And fifty years later, both men died within two hours of each other.

Those sessions before the Declaration was read to the American people were bitter and stormy. Not all the delegates believed in breaking away from the mother country.

Opposing political views caused the two men to drift apart. Adams, like Washington, was a Federalist, who believed in a strong central government. Jefferson led the Anti-Federalist party. He believed that the government was an agent for the states, not their master.

In later years when both men had retired from politics the old friendship was renewed with more warmth.

July 4, 1826, was the fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, a gala day for the United States. The people wanted Adams and Jefferson to partake of the festivities, but Adams was ninety-one and Jefferson eighty-three. They were too worn by their long battle for freedom to leave home. While the gayety was at its height Jefferson passed away. A few hours later Adams followed, with his friend's name on his lips.

School Costs and the Public

The attack on the schools—a phase of which was described in the November Journal under the title of "Sanctified Squanderer" continues. It often does the greatest harm in communities which most need to spend more rather than less upon their schools.

The Conspiracy in North Carolina

An example of what selfish interests can do by taking advantage of local conditions is the socalled Hancock law, recently enacted by the North Carolina General Assembly. This law was not drafted by the responsible school people of the state. It is confusing that no one knows what it means. Among pernicious features of this bill are provisions which give to the state board of equalization powers which belong to the state board of education and to the local authorities; which weaken the leadership of county superintendents by lowering salaries and standards; and which seek to keep down salaries in communities that are able and willing to pay the maximum salaries to their teachers. Perhaps the attorney general and the equalization board may be able to save a bad situation by generous interpretation.

The Ability of North Carolina to Support Schools

It is obvious that there is in North Carolina enough wealth and income to guarantee to each child a reasonable school opportunity. In 1926 this state paid in federal taxes more than $194,000,000; for life insurance more than $35,000,000; and had accumulated in savings banks more than $156,000,000. In 1927 it paid more than $197,000,000 for automobiles. Teachers' salaries in North Carolina are relativel low—an average of $781 as compared with $1277 for teachers throughout the country and $2010 for all gainfully occupied persons.

How Inexpensive Good Schools Are!

It is one of the tricks of the retrenchment propagandists to set forth increases in school costs without taking into account the large expansion in other phases of our life. School costs have increased remarkably, but not so rapidly as have the demands which the public has made upon the schools. The standard of living has gone up and education is an essential element of that standard. How inexpensive schools are! According to Bureau figures the total expenditure per capita of population for education was only $16.25 in 1924; $17.15 in 1925; and $17.50 in 1926. Divide $17.50 by 365 and the quotient is less than five cents a day per capita for the cost of educating the nation's children—the most important single activity of organized society.

The United States is saving about fifteen percent of its income. Certainly a nation which can show such a record need have no fears over the expenditure of 2.68 percent of its income for education. The health, skill, and purpose of the people constitute the wealth of the nation. To deny youth the adjustment which schools can give is virtually to deny life itself and to destroy the security of this basic human wealth.

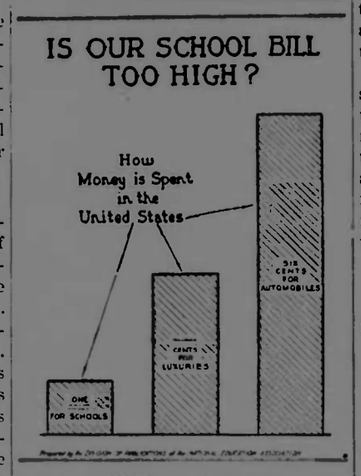
What Teachers Can do to Save The Schools

The public schools are the public's schools. Let parents and citizens once appreciate their real significance and they will suppore them generously. Among things which teachers may do to fortify the schools against unreasonable attacks are the following:

Let every teacher and school officer make sure that the schools are doing the best work that can be done with available resources.

Let every child understand the importance of the schools in his life and his obligation as a citizen to protect and support them.

Encourage influential citizens to acknowledge their debt to the schools.



Did you ever stop to think what the school has meant in your life?

Make the birthday of Horace Mann, May 4, an occasion for a study of his contribution to American life. Civics classes, school assemblies, and newspapers may feature the work of this great educator and statesman.

In every promotion and commencement ceremony, call attention to the school's importance and its large contribution to the life of the community along lines indicated by each of the seven cardinal objectives.

Let American Education Week each year be a time of educational revival when parents, teachers, and citizens will unite in appreciation of the school and its service to the community.

Teachers are responsible not only for doing well the work of the classroom, but for seeing that the school itself is appreciated and understood in order that the work of the class room may be adequately financed and properly protected from the inroads of selfish interests.

Efficiency Counts

We need not delude ourselves into thinking that the nation can afford to do less than its best by all its youth. People move about easily and depend much upon each other. We are one in the end and our children will be more intimately dependent upon the intelligence and good spirit of their fellows than we are today. The slow and sure process of education is the only way out. Our people have started upon that way and they dare not turn back, for it is the way of freedom and achievement. All that we put into the schools comes back manyfold. We put a dollar into education and gather two from our commerce; we build technical schools and found new industries; we draw four million of our young people into high schools and lay the foundation for a new civilization. We cannot afford to starve education—fundamental alike to individual success and national security. Let us rather insist that money wisely spent for good schools is an intelligent investment which every community should make according to its resources, its needs, and its ambitions for its children.

Flashes of Fashion

Cotton sweaters, both cardegan and pull-over styles are giving great success. Cardegans and collared sweaters are recommended for wear with summer prints.

Lisle hose for fall use small self patterns. Very small designs appear in the service weight; chiffon lisles have slightly larger patterns and picot tops. Gun metal and several beige tones are the colors in demand.

1. Waffle pique, a new fabric, is used in high-priced sports-wear.
2. Monotone prints are most favorable for quality fabrics.
3. Embroidered cottons gain steadily in importance.
4. "Grown-up" prints in bright colors are new for children.
5. Many cottons for fall have a spongy texture.
6. A check pattern, overprinted in a large leaf and flower design, was given prominence by a leading French fabric house.
7. Suede-like finish is given both medium and heavy weight materials.
8. Dotted velveteen, worn in a jacket suit, created interest.
9. Cables say that velvety, soapy textures were stressed in latests Rodier collection.
10. Percales receive increasing mention.

Beige is pronounced (Bazh), meaning natural colored.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY
BALTIMORE, MD.
SCHOLARSHIPS
School of Engineering

Scholarship applications in the School of Engineering, established under provisions of Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, competitive examinations will be held Friday, September 20, 1929, beginning at 9 A. M., in Room 101, Remsen Hall.

Each legislative district of Baltimore City, with the exception of the Second, and each county in the State, with the exception of Harford, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for 1929-1930.

Scholarships are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances make it impossible for them to obtain engineering courses unless free tuition be granted.

The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition textbooks and exemption from laboratory fees. One scholarship in each county and each legislative district of the city with the exception of Fifth and Sixth, carries also the sum of $200. Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland (Maryland Agricultural College), Mount St. Mary's and Rock Hill College.

Applicants should address the REGISTRAR, JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, for application forms and circulars of information regarding examinations, awards of scholarships and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, October 1.

THE HARM OF FALSE RUMORS

"Gossip is a cowardly, malicious gratification of that maudlin sentiment that lifts hands in holy attitude to ask God to help in the assassination of character." Thus said a minister in a near-by town last Sunday.

Some people love the unsavory odor of scandal. They think in terms of malice. A false rumor starts. A gossip-loving mind adds color. One says, "I wonder;" the next says "I guess;" the next, "I heard," and the next, "They say," and so on until the reports grow to such magnitude that a character is assassinated or an honored institution ruined.

Many a woman has been made to bow her head in shame by the malicious gossip of her so-called friends, many a merchant has been forced into bankruptcy by an unfounded rumor as to his ability to pay his just debts; the credit of many a bank has been strained and sometimes ruined, foreing the closing of its doors, because of a false report circulated by a small minded, sensation-loving scandal monger. Friendships have been shattered, homes broken up and business disrupted by street corner or sewing circle gossip.

There are drastic laws on the Federal and State statute books against the circulation of false reports about banking institutions, which should be rigidly enforced. A few suits for damages for slander, or defamation of character or reputation would go a long way to put a stop to the malicious habit of some people in indulging in soul-searing gossip.

ON TIME!

May we ask you to pause just a moment in your rush of daily existence to consider that well known little phrase, "On Time." Once it was used as a part of the question—"Is the 6:18 on time?" That was years ago. Today you know that the 6:18 is on time, for this is the era of punctuality.

The fruit, butter and cream on your table must be transported promptly that it may be on time for your breakfast. And so on, during the entire day, that little matter of schedule, being on time, regulates your waking hours.

Maybe if you look out of your office window you will see a skyscraper office building in the course of construction, its network of steel girders ringing with riveting hammers. The contract calls for that building to be completed by a given date. The ore must move from the mines to the furnaces on time. The iron must be at the mills on time. The fabricated steel must be delivered to the contractor on time. Cement mills, glass factories are contributing their products that the doors of this building n.. be opened to the public on time.

Between all these products and the completed building are the railroads —those two long lines of shining steel over which go thundering the freight trains carrying the traffic of the Nation from its place of origin to its destination. Over these same lines of steel rush the faster passenger trains carrying the skilled laborer from one job to another; carrying the merchant, the salesman and men and women in all walks of life. They also, carry the mail, the express, newspapers, milk and other commodities requiring fast transportation, for the railroads are the arteries of our commercial system.

Today, in the era of hand-to-mouth buying, the railroads have established a wonderful on-time system. Even the humble coal train with its long string of 50-ton hopper cars moves on schedule to the minute from one terminal to another. Consequently, because it is a common, every-day detail, we are prone to overlook this really marvelous on-time service and to countance, without opposition, demands on the steam railroad carriers which lessen their earning power.

We demand and need on-time service. To continue to give it, the carriers must be allowed to earn a fair return that their upkeep may be maintained at a pace equal to the growth of commerce.

WHAT'S THE OBJECTION TO TEACHING PROHIBITION?

The fact that an attempt will be made at the coming national convention in Atlanta by United States government agents to launch a movement to teach the values of prohibition thru the schools and thus build up respect for law, rather than to attempt to enforce the law by brute force, has caused a snarl from certain wet daily papers. The agents of good government, who are seeking to enlighten the popular mind on the good which prohibition has accomplished, and seeking by education to secure respect for and obedience of the dry law, are referred to as "propagandists" and regarded in the light of "paid spies" seeking to do something harmful to the unsuspecting and gullible public.

The DeKalb New Era cannot see that the people who are seeking to teach the benefits of prohibition are doing anything any more reprehensible than are the agents of the national agricultural and health departments who are seeking to teach the advantages of better methods of farming, forestry and household economics. How, we wish to ask, is it any greater crime to teach the children that prohibition is a good thing and has caused a great improvement in the social and economic condition of the people, than it is to teach them that it is better to observe such health regulations as vaccination, sanitation of home premises and water supply? And, in the name of all common sense, is it not better to teach people to respect the law and obey it than to seek to enforce it at the point of a shotgun? These wet papers, which raise such a prolonged howl about the fatal consequences of efforts to enforce the law, seem to want the law disobeyed and disrespected, and ultimately thrown overboard. If anybody happens to get shot or otherwise injured in the fray which is constantly going on, and which is constantly aided in an indirect way by those wet newspapers, which are persistently calling attention to alleged failures and fatalities, and any other thing however small and insignificant, which they think will help to bring the law into disrespect, there is a great hue and cry about murder, arson and other hideous things. Nothing is said in criticism of those who violate the law and who seek to bring it into contempt.

Few people will be harmed by the law or the attempt to enforce it if they try to obey the law. Most of those who are harmed by present conditions are those who are seeking to disobey the law or in some other way disregard its requirements. It seems to us that those newspapers which are continually calling attention to the alleged failures of the law would serve the public better by using whatever influence they have to help educate the people and especially the younger generation on the benefits of prohibition and in that way build up respect for the obedience of the law. So far as the DeKalb New Era is concerned it fails utterly to see how a wet liquor-drinking nation, can be more fortunate and desirable than a sober, law-abiding one. —The DeKalb New Era.

30 OF 43 TETANUS CASES IN MARYLAND WERE FATAL

State Health Department Gives Out Statistics for 1928

Forty-three cases of tetanus occurred in Maryland during 1928, of which 22 were reported from the counties and 21 in Baltimore City. Of the eases in the counties, 4 were in the age group from 5 to 9 years; 10 in the age group from 12 to 15 years and 8 in the groups over 17 years of age. Of the 21 cases in Baltimore City, 16 terminated fatally; 14 of the 22 cases in the counties terminated fatally.

Perhaps the most important point in the care of tetanus is the treatment of the inital wound, and the prophylactic use of anti-tetanus serum. This is especially to be remembered in the treatment of wounds received from fire-crackers and blank cartridges, such as are used on the Fourth of July. The wound should be thoroughly opened and cauterized, either with an actual cauter or with fuming nitric acid, and then it should he kept open, in order that any bacillus with lodgment in the wound may be exposed to the air, which is fatal to its life. The individual should then receive immediately, as an initial dose, from 1,500 to 5,000 units of antitetanus serum injected into the muscles.

Tetanus anti-toxin is a specific and trustworthy preventative. The prophylactic dose is from 1,500 to 5,000 units. The rule is to give a prophylactic dose in all cases where there is danger of this complication, especially if the wound is lacerated or punctured. If the wound contains necrotic tissue or a foreign body, the injection should be repeated every seven days until the wound is clean or so long as the hazard persists. It is important to remember that tetanus anti-toxin is eliminated or destroyed in the body in the course of ten days or two weeks. This makes it necessary to repeat the injection weekly in order to continue the immunity until the danger is past.

Wounds from fire-crackers and firearms are especially dangerous and likely to occur at this season, but punctured and lacerated wounds caused by nails and by injuries due to automobile accidents may happen at any time and should receive prophylactic treatment promptly whenever they do occur.

Even when tetanus anti-toxin has been administered at the time of the primary injury, cases of so-called posteric tetanus have occurred at a later period.

To avoid the danger of hypersensitiveness, the patient should first be given a subcutaneous injection of 0.5 c.c of serum diluted with 0.5 c.c. of salt solution, followed after five minutes by a second subcutaneous dose of 1 c.c. of serum and 15 minutes later by a third subcutaneous dose of 5 c. c. of serum. One hour later the intravenous injection of the full dose should be begun. Injection should be made slowly and the serum should be warm at the time of injection.

As soon as a patient with developed tetanus is seen he should be given 3,000 units of anti-tetanus serum into the spinal canal, 5,000 units into muscles, and 10,000 units into the vein. This may be repeated from twelve to twenty-four hours after, according to the necessity of the case. Keen, in his treatise on "The Treatment of War Wounds," says "one should expect tetanus in all wounds and prevent its onset."

Fear of anaphylaxis should never prevent the use of serum when indicated. Careful technic and slow administration will go far to avoid serious accidents of this nature.

Increase in Deaths From Automobile Accidents

One hundred and thirty-two persons have been killed in automobile accidents in Maryland durlng the first five months of 1929. For the same period of last year such accidents caused 116 deaths.

The death rate in Maryland due to automobile accidents has increased from 0.7 per 100,000 population in 1910 to 21.5 in 1928. The rate was 20.7 in 1927, 19.7 in 1926, 17.4 in 1925, and 16.2 in 1924.

Motor vehicle deaths occur with much greater frequency during the second six months of the year. This is due largely to the fact that automobiles are in much greater use during the summer and fall months.

About twenty-five percent of the deaths from automobile accidents in Maryland occur among children under fifteen years of age. Parents should be urged to take special precautions for the protection of their children from such accidents during the vacation period, as it is during these months that we have the highest proportion of deaths in this age group, from this cause.

The Republican Commercial Printing Department is the best equipped printery you could care to inspect.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Owing to the great number of automobiles on the highways of the state, there is bound to be some accidents. Many that occur, however, could be avoided. The great wonder is that more accidents do not occur. Some motorists seem to have little regard for human life. This is especially noticeable on the stretch of improved road that runs through the Park. Beginning at the top of the hill where the state road enters the village the irresponsibles begin to step on the gas and go roaring down the pike toward the Postoffice, past cross roads without checking speed, frequently at the rate of forty or fifty miles an hour, apparently giving no thought to the safety or the lives of pedestrains or other motorists. Last Sunday hundreds of automobiles passed through the Park, many of them driven by strangers unacquainted with the roads and drivers. At the point where the road going past the bowling alley to Crystal Springs, (one very much used) crosses the State road, on last Sunday we witnessed many near-accidents—some so near, in fact, as to cause us to wonder how the occupants of the cars escaped a wreck. Unless this speeding through the Park is stopped, either voluntarily or by arrests and heavy fines, some day, and that soon, some scatterbrained or gin soaked damphool driver will cause an accident that will shock the entire community. The "Save-A-Life" campaign now being conducted in this state seems to have escaped the notice of some drivers. The sooner they are apprehended and locked up the safer the community will be. As the season advances the necessity for caution becomes more imperative.

The camp meeting, which began last week, is well under way. A great deal of interest is being manifested. Last Sunday hundreds of cars were parked through the Park and many picnic parties spread their dinners beneath the oaks.

Mrs. Walter W. Pollard, daughter of Captain and Mrs. William Skyles and son, Master Weir Pollard III, and Mrs. Thomas Evans and son, Master Thomas, Jr., New York, are guests of Mrs. Skyles at the Allegheny House. Mr. Pollard and Mr. Evans are expected here over the Fourth.

Mr. Jordan D. Hill, New York, will arrive at the Park this week for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Isobel Hill.

Mrs. Allie Haymond and Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fleming are in Fairmont for a few days.

Mr. J. C. Frame, Fairmont, was the weed-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frame.

The Home Coming Week celebration idea is coming on apace. Whether a tortoise or hare pace we are unable to state. As ye old editor used to say, more anon.

The grass is being cut along the walks and paths presumably so the ladies will not get their skirts wet. Some tall grass.

Mrs. Ida Rheem is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moomaw.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Searle and family are occupying their cottage this season.

Mrs. R. H. Devine, Baltimore, is at the Park for the season.

P. B. Gough and family, formerly of Loch Lynn, now of Fairmont, spent Sunday with friends here.

Mr. George Cochran and mother, Baltimore, have opened their cottage for the season.

Miss Virginia Bowen, Tupelo, Miss., is at the Arnold cottage.

Cattle Thieves Active.

Tuesday night of this week some unknown party or parties entered the calf lot on the farm of John F. Friend Sang Run, and after killing a calf carried it away. The only evidence left by the thief was a mechanic's hammer with which the animal was evidently killed, as the instrument was found by Mr. Friend in a pool of blood in the enclosure. A reward of $50 is offered by Mr. Friend for information that will lead to the arrest and convicition of the thief.

DIED.

MRS. SUSAN BECKETT YOUNKIN

The sudden death of Mrs. Susan Beckett Younkin, wife of George A. Younkin, at her home Saturday morning at 6 o'clock, came as a shock to the community. Mrs. Younkin was taken very ill on Sunday with enubolisem from which she gradually grew weaker until the end came peacefully. She had been failing in health for several months but was able to be around until Sunday.

Mrs. Younkin was the daughter of Jacob Beckett and the late Mary Beckett and was born at their home in the Cove, Md., February 7, 1870. She was married to George A. Younkin December 22, 1897, who survives her with the following children: F. M. Younkin, Paintsville, Ky.; Mrs. Hazel Livingston, Gilmore, Md.; Mrs. Nina Patterson, Clarksburg, W. ## TEN FOURTH OF JULY "DON'TS" FOR PARENTS

Suggestions for Planning a Celebration That Will be Lively—But Safe For All

Here are some "Fourth of July Don'ts" that are different. Most "Fourth of July Don'ts are for children—but here is a list, prepared by the National Safety Council, for parents:

1. Don't forget that the first proof of Fourth of July "patriotism" is home safety protection.

2. Don't shut your eyes to real Fourth of July hazards—fireworks, automobiles, drowning, fire, firearms, falls, poisons.

3. Don't forget that your family might enjoy—as a "safe and sane" Fourth— some of the out-of-doors country freedom for which our forefathers fought.

4. Don't forget—if you want safe fireworks for your children—that community fireworks are often quite wonderful.

5. Don't neglect—if you must have home fireworks and noise—to see that your fireworks are the safest that may be found.

6. Don't fail to talk frankly with your children—tell them why home fireworks are always dangerous.

7. Don't neglect to teach your children that "patriotism" does not consist in noise and life hazards.

8. Don't forget that it's worth a real effort—to plan with your children a Fourth celebration that is "exciting" but not hazardous.

9. Don't fail to prove your community "patriotism"—by helping with a worth-while community celebration.

10. Don't forget, above all, that nearly all Fourth of July accidents can be prevented.

4-H Club Girls Will Meet at Camp Algajoy.

About seventy-five 4-H Club girls of Cumberland will leave that city for Camp Algajoy near Grantsville for a week's outing which will include conferences in leadership under able directors. Miss Maude Beane, home demonstrator from Allegany county, and Miss Elise Benthien, home demonstration agent from Garrett county, will be in charge of the group, which will also include quite a number of girls from Garrett county.

July 5-7 will be devoted to conferences for the older girls and club leaders; Miss Ella Gardner, recreation specialist of the U. S. Department of Labor at Washington, D. C., will be present the first two days. Miss Dorothy Emerson, girls' club agent, College Park, will be present all week. July 8-13 will be devoted to conferences for all leaders and club girls.

Friday, July 12, will be "Visitors' Day," at which time a pageant will be staged by the club girls.

This will be the fourth year the 4-H girls have camped at Algajoy, for which purpose the Girls' Friendly cottage is rented each year.

Roy Mickey Pitches Crellin to Victory

Crellin swamped the Bretz, W. Va., nine by a score of 17 to 4 Sunday afternoon on the local baseball field. Roy Mickey, pitching his first game of the season, was in fine form, holding Bretz to five scattered hits and scoreless until the eighth inning when three infield errors aml a three-base hit by McGill netted Bretz two runs in the eighth and ninth. Mickey struck out fourteen batters and issued four passes. C. McCabe hit for the circuit for Crellin. The score:

THE STORY OF EZEKIEL

GOLDEN TEXT—As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Ezekiel, a Messenger of God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ezekiel, a Messenger of God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Frankness in Friendship.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Prophet-Pastor.

Ezekiel prophesied in the land of the captivity. The purpose of his ministry was threefold.

(1) To keep before the house of Israel that they were in captivity because of their sins (14:23). (2) To show that God is righteous in His visitation of judgment upon them (7:8, 9). (3) To sustain their faith by assuring them of their national restoration, the punishment of their enemies, and their final exaltation among the nations when Messiah should reign (34:11-31).

I. Ezekiel's Call (2:1, 2).

1. Command to stand up (v. 1).

He was given a vision of the Almighty God on His throne of glory (ch. 1). The purpose of this vision was to give a synthetic grasp of the execution of the divine will through the powers and forces which God had created. Before this vision the prophet fell prostrate upon his face. When one sees the diversity and complexity of the agencies employed, including the animate and inanimate creation intelligently moving forward, under the direction of the Almighty, he will be ready to face any task regardless of its difficulty.

2. Filled with the Spirit (v. 2).

By the Spirit the divine energy entered him and enabled him to execute his commission.

II. Ezekiel's Commission (vv. 3-8).

1. The moral condition of the people (vv. 3, 4).

(1) A rebellious nation (v. 3). This perhaps referred to their idolatrous practices.

(2) Impudent children (v. 4). Impudent means literally "hard of face." It means the grossest perversity which caused them to stand up in the presence of the prophets of God without a sense of guilt.

2. The charge (v. 4).

He was to deliver God's message. It was to be, "Thus saith the Lord God."

3. The difficulty of his task (vv. 5-8).

The prophet was to deliver the message of God whether they would hear or forbear. He was to fearlessly execute his commission, though the attitude of the people be as "briars, thorns and scorpions."

A faithful minister's life and testimony will run counter to the world. (II Tim. 3:12).

III. Ezekiel's Experimental Qualifications (2:8-3:16).

Before one can preach to others he must have a personal experience.

1. Eating the book (2:8-3:9).

This book contained God's woes upon the stiff-necked and rebellious people. In order to speak God's threatenings effectively to others we must inwardly digest and appropriate them ourselves. The result of this eating was that Ezekiel was made "hard of face and forehead" to go against the people who were "hard of face and forehead."

2. Urged on by the Spirit (3:10-14).

In order to strengthen Ezekiel for his task, the wonderful symbolism of God's providential agencies which had been before him in chapter one was brought to his attention, assuring him that God would accompany him to his new destination.

3. Entering into sympathy. (v. 15).

In order to minister to a people one must show that the message is from the depth of the heart. Ezekiel mingled his tears with theirs.

IV. Ezekiel's Grave Responsibility (3:17-21).

Two things were required of him as a watchman over the flock.

1. To hear the Word at God's mouth (v. 17).

2. To sound the warning. (v. 17).

After he had heard God's message he was to speak it out; then his responsibility was discharged.

V. Ezekiel's Courage (24:15-18).

He was to be taught by a sorrowful experience. He was to turn his face from even natural desire. At the death of his wife he was forbidden to mourn. By this means God sought to impress upon Israel the seriousness of the situation.

The Sick Need the Physician

And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples. And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Master with publicans and sinners? But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.—Matthew 10 to 13.

Monument and Bridge over The Concord River

CONCORD HYMN

By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard 'round the world.

The foe long since in silence slept;
Alike the conqueror silent sleeps;
And Time the ruined bridge has swept
Down the dark stream which seaward creeps.

On this green bank, by this soft stream,
We raise today a votive stone;
That memory may their deed redeem
When, like our sires, our sons are gone.

Spirit, that made those heroes dare
To die, and leave their children free,
Bid Time and Nature gently spare
The shaft we raise to them and thee.

—Emerson.

Redcoats on the Run That April Morn

One of the most venerated shrines in the United States lies at the remote end of a cul-de-sac leading from Monument street and perhaps a trifle more than a mile from the center of the town of Concord, Mass.

Time was when this was not a cul-de-sac, but a highway that extended from what then—that is in 1775—was called Great Meadows road, across the Concord river, where it branched, one fork connecting with the highway near the Buttrick home, and the other intersecting the Lowell road near Colonel Barrett's place. The connecting link between the two shores of the sluggish stream was known as the North bridge, and so it is today. This road-without-an-exit is not more than 400 feet in length and shaded from end to end by trees of dignity, size and age.

The first object that strikes one's vision is a simple shaft of white marble, insignificant in these days of massive things. Beyond is a bridge of concrete fashioned as though made by some primitive builder who sought strength, rather than beauty, a palpable effort to suggest the possible appearance of its remote predecessor, and on the yon side of the bridge stands a monument in bronze, heroic in size, of a Minute Man answering the call of his fellow patriots.

Here was "fired the shot heard 'round the world," and despite the fact that the first encounter of Lieut. Col. Francis Smith's men with the rebellious Colonists was at Lexington, the Battle of the North Bridge is regarded generally as the inauguration of the War of the Revolution, and to this sacred spot came thousands of pilgrims each year.

Oddly enough, this was not always a Mecca. There was a time when it was a neglected bit of terrain. The highway had been shunted off the old North bridge entirely and the thoroughfare from Great Meadows road abandoned, to again become part of the Old Manse estate. Its then occupant, Rev. Dr. Ripley, took pride in pasturing his cow "in the battlefield" as he called it. When the town of Concord determined to erect a monument at the site of the North bridge, he returned the land to the municipality upon the occasion of the dedication of the shaft in 1836. In the spring of 1875, upon the one hundredth anniversary of the Battle of North Bridge, Daniel Chester French's monument of the Minute Man was dedicated, and upon its base is chiseled one verse of Emerson's stirring hymn.

To recount a bit of history may be like carrying coals to Newcastle. However, here goes:

Gage, who was in British command in Boston, learned that in Concord were a considerable quantity of patriot stores, and he determined to take or destroy them. He sent a detachment of troops to carry out his orders. The grenadiers met their first resistance at Lexington early on the morning of April 19, 1775. Troops under Colonel Smith and Major Pitcairn pushed on to Concord. Pitcairn took up his headquarters at the Wright tavern, and a detachment was sent to North bridge. Captain Laurie, in command, stationed his men advantageously, as he thought. The patriots were massed on Punkatasset hill, and, when reinforcements arrived, Col. James Barrett ordered them down to the neighborhood of Major Buttrick's home.

Captain Laurie, alarmed at this, sent to Smith for reinforcements. At 9 a. m. Colonel Barrett ordered Buttrick to lead his men to the bridge, but cautioned them not to fire first. The company from Acton, under the command of a Captain Davis, was first and this was followed by other companies from many places. Laurie immediately withdrew his men across the bridge, and some of them began tearing up the planks to prevent the patriots from crossing. Buttrick shouted to them to stop. The British fired a few shots at random; one, however, fired at Buttrick, missed him, and wounded two men behind him. Davis, the Acton company commander, stepped aside so as not to be in line of fire of his own soldiers and prepared to give the necessary command, when the British fired a volley. Davis and one of his men fell wounded. Buttrick then gave the command and the provincial fire raked the British. They retreated, leaving two dead upon the field.

A moment for these two soldiers. At the right of the shaft, as one walks toward the bridge, is the humble tomb of these unknown warriors. They have slept unmolested in this shaded spot where they were buried 154 years ago by Zachariah Brown and Thomas Davis.

At Concord the British burned the courthouse, chopped down the liberty pole and did some other damage, but the arms and ammunition they could not find, with the exception of a few cannon. And the Minute Men were gathering all around them, at first from the fields and villages nearby, then from those a little farther off, then from still greater distances. For a time they stood on the hill and watched the troops in the town, while every minute their number grew. When there were about 400 of them, they suddenly charged down on the North bridge. There were 200 British regulars there. Firing and fired upon, the Americans rushed the bridge and drove them into the town.

Still the Minute Men were coming. All morning, while the troops were busy in the town, the militia tramped along the roads and trickled from every farm.

Realizing his danger at last, Colonel Smith started back to Boston. But there were militia on both sides of them, militia behind them, militia stationed at places which they must pass on the road, riflemen behind every bush and stone, sharpshooters in every tree. The British literally could do nothing but run, and run they did, until they met Lord Percy, with 1,200 men and two cannon, just beyond Lexington, and fell exhausted in the hollow square which he drew up to protect them.

An hour's rest, and the whole force was on the way again, but the whole country was now swarming with militia, and Percy, too, had to fight his way. Seven miles from Boston, a fresh force of militia nearly stopped him altogether and at sunset he reached Charlestown and the shelter of the British fleet, on the dead run, while 700 more militia were marching to intercept him.

The Battle [illegible] 273 [illegible] Americans [illegible] Lexington [illegible] Percy, two days later, General Gage in Boston found [illegible] by 13,000 men. The Revolutionary Epoch began.

JUNE MARRIAGE RECORD TIES ALL-TIME RECORD

Fifty-four Permits Granted Last Week of Month

The all time record for the number of marriage licenses issued in any one month was tied in June when an unusual number requested permits during the last week of the month. Fifty four licenses were issued, bringing the month's total to 149, the same number which was granted during June, 1928.

Number 150 would have been a welcome sight in the offices of the Clerk of the Circuit court last Saturday evening, according to A. G. Ross, deputy clerk. Sixteen of the licenses issued last week were granted on Saturday. Four licenses were marked "don't publish," while one applicant was refused a permit.

Myself---and Me

(With apologies to the author of "Der Kaiser")

We're rulers of "My Maryland,"
And all important things command;
Beside the kings we take our stand—
Myself—and Me.

We build the roads and bridges new;
We spend the cash for hullabaloo;
For toy balloons and silver, too—
Myself—and Me.

We ease along the power trust;
We help the racetracks raise the dust.
Such deeds we think are merely just—
Myself—and Me.

We stick together every day,
We are the same, in work, in play;
We love ourselves in every way—
Myself—and Me.

The critics howl and tear their hair
Because they think it isn't fair
That we don't split with them our share—
Myself—and Me.

Some think we'll never run again;
They think we fear the voters' ban,
But really they don't know their man—
Myself—and Me.

Next year we plan to try once more,
And hope to win the Eastern Shore
As others did in days of yore—
Myself—and Me.

No other man will dare to run
Once he has heard our opening gun,
Of candidates there'll be but one—
Myself—and Me.

We love the taste of public pay,
We love the oats, we love the hay,
We live in clover while we may—
Myself—and Me.

Now who would dare to raise a hand
Against us kings of Maryland?
We are the lads who have the sand—
Myself—and Me.

Some say we face the setting sun.
But that way lies dear Washington:
(If we get there we'll see great fun)—
Myself—and Me.

But if Dame Fate should call a halt,
And all our plans be found at fault,
While our ship sails the River Salt—
Oh, woe is We!

185 MILLIONS IN SURPLUS AT END OF YEAR

Secretary Mellon Makes Encouraging Report at Close of Business Last of June

Washington, D. C., June 30—The government finished its 1929 fiscal year tonight with a surplus of 185 million dollars and the public debt cut to less than 17 billion, the lowest point since the World War.

This showing was attributed, Secretary Mellon said, to the widespread prosperity of the nation.

Total receipts aggregated $4,033,000,000, and expenditures amounted to $3,848,000,000. The former were approximately 9 million less than collected last year. Expenditures increased 201 million over the previous year.

A gain in individual income tax receipts, due, the treasurer said, to general prosperity and more specifically to the exceedingly active and constantly rising securities market, saved the government from a deficit by increasing 220 million and swelling the total income tax collections to $2,330,000,000. The total exceeded the collections of 1928 by 156 million, but the amount received from corporations was lower than that of last year, because of a one percent decrease in the amount of the tax.

Customs duties yielded the government 602 million, an increase of 33 million over the previous year, but miscellaneous internal revenue receipts fell off 14 million to 607 million. The loss, the secretary said, was due mainly to the repeal of the automobile tax which deprived the treasury of 57 million. This amount, however, was almost made up by an increase of 40 million in the tobacco tax and an increase of 16 million in the stamp tax.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Spring lambs will soon be arriving on eastern markets, and no doubt many of them will be of undesirable market type.

There is one important factor to consider when growing lambs for market. First, who is the consumer and what kind of lambs will satisfy his demands. The principal consumer of lambs are folk who live in the large cities, and on an average they buy in small quantities and demand choice cuts from medium size carcasses and of good quality.

To meet these qualifications lambs should weigh from 75 to 85 pounds on the farm with a high degree of finish which is a good indication of quality.

Unthrifty, undocked and uncastrated lambs are undesirable and will find a poor market when they are sold.

If your lambs are stunted, and don't seem to be doing well, treat them for stomach worms. Give them a good pasture and you may expect improvement.

Sheep are attacked by the sheep bot fly, (also called nose fly) in the summer and causes much confusion in the flock. The bot fly deposits in the nostrils of the sheep living larvae which eram up the nasal passage and lodge in the cavities of the head. They cause irritation and a heavy flow of mucus. The full grown larvae is about three-quarters of an inch long and is often called "grub in the head."

Tar on the sheeps nose will keep the bot fly away.

An easy way to tar the sheep's nose is to put salt in two inch auger holes in a timber and place tar around the holes at the top. This way the sheep will tar themselves.

Start culling your poultry flock in July. All hens that have quit laying should be sent to the market.

A dairy herd improvement association or cow testing association is the foundation of any dairy community. It will not only increase profit per cow, but will increase value of cows in the association.

Anyone interested in organizing a cow testing association in Garrett county get in touch with the County Agent.

Experiment Station Bulletin Published

The results of a comprehensive study of the practices now used by Maryland growers of sweet corn and peas, together with recommendations for improved practices, are given in a new bulletin prepared by Dr. S. H. DeVault and W. P. Walker of the agricultural economics department, University of Maryland Experiment Station. The bulletin, which has nearly a hundred pages, is well illustrated and may be obtained free of charge from the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University by anyone who might desire a copy.

Production in Maryland as compared to other States, cost per acre, cost per ton, net crop income per acre, factors affecting the net cost per acre, price per ton, average yield per farm, cultivating practices, fertilizers and harvesting are all clearly explained in the bulletin through a complete set of graphs, maps and photographs of the larger producing areas of the State.

The bulletin should prove of inestimable aid to the grower since figures relative to the cost of production are given which have not been available before for the average producer. For example it was found that the cost per ton of growing sweet corn during the years 1925, 1926 and 1927 varied from $4.62 for some farms to $112.34 for others. It is also stated that the average price received per ton was $13.67 and only 49 per cent of the farms growing 51 per cent of the acreage in the State produced at a profit.

REPUBLICANS SELECT SIX TO HANDLE CENSUS

Galen L. Tait Makes Public List of Proposed Supervisors

The names of the six persons who will be recommended as the supervisors to have charge in Maryland when the national decennial census is taken next year were announced Tuesday, June 27, by Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. Recommendation is virtually equivalent to appointment.

The selection of the six was made by a group formed by Senator Goldsborough and consisting "of the active Republican leaders in the State," according to Mr. Tait.

Named By Leaders

Members of the group were:

Senator Goldsborough; William P. Jackson, Republican National committeeman for Maryland; Mrs. W. Bladen Lowndes, Republican National Committeewoman for Maryland; Mr. Tait; Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, Sixth district; Representative Linwood L. Clark, Second district; Mayor Broening.

The name of the proposed supervisor the first district is John J. Stumph, Cumberland, comprising Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties.

The action of the group in selecting the proposed supervisors was unanimous, it was announced. The actual appointment of the supervisors rests with the director of the census.

When officially appointed, each of the supervisors will in turn, "aided by responsible local leaders," select the enumerators who will take the census within their designated local territory. The date for starting the census will be May 1 of next year.

The following information concerning the proposed supervisors was made public with Mr. Tait's announcement:

Mr. Stumph has been for many years a leading Republican and citizen of Allegany county. He was three times elected a member of the Maryland Legislature from his county, and was a supervisor of the census in his district for the taking of the census in 1910.

Each of the supervisors will receive about $2,000 for his services.

FORD COMPANY SUGGESTS TWELVE RULES OF SAFETY

The Rules Are Merely Common Sense Applied to Driving

As a contribution towards greater safety and more pleasant driving conditions on the highways of the country this summer, the Ford Motor company has listed twelve rules as suggestions to motorists and has distributed them to dealers over the country.

Announcement of the suggestions was made today by County Commissioner Harvey Gortner, of the Motor Service company, Grantsville, who will display the list prominently in his place of business.

"These rules," said Mr. Gortner, "are merely common sense as applied to automobile driving. Every experienced motorist knows all of them. It is our hope, however, that by stating them concisely and posting them where they will come to the attention of a great many motorists, we can so emphasize them as to make a real contribution toward greater highway safety."

The twelve rules are:

1. Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others.
2. Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.
3. Learn the "feel" of having your car under control.
4. Obey all traffic and parking regulations.
5. Keep to the right and comply with road markings and signs.
6. Signal for stops and turns—watch the car ahead.
7. Slow down at crossings, schools, dangerous places.
8. Never pass cars on hills, curves, crossings.
9. Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.
10. It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously.
11. When you drive, remember the times when you're a pedestrian.
12. Know the law. It was passed for your protection.

"It is estimated that 20,000,000 persons will tour on American highways this summer, "Mr. Gortner continued. "Recognition of the rights of others will be essential. Many unpleasantries and accidents will be avoided if motorists, at times of close situations, will recall these rules and act accordingly. They are the recommendations of the Ford Motor Company offered to give greater peace of mind to those who travel by automobile."

Miss Mary Collins, Muncie, Ind., assisted by Miss Frances Robey of the Christian church, will have charge of the girls' Camp Gleam, a week filled with good wholesome study; sports of different kinds ,etc., just the place to come for a vacation, those in charge say.

To Open Dancing School.

Misses Mary and Charlotte Bolgiano, summer residents of Mt. Lake Park, will open a dancing school for children in Oakland during July and August. They will instruct in character, toe, Dennishawn and social dancing.

The instructors were under the supervision of Miss Estelle Dennis of Baltimore for the past three years and have been assisting her with the smaller children. Miss Dennis will be remembered as having opened a dancing school in Oakland three years ago. Since that time she has been connected with the Dennishawn dancing group.

Miss Mary Virginia Willison, who has been assisting Miss Dennis in Baltimore with piano accompaniment, will also assist the Misses Bolgiano. All those desiring to take lessons may do so by calling 32-R.

Union Church Services to Begin on Sunday

Union church services of all the Protestant churches of Oakland will begin at 8 o'clock Sunday evening in the M. E. church. This will be the first union meeting for this year and a large attendance is desired. The public is cordially invited to join in the service and is assured of a hearty welcome.

The following Sunday services will he held in the other Oakland churches:

The union meeting of the Young People's leagues of Oakland will be held in the M. E. church at 7 o'clock with Miss Geraldine Nordeck as leader.

K. of P. Installation to Be Held Tomorrow Evening

Installation of the officers of the Knights of Pythias lodge, which was to have been held last Friday, will he held tomorrow evening at Castle hall, it has been announced.

Transactions of other important business occupied last week's session. Officers to be installed are Edward P. Kahl, chancellor commander; Irvin R. Rudy, vice-chancellor; Olin Hardesty, prelate; Milburn W. Mann, master of work; Melvin Lee, master at arms; George Fulk, inner guard, and Paul Riley, outer guard.

Plans will be made soon for the annual K. of P. Labor Day picnic, to he held at Helbig's grove, on the north edge of town.

OWNERS OF FAULTY CARS WILL BE GIVEN PENALTY

Baughman says Defective Mechanism will Bring Punishment

Owners of automobiles whose defective mechanism is the cause of accidents will incur severe penalties for neglecting to have them properly inspected, the office of E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles announced.

The warning was issued after a few operators of inspection stations in the "Save-a-life" campaign had been detected in the act of selling windshield stickers to ear owners whose machines were not able to pass the inspection test without expensive repairs.

100 Marked Perfect

In one ease, it was said, over one hundred automobiles, some of rather mature vintage, were inspected in a day and marked "perfect." The price for stickers ranged from 50 cents to $1.

Authority to inspect cars has been taken from stations guilty of illegally passing machines, Mr. Baughman said.

Would Revoke Licenses

In addition to discontinuing the stations the department notified the owners of the garages that should a further investigation reveal that machines illegally passed upon had faulty mechanism their licenses would be revoked and the licenses of the owners of the individual cars discontinued.

The campaign opened June 15 and will continue until July 15. To date less than half of the 150,000 automobiles in the State have been inspected, the department reported.

THREE WOMEN INJURED IN THREE-CAR WRECK THE 4th

None Were Badly Hurt But Two of the Cars Were Smashed

Mrs. Arlo Anstead, Mrs. D. H. Wendell and the latter's daughter, all of Johnstown, Pa., suffered superficial wounds and bruises on the afternoon of the Fourth when their car, driven by Mrs. Anstead was one of the three wrecked on the Oakland-Accident highway at a point about two or three miles south of Accident.

The car occupied by the women occupied the central position in the accident when it was forced into a parked car on the highway by being struck by the automobile driven by Frank A. Carsten, of Brownsville, Pa. The parked car belonged to a youth of the town of Accident who was engaged in changing a tire near a curve in the road and was not seen by Mrs. Anstead until she was quite close. Applying the brakes she brought her vehicle under control, however, and being closely followed by the Carsten car a rear-end collision resulted which forced the central car into the parked vehicle, resulting in the almost complete wreckage of the two machines.

The injured women were brought to Oakland where they received surgical treatment at the hands of Dr. McComas and remained here a day or two as guests at the William-James Hotel.

Mr. Carsten was placed under arrest hy State Officer Currey and was fined for reckless driving. This action was followed by a civil suit being filed against him for damages.

Herd Improvement Association Completes Third Month

The Friendsville Herd Improvement association has successfully completed its third month of service to the farmers of Friendsville community.

Owners of the ten highest cows in butterfat production for the month of June are Glenn N. Pike, Newton Griffith, Ernest Houser and Wade Umbel. The winning cow produced 56.1 pounds of butter at during the month.

Indications point to still greater opportunities for service by the association as two more students of vocational agriculture have joined during the past month.

To Hold Lutheran Day at the Park, July 31

Lutheran Day at Mt. Lake Park will be held this year on July 31. Mrs. H. C. Bell, field secretary of the United Lutheran Missionary association, will be one of the speakers. Others will be announced later. Music will be furnished by the Boys' Band and the Keyser orchestra. A general social time will be had. Everybody is invited to bring their dinners and enjoy the day.

OVER MILLION IS SPENT FOR RAILROAD SIGNALS

B. and O. Has Completed Installation of New System

Installation of several hundred color-position signals has been completed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company between Cumberland and Parkersburg, W. Va., at a cost in excess of a million dollars.

"Absolutely fool proof" is the way the new signals are described by officials. They were developed over a course of twenty years of experimenting by F. B. Patenall, now deceased, one time signal engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio.

From Grafton to Parkersburg, a single track line on which twenty-five stations are located, approximately 200 signals were necessary. The cost on that division alone is said to have been close to $750,000. The first signal was installed December 1, 1928.

PEA CANNERY IS WORKING FULL TIME; CROP SMALL

Dry Weather in June Said to Be Cause of 50 Percent Yield

The crop of early peas, now being canned at the plant of the Mt. Airy Canning company, Loch Lynn, will be about 50 percent of last year's crop, Howard Reinhardt, manager, stated. This shortage in the crop is due to the hot and dry weather which prevailed throughout the greater part of June.

The late rains, however, give promise of a better crop of the late planting.

The canning company opened its season last Friday and has been operating day and night since that time in an effort to take care of the supply. Due to the smallness of the vine there is not enough moisture to keep the peas soft for any length of time after they are pulled up, it was stated, and the operation has been almost continuous in order that the peas will be in first class condition when canned. Approximately one hundred twenty-five men, women and boys are being employed.

Vindex Man Held For Liquor Manufacture

Richard Riggleman, Vindex, this county, was released in $1,500 bond when given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Thomas J. Anderson, Cumberland, Saturday morning, on charges of the manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor.

Riggleman was arrested Friday by Federal agents from the Cumberland prohibition office, accompanied by Constable David Clark and Deputy Game Warden George Williams, of Barton, and Deputy Sheriff Samuel Cole, of Kitzmiller, following a raid on a distilling operation on Backbone mountain. He was taken to Cumberland and lodged in the city police station. He entered a plea of guilty.

One 125-gallon still, 18 barrels containing 900 gallons of whiskey mash, 30 gallons of whiskey, and 250 pounds of brown sugar were seized.

TO SUPPLY GRANTSVILLE WITH NATURAL GAS LINE

Gas Company Given Franchise to Serve Town at Meeting of Town Council on Monday.

An ordinance granting the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company, Cumberland, a franchise to serve Grantsville with natural gas, was passed at a meeting of the City Council of Grantsville, held Monday evening. Rates acceptable to the prospective consumers of gas were approved by the council.

The gas will be piped from the State Line, two miles north of Grantsville, and will be available to all in the nearby vicinity. It was expected that work on the line would be started immediately. An oil line extending from the vicinity of Morgantown to a point beyond State Line, was recently purchased by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company, a subsidiary of the Columbia system, and the gas will be piped from it to Grantsville.

The council meeting was very enthusiastic as the prospects of natural gas to come so near Grantsville had not been realized till within the past week and the many conveniences and advantages of it will be appreciated by the consumers.

When this line is completed the Gas company will serve the following towns in Garrett county and their immediate vicinities:

Oakland, Mt. Lake Park, Deer Park, Loch Lynn, Hutton, Bloomington, Kitzmiller, Dodson, Gorman, and the vicinity on the Maryland side of the Potomac river opposite Bayard, W. Va.

W. B. BURRUSS TO GIVE IMPERSONATION JULY 29

Proceeds to Go for Benefit of Oakland Free Public Library

W. B. Burruss, inspirational sales counsellor, Washington, D. C., and summer resident of Oakland, will give an impersonation at the High school auditorium, Oakland, Monday evening, July 29, at 8 o'clock. The program is being sponsored by the Oakland Rotary club, and the proceeds will go for the benefit of the Oakland Free Public Library.

An admission of 50 cents will be charged. A musical program is also being arranged, according to R. R. Gilbert, a member of the Rotary club, the details of which will be announced later.

Mr. Burruss is well known as an extremely forceful speaker and impersonator, and an interesting time is promised to all who attend.

A Correction

It was stated last week that Clyde Breedlove was fined $2 and costs for not having his registration card, following an auto collision with Edwin Hamill, near town. This was erroneous. The accident was between Edwin Hamill, and R. E. L. Breedlove, father of Clyde Breedlove.

BAR ASSOCIATION ELECTS MATTHEWS AS PRESIDENT

Members of Organization to Observe Annual Vacation

At a meeting of the Garrett County Bar Association held on Friday last for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year, the following were chosen: President, Asa T. Matthews; vice-president, S. F. Hamill; secretary-treasurer, E. R. Jones.

It was also determined at this meeting that the annual vacation plan followed for a number of years past would be observed again this year by all the attorneys in Oakland. This provides for half-day closing of offices for a period of three weeks beginning on July 22 and extending to and including August 10. During this period business will be transacted as usual by the several attorneys during the morning hours but their offices will be closed during the afternoons.

TO HOLD EXAMINATIONS FOR FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

Competitors Will Meet at Oakland High School on July 20

Competitive examinations for free scholarships to a number of Maryland schools, will be held in Oakland High school building, Saturday, July 20, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, has announced.

Free and partial scholarships are available to Garrett county students in the following institutions: Maryland College for Women, Lutherville; Maryland Institute of Art and Design, Baltimore; St. John's College, Annapolis; Blue Ridge college, New Windsor; St. Mary's Seminary, St. Mary's City; probable partial scholarship in Western Maryland college, Westminster. There will also be a probable free scholarship available in Washington college, Chestertown, and will be given to the first to qualify. Awards of other scholarships which may arise from time to time will be made at the time of the examination, Mr. Rathbun stated.

Each applicant should be a four-year high school graduate or the equivalent and possess other necessary qualifications in order to enter a college. Those interested are requested to write to Mr. Rathbun, at his office at Oakland.

Epworth League Meetings Being Held at Mt. Lake Park

The Pittsburgh Conference, Epworth League, will close on Monday, after convening at Mt. Lake Park since Monday, and immediately thereafter the Baltimore Conference will begin its sessions, continuing until July 22.

Several hundred young people are in each group, and are yearly visitors at the Park. This year marks the twenty-second year for the Pittsburgh group, and the fourteenth year for the Baltimore contingent. The program consists of talks, study and recreation and is closed by a candle light service on Sunday evenings.

The annual camp meeting, which attracted hundreds of people to the Park, closed its sessions on Sunday night.

Geraldine Nordeck to Lead Young Peoples Meeting

Miss Geraldine Nordeck will lead the second meeting of the Oakland Young Peoples' league, to be held Sunday night at 7 p. m. at the Methodist church. The topic will be "What It Is For nnd Why." This will be a splendid meeting on Sabbath observance, and all are urged to attend. The meeting held last Sunday was well attended with about 40 present. All those who were there were much impressed with the talk given by Miss Beryl Davis. The league will hold a picnic tonight at Deep Creek Lake. The young people of Oakland are invited to attend. The group will leave from the Lutheran church at 7 o'clock.

To Have "Trip Around World" on Thursday, July 25

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold its "Trip around the World" on Thursday evening, July 25, beginning at 5 o'clock. The trip will include three stations, United States, China and Greenland, at the homes of Mrs. Walter W. Dawson, Mrs. Ed. Smouse and Mrs. Thane White. The trip will start from the church.

This will take the place of the annual supper, it was announced.

OVER HUNDRED ENROLLED IN DAILY BIBLE SCHOOL

School to Close Friday, July 19, with Special Service—Public Invited to Attend

The Daily Vacation Bible School opened in the Grammar school building, Oakland, Monday morning with an enrollment of 93, which has since been increased to 105. The school will continue until Friday, July 19.

Mrs. W. W. Grant is superintendent of the first three grades and Mrs. Delbert Davis has charge of the upper grades. Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Stanley Bond have the first grade; Mrs. Ralph Kercheval, second; Miss Esperance Ashby, third; Mrs. Hervey Smouse, fourth; Miss Virginia DeBerry, fifth; Miss Elizabeth Leary, assisted by Miss Martha Townsend, sixth; and Miss Nora Lantz, seventh.

A half hour devotional service including salutes, songs, scripture readings, memory work and a short story, is followed by a half hour study period, and this is followed by recess where supervised play is had on the playgrounds of the school for all children. This is followed by another half hour of study and handwork, and at 11 o'clock the boys of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades are taken to the High school building where O. T. Graser directs them in manual training. Each boy is given some project to complete. The main school is dismissed at 11:30.

Much interest and enthusiasm are being shown by the children and each day shows an increased enrollment. The school is being financed by a nominal fee of 25 cents per pupil, which is not strongly insisted upon.

A picnic is being planned by the management of the school, either Wednesday or Thursday afternoon of next week, and a committee is working to make this an enjoyable affair.

A closing day service is to be held Friday evening, July 19, when the children will sing the songs which they have learned, dramatize the Bible stories, and display the work they have accomplished during this period. The public is invited to attend this service and it is hoped that the community will show its interest in this work by coming out. The place of meeting will be announced next week.

DATE OF SCOUT BENEFIT MOVIE, FRIDAY, JULY 19

Tickets Will Be Good on That Night Instead of July 17

That the scout benefit picture would be shown at the Maryland theatre on Friday, July 19, instead of Wednesday, July 17, as previously stated, was announced by Mr. B. I. Gonder, manager of the theatre. The picture to be shown is considered one of the best of the year, and is entitled "Alexander the Great." There will also be a comedy, "Good Scout."

Tickets, that are now being sold by members of the Boy Scout troop carry the date of July 17, but these will be good on Friday, July 19, Mrs. Bernard Gonder, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, stated. The picture is for the purpose of raising funds for the summer outing of the Oakland Troop on Deep Creek Lake, which will start on July 29, and continue for two weeks. Regular prices will prevail and everyone is urged to attend and aid the Boy Scouts.

Twenty-One 4-H Girls In Camp At Algajoy

Twenty-one girls of Garrett county, the majority of them from Oakland, are enjoying a week's stay at Camp Algajoy, near Grantsville, which includes recreation and conferences in leadership.

Those attending from this county are Nina and Goldie Sweitzer, Swanton; Pearl and Vera Breedlove, Crellin; Frances Thrasher, Deer Park; and Alice Walter, Marie E. Helbig, Mary D. Helbig, Hasaleah Yutzy, Virginia Giessman, Mildred Stemple, Virginia Gilbert, Catherine Rice, Mary Lynn McIntire, Margaret Stanton, Helen Giessman, Martha Mitchell, Betty Naylor, Adeline Stuck, Annabelle Stemple and Betty Broadwater, Oakland.

July will be devoted to conferences for all leaders and club girls. Friday, July 12, will be visitors' day at which time a pageant will be staged by the club girls. This will be the fourth year that 4-H girls have camped at Algajoy. About seventy-five girls from Allegany county are also camping there at this time.

EDITOR RACKS BRAIN FOR NEWS WHEN THERE ISN'T ANY; FINDS BEDTIME STORY IN 'PHONE DIRECTORY

When Thursday morning comes along, and nothing has happened of great importance thorughout the county, and it is necessary for the paper to go to press just the same as it has done for 52 weeks each year for 52 or more years, and you can't fill up the front page with boiler-plate--then it's time for the editor to begin to think.

And in thinking over the people whom he might call for news he glances over the telephone directory and discovers a bedtime story tied up there for him, and all he has to do is to copy a lot of names out of the hook.

Parents are urged to tell this story only to babies between 6 months and 2 years of age, old men in their dotage, adolescent youths, or ones in love, as they are the most appreciative listeners.

Dear Children:

This is a story about a Little Brown Fox who for Weeks and Weeks had to live out West in Winters in order to Dodge Black Besse and Harsch Bowser. These two were trying to Ream this Little Fox and set a new Reckard, where hy Chance they could Show him the way into a Wooden Frame and Naylor for the Cook. But this fox being a little Leary, came to a Ford, crossed the Broadwater by aid of the Moon, and arrived in Moreland. While Thayer he thought he could Kope with most any Mann as he ate all the Oats from the Thrasher. Butt the Lohm was very poor and he fed on Burch and Mealy Murphys until they gave out; then he sank Lohr and Lower and Loar until he was on his Kneass. He couldn't even make Burruss in the White Cain Cropp and got a Callis from sitting on a Stone.

Then one day he saw a Newman coming toward him in a Casteel Carr. He was Forman for a Baker and Friend of the Constable. He took the Bill of a King Fisher and Stuck the Hart of the Little Fox. Not knowing where to Parker he put her on a Foglepole, tied a Bell around her neck and threw her into a Stahl in the Tower. He took the meat to a Miller and the hide to a Taylor, but not knowing how to cure it he let it Wilt. In this way the Little Fox sang his Swan song.

I'm only Lyon but if you don't like this Queer Little tale I'll tell you where to get Offutt.

Lesson for July 14

EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 33:1-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—Every one of us shall give an account of himself to God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ezekiel's Message of Warning.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Ezekiel's Message of Warning.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Does God Take Note of My Life?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Individual Accountability to God.

I. Ezekiel's Responsibility (vv. 1-9).

The commission of the prophet is now renewed. Hitherto his utterances were mainly of a threatening character, having as their objective the turning of the people from their wicked ways. They refused to heed the prophet's words, the result of which was the falling of God's judgment upon them in their complete captivity and the destruction of Jerusalem. When it became clear that the people would not heed God's warnings through the prophet, the prophet was to be silent—dumb. This tragic situation was portrayed through the death of Ezekiel's wife. Awful as this blow was, he was to desist from weeping, showing that even natural sorrow was not to be expressed at the time of God's awful judgment.

After the renewal of the prophet's commission, his messages were mainly consolatory. His responsibility is set forth under the figure of a watchman. God gave him this position. Every minister and Sunday School teacher is a watchman. Indeed, upon every believer has been imposed certain responsibilities. Two things are required of a watchman.

1. To hear the word at God's mouth (v. 7).

The source of the message of every minister and Sunday school teacher is God's Holy Word. As the prophet did not originate his message but received it at God's mouth, so should it be with every minister.

2. To sound the warning (v. 7).

After hearing God's message he was to proclaim it to the people. The watchman's duty is both to hear and to speak. The people are to be warned of the impending danger. Failure to sound the alarm makes the watchman guilty of the blood of the sinner (v. 8). After the warning the sinner carries his own guilt (v. 9).

II. God's Attitude Toward the Sinner (vv. 10, 11).

God had declared in His word that unfaithfulness on the part of His people would cause them to "perish among the heathen," to "pine away in their iniquity" (Lev. 26:38, 39).

In view of this pronouncement, some were disposed to say that their case was hopeless. To meet this attitude of despair, the prophet assured them that God had no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that his sincere desire was for the wicked to turn from his way and live. Regardless of what their past had been He assured them that the future was bright, but God's command and plea is, "Turn ye from your evil ways, for why will ye die, O house of Israel?"

III. The Sinner's Personal Responsibility (vv. 12-20).

God has created the members of the race as volitional beings, possessing freedom of choice. They have moral discernment, enabling them to distinguish between right and wrong. The following principles govern the sinner and the watchman:

1. Past righteousness will not avail for present sins (v. 12).

When a righteous man turns to do iniquity, his past seeming righteousness will be of no avail.

2. Past sins do not make impossible present acceptance with God (vv. 12-14).

By virtue of the law of habit, every sinful act makes it harder for the sinner to repent, but God's mercy and enabling grace are such that if the sinner repents, God will restore.

3. Restitution required (vv. 15, 16).

The proof of penitence is that so far as possible the sinner make amends for wrongs done. There is no merit in the act of restitution, but such act helps the individual to overcome his besetting sin.

4. God's ways are equal (vv. 17, 20).

God holds man responsible for his own deeds. The child is not condemned because of the deeds of its father. This does not do away with the law of heredity. Regardless of what one's past life has been, God's grace in Jesus Christ blots out his record and he stands accepted in the Beloved.

On the Job

While Moses was caring for the sheep God's great commission came to him. If God has any great thing for us to do, we need not fear that He will miss us because we are busy with our common tasks.

Belief in Jesus Christ

The condition of salvation is that kind of belief in Jesus Christ which authenticates itself in repentance for the past and in amendments of life for the future.—L. L. Noble.

A Real Testimonial

Scoop received a real testimonial in the mail last week and as this is from out of town, and also out of the state of Maryland, he feels that he is justified in printing it along with another local one he received on Tuesday. The one from out of the state was as follows:

Dear Scoop:

I have had the queerest sensations lately. I am hungry and can't eat. I have pains around my heart and stomach (gas pains maybe,) and at times I get careless, so careless that I don't mind having trains stop till I get across the track. The prize local testimonial was received from Grover "Monk" Stemple this week, who credits his entire recovery to reading The Republican. "The pain of fallen arches and flat feet was almost killing me," Monk wrote to Scoop. "Lumbago and chilblains were gradually wearing down my strong restitution. I had to get up night after night—to wind the cat and put out the clock; my false teeth were decaying, and I suffered untold agonies from midgetitis (unpleasant height), was always embarrassed by falling hair, and worst of all, had amnesia (loss of memory). As a plumber, I forgot my tools, until I began suffering with amnesia, and then I forgot to forget them.

"After enduring for seven years the pains that only a father in my run-down condition can know, a close friend advised reading The Republican. After digesting seven issues I felt better. I ordered more copies in advance and that was just one year ago. I am now entirely cured and will remain so as long as I read The Republican, which will be forever. # THE UNCONSIDERED ELEMENT

(© by D. J. Walsh)

"THE trouble with me," Edith Marks told herself as she went about her housework, "is that I'm not used to work and solitude. I'm like a butterfly, I want to look pretty and have a good time. But here . . ."

She let her gaze stray to the window to rest upon the drifts of snow piled up about the little house. A year before she had left her luxurious home in the East to come here as the bride of Billy Marks, a municipal doctor.

"Two years more before we leave here and Billy seeks a practice of his own," Edith mused. "I'll go crazy before then. If it hadn't been for Anna I'd have gone crazy before this."

Edith remembered her first letter home following her arrival at the village. "Well, here we are, Liz," she had written to her sister, "a million miles from nowhere after a wonderful honeymoon at Banff and other points west. And there's not even a railway here. We had to drive down from Cardurels, twenty miles away. And will be here for three years! But I'll never get lonesome so long as I have Billy."

But she had—so lonely at times she wept from longing. And there were no social events such as she had been accustomed to, which formerly had been the sole matter of her existence.

Suddenly as she stood there musing, the door was thrown open and Billy entered, stamping the snow from his overshoes and shaking it from his fur coat.

"'Lo, Honey," he greeted her, "How's tricks?"

"Fine," Edith lied. "Many patients today?"

"The stork and I had a busy day at Wilson's—twins. Two fine boys," Billy informed her as she placed his supper before him.

"Well, Edie, here it's winter again," he resumed after a pause. "I think we'll go skating this winter. Good exercise and lots of fun. And I'm going to buy a toboggan. There are some fine hills around here for sport like that, and we'll have a whale of a time. What did we do most of last winter?"

"Oh, played the gramophone and listened to the radio," Edith volunteered.

"And I listened to you sing," Billy added. "So I guess I had the worst of it. . . . Why, dear, what's the matter? Why the tears?"

Edith tried to stem her tears. She wanted to be brave. But they came in spite of her. Billy's words had brought the memory of her loneliness overwhelmingly upon her.

"Oh, Billy," she sobbed, wiping her cheeks, "can't we go to Cardurels for the winter? It's so—so lonely here when we're shut in by the snow."

Billy's arms were about her, comforting her, his brow puckered thoughtfully. This was the first intimation Edith had given him that she was not altogether happy.

"Why, dear," he explained, "I didn't know you felt like that about it. But I can't go to Cardurels for the winter. I'd be too far away from my patients. But you can spend the winter there if you like."

"It would be no better there without you," Edith objected. "But what a baby I am to be so silly."

"We'll talk it over," Billy stated gravely. "We'll find some way out. And by the way, I'm going to Cardurels tomorrow. Wouldn't you like to come?"

"I'd love to," Edith responded, attempting a smile.

So in the morning Edith and Billy prepared for their trip to Cardurels. Edith's spirits had risen at the contemplated journey, and they talked and laughed like two happy children as they drove off in Billy's cutter. But in Cardurels, at the sight of the people there and the things that were denied her, Edith's longings seized her anew. But she said nothing of it to Billy.

It was dark when they arrived home that night, but a light was burning in the house, which was strange.

They were met at the door by Anna's son.

"Mother broke her leg. She slipped on some ice," he informed Billy in his broken English. "You've got to come over right away."

Edith's face paled and she gave a little cry.

"Anna! My best friend!" she exclaimed. "Oh, poor soul! Billy, I'm going with you."

They found the old woman lying on her bed. Edith's heart was torn at the sight of her suffering.

"Oh, Billy, Billy, do something, quick!" she pleaded. "Oh, Anna, my poor dear. . . ."

Billy, quietly professional now, paid no heed to her hysterical pleadings as he busied himself over the injured woman. And Edith, grown silent, obeyed almost mechanically his terse commands as he enlisted her assistance in alleviating the pain of the suffering woman. It was the first time she had seen Billy in the course of his professional work; and while her heart was suffering with her friend, she watched in fascination his deft, sure fingers in their mission of healing. She was awed by the quickness with which he had the injured leg bandaged and the woman resting comfortably in her bed.

"How wonderful it is—to be able to do that," she breathed, her eyes bright with pride in his achievement. "You're sure she's all right?"

"I've done all I can tonight," Billy answered quietly. "I'll visit her again in the morning. Let's go home."

Edith stooped and pressed her lips against the woman's cheek as they turned to go.

"Ought we to leave her so soon?" she queried.

"We can do nothing more for her tonight," Billy replied gently. "And she'll rest better if she's left alone. Her son can care for any of her needs till morning."

Both remained strangely quiet throughout the journey home. Later, when they were preparing for bed, Billy took a slip of paper from his pocket and handed it to Edith.

"Here's a present for you, Edie," he told her. "I bought it for you when we were in Cardurels today."

Edith gazed at the paper with widening eyes.

"A railway ticket home!" she exclaimed. "Why, Billy—"

"This is no place for a girl that's been brought up to a life of luxury and ease," Billy responded gravely. "I've been a fool not to see that before. And I want you to be happy, dear."

Then suddenly Edith threw both arms around her husband's neck.

"Oh, Billy," she whispered softly. "I'm the one that's been such a little fool. And I was selfish. I've been thinking only of myself, while you have been helping others and doing so much good. I've wanted to be only a butterfly when I could help you so much in your work. So we'll get the money back for this ticket—and save it for the heir. It won't be so lonely when we have him to think of, will it? And we'll save the money from my ticket, too. . . ."

"Your ticket? What do you mean, Honey?"

"I bought one also when we were in Cardurels today. But I won't need either of them now."

Half of Free State Engaged in Farming

The Free State's census of production shows that more than half of its workers are engaged upon the land. Out of a total population of 2,971,992, there are 1,307,662 engaged in gainful occupations, and of these 672,129 are employed in agriculture. The Free State has a larger proportion of producers to population than Great Britain, but they fall far short in the more remunerative industrial occupations. Of the agricultural workers 121,957 are women. People employed in the professions number 55,441 and of these the majority, 29,505, are women. This result is arrived at by including the nuns in the convents and schools, of whom there are 9,209. There are 3,898 Catholic clergy in addition to 1,111 Christian Brothers and other monks and 2,558 clerical students. The census has dissipated the idea that the public service in the Free States is overstaffed. Including the army there are altogether 37,333 on the public pay sheets, or 28 per thousand as compared with 29 per thousand in Great Britain. Women are found in all occupations, except perhaps the building trade. There is even a woman chimney sweep; a woman manages a brewery and another a distillery.

Red Indian Recreations

The principal game among the southeastern Indians was one similar to lacrosse except that it was played with two rackets instead of one. Of wider popularity was the chunkey game, in which a stone roller or hoop of twisted withes was propelled along the ground and each player threw a stick to mark what he thought would be the hoop's resting place. In another sport men and women were opponents around a pole which they endeavored to strike with balls above a certain mark. The women's favorite game was dice made of cane or bits of wood, but this was considered beneath male dignity. A game like shinny was played by the Natchez boys, while in Virginia, and among the Creeks young men played a game similar to football with great enthusiasm. —Detroit News.

Circus City

Every day is circus day in Marakesh, the capital of southern Morocco, in which life goes on much as it did in the days of the Arabian Nights, according to a writer in the Living Age. The hard-packed, reddish soil is an arena for all the fakirs and entertainers of North Africa, for the city is still the guardian of the old caravan route from the desert's rim to the sea.

Acrobats, snake charmers, story tellers, musicians, and the rest, daily and nightly entertain travelers who are armed with wicked knives, and display every skin shade from the blondness of the Berber to the ebony of the pure negro.

Clay-Marshall Duel

Before the famous Humphrey Marshall became a United States senator, he was a member of the Kentucky legislature. At the time Henry Clay was speaker of the same body. Clay's initial act in the interest of protective tariff was to introduce a resolution that the legislature should wear only clothes of domestic manufacture.

Marshall and Clay crossed in debate on the subject, had an altercation and a duel with pistols was the result. Both were slightly wounded in the encounter on the "field of honor," but nothing more serious was the result.—Detroit News.

THE SCHOOLS REACH OUT BEYOND COMMENCEMENT

By GEORGE C. DORSCH
(Sunday Sun)

For generations, until very recently the graduates of the public schools of Baltimore each June were given saccharine advice by elderly orators, were ceremoniously presented diplomas and allowed to go their individual ways, which, in most instances, meant routes to work.

Except for their families or their friends, the majority of whom were uninfluential, the graduates were forced to find their own employment, frequently wandering from one industry to another, from office to store, before they found a vacancy. Often the prospective employers declined to add them to payrolls because of inadequacies unknown even to the applicant.

The same held true for the student seeking summer employment as a means to continuing his education and more important still for the child who, either because of economic reasons or the desire to leave school and start a career of his own, discontinued his education at an early date.

Thrown Into Chaos

There was no guiding hand in the school system to place him in a position, none to direct him into that channel where his qualifications would fit the job, none to coordinate his temperament and character with employment. He had been placed in school when very young, had followed through numbers of classes with varying degrees of diligence and concluding his education at a point selected by himself, his parents or guardians, left the orderly school behind and played with the chaos outside.

It was inevitable, therefore, that there should enter into the schools a system of counselors whose duty should be to watch the individual pupil, to study his eccentricities, his talent, his habits as far as ascertainable and his scholastic progress. Tables are kept indicating the mental and physical growth of the child each year and as he matures the counselors confer with him, seeking his viewpoint, learning his ambitions.

They indicate but never command the course the child should take, basing their action on the results of their study. In many instances they know the child with a greater preciseness than the parent, realizing his qualifications and his adaptability. They have reviewed his record for attendance and promptness, the state of his health and his mental qualifications learned from intelligence tests given periodically. They know whether the the child should continue his studies after he has reached the age required by law before he can enter the business world, but theirs is not a business of telling a student when he should stop or continue his scholastic labors. This is the prerogative of the parent only.

Bureau Created

Extension of the counsellor system was unavoidable. With the data before them the school authorities had to go forward or stand still. The result was the founding of a placement bureau last September, with Miss Leona C. Buchwald, supervisor of vocational and educational guidance, in charge. At the outset she summoned Miss Mildred Belt and Irwin D. Medinger, both versed in employment tactics, and appointed them placement counselors, new positions in the system of schools.

Theirs is the work of finding employment for the student graduating from school, leaving before he has completed his course or wishes employment during the Christmas, Easter and summer holidays. More important, they have the difficult task of placing the student where his qualifications will best meet the demands of the job and vice versa.

The bureau has no set rules. When organized its authorities decided to learn as they progressed in the new work and in the elasticity of their work has been much of its effectiveness.

Record Is Studied

The student, whether a graduate or one leaving school either permanently or for a short period, cannot apply directly to the bureau for position placement. The application has to be made to the student's school counselor, the person who has been in close contact with the student during his entire scholastic course. A record of the applicant's work at the school and other intimate details then are forwarded to the bureau which, using this record as a basis for action, gets busy.

Each application is an individual problem. The child must be placed correctly, since incorrect placement not only would be detrimental to the child but might result in disadvantages and reflection on the bureau itself. The child and the position are weighed carefully. Why send a girl who is fitted only fo ra clerkship to be a secretary to a busy physician?

Need For Diplomacy

The bureau quickly learned that diplomacy was a great requirement. There are few applicants who do not overestimate their qualifications, yet the bureau cannot be insulting. Parents frequently have decided on the type of work the child should enter before application is made, although the bureau knows the child never can be able to enter such work. Parents frequently are unacquainted with the child's efficiency and ability. In some instances the individual tendencies of the child, his preferences, have been vetoed by the parents and usually with dire results.

Many girls, for instance, unfitted for other kinds of work, look with disdain on positions as saleswomen and frequently are supported by parents whose action is prompted by pride only. Incidentally, the bureau has learned that only a small percentage of the children who leave school early do so for economic reasons. Rather, it has been discovered that parents are making many sacrifices to keep their children in classes, even though some of them would be better out of school when they reach the age of fourteen years, the age when they can seek work legally. Further education is useless where the mental equipment of the child does not permit it to go further. Yet many parents do not realize this and continue through pride their children in school, when they could add to the family exchequer and aid themselves at the same time.

Young Girls Problem

Young girls leaving the junior high schools also are a problem. Often they are placed in factories or in stores. Their progress is watched and carefully tabulated and, should the occasion arise and their advancement permit, better positions are found for them. The placement counselors do not encourage such young children to stop school and begin work. Usually, they advise the applicant to continue his studies if family finances permit. There have been students who, heeding their advice, have returned to their studies after a few months in a factory, a store or office.

A complete card index record is kept of each applicant from the time he applies for work. The bureau keeps in touch with employers, requesting them to send in periodical reports on the employe furnished by the bureau. There are some students who graduate or quit school whose record cannot be followed. These are the boys and girls who find positions without consulting the bureau or who, after the bureau has located them in positions, slip out of sight and never again communicate with the bureau.

Personal Appearance

The personal appearance of applicants is another problem confronting the bureau. The counselors cannot be rude and suggest cleanliness, care in selecting and wearing clothes, dropping cosmetics. Yet they know that appearance often is a handicap to applicants despite their qualifications. Some employers want both ornaments and ability combined; others prefer the plainer type, while the majority seek brains, ability plus neatness and a businesslike appearance.

Recently an employer called on Miss Belt for a girl of particular brightness, outlining what was to be expected of the potential employe. At the time Miss Belt had two girls on her list who would fill the bill. One was magnetic, good looking, and modern. This girl was sent to the employer who communicated with Miss Belt after his interview with the girl and suggested that another girl be sent to him for another interview. The second girl, equally intelligent and studious, but unattractive in appearance, the proverbial old-maid type before her time, was sent. In a few days the employer informed Miss Belt the first girl had been employed by him. Another position equally important and paying a like salary was found for the second girl with an employer who was seeking one of her type.

Placed In Factory

There was another girl whose school record was low; yet she insisted on a certain type of position when she should have sought employment in a factory, the level of her intelligence. She was placed in a shop as a saleswoman. Her record was watched closely. She failed as a saleswoman and in corresponding positions. Eventually, she took the factory employment in which the bureau initially had wished to place her. She is happy and the employer has reported her work and progress satisfactory.

The placement of boys is easier than girls, for there is a brisk demand for male stenographers, clerks, office boys, and the like, although here, too, appearance is an important factor. One high official in a large industrial plant recently called on the bureau for an office boy between 14 and 16 years old. Boy after boy was sent to him, boys of intelligence, initiative, cleverness; boys the bureau knew would fit in and be satisfactory to the official. The bureau eventually learned this particular employer wanted a Beau Brummel in his office rather than a worker. He, seeking an ornament instead of knowledge and industry, eventually started his own search, telling the bureau that somewhere in Baltimore was the boy who would meet his requirements. All employers are not like this man.

Variety Of Work

There are requirements for boys to deliver packages during the Easter and Christmas vacations, boys for work at the postoffice during the holiday seasons, boys to do odd jobs between the hours schools close and dinner time, boys to do this and do that. There have been few calls on the bureau by boys attending the vocational schools. Their technical knowledge not only is an asset but creates a demand for them. They are wanted in automobile and other kinds of shops and at industrial plants.

Inquiries as to the economic reason for boys, as well as girls, leaving school, the counselors dismissed with a wave of the hand. The boy usually leaves school, they said, because of a particular interest in a certain kind of work, because he wishes to become independent at an early age or has become disinterested in his studies, this leading him to believe there is nothing to be gained by further attendance at school.

Many Graduates Aided

Many of the graduates this year have called on the bureau, but some located positions independently or through friends. A number in both groups wish to continue through college and must earn sufficient during the summer months to defray the cost of higher learning during the winter.

The Placement Bureau will have an effect eventually on the curriculum of the school system. By following closely the careers of the students placed, by watching the different subjects they will be called on to use in employment, by investigating the requirements of employers in every field, the school authorities will be able to learn what subjects should be dropped and what subjects should be added to meet the outside demand.

LEGAL REFORM

With dozens of volumes more laws already, than the government can keep track of (according to legal authorities generally)—

With hundreds—maybe thousands—of old laws, still unrepealed, that not even the wisest lawyer knows of, except as he may happen on one of them accidentally, like a geologist stumbling on a new kind of a fossil (according to Chairman Roy G. Fitzgerald of the house of representatives' committee on legal revision)—

With any law, once passed, virtually impossible of repeal, though about half of them ought to be repealed (according to Congressman John N. Garner, leader of the minority in the representatives' chamber)—

America continues to pass additional laws faster than any other "five of the world's leading countries put together" (according to General Counsel James A. Emery of the National Association of Manufacturers, who considers so many laws an unmitigated nuisance).

America is at an advantage over the rest of the world in the matter of legislative record breaking because of the co-operation between congress and all the 48 states' respective law-making bodies.

Counsellor Emery puts their average biennial output at something over 12,000 statutes.

However, nobody can make even a good guess at the size of the entire accumulation of new and old ones—heaven only knows how many of the latter are lying dormant.

"Dormant" is right; they are not dead. Every now and then some slick lawyer digs up one of these ancient enactments to spring on his rival unexpectedly and throw him into disorder. It usually does so—just as an arrow through his vitals would disconcert a modern soldier.

Quite a noteworthy instance of this was brought to congress' attention a few years ago by the late Colonel James B. Ownbey, Colorado mining engineer.

A pre-revolutionary law of the type referred to above—it was known as the "Custom of London"—had been utilized against him in the Delaware courts some time previously at a cost to the colonel in excess of a million, and he resented it bitterly.

In due course the lawyer, who had played the trick on him was appointed to the United States supreme court and the colonel hastened to Washington to fight his confirmation by the senate.

He lost, the senators deeming it legal fair play; but they did agree that such laws ought not to be left unrepealed on the statute books.

In fact, the scandalized Delaware legislature already had repealed the "Custom of London"—repeal does occasionally follow, after the damage has been done—and tried to do it retrocatively, but the supreme court vetoed that.

Of course all this case proves is that such legal confusion is dangerous—sometimes even sideswiping a pretty influential individual, like Colonel Ownbey, who is overheard when he howls about it.

Incidentally, some members of congress insist that it breeds disrespect of law—so much complained of recently.

Congressman Fitzgerald of the representatives' legal revision committee adds that many laws are hazy; that they conflict; that one law often enables a person to evade another law; that there are laws which nobody can find, as well as laws which nobody ever heard of; that the whole situation is n terrible hodge-podge.

It seems like a good proposition for President Hoover's law enforcement commission to tackle—how can laws be enforced which are so muddled

The difficulty is that the presidential commission is too temporary.

Congressman Fitzgerald says the adequate legal reform is a job for several successive lifetimes.

GETTING AND GIVING

John D. Rockefeller, the only man in the world who ever gave away a half a billion dollars, was 90 years old on July 8.

His creed has been announced as "Get all you can, keep all you can, give away all you can." When he was 14 years of age he went out in the world to earn his living as a clerk in a commission house, and a record kept at that time shows that he earned $50.00 for three months work. A year later his salary was $500 a year, and even at thnt time he was saving all he could in small amounts to various enterprises, principally to aid some branch of the church activities. Ten cents to foreign missions, a small contribution here and there, gradually increasing the amount as his resources permitted. Thus begun the man who has given away more money than any but a half a dozen men in all history ever possessed.

The Rockefeller fortune ceases to be news. A decade or so ago all the yellow journals and still "yellower" feature writers were condemning the great Rockefeller wealth, and if we remember correctly the Baptist church refused a contribution because the "money was tainted." But times have changed. As this man, the greatest giver of money of all ages, turns the 90 mark, his past gifts stirs the imagination and we remember that his gifts are responsible for:

Breeding places for disease and pest spots being cleaned up and made healthy.

The sick in hospitals being given aid and comfort that they could not have otherwise received.

Age-old maladies that have long defied the skill and knowledge of famed scientists are being conquered, and health organizations functioning all over the world, seeking to make it a better and more comfortable place in which to live.

Sufferers from earthquakes, floods, disasters of every description, without regard to color or creed, whether Catholic or Protestant, whether Christian or Pagan have been relieved by gifts out of the funds accumulated by this money making genius.

The world is better for his having lived.

SELL GARRETT COUNTY

Garrett county is full of opportunities. "Acres of Diamonds" are ours for the taking. But, like all good things of life, effort is a prerequisite to accomplished desires.

Selling Garrett county should not be regarded simply as a side issue, or a mere effort to win the popular approval of our neighbors and friends, but rather as a duty owing to the county and community in which we live and from which we derive protection and comfort. The development of the Deep Creek section has gone a long way toward directing attention to the possibilities that lie in the development of the natural endowment of western Maryland. There are many spots in this county, which with proper and intelligent effort, can be made the Mecca of those who recognize the efficiency of the great out-doors as a sedative to tired nerves and relief from the humdrum existence of every day life. It is because more and more a fixed habit of our people to take the opportunity which a vacation time affords them to see what God, in His lavishness, has builded for their enjoyment. But it is only by the combined efforts and coordination of service and civic clubs, bankers, editors, ministers—in fact every man and woman irrespective of their station in life—that the tourist public can be induced to visit Garrett county. Each of us must be willing to invest more of our energy, time and money in selling our county to the outside world. It will repay us many fold.

WHAT NEWSPAPER ADS DID—

It was only a few years ago that the retail stores in towns and the smaller cities did the bulk of their week's business on Saturday. While the other five business days might have paid expenses the merchant depended upon the Saturday sales for the major portion of his week's profit. Needless to say the average merchant would have been exempt from excess profits taxes in those days.

The newspaper is given credit for discovering the possibility of scattering the Snturday peak load over the six business days of the week and it was the newspaper advertising which has achieved the present more equitable distribution of the week's business. Saturday is still the merchant's busy day, but now he is only a little less busy on the preceding five days.

This is only one of the many services performed for business by newspaper advertising. It is irrefutable that a great part of the increase in business experienced by the retail stores generally in recent years has been created by newspaper advertising. Newspaper advertising has been the "Aladdin's Lamp" of the retail merchant. He should never be afraid to "rub it" a little. The results will surprise him.

NO RUSH IS PREDICTED FOR NEW BANK CURRENCY

U. S. Government Hopes New Bills Will End Counterfeiting

Although smaller-sized paper money was available to the public when the banks and trust companies opened for business yesterday morning, officials of financial institutions said they did not expect a rush for the new style of currency. It will replace that issued by the United States Treasury since 1861.

The bank officials based their opinion on two points. First, that money is money, whether large or small, and, second, that many persons handling paper money never visit a bank. The greatest business, they said, is expected from those persons who will consider the new notes a fad. Because of this they believed there will be enough of the new currency to meet the demand.

Was Issued Wednesday

The banks will not confer the exchange to depositors or others doing regular business with them, it was said. Banks, officials explained, are business houses and all persons entering them would be treated alike.

The money will be distributed to the commercial banks by the Federal Reserve banks. The new currency was issued July 10 as of July 10, thereby making it possible to put it into immediate circulation.

New And Old Size

The present size of bills is seven and seven-sixteenths hy three and one-eighth inches. The new bills are five and five-sixth inches by two and eleven-sixteenth inches. This new size has created a demand at leather goods and department stores for bill folds of a smaller size. Many of these have been put on the market in anticipation of Wednesday's issue.

The same back design will be used for all denominations of the new bills. The outstanding feature of each denomination will be the portrait carried on the front. Washington's portrait will appear on the $1 bill; Jefferson's on the $2 bill; Lincoln's on the $5 bill; Hamilton's on the $10 bill; Jackson's on the $20 bill; Grant's on the $50 bill; Franklin's on the $100 bill; McKinley's on the $500 bill; Cleveland's on the $1,000 bill; Madison's on the $5,000 bill and Chase's on the $10,000.

May Stop Counterfeiting

By the plan of portraits and by a new system of distributing the silk threads in the texture of the bill the Government hopes to defeat counterfeiters. The new bills, it was said, will be particularly difficult to copy.

The Government also expects to save approximately $1,500,000 by the change to a smaller size bill.

1,900 PASS TESTS AT FORT EUSTIS C. M. T. CAMP

Three go from Oakland—Physical Examiners are Strict

Approximately 1,900 young men were accepted in the Citizens' Military training camp, which opened at Fort Eustis, Va., on Saturday, three of them being from Oakland: Ronald Lohr, Waller Hoye, and Andrew Gonder.

They will undergo a month's training in military tactics, and learn the duties of citizenship as well as having plenty of time for athletic activities and out-of-doors recreation. All necessary expenses are paid by the government.

Trains and busses arrived at Lee Hall, Va., throughout Saturday faster than their occupants could be "processed," and the line of applicants increased with the hours of the day.

Examining Officers Strict

Examining medical officers were exceptionally keen and particular this year, and some of the minor physical defects that might have been overlooked in a more cursory examination caused rejections. The applicants for Fort Eustis were from Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia and parts of Pennsylvania.

Prepared to Crochet

Many of the men brought musical instruments, ranging from the harmonica to saxophones. Athletes brought loads of equipment. In some of the bags were such articles as crochet needles and mouse traps.

The boys will be discharged on August 4.

Birthday Party Tendered to "Sunrise" Holly at Deer Park

Frank "Sunrise" Holly, well known good-will ambassndor from Long Island to the rest of the world and vice-president of the Long Island Chamber of Commerce, was tendered an imposing birthday dinner and dance at one of America's most famous mountain resorts, the Deer Park Hotel, Deer Park, Maryland. "Sunrise" is on one of his trips through new country and several states broadcasting the wonders of Long Island and the Sunrise Trails. The reception given was unexpected as it leaked out among the guests that the day, July 9, was another birthday. A committee, representing several states, planned the affair and "Sunrise," in one of his happiest moods, responded in his usual manner and also sang "Somewhere Along the Sunrise Trails." The ladies of the committee scoured the mountain villages selecting souvenirs and decorations for the occasion and a cake with the customary number of candles was burned altogether and was one of the hotel's most interesting affairs.

The hotel is under the management of Hugh J. Flynn, one of New York's and Florida's well known bonifaces.

MARRIED.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Eula Genevieve Mack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Mack, of Ssioeton, Wisconsin, to Rev. Loyal T. Riley, of Oakland, on Wednesday, July 3. Rev. Riley was ordained as a minister of the gospel at the meeting of the Lutheran Synod of West Virginia, held in Oakland the latter part of May, following his graduation from Gettysburg Theological seminary. The couple will make their home in Millersburg, Ind.

Custer-Martin—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Willard Rebecca Martin, youngest daughter of Matthew Martin, Sr., of Gilmore, and Lester Olin Custer, of Jennings, this county, which was solemnized at the parsonage of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Onkland, on April 26, Rev. Charles A. Shilke, performing the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Central High school, Lonaconing, class of 1926, and was also graduated from the Maryland State Normal school, Frostburg, in the class of 1928. Since her graduation she has been teaching school in this county. The groom is employed by Guy Stanton, in Grantsville.

VERTEBRAE DISLOCATED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH.

Mrs. C. N. Gaston, Fairmont, W. Va., is at the Hotel Gunter, Frostburg, recuperating from an automobile accident in which every vertebrae in her back was thrown out of place. The accident occurred on the National Road, several miles west of Frostburg in Garrett county Thursday morning, when her husband, who fell asleep at the wheel crashed into the bank at the side of the road. She was lying on the seat with her head in his lap and when the crash came points of the back were dislocated.

She was taken to the Hotel Gunter and a nurse and physician were summoned.

Dr. Robert L. Byrd, chiropractor, after working all day Thursday and Friday morning was successful in replacing the points. Her condition is now past the serious stage.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston were en route from Fairmont to Cumberland to visit friends over the Fourth.

COUNTY AGENTS COLUMN

The last two weeks in July, August and the first two weeks in September is the best time of the year to select your breeding hens from your poultry flock. The lower producers will stop laying by the middle of September and the best hens will be going right along. The good hen will look rather ragged because of their old weathered feathers and their shanks will be faded (almost white), which is an indication they have produced heavy.

Select your breeding stock for your poultry with care as you would your livestock and you will receive more profit per hen.

Dairy heifers that will freshen this fall should have some grain in addition to pasture during July and August. It is important that heifers havo their full growth by the time they freshen so that they will be ready for motherhood and the production of milk.

The Pleasant Valley Grange will meet Thursday, July 18th at 8:00 p. m. A short business meeting, followed by open Lecture Hour, after which refreshments will be served.

Fritz, a Good Matchmaker

By LEETE STONE

(Copyright.)

ON EITHER side of the four downward steps that led to Fritz' Greenwich Village bookshop were rainstreaked stands stacked with dusty books, magazines and mid-Victorian color prints.

A bell jingled when the rickety black door creaked inward, disclosing a deep rectangle of twilight dim obscurity.

This was a dark, mansolean room with all manner of books grotesquely piled, tumbled and shelved in every conceivable crevice of space.

Gaunt, gray-bearded Fritz was monarch of all these forgotten relics of faded inspiration. For years he had lived, and had saved enough to buy a tenement from the earnings of this literary tomb.

Annette Abbey lived in Greenwich Village; but she was not of it. She had drawn a French mother's humor from a shaken hat of traits; with the other childish hand she had snatched n British father's mental poise nnd fibre.

One day Annette essayed the forbidding door of Fritz; entered the dim room where Weed nnd Greeley must have browsed in ante-bellum days, heaving in her graceful hand a slim, lavender-hued volume.

Fritz was thoughtfully masticating his noon hour cheese and onion sandwich, reclining in a chair that once, perhaps, had rocked, eyes upwardly inclined, earnestly admiring a hanging fringe of cobwebs that valanced his highest shelf of musty, black-bound sermons.

"Something from the stand, Fraulein, nicht war?" Motionless, he barely glanced nt the girl. His voice seemed ambiguous and old, like the titles on his shelves.

"My book of poems!" She smiled in friendliness and extended fifteen cents.

"Ach, so?" Fritz laid aside his sandwich and leaned a little forward. "Fraulein will then take her poems as a little gift from Fritz."

Thus started the friendship of Fritz and Annette. A certain day she stopped in to cheer the old dealer with a sparkling, funny anecdote about a village character. They laughed together. Footsteps approached from in front.

An extremely serious-faced young man found the rim of dull light; Fritz' sanctum. He balanced a book on his palm.

"I found this on the fifty-cent counter," he said, scarcely above a whisper, as one making a confession. "It's my novel and I hate its being homeless. I'm a trifle short today. Will you trust me for the change?"

With a merry, rising inflection, Annette contributed:

"Just how I felt about my silly old poems; but you're way over me; I found my book on the fifteen-cent stand."

The youth faced her with a boyish, hesitant smile.

"Are you kidding me or d'you mean it?"

Fritz cleared his throat with a great guttural rasp and reached for the long-stemmed cherrywood pipe with the carved bowl.

"Mein jung Herr, Fritz with pleasure would have you the book accept. So it happened with this always smiling little Fraulein. Your friendship, both of you, I ask. I am much alone. Come often and our Fraulein will teach us laughter."

The two young people strolled between the books and out in animated conversation. Fritz' bearded chin sank into a time-yellowed celluloid collar and his eyes gently closed in benign reverie.

Time fostered rare companionship between the two young writers and the old bookman. Once a week at midday Gerald Brereton and Annette would penetrate the murky silences of Fritz' corner, bringing a brown-paper bag stuffed with delicatessen delicacies.

All three proceeded, between bites, to reconstruct the world of letters nearer to their heart's desire. Often Fritz would tell tales of his student life at Heidelburg, fighting over again the duel that had left a livid, crooked cheek-scar, nearly buried by the beard. Benign Fritz; laughing Annette, and the so serious Gerald!

Later Gerald informed Annette that he would renounce back writing and free lancing in favor of a forty-a-week job in a bank if she would do him the honor to marry him.

"Good old Sobersides, of course, I'll marry you. I love you! But you mustn't give up writing. Let's wait until we make enough to marry by our writing. Won't be long! Or—Gerald! Let's go talk to Fritz. He'll know!"

"Want to be married, Fritz; but we're too poor!" Both, chorused, standing before the old German.

"Ach, so. I knew. I knew," mused Fritz, eyeing the red-bellied stove. "You must write anodder novel. Waving a pipestem at Gerald, "togedder you must write. You must give it dreams and daring, and you," a wistful glance at Annette, "you must give it the lilt and laughter of your eyes."

The two held hands in silence, like two school children.

"It iss an order! A command! I, Fritz, will dis novel publish." Thumb and forefinger fished for and found a crisp, crackling note. "Here iss money—gewiss! Ein tausend tollar! First royalties!"

MARRIAGE BUREAU KEPT BUSY ISSUING LICENSES

Forty-two Applications Are Granted During Past Week

Forty-two marriage licenses were issued during the past week ending Monday at noon, the largest number of permits to be granted during any one week for more than six months. This increase was due, it was stated, to the periods preceding and following Fourth of July, which is a national holiday.

Only two permits were granted on July fourth, but 10 were granted on the third, 9 on the fifth, and 10 on the sixth. The total for the month of July thus far is 45, and if the present rate continues, A. G. Ross, deputy clerk, Circuit court, stated that last year's record for the month would be bettered. Last year for July there were 108 permits granted. The record for July is 115, made in 1926. Seven licenses issued were marked "don't publish," while two applicants were refused permits.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Experimental Plots Seen by Potato Growers

Farmers who attended the annual Worcester county potato tour in that county on June 21, among other things, were given the opportunity to see the results of demonstrations and experiments which have been carried on there for a number of years. One of the more important of these demonstrations, according to Dr. R. A. Jehle ,pathologist for the University of Maryland Extension Service, was the seed source plots where, after experimentation for three or four years it was found that northern grown seed gave the largest yield; mountain grown seed largest, and fall grown seed the smallest yield. However, the yield from one kind of fall grown seed was approximately the same as the yield from one of the northern seeds. The difference in yield from various individual growers in the same locality was as great or greater than the average difference in yield obtained in seed from different sources. These results indicate that the methods employed in the production of potato seed stock are more important factors in influencing yields than the locality in which the seed is grown.

The tourists were also able to inspect the plots where certified and uncertified seed were planted. The results of these plantings for the last five years showed the average yield for certified seed to be 143.2 bushels per acre while for uncertified it was only 123.8 bushels. In the majority of the tests it was found that the seed which came up and matured the earliest gave the largest yield. The smallest yields were obtained from plots with the largest number of missing, weak and diseased plants.

Awarded Vail Medals And $250 Cash Each

Top: Mrs. Mabel Hite and Mrs. Althea P. Marks. Bottom: Miss Anna C. Yurecsko and Olin Etheridge Perdue.

Three Women And Man Given Silver Medals

Noteworthy public service brings its own reward. Silver Vail medals accompanied by $250 cash each have just been awarded Mrs. Mabel Hite, agent, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, Potter, Nebr.; Olin Etheridge Perdue, lineman American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Atlanta, Georgia; Mrs. Althea P. Marks, agent, The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, Saticoy, Calif.; and Anna C. Yurecsko, night operator, New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, Rockaway, N. J.

Mrs. Hite, according to the pilot of a mail plane, undoubtedly saved him from a fatal crash while flying in a blinding snowstorm. While working at her switchboard she heard the plane flying in circles above the town and arranged for flares so that he could make a safe landing.

While two linemen were crossing a bridge over a flood-swollen river one of them encumbered with a heavy tool belt and climbers, fell into the flooded stream. Perdue, the man's companion, although a poor swimmer dived into the river, grasped his fellow workman, brought him ashore and applied artificial respiration until normal breathing was restored.

With the breaking of the St. Francis Dam, which flooded the entire Santa Clara River Valley, Mrs. Marks remained at her switchboard, warning residents of the community of the impending danger from the raging waters.

Miss Yurecsko learning of an automobile accident in which a car had crashed over a railroad bridge and fallen onto the tracks, called a train dispatcher asking him to stop a train due in a few minutes. This he did, undoubtedly avoiding a most serious accident.

TELEPHONE COMPANIES HEALTH COURSE INCREASES EFFICIENCY

Classes Learn Simple Rules of Hygiene Including Diet, Dress, Rest, Recreation, First Aid and Nursing

The general health course for women conducted by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia has benefited 2,600 employees who have received certificates of graduation. As a result these young women get added comfort and joy out of the mere fact of living; the telephone company gets increased efficiency through a better, healthier and happier personnel; and the public gets better telephone service.

"This is merely one of the opportunities for benefit offered the employees of the telephone companies," says Dr. William Cabell Moore, Medical Director of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone System. "There is no other commercial company that I know of employing such a large number of people which looks out so well for its employees, not only in matters pertaining to health but also in many other important details of life. The health course gives the employees an opportunity to learn the simple rules of hygiene and health pertaining to diet, dress, rest, recreation, personal hygiene, first aid and home nursing."

Health course classes which have been in progress since the early part of 1926 are taught by qualified instructors, selected and given special training in this work. The telephone companies provide without cost to those taking the course the necessary facilities, rooms, study books and other accessories, the only requirement for the young women being that they take the course of instructions on their own time. The class meets one hour each week for fifteen weeks, which allows sufficient hours for study, instruction and recreation.

In planning the health course it was the companies' idea to present the young women with an opportunity to improve their health. This objective has been reached to a much greater exteat than was at first expected. The

KEEPING BABY WELL IN HOT WEATHER IS BIG JOB

Diet Is One of First Essentials In Taking Care of Baby

Here are some suggestions in regard to the hot weather care of the baby, from Dr. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health.

"The grown-up who is wise," Dr. Knox said, "dresses according to the weather—much less heavily when the days are hot and muggy, than when the air is crisp and cool. He keeps out of the hot sun, does not exercise vigorously; radically reduces his diet, eats less meat and fatty foods, more fruit and green vegetables and drinks plenty of water. The same rule holds good for the baby, but the baby is entirely dependent upon his caretakers. He is at their mercy and if they do not treat him wisely as they treat themselves, in hot weather, he suffers accordingly.

"Some of the essentials in the hot weather care of the baby are: First, diet. Mother's milk is the best and safest food for a young baby. Even this must not be given too often, or in unlimited quantities. A baby should not be nursed when what he really wants is water. The safest plan is to nurse the baby every four hours; for example at 6:00 a. m.; 10:00 a. m; 2:00 p. m.; and if necessary once during the night. Offer him cooled, boiled water three or four times a day between the regular feedings.

"If the baby must be bottle fed, use clean cow's milk, modified under your doctor's direction. Bring the mixture to a boil and then cool rapidly before feeding the baby. Germs develop rapidly in milk during the warm weather. It is important therefore, that special care be taken by every one handling milk, from the stable to the table, that everything be clean, beginning with the hands of the milkers, and including all the utensils, and that the milk be kept as cool as possible until it is used. It is often wise in extremely hot weather to remove most of the cream from the milk before using it in the preparation of the baby's mixture. If the baby does not take all of the feeding offered, throw away the balance and do not give another until the regular feeding time.

"The common house fly is one of the most frequent carriers of infection. Flies should therefore be kept away from a young baby—from its face, hands, mouth, milk bottle—with as much care as you would take in protecting it from the plague.

"As to clothing—the baby or young child should be dressed according to the temperature and not according to the season—with very little on, on hot days, but with a dress or light blanket at hand to be put on if there is a sudden fall in the temperature.

"Young babies should be under the supervision of the family doctor at all seasons but this is especially true during the hot weather. The doctor should be notified promptly when there is even only a slight indication of an unfavorable condition."

Suggestions for Summer Menus

Hot weather and fuss appetites usually go hand in hand. The problem, therefore, of serving enticing food in an appetizing way to one's family becomes doubly important on warm summer days.

First and foremost, simplicity in serving, and in the menu as well, should be the keynote of summer meal planning. Simple, well-balanced meals served amidst attractive surroundings will invariably prove to be tempting, Small, yet dainty servings of food also prove far more inviting than do servings of larger quantities.

Immaculate table linen is a necessity. At the same time, however, the laundry work should be reduced to a minimum. Therefore, many housewives are now using linen runners and doilies for the informal service of all the day's meals.

When planning the hot weather menu, a few simple rules should always be observed. Never serve meat more than twice a day. Plan to use a variety of fruits and vegetables; at least two fruits and two vegetables should be included in each day's menu. Pastries and heavy desserts of all kinds are eliminated as much as possible.

Salads are extensively used in all summer menus, and new ideas for these salads seem to be always welcome. Recently a friend told me that she served "ice-box salad" very frequently. A few questions as to her recipe for this salad revealed the fact that her salads were made of whatever choice tidbits of greens, vegetables or fruits her refrigerator might happen to contain.

Among the possibilities of hot weather beverages, iced tea unquestionably holds first place. Cool and refreshing, yet inexpensive, it is always inviting and delicious. Thin slices of lemon garnished with cloves, quarter slices of orange, candied ginger or sprigs of mint may be served as accompaniments with iced tea.

MT. LAKE PARK.

When you are invited to a benefit dance, theater or dinner, having for its object the aiding of the Oakland Fire Department, consider the following interesting data which Mr. J. A. Enlow has given us out of his fund of interesting and instructive information, which he has gathered in his many years of effort to help build up Mt. Lake Park. Up until the time the Fire Department was organized and equipped, over 14 buildings caught fire and burned to the ground, none of them to our knowledge having been rebuilt. Since the Fire Department has been functioning not a single valuable structure has been totally destroyed in the Park. This speaks volumes for the efficiency of the Volunteers. But we can not expect them to do the impossible. The time may come, and probably will, when a fire will not be discovered until it is too late, with the Park's present facilities, for this splendid organization to maintain its past record. It is the duty of this community to protect to the limit of its ability, the large investment of the property owners, without which Mt. Lake Park would soon revert to the cow pasture it once was.

The Campmeeting closed July 7. The large congregations testified to the interest of the services, and many expressions of appreciation are heard on all sides of the manner in which C. M. Hood, the President and M. W. Castle, the General Secretary of the Campmeeting Association arranged and carried out the program.

The Pittsburgh Conference Epworth League Institute began July 8 and will continue to the 15th. This is the twenty-seeond year. As in the past, the large number of delegates present will be kept busy with Institute work, and sightseeing. They are a fine bunch of young people.

The camp meeting closed Sunday night with an unusually large attendance. The streets on either side and in the parking places were crowded with autos from morning until after the night services from all points of the compass, many from quite a distance.

Notwithstanding the strenuous times financially all the finances were met with a small balance to help advertise for next year, which is to be June 26 to July 6, 1930. The results in every way were most gratifying.

The Pittsburgh Epworth League Institute held its first meeting Monday night with about 400 leaguers in attendance, with a splendid faculty to make their short stay with us both enjoyable and profitable.

The generally increased interest in our beautiful park we believe is prophetic of a still greater future for the years before us.

Mrs. Owney has returned to her cottage on E Street.

Mrs. C. S. Graef, of Chicago, Ill., is now visiting her parents here.

Miss Caville Shearer, who, on August 1, will be 99 years of age, is quite ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Clayton. Miss Shearer is one of the three living sisters whose combined ages total 295 years.

Miss Katherine McLain was called to Wheeling, W. Va., Saturday by the sudden death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. William McClain.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clayton, Mannington, W. Va., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. MacClelland Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fleming are in Fairmont for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Groves accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hines, Washington, D. C., are guests of Mrs. Knappenberg.

Mr. Camden Taney, editor of the Wheeling Register, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson L. Camden.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Morgan and family, Fairmont, W. Va., are at their cottage.

Miss Elizabeth Murphy, Fairmont, is a guest of Court Inn.

Insects are raised in incubators at the FLY-TOX factory. When they are fully grown and especially strong and lively they are turrned loose in a test cabinet, "The Fly-Tox Chamber of Death." Less than a teaspoonful of FLY-TOX is sprayed inside. Within five minutes all are dead. But, the test isn't finished yet. The dead insects are carefully taken from the "Chamber of Death" and put gently into incubators. They remain there 24 hours in an effort to revive them. If even a wing flutters, the FLY-TOX tested does not come up to the high standard of quality, and never leaves the factory. This is the quick acting insect spray you want. It is FLY-TOX. Accept no substitutes. There is nothing just as good. There is only one FLY-TOX. Developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Every bottle guaranteed.—Advertisement 21-1t.

COUNTY FAIR TO BE HELD FIRST WEEK IN OCTOBER

Dates for Thirteenth Annual Agricultural Exhibit Decided Monday—To Pay Premiums

The thirteenth annual Garrett county agricultural fair will be held this year on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 1, 2, 3, and 4, at the Fair Grounds, Oakland, Henry M. Speicher, secretary and general manager, has announced. This was decided at a meeting of the Board of Directors held on Monday, and followed a report of the committee which was appointed to learn the dates of other fairs in all neighboring counties.

"The dates were changed to a later time in order that the farmers might have an opportunity to harvest their crops and get their fall work in good shape," Mr. Speicher said. "There are also a number of boys' potato clubs and other potato projects in the county and the results are to be exhibited in the fair."

"We want to make this a real agricultural fair, one in which all the farmers will exhibit their products and enjoy the four days in Oakland. We expect this to be the biggest fair Garrett county has ever had."

Weather Should Be Good

An inspection of the weather record at Weber's, the government station, showed that in eleven years the week of September 11 was the best during that period and that the first week in October was second best. The date of September 11 was eliminated owing to late production in this county.

The premium list will be practically the same as last year, and premiums will positively be paid, he emphasized. The 1927 and 1928 premiums were all paid last year by the Fair association and this year will be no exception, it was said.

The fair will be under the same management as last year, which includes:

Dr. Henry McComas, president; Charles W. Ream, Crellin, vice-president; H. M. Speicher, Accident, secretary and general manager; Walter G. Meyers, Mt. Lake Park, treasurer.

Directors: G. B. M. Friend, Daniel E. Orendorf, H. L. Porter, J. W. Whorton, A. D. Naylor, William C. Welch, George D. Browning, Guy Hinebaugh, and Dr. McComas, Oakland; Charles W. Ream, Crellin; Henry P. Miller, Grantsville; and Samuel R. Ringer, Bert C. Scott and N. C. Sanders, Hutton.

There will be premiums for exhibits of all kinds of live stock, poultry and other fowls; farm products, horticultural products, school work, boys' and girls' club work, household articles, domestic arts, etc., and there will also be many special premiums. Work on the premium list and catalog is to be started immediately, Mr. Speicher stated, and will be completed as soon as possible.

Arrests Made Yesterday by Federal Prohibition Agents.

Alfonse Borelli, Oakland; Mrs. Maggie Kight, south of Gortner, and Mrs. Moyer, of near Wilson Station, were arrested yesterday by Federal Prohibition agents on alleged violations of the liquor laws. They were brought to the Oakland jail where they were held until yesterday afternoon when they were taken to Cumberland, where they will be given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner George Anderson on charges of sale and possession of liquor.

Borelli was indicted at the last term of court but his trial was never brought up due to insufficient evidence nnd the fact that the informer could not be found.

Federal and county officers discovered a still Tuesday afternoon which is alleged to have belonged to Dave Sisler, of Salt Block, this county, hut those in charge of operations fled before the officers could make any arrests. The plant was destroyed.

Maryland Tuberculosis Association Clinic.

A clinic for diseases of the chest will be conducted in Dr. Mason's office, Friendsville, Thursday, July 25, 1929, 10:30 a. m.

Individuals complaining of any of the following: Cough, expectoration of blood (spitting), tired feeling, loss of weight, and appetite, indigestion, hoarseness, etc., should see their family physician and obtain permission to attend clinic at the place announced above.

MAN FLEES, LEAVING HIS COMPANION TO BE CAUGHT

Prohibition Agents Seize George Bittinger Monday Evening.

Charles Hanlin leaped from the car which he was driving down a lane Monday evening near New Germany, this county, and left George Bittinger, his companion, "holding the bag," or rather the kegs, with a result that Bittinger is lodged in the county jail, Cumberland, in default of $1,500 bond on Federal charges of the manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquor.

Federal officers from the Cumberland prohibition office were en route to a still they believed to be located near New Germany when they met the Hanlin coach on the narrow road. The machine backed away and the officers dismounted. When they approached Hanlin fled and Bittinger was collared. In the car the officers found three five-gallon kegs filled with recently-made liquor.

Bittinger was taken to the city jail, Cumberland, and lodged over night. He was given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Thomas J. Anderson Tuesday morning. Hanlin's car is held

80 PRESENT AT MEETING OF MT. LAKE COMMUNITY

H. V. Leighton Elected President—E. E. Friend Secretary.

The annual meeting of Mountain Lake Park community was held yesterday, with 80 property owners present, either in person or represented by proxy. Mr. H. V. Leighton was elected president and Mr. E. E. Friend secretary. Harvey and Fouch, retiring members of the annual committee, were re-elected for the ensuing year. J. L. Echard was re-elected superintendent of roads and streets.

The report of the annual committee disclosed that the assessable property in the Park totaled approximately $494,500, which at a 65 cent tax rate will produce a revenue of about $3,600, on which the budget for the coming year was based.

The question of a quorum being present was raised, but the president held, under advice of counsel, that under the charter and constitution a majority of the property owners present and voting constituted a quorum and in that respect the meeting was legally constitued. It further transpired that the charter of the Mt. Lake Park Association had expired some four years ago.

COUT BENEFIT PICTURE WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Richard "Skeets" Gallagher to Star in "Alexander the Great"

H. C. Wetwer's Merry-go-round, "Alexander the Great," featuring Richard "Skeets" Gallagher, will be the moving picture presented Friday night, July 19, at the Maryland theatre, for the benefit of the Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts. There will also be two reels of sound film, "The Collegians."

The proceeds will help the Boy Scouts defray their expenses at their summer camp on Deep Creek Lake, which will start either on July 29 or 30. Everyone is asked to buy a ticket and assist the boys. Tickets are being sold by members of the troop, which will be good on Friday, July 19, instead of Wednesday, July 17, as stated on the ticket. Admission will be 50 and 35 cents.

"From $300 to $400 is required each year to send the boys to camp for two weeks each year," Mrs. B. I. Gonder, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary said, "and it is hoped that a substantial amount will be raised at the benefit picture. Each boy who attends camp is charged $5 if he is able to pay it. If not he is taken along anyway, provided his troop record throughout the year has been a good one."

Two Large Plate Glass Windows Broken in Smouse's Store.

Two large plate glass windows in Smouse's store were smashed last Friday night when Richard West threw a passerby into them. The flying glass from one window caused the other to break. No one was injured.

West was placed under arrest and given a hearing on Monday before W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace, who fined him $2 and costs on a charge of being disorderly. The windows were not insured.

UNINSPECTED CARS TO BE HALTED BY STATE POLICE

Total of 1,408 Cars Inspected in Oakland in "Save-a-Life Campaign Which Just Closed

All cars which do not display the inspection stickers of the Save-a-Life campaign, which ended at Midnight Monday, will be stopped by State officers and action taken against the drivers, according to an announcement from E. Austin Baughman, commissioner of motor vehicles, Baltimore.

Official examining stations were notified that after July 15, State officers would stop the uninspected cars and compel their drivers to take them to a station for examination, and the garages were notified to continue to inspect cars until further notice.

1,408 Inspected at Oakland

A total of 1,408 automobiles were inspected at the five Oakland inspection stations, and between 60 and 75 percent of them were found to be in good condition, according to those in charge.

The five stations and the number of cars inspected follows:

It was estimated that 20,000 automobiles in the state were still uninspected when the campaign ended on Monday night. Mr. Baughman warned motorists who have had their automobiles inspected to keep the "inspected" tags on the windshields for thirty days.

The 900 official inspection stations throughout the state were crowded on Monday, the last day, with belated motorists taking their machines in for the going over, provided for in an act passed by the last session of the General Assembly. The law was passed in an effort to forestall motor accidents which are the result of mechanical defects in automobiles.

"Motorists have had a sufficient length of time to comply with the law," Mr. Baughman said, "and we will not extend a single day of grace to those who have not had their motor vehicles examined." The campaign began on June 15 and was conducted for a period of thirty days. The first of these campaigns was conducted in October, 1927, and a total of 1,003 automobiles were inspected in Oakland and it was estimated that about 63 per cent were in good condition.

Knights Beginning to Prepare For Labor Day Picnic.

Preliminary plans for the annual Labor Day picnic, to be held under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, on September 2, at Oakland, were laid at a short meeting of the leaders on Tuesday night.

It was decided to purchase a car to be given away on that date, but the make of car was not announced. At a meeting to be held in the near future definite committees will be appointed and then work will start in earnest, Harry Stemple, one of the members stated.

Installation of officers was held at the meeting last Friday night.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION TO ATTRACT OVER 2,000

Young Men and Women of The United Presbyterian Church to Gather at Mt. Lake, July 24-28

Over two thousand young men and young women of the United Presbyterian Church, representing fifty-seven presbyteries from coast to coast, will attend the thirty-seventh national convention of the Young People's Christian Union, July 24-28, at Mt. Lake Park.

Leaders of national prominence will give addresses and conduct discussion groups, among the number being Bishop Francis J. McConnell, D. D., LL. D., of the New York area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in Christ in America; William Hiram Foulkes, D. D., LL. D., of Newark, N. J., vice-president of the International Society of Christian Endeavor; Miss Edna Geister, recreation expert; Mrs. Catherine Miller Balm, of Philadelphia, director of young people's work of the Reformed Church in the United States; Robert Allen Pollock, D. D., of Denver, Colorado, chairman of the national committee; Rev. Walter J. Skellie, missionary, of Cairo, Egypt; Rev. John M. Bigham, of Anderson, S. C., general superintendent of young people's work in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Synod of the South; and John E. Bradford, D. D., of Chicago, general secretary of the Board of Education. Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Heinz, of Columbus, O., will lead the singing.

Divided into small groups delegates will study subjects such as vocations, music, missionary and stewardship education, building worship programs, Bible school methods, young people's society methods, principles of recreational leadership, organizing conventions, and publishing papers. All of the convention meetings will be open to the public.

Eight finalists, four young women and four young men, selected from a field of thirty-two district winners, will compete Friday evening, July 56, in a national oratorical contest, using the theme, "The World for Christ." Medals and one hundred fifty dollars will be distributed to the winners in the final.

Stunt night is Saturday night, July 27, when delegates will make merry. A series of recreation ball games arranged between teams representing presbyteries has attracted unusual interest.

The 1930 convention will be held in Estes Park, Colorado. Last year's convention met in Conneaut Lake Park, Pa. In 1927 the gathering was held in Kansas City, and in 1926 in Seattle, Washington.

A Four-Year-Old Child Suffers Fracture of Arm Third Time

The little four year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harvey, of Glendale, this county, suffered the third fracture of her left arm Monday when she fell while engaged at play at her home. In each case the fracture occurred at different points on her forearm. Surgical aid was rendered by Dr. McComas.

YOUTH IS CONVICTED OF SECOND DEGREE MURDER

Killed Man on April 18 Who He Claimed Threatened Him.

James Greathouse, 18, yesterday was convicted of second degree murder for the slaying of Charles Cassidy near Reedsville, W. Va., on April 18, by the Monongalia county circuit court. The jury deliberated almost two hours.

Defense counsel gave no indication that a new trial would be asked. The verdict carries a penitentiary sentence of five to eighteen years.

Cassidy was found dead along a highway and later Greathouse was arrested at Detroit. In a confession introduced at the trial, Greathouse was quoted as having said he killed Cassidy when the latter threatened him. Greathouse is said to be a former Garrett county resident.

BIBLE SCHOOL TO CLOSE WITH SPECIAL SERVICES

Will Be Held Sunday Evening in Methodist Church—Enrollment Is Increased.

The second week of the Union Daily Vacation Bible School, which is being conducted in the Oakland Grammar school building, got under way last Monday morning with nine new pupils, bringing the total enrollment to 120.

The work is divided into grades similar to the week-day school. Mrs. W. W. Grant is superintendent of the first three grades and Mrs. Delbert Davis superintends the four upper grades. Much interest and enthusiasm have been shown in the work and the attendance has been almost one hundred per cent throughout, those in charge stated.

The boys of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades are given an hour a day in manual training, supervised by O. T. Graser of the agricultural department of the high school. Each boy has a project to be finished and exhibited at the close of the school.

A picnic was provided for the children yesterday afternoon at Cherry Run, south of Gortner. Games were played and ice cream was served to them.

To Hold Closing Service.

Owing to the Boy Scout benefit picture on Friday evening, the closing exercise of the school will be held Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church. The public is invited to hear the program and inspect the work done by the pupils of the school, which will be on exhibit. Credit will be given to the pupils on that evening.

The children will render the following program:

"America;" prayer by the children; explanation of the purpose and work of the school, by Mrs. W. W. Grant; song, "The Bible," first grade; "planting God's Garden," first grade; dramatizing "The Good Samaritan," third grade; song, "Saviour like a Shepherd lead us;" mission play, "Look unto the Harvest," fourth grade; dramatizing "Peter's Friends Pray for Him;"

Baltimore Epworth Leaguers in Session at Park.

The Baltimore conference of the Epworth League opened at Mt. Lake Park on Monday with 350 registered the first day. Those in attendance will be busy with class work from seven until 12 o'clock in the mornings, rest or recreation in the afternoons, and services again at nights.

The Pittsburgh conference closed on Sunday night with a very impressive candle service. During the week quite a number of young people made known their intention of engaging in special Christian work, six of them to become ministers. It is said that most of the young men entering the ministry in the Pittsburgh conference come through the Epworth league.

The Baltimore conference will close on Monday when the leaguers will return to their home by special train.

Boy Kicked by Horse.

Howard Rodeheaver, aged about seven years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rodeheaver, of Sand Flat, was kicked in the face by a horse Monday afternoon and seriously injured.

He was brought to Oakland where Dr. H. W. McComas attended him, and was later taken to his home. He received a deep gash over his left eye and injured the frontal bone, the doctor stated.

TO HOLD WATER REGATTA AGAIN ON "DEEP CREEK"

Second Annual Event Expected To Be More Elaborate Than Last Year.

The Deep Creek Lake Regatta committee held an enthusiastic meeting Monday evening, all members being present, and definitely decided to hold a regatta at the Lake on August 9. This will make the second annual event of this nature and is expected to exceed that of last year in size and interest.

This action was taken after reports were heard from several members of a canvass, which had been made of Mountain Lake Park, Oakland, and the Deep Creek section. In almost every instance the project was favorably received and cooperation assured by all interviewed.

The program is being built around water sports—motor, sail boat and canoe races, aquaplaning, fancy diving and swimming and distance contests in the latter. The committee hopes to be successful in securing a seaplane for the occasion, as it is advised that the practically straight stretch of water facing Rainbow Inn is especially adapted for the landing and take-off of a large army or navy plane of the most approved type. The program as outlined includes all the events dear to the lovers of water sports and the course for such events has been selected with a view of providing a clear vision of the turns where the thrills take place. A large float and diving tower is to be erected for the swimming and diving events.

An adequate number of seats and benches will be provided for the large crowds expected to attend. Parking places for automobiles will be marked off with a view of providing the utmost comfort and the least possible confusion.

In addition to the water sports, arrangements are being completed for the entertainment of those who prefer other sorts of amusement. At least two bands will be on hand to provide a continuous program of music. The committee in charge of decorations has been carefully and well selected and the water front and grounds surrounding the shore line of the spot where the main events will be staged will delight the eye. The logs and debris will be cleared away. Prizes and trophies will be awarded in each event.

"There is probably no spot in the east more favorably adapted for an event of this nature than Deep Creek Lake," E. Carl Frame, secretary, stated. "It's natural setting is ideal. The committee in charge is enthusiastic. The members, all busy men and women, are devoting their time and money without a thought or hope of reward of any kind or character. The advantages and benefits that will be derived by Garrett County cannot be measured in dollars and cents. An annual regatta on Deep Creek Lake will bring to the outside public a knowledge of the wonderful scenic beauty of Western Maryland, thus developing nature's endowment, which has practically been dormant to the present time.

"Everyone should be interested. Everyone should cooperate. Everyone should receive the committee with a smile and a glad hand, willing to aid in every possible manner. This is a project of no particular class, clique or faction. It is for the benefit, entertainment and pleasure of the entire community. With the support it merits, this Deep Creek Lake regatta should go over with a bang."

Entrants are solicited for all events. No entrance fee will be charged. Any one desiring to enter, either in the fancy diving or distance swimming events, or the sail, motor boat or canoe events, or desiring any other information may communicate with Dr. T. E. Bullard, Oakland.

To Hold Good Citizenship Day Sunday, August 18.

Good Citizenship Day, under the auspices of the Lord's Day Alliance, will be held this year on Sunday, August 18, at Mt. Lake Park, it has been announced by H. V. Leighton, chairman for Garrett county.

There will be three meetings: 11 a. m., 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. Hon. Guy D. Goff, Clarksburg, W. Va., U. S. Senator from West Virginia, has been secured for the afternoon program and he will speak on "The Fundamentals of American Civilization."

Other noted speakers will be present, it was stated, and all are invited to attend.

NEW PAPER MONEY DELAYS HANDLING OF FUNDS IN BANKS; OAKLAND NOT MUCH AFFECTED BY ITS USE

Additional Spoke in Wheel of Progress Is Said to be Slowing Up Business Somewhat

The new size currency is a spoke in the wheel of progress; everyone seems to be in agreement on that point. It is engraved on the best paper obtainable; it is regarded as counterfeit proof; it is designed to save the government a fabulous sum.

Since its appearance last Wednesday, July 10, numerous quips and funny stories have been told of the effect its coupon-like size has had on the public.

But now come the other stories, not so good natured. Shopkeepers, bank tellers, cashiers and others, who handle a large amount of the paper currency during the course of a day's work while in harmony with the verdict that it's a spoke in the wheel of progress, have agreed also that the new spoke has made the wheel a little bumpy.

Oakland Not Affected Much.

Banks and stores of Oakland have not been affected much by the change in size of the currency, tellers, cashiers and merchants say. Although they admit it is much harder to count, the quantity of money in circulation is not great and therefore, little time is wasted. One cashier reports that there has been only a slight demand for the new bills.

New Facilities Required.

In larger cities, however, it is much different. When the Bureau of Engraving started to clip the greenbacks down to the new standard, perhaps it was known, but nothing was mentioned of it along with the announcement of the new bills that they were going to call for new handling facilities.

The new notes are too small for the receptacles in the cash drawers, too small for the bill folds, smaller than the old currency and rather hard to count. In banks, tellers who were admired by the laymen for rapidity with which they could deal out any requested amount in short order, report now, after years of acquiring this skill, they are again in the novice class.

The task of supplying the new notes in place of the old will take the greater part of a year, it is estimated. Until that time, bank officials say, they expect to be hampered because of the two sizes.

Lesson for July 21

EZEKIEL'S VISION OF HOPE

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 47:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ezekiel's Message of Hope.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Ezekiel's Message of Hope.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Will the Right Finally Win?

Ezekiel's final vision, chapters 40 to 48, exhibits a comprehensive view of the restored order when the Messiah shall hold sway over the whole earth. Our lesson for today is but a small part of this vision. It can be understood only in the light of the whole. The following outstanding facts should be noted:

1. The restored temple (chs. 40-42).
2. The return of Jehovah. (ch. 43).

3. The arrangement of the services of the temple (chs. 44-46).
4. The river flowing from the temple (47:1-12).
5. The land apportioned among the people (47:13-48:29).
6. The holy city (48:30-35).

In the attempted interpretation of this vision, some five different views are held. The one preferred by the present writer is that it is a prediction of the temple which shall be erected in Messianic times. The literal view prevents wild speculation and at the same time permits the fullest figurative application. In fact, the Holy Spirit gives the interpretation of the waters flowing from the smitten rock (I Cor. 10:4) in such a way as to leave no doubt as to its meaning. The river flowing forth from the sanctuary typifies the river of life, the salvation of Christ flowing forth to the world. Observe:

I. The River's Source (vv. 1, 2).

It flows forth from the house—the restored temple where God has come to dwell. It flows from the divine presence. This flowing of the waters is miraculous. So is the eternal life which proceeds from Calvary's cross. Because Christ is divine, His shed blood has power to give life. It is to be noted that the stream came by way of the altar (v. 1), showing that eternal life for the world proceeds from God by way of the cross. Perhaps the deepest mystery of life is how life can spring out of death. Despite its mystery, the student of the Holy Scriptures and of physical science knows that life out of death is the philosophy of the universe. "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone."

II. The Deepening River (vv. 3-5).

The deepening and enlarging is without any tributaries. For the first quarter mile the depth was to the ankles. By the time it had reached one-half mile it was to the knees. Till the distance of three-fourths mile was reached it was to the waist, and at the end of the first mile it was too deep to ford—"waters to swim in." The spiritual truth to be derived from this figure is that the life and salvation which have flowed forth from Calvary made vital by the Holy Spirit, have widened and deepened through the centuries and dispensations. This is especially true of the individual who yields himself to the Holy Spirit.

III. The Healing Effect of the Waters (vv. 6-21).

There is life in the progress of this river. "Everything shall live whither the river cometh" (v. 9). It flows from the altar toward the east country down into the desert and into the Dead sea. "The region of the Dead sea which has been the embodiment of barrenness and desolation, in the coming day is to be changed into a scene of life and fruitfulness."—Gray.

1. Trees on the banks of the river (vv. 7, 8).

Just as vegetation flourishes near the river, so wherever Christ's salvation is witnessed to in the energy of the Holy Ghost, life comes. This has been true throughout the centuries of church history. The details of fruitfulness are enumerated in verse 12.

2. Everything in the waters shall live (v. 9). Wherever the stream flows, there shall be life.

3. The waters of the Dead sea shall be healed (v. 10). Fishers shall gather from the Dead sea even as from the Mediterranean. The gospel brings life to those in trespasses and sin. The world is dead and therefore in need of the life-giving stream from Calvary.

Christianity

The distinction between Christianity and all other systems of religion consists largely in this, that in these others men are found seeking after God, while Christianity is God seeking after men.—T. Arnold.

When Tempted

In time of temptation be not busy to dispute, but rely upon the conclusion and throw yourself upon God, and contend not with Him, but in prayer.—Taylor.

Bananas for Next Fourth.

Scoop received a letter this week in regard to an advertisement appearing in The Republican last week, July 11, which stated that orders were being taken now for bunch bananas for the Fourth of July. They appeared doubtful that orders were being taken for bananas for July 4, 1930, but since The Republican never makes a mistake, this must be so. Garrett countians get rid of more bananas in a year than the Eskimos eat in a lifetime. But anyway, here is the letter:

"Dear Scoop: Do you mean to imply to the great American public by the ad in The Republican that the banana business in Oakland is so rushed that you have to take orders a year in advance? If you aren't careful you'll have every "Dago" in the country dashing to the town with his banana cart, no foolin'!

Scoop isn't going to worry, because the Ad was from Grantsville. Up in Oakland now, every time twenty-four hours pass Scoop sees a Dago.

(Special to Scoop)—Oakland, July 11.—"Yeah," said Turk Shartzer, cramming nine different kinds of insinuations into the word, "on'y we don't take coupons any more."

And firmly he declined to have anything to do with the new small-size dollar bill offered him by Berne Teter, who had gone into Miller's store for some Limburger cheese and onions.

"But this is the new money," said Teter, "Haven't you heard about it?"

"Yeah?" said Turk, and only smiled contemptuously. Teter was obliged to exchange the new bill for an old one from Jim Painter.

Rumor hath it that the Mayor and town scoundrels are going to attempt to pass an ordinance at the next meeting prohibiting people from throwing bricks at dog fights, especially when the thrower is such a poor shot and traffic is heavy on Third street. Had Large Aching Feet.
"My feet were continually in pains," E. C. "Mike" Liller, the tailor, stated yesterday in the prize testimonial of the week, "and the pains were larger than usual due to my enlarged pedals. I was so weak from bending over the presser that when I stooped down, it was all I could do to stoop back up again.

"My breath came in short pants, my seams had burst and mastication of the inner lining had set in. My heart was increased from a size 38 to a 40. I was all unraveled and had been worn thin in places. I had tape measures and measuring worms which ate holes in my stomach lining. Alterations were necessary if I was to remain a perfect fit.

"Mrs. Harvey, next door, asked me to try reading The Republican, which she heartily endorsed as being Garrett county's newsiest and best newspaper. Since I had been threaded along with yarns from other papers for some time I decided that The Republican is the paper for me. You get all the news of the county while it is news. You can publish this if you think it will impress people."—E. C. "Mike" Liller, T. T. (the tailor).

Scattered Records of First 200 Years Leads Historians Chase

GEORGE C. DORSCH In The Sunday Sun

The current collectors' enthusiasm, which has pushed to startling heights the market value of ancient documents long thought to be mere oddities, usually uncovers little except the documents and a tale of bewildered heirs wondering why people are so foolish as to give thousands of dollars for a bit of paper bearing faded handwriting. The recent sale of early Maryland documents at Sotheby's in London—the same famous auction rooms through which a particularly valuable Washington letter was purchased last spring by a Baltimore syndicate for the State's possession—might have uncovered a strange story, but did not. The auctioneers discreetly described this highly interesting collection of Calvert family papers as "the property of a collector," and divulged nothing further about it save to say that it had been in the possession of a somewhat impoverished descendant of the Calvert-Baltimore family living in Ireland

Where had these papers been since they disappeared? Surely communications in the handwriting of the first, second and third Barons Baltimore, of William Penn, of an early Dutch Governor of New Amsterdam (which was to become New York), of the defeated Swedish Governor of Fort Christina (which was the beginning of Delaware), and of early Colonists in Maryland describing at great length the conditions of nearly three centuries ago— surely such holographs are entitled to a legend. Yet whatever their history may be, it can hardly exceed in interest the amazing story of those other Calvert papers, now invaluable, which after an astonishing series of adventures finally landed safely in the lap of the Maryland Historical Society. That tale is worth retelling.

For nearly 200 years after the Maryland Pilgrims first set foot on Maryland soil they and their descendants were too engaged in establishing a colony and later maintaining a State, meantime caring for their immediate and individual economic needs, to occupy themselves with any historical chronicle of events then current. They were satisfied to store their Colonial and State papers and to pass on to duties more pressing at the moment.

It was not until Bozman's Maryland History appeared in 1811 that the real period of writing Maryland history was introduced. This work was followed by Griffith's Sketches of the Early History of Maryland in 1821 and McMahon's History in 1831. Maryland's historians by this time had started their systems of research to authenticate their writings. In 1834 Bozman's manuscript was presented to the State for preservation and a year later an act was passed by the General Assembly for the rescue, arrangement and preservation of the State papers and documents.

Three years after the incorporation of the Maryland Historical Society in 1844 another and similar act was passed. Although a great distance had now been traveled by the historians there still remained much territory to be covered and to this end the society in 1847 had a resolution passed by the General Assembly by which the Governor was authorized to transfer to the society all original papers, documents and records relating to the history of Maryland prior to the close of the American Revolution, which it was not deemed necessary to keep in Annapolis. This resolution it was soon discovered had a string tied to it in the form of a provision which left little to be transferred except such documents as were in duplicate or in such state of decay that it would be advantageous to pass them to the society for protection and safe keeping.

In 1858 another legislative act was passed for the procurement of copies of important papers in foreign repositories and the Governor was authorized to appoint some person to make copies of all papers and documents relating to provincial Maryland which had been found in the Colonial office, London, in the renowned theological library of Sion College in London, and in the archives at Rome.

Dr. John Henry Alexander was appointed to the task and with the assistance of Dr. Ethan Allen prepared the first volume of the Calendar of State Papers now in the library of the society. He made his report in 1860. The work had to be discontinued because available funds had become exhausted. This led to the Constitutional Convention of 1867 again stressing the importance of State papers and through the efforts of George L. Davis a clause was inserted in the Constitution making it a duty of the Commissioner of the Land Office to collect, arrange and classify papers, records, relics and other memorials connected with the early history of the State.

By the passage of another act in 1883 the society received all records, archives and ancient documents of the province and State prior to the acknowledgment of the independence of the United States by Great Britain. Then the search began in earnest. All State repositories, public buildings, cellars, half-forgotten cupboards, old furniture, ancient files and even the dome of the State House were ransacked, resulting in an accumulation of 10,000 papers covering 150 years of the State history.

Then it was recalled that in his preface to his Index to the Calendar of Maryland State Papers, bearing the date of Easter Monday, 1861, Dr. Alexander, referring to a collection of documents at the British Museum, had written:

> Many years ago these possessions of the British Museum might have been increased, and with objects of interest. In the autumn of 1839 there were lying in one of the rooms of the ground floor two considerable chests marked Calvert papers which I myself observed with much interest; but presuming that they were an acquisition, or would shortly be examined and reported upon thoroughly, or at least be thereafter forever accessible, I made no particular inquiry about them at the moment.
> It appears that this presumption was erroneous, and upon a diligent research instituted recently—under the disadvantage, to be sure, of there being not a single person left now in the employment of the institution who was connected then with the particular branch of its service to which belongs the receipt and custody of such things, until they are handed over to be placed in their proper receptacles—no further intelligence could be obtained about them, and no conclusion arrived at other than that when seen they were merely in transitu, having been probably offered by some party possessing them, but at such a price as precluded purchase However this may have been, the mischance is very much to be regretted.

And it is here that the story of the society's activities for the recovery of the missing papers begin. The late Mendes Cohen, then corresponding secretary of the society, began an exchange of letters with a Winslow Jones, of Exmouth, England, who was interested in matters pertaining to Maryland history and who at intervals had supplied valuable notes on the early Calverts. Mr. Jones was asked to join in the search for the papers said to have been in two chests at the British Museum, and he promptly resorted to Notes and Inquiries, a British publication, requesting some clue to the two containers. He soon received a reply that a large mass of colonial papers was in the possession of Col. F. H. Harford, a retired British Army officer and a descendant of the last Lord Baltimore. Several months later Mr. Jones journeyed to Colonel Harford's estate, Down Place, near Windsor, and in May, 1887, he wrote to Mr. Cohen:

> I finished on yesterday the examination of the deeds and papers at Down Place. They were in utter confusion in one very large chest, and not in the two in which they were originally kept, without any arrangement and mixed up with family papers unconnected with the province, and very many of both sets without endorsement, but they are all now arranged and for the most part marked.
> The chest has for some years been in an old orangery, now used as a potting house and for garden purposes, and some signs of damp are on a few of the papers, so that if the chest should remain for some years longer in its present place the papers may be seriously injured.

Negotiations by mail between the Harford family and the historical society began immediately. No date of a single paper could be obtained nor could a price be obtained for the papers' purchase. For a year the negotiations were unsuccessful until the summer of 1887, when J. R. Randall, of Annapolis, being in London, was asked to call to see the papers then in the possession of Colonel Harford's solicitors in London. Mr. Randall was shown the papers that had been forwarded to London, but was informed that others were buried in a field at Down Place. The solicitor wrote:

> We fear they are lost beyond recovery, as we understand from our client that they were buried some years ago by his gardener to get rid of what at that time was supposed to be useless.

The society then decided to send to London an authority on Maryland's archives, and J. W. M. Lee, librarian of the society and an employe of the late T. Harrison Garrett, was loaned for the mission. He sailed for England, sped to London, and eagerly examined the papers at the solicitor's office. These Mr. Lee assured himself were the only papers of their kind known to be in existence, and he promptly made the purchase. Baltimore brokers advancing the necessary sum, which later was repaid by private subscription. The price, although never made public, was estimated to be between $18,000 and $20,000. The papers were placed in the society's vault on June 11, 1888, and Mr. Cohen made the following note:

> It is somewhat curious that whilst we in Maryland were wondering what could have become of these missing papers, at that very time, in 1861, when Dr. Alexander was printing the document which records the facts that have led to the renewal of the search, our sister State, Virginia, in a search for evidence bearing upon the question of the boundary between Maryland and Virginia, should have developed and recorded the fact of the then present existence of the papers we now have before us (the papers purchased by the society).
> In 1860 the General Assembly of Virginia adopted a resolution authorizing and requesting the governor, if he should deem it expedient, to send to England a competent agent to obtain all records and documentary evidence tending to ascertain and establish the true boundary between Virginia and the States of North Carolina, Tennessee and Maryland.

Col. A. W. McDonald, of Virginia, was commissioned by Governor Letcher of that state as the agent and made his inquiry as directed. In his report to the executive, dated February 2, 1861, he stated:

> I sought out the representative of the Baltimore family and finally discovered him a prisoner for debt in the Queen's Bench prison, to which some twelve years since he had been transferred from the Fleet prison, after having been there confined for more than eight years. I obtained an interview with this gentleman; informed him of the object of my visit, which he appeared entirely willing to promote, and learned from him, after most minute inquiry, that the original charter had never come into his hands with the other family papers which had; that he had never seen it, never heard of it being in the hands of any other person, and that he verily believed said original charter to be utterly lost and destroyed.

The deduction was then drawn that, since Dr. Alexander had seen the papers in 1839, it was possible that the prisoner had offered them to the British Museum before going to jail, either for sale or safe keeping and that the museum had declined them, the papers remaining in the possession of the family during his imprisonment.

But delighted as Mr. Lee was over the acquisition of the papers he had purchased from the Harford solicitors, he was still bent on discovering the contents of the missing trunk as well. Therefore, he went to Down Place to trace them and run down the tale of their being buried. Colonel Harford informed him that a few years previous he had indeed authorized the burial of a box of papers which had been much in the way. Mr. Lee seems to have dropped the search in disgust.

But the next year, J. Leroy White, then traveling in Europe, himself visited Colonel Harford and, on his insistence, was shown the place where Keep, a former butler, had buried them. A search by Mr. White for the missing butler disclosed him living in London. Writing to the society, Mr. White explained:

> Keep told me that he had buried the papers because they would not burn. He had first been told to burn them, he said, but I gathered from him that the best looking papers were removed from the heap before they were dumped by him, loosely and not enclosed in any box or chest, into a hole prepared by him. These selected documents I understood were included in the collection which we secured last year.
> Colonel Harford's mother, Keep said, was very careful of these papers, but at her death the place was for rent and the tenant objected to having this load of papers kicking about in the cellar. Hence the order to burn. Keep said he had taken his action carefully at the time of the burial, thinking that the documents might be wanted again; and he showed me exactly where the papers should be within a foot or two. Here, with three men to dig, we worked away until we had pretty well examined a space more than ten feet square, going down below the lowest point that Keep could have reached, cutting through roots of trees and into quite wet ground.
> We found nothing of the papers. While the work was proceeding Colonel and Mrs. Harford came and looked over an adjoining fence. Mrs. Harford said to me: "I wonder if he ever buried them."

Mr. White explained his search continued from July 5 to 17, and then was abandoned as futile.

It was during last month that, surprisingly, there were put up at auction in London the latest rediscovered lot of Calvert papers, containing a good deal of early Maryland history. There was a little bidding in behalf of an unidentified American collector, but the papers were finally disposed of to a London professor for $17,000, a very small fragment of the value placed on the Calvert papers at the Historical Society. Much of this London lot, judging from the catalogue, is an original copy, or an original draft, which had been kept by the writer for his own record.

One of the communications is a draft of a letter to King Charles I by George Calvert, the first Baron Baltimore, then in Avalon in Newfoundland, dated August 19, 1629, praying for land in Virginia which should be considerably warmer than that in Newfoundland, even in August. He would have found it so. This, of course, is the letter which led to the founding of the Maryland colony. There are four warrants to the Attorney-General from the Lords Committee of Trade and Plantations, which show the trouble Calvert had in fixing his boundaries so as to satisfy the Virginians, who, as a matter of fact, are still suspicious that Maryland has some Potomac territory it is not entitled to. There is no record of a 1634 voyage to the head of Chesapeake Bay by one Cyprian Thorowgood, giving among other things tall tales of the local Indians, "valorous and stout," and an account of > how they treated their prisoners by slowly burning them alive and in the meantime cutting off pieces of flesh to boil and eat before them from whom they cut it.

There is a 9,000-word letter from Robert Wintour, dated September 12, 1636, probably the same Wintour who became a councillor in 1638. It describes the colony and its proprietor at length and favorably. There is also a series of letters, starting politely and ending in a furious wrangle, between Baltimore and William Penn.

The papers recovered by the society in 1888 consist of nearly 1,000 documents on paper and parchment, all in admirable preservation, some of them dating back to the reign of Henry VIII, long before the barony of Baltimore was created or Maryland dreamed of. Others relate to the condition of the plantation in 1640, a series of Council books and journals of the Upper and Lower Houses of the Assembly and copies of laws transmitted to the proprietary for his assent and approval.

There also are grants for land and rent rolls of the various counties from 1640 to 1761. The collection includes a great mass of documents illustrating every phase of the boundary dispute between Maryland and Pennsylvania from granting of the latter colony to the completion of the Mason-Dixon survey in 1768, with maps submitted in the famous suit. Here also is a map on which Cape Henlopen was misplaced so that the boundary of Delaware was some twenty miles south of the line agreed upon.

Also in the collection are receipts for the two Indian arrows which the proprietary was bound by the charter to tender every year at Windsor Castle. Among these is the first receipt, dated 1633. There is the original patent creating George Calvert the first baron of Baltimore, a beautiful piece of calligraphy and illumination, bearing the great seal of James I and a miniature of the King. The face was marred when the society obtained it and since has been restored.

One paper is in a sense the most ancient Maryland document known to be in existence, for, although the charter was older, only copies of it remain. The document in mind is remarkable in clearly showing the intentions of the proprietary with respect to religious toleration. Many have dated this policy from the Act of 1649, but the document itself is proof that this act only formulated the policy which had ruled the province from the beginning.

The Ark and the Dove left Gravesend October 18, 1633, and proceeded to the Isle of Wight, where Fathers White and Altham were taken on board with some other pilgrims, and lay in the harbor until November 30 of the same year. Just before sailing a copy of instructions from the proprietary was sent to Leonard Calvert and the Messrs. Hawkley and Cornwaleys, the heads of the expedition, containing the precepts for the governing during the voyage and on their arrival. This paper, the oldest document, is in the handwriting of Cecilius Calvert, and from the interlineations and erasures is evidently the draft from which a fair copy for the expeditionary heads afterward was made.

There is one document which probably proud Pennsylvanians prefer had been buried with the missing papers. It is a holograph letter from William Penn to some Marylanders living near the head of the Chesapeake Bay. For years Penn had cast covetous eyes on the Chesapeake and endeavored throughout his life to extend Pennsylvania's boundary southward at Maryland's expense.

Shortly after his charter was signed he wrote a friendly letter to Lord Baltimore, professing neighborly comity and asking that the two provinces be conducted on a basis of "do as thou would'st be done by." Then came the letter in question, in which Penn attempted to induce prominent Marylanders living in the northern part of the province, by friendly words and veiled threats, to revolt against the Baltimore authority.

The letter is entirely in Penn's own hand and bears his seal.

GRANTSVILLE.

A high requiem mass was solemnized at St. Stephen's Catholic church at 8 o'clock Monday morning for Rev. Father Gabriel McCarty, who died in Kansu, China, May 22.

Father Gabriel was pastor at Grantsville and St. Ann's church, Avilton, Md., for six years prior to his departure to China in 1925 and his death came as a shock to his friends here as elsewhere.

Rev. Father Lennon, U. S. Army chaplin, who has been stationed at Philippine Islands for three years and spent some time in China recently and is now visiting his former home in Midland, preached on the conditions in China today. Other priests who attended and took part were Very Rev. James Quinn, Rev. Gerald Finan, Rev. Grabenstein, Capt. Lennan and Father Clarence, all of Cumberland; Rev. Weber, Frostburg; Rev. Patrick J. Bradley, Lonaconing; Rev. J. J. Brennan, Midland.

Daily Vacation Bible School Opens

The Standard Daily Vacation Bible school opened Monday, July 15, at 9 o'clock, for two weeks in the social room of the Lutheran church. Rev. S. D. Sigler is in charge, assisted by Rev. J. E. Johnson. The teachers are Miss Alverta Miller, Miss Viola Broadwater and Miss Helen Folk. This will be the second year for the Standard course and all children from the ages of 6 to 16, whether members of Sunday school or not, are welcome to attend.

Ladies' Aid Quilting.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Reformed church was entertained at an all-day quilting at the home of Mrs. Noah Warnick. Sixteen members and visitors attended and were served a bounteous dinner at noon. Two quilts were quilted during the day.

THE BUSINESS MAN.

America comes in for a good deal of high-toned criticism, every so often, because of the way it "glorifies" its business men.

Foreign-born visitors and native-born novelists have told us repeatedly that we are a small-souled dollar-worshipping folk because we have so much respect for our great industrialists. The theory seems to be that any man who can write even a third-rate novel or paint even a fifth-rate picture has something of the divine spark in him, while the factory owner or railroad magnate is a cross, unimaginative and utterly sordid sort of chap.

Perhaps all of this is quite true. But now and then it seems as if our finest artists—our most imaginative creative workers—are in truth the business leaders.

Consider, for instance, the two famous Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland.

The outlines of their story are quite familiar. They started out as real estate developers, prospered, bought a railroad, prospered with it, bought several more, built a vast union terminal for their home city and put together one of the largest railroad systems in the country out of the lines they had bought.

They made themselves very rich doing it. On the face of it, there seems no reason to claim any especial creative genius for them.

Yet they are artists—using an entire city as their medium.

They have taken scores of square miles of rolling country land outside of Cleveland and transformed it into home sites. That, to be sure, has been done by any number of real estate operators; but the Van Sweringens have done it a new way. They have put these suburbs far out in the country, away from noise and smoke and dirt—and then have used their railroad lines to make these outlying villages actually closer to the heart of the city, in point of time, than other neighborhoods not half so far away in actual miles.

They have done this on such a scale that the whole future development of Cleveland is being changed. Indeed, it is predicted that the population of the city itself may actually decrease in the next few years, because so many citizens are moving to the new suburbs.

Now this is something more than the work of ordinary real estate men. It is a movement of extreme importance. It may, quite conceivably, point the way in the matter of urban development for the whole country, and solve the perplexing problem of the modern city—how to grow in size and yet provide decent living conditions for the inhabitants.

The work these brothers are doing is making Cleveland a beautiful charming city. It is, quite literally, making a better sort of life possible for many thousands of people. It is alleviating the worst features of our urban civilization.

Who can deny that business men of this type are creative geniuses as well? Do such men need to tip their hats to supercilious scribblers?—Clarksburg Exponent.

PERSONAL PROSPERITY.

We have often heard it said that the United States is the most prosperous country in the world. But is it? What is prosperity?

When we analyze the situation, every individual knows that prosperity is a personal matter. Taken as a whole, the United States is the most prosperous nation in the world, but what matters the aggregate wealth of a populous country such as ours, if the citizens individually are not wealthy?

Applying the individual principal, we find that Switzerland is the most prosperous country in the world. According to a survey made of 40 countries, the Swiss people have a per capita wealth of $3,126, which probably represents not less than $15,000 per family.

New Zealand, a country which we seldom consider from the standpoint of wealth, comes second with $3,029 per capita, and the United States third with $2,908.

Canada follows us with $2,770 per capita, but it is estimated that she is better off than we are, because she can buy more with her dollars.

Russia, which we always considered a great, rich realm, is last on the list with only $215 per capita.

We do not have the figures at hand on Maryland and especially Garrett County, hut using the non-development of Russia as a standard, we are convinced that as Garrett County's natural resources are developed our per capita wealth will rise rapidly.

FIRE CHIEF TO ADDRESS SCOUTS FRIDAY EVENING

W. W. Dawson Also to Speak About Scouts Cooperating.

George Kerins, fire chief, and Walter W. Dawson, treasurer, of the Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts at its regular meeting on Friday evening at the City hall, in regard to assisting at fires and taking charge of minor duties.

When the organization is perfected, the Boy Scouts will act as an auxiliary body to the fire department in taking care of traffic, keeping the people back from the scene of action, and in taking charge of any property carried out of buildings, in case of fire.

"It is not proposed to let the boys enter burning buildings or to do any hazardous work whatsoever," Mr. Kerins emphasized, "and it isn't necessary for the boys to get out in the dead of night just to be at the fire, but they can be of great assistance to the department by performing minor duties and becoming interested in a real civic project and asset.

Preparing for Camp.

Preparations for the annual camping trip are going forward in earnest and further progress will be made at the meeting tomorrow. The money for camp will be collected, the boys' troop records inspected, a list of things needed at camp will be distributed and other details arranged.

George Browning passed his test on knife and axe at the last meeting and Richard Gonder passed his first-class first aid. On Sunday afternoon at Deep Creek Lake, Richard Gonder also passed his first-class swimming test.

OAKLAND YOUNG PEOPLE'S LEAGUE TO HOLD PICNIC

Meeting Afterward To Be Held in Accident Lutheran Church.

Next Sunday afternoon the senior members of the Oakland Young Peoples League will have a basket picnic at Kease's Mill. After the meal is finished the group will return to Accident, where the regular weekly meeting will be held in the Lutheran Church. Ellwood Hauser will lead, his topic will be "Everyday Citizenship." The primary purpose of this meeting will be to aid the Accident young people to form a league similar to the Oakland one. The group will leave from in front of St. Mark's Church at 1:30 p. m. in trucks, everyone is to bring a well-filled basket.

About fifty attended the picnic held last Thursday night at Lakeside Park, and everyone enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. The meeting on Sunday evening was also well attended with about fifty present. The majority of these took part in a lively discussion on Sunday Observance. On Tuesday night a group of about 20 journeyed to Mt. Lake and attended the stunt night meeting of the Baltimore District Epworth League Conference. A lot of ideas for future league good times were gleaned, and everyone fully appreciated the way these leaguers do things.

4-H CAMP CLOSES WITH CAMP FIRE AND SERVICE

Fifty-eight Girls Attended from Garrett and Allegany.

Camp Algajoy, on the Casselman river, near Grantsville, a 4-H outing spot for Garrett and Allegany counties, came to a close last Friday evening at 8 o'clock with a camp fire and candle service. At this time five girls were chosen from the 58 4-H campers who most efficiently exemplified the four H's and service during the camping season.

The first four named are from Allegany county and the fifth from Garrett county. Ruth Judy represented the spirit of service; Viola Yoder represented Heart; Florence Thompson represented Head; Dora Yeargen represented Hand; and Hasaleah Yutzy, this county, represented Health.

Three Allegany county girls arranged a new song to the melody of "In the Garden of Tomorrow," and every Garrett countian will enjoy the following verse:

"In the hills of Garrett county
Where the dear old Casselman flows
There's a homey little cottage
Every 4-H club girl knows.
There we spend our days of gladness
All our cares, our toils, our joys
Oh, I'd so much rather all my Friendships gather at our camp at Algajoy."

W. B. BURRUSS SPEAKS AT MEETING OF ROTARY

Service Club Delightfully Entertained Last Friday Evening.

The members of the Oakland Rotary club were delightfully and profitably entertained and instructed at their regular meeting last Friday evening by Mr. W. B. Burruss, inspirational sales counsellor, who addressed them for twenty-five minutes in his inimitable style. He so cleverly interspersed wisdom and wit that not a dull second was experienced.

The process of getting from where one is to where one wishes to be was the theme of his address and a searching analysis of individual conduct and responsibility from the viewpoint of service was recommended. Many and varied methods of learning from the experiences of others were mentioned but the one most stressed was that of books. Mr. Burruss urged the using of the numerous printed sources of information when in need of knowledge of a particular subject rather than taking the slow, painful and expensive method of learning by experience.

The Oakland Rotary club considers itself very fortunate to be able to have Mr. Burruss speak to its members. The community is to be congratulated in that there will be an opportunity for all to hear him on Friday, July 29, at 8 p. m., at the High school auditorium. There will also be musical numbers by local talent. Do not forget to get your tickets and hear this splendid program. You will get more than your money's worth and will be helping a local cause that is really worthy. Mr. Burruss is giving his time and talent and it is up to the people of the community to lend their support to make the result as profitable for the library as possible.

Lawyers Vacationing.

Members of the Garrett county bar, following the annual custom, have agreed to close their offices during the afternoons for a period of three weeks and in order to give publicity to the arrangement made by them, the following is published at the request of the attorneys:

In accordance with our plans of several years past we, the undersigned attorneys of Oakland, have agreed to close our offices during the afternoons for a period of three weeks, commencing with next Monday, July 22nd, and extending to and including Saturday, August 10th During this time our offices will be open for business as usual during the morning hours but will close at twelve o'clock noon and remain closed until the following morning. All those having legal business to transact are respectfully asked to keep the above in mind.

DIED

MRS. SUSAN LEWIS.

Mrs. Susan Lewis, wife of William Lewis, died at her home Friday, aged 86 years. She was born at Petersburg, W. Va., where she lived until 57 years ago when she came to Deer Park. She was a member of the United Brethren church.

The deceased was the mother of eleven children, the following of whom survive: John and Ernest Lewis, Cassville, W. Va.; Mrs. Laura Swick, Ridgeley; Charles Lewis, Kempton; Mrs. Mary Mayle, Deer Park; Mrs. Cora Kitzmiller, Sulphur City, W. Va.; George Lewis, Vindex; Mrs. Etta Saucer, Oakland. She leaves 44 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren.

Rev. S. J. Westfall conducted the funeral from the M. E. church with interment in Deer Park cemetery.

MRS. GERTRUDE DADE DARBY

Following a brief illness, Mrs. Gertrude Dade Darby, widow of James W. Darby, of Poolesville, and mother of the late Dr. John D. Darby, Oakland, died on Monday, July 8, at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Mattingly, in Warrenton, Va., aged 71.

She is survived by a son and two daughters, Reginald Darby and Mrs. Isaac Fyffe, and Mrs. Mattingly. The funeral took place Wednesday, July 10, at Poolesville.

MOVIE ENTERTAINMENT IS PLANNED FOR THE PARK

To Be Held Under Auspices of the Women's Civic Club.

The Women's Civic Club of Mountain Lake Park is going to give a moving picture entertainment in the large auditorium at the Park, Tuesday evening, July 23, at 8 o'clock. The proceeds are to be used for the trophies for the coming tennis tournament, August 12th to 17th, inclusive. In addition to the two reels of comics, the club has been fortunate in securing moving pictures of actual scenes in Africa and the Island of St. Helena from a traveller who has not only cruised about the Dark Continent but has penetrated the interior.

"Street scenes of native life were secured in Freetown, a British colony," the traveller states, "where the white man must live on the hills, surrounding a beautiful land-locked harbor, to escape the deadly tsetse fly, which rarely molests the negro. Interesting indeed is St. Helena, where Napoleon spent the last six years of his life. This island is seldom visited on account of adverse tides and its forbidding rock-bound coast—a veritable fortress. Then Victoria Falls, in Rodesia, Africa, the most beautiful falls in the world, being twice as high as Niagara and over a mile in width.

"Then Johannesburg and Praetonia, formerly the stronghold of the Boer Republic, visiting a nearby diamond mine, viewing the actual operations. The jungle, the headwaters of the White Nile and beautiful Repon Falls. A native hunt of wild elephants, witnessing its death by the spears of the natives—a thrilling and revolting sight. Hoards of natives dancing around the fallen beast, singing their songs of triumph."

A delightful and entertaining evening has been arranged.

The admission will be 25 and 35 cents.

INSPECT BEDDING BEFORE BUYING IS ADVICE GIVEN

All Sorts of Things Masquerade Under Name of Bedding

"Nothing bought today offers greater opportunity for deception or substitution than articles of bedding," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said recently in speaking of the operation of the State Bedding Law.

"In connection with the inspections made by the Department under the Bedding Law, our representatives have found all sorts of things masquerading under names to which they were not entitled—a vegetable fibre labeled 'hair'; chopped chicken feathers tagged as 'down'; shoddy, listed as 'all new cotton'; even chunks of dirt swept up into the fillings of more or less expensively covered comforts.

"But the most serious menace to health was discovered recently in the operations of a concern which claimed to specialize in the renovating or remaking of bedding for religious institutions. Inspection of the plant showed that the stock from which a large number of mattresses and pillows were to be made consisted of a number of second hand mattresses, pillows and feather beds, bought from a rag dealer, evidently salvaged from garbage piles or dumps and all of it heavily infested with vermin. Fortunately, for the health and comfort of the prospective purchasers, the discovery was made before any of this material was put on the market.

"Before they buy mattresses, comforts, pillows or other bedding, it would be well for official stamp bearing the name of the State Department of Health.

"The State Bedding Law requires each mattress pillow or comfort, made or offered for sale in the State. to have attached to it a tag on which is printed or stamped, a truthful statement of the material used in filling it. The stamp bearing the name of the Maryland State Department of Health shows that the factories in which the articles were made and the materials used, are regularly inspected by the Department."

Grafton Scouts Return Home After Two Weeks in Camp.

The troop of Boy Scouts sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Grafton, W. Va., under the scoutmastership of Rev. A. J. Torrey, formerly of Oakland, which has been encamped on Deep Creek Lake for the past two weeks, left Sunday afternoon. The camp was considered very successful by the scoutmaster, who created 22 second-class scouts since the beginning of the outing.

The troop has been organized only since March, 1929, and all were enthusiastic about the camping site of the Oakland troop of Boy Scouts, where they spent the two weeks. The members of the troop were taken by boat from the camp to the Allegheny Boat club by Lawrence Dixon, where they were met by their parents and Kiwanians of Grafton.

A Pen Picture of the Bridge of Death

Napoleon's star of conquest sank when his stupendous campaign against Russia in 1812 ended in one of the most terrible and fatal collapses that military history records.

The retreat from Moscow was immortalized by novelists and by painters. It remained, though, for a humble participant in that enormous holocaust to draw a picture of its crowning catastrophe more intense and more effective than any a fictionist ever achieved.

The chronicler of the awful scenes at the crossing of the River Berezina was one Constant Hubery, who, as a valet to Napoleon, accompanied his master through the Russian misadventure. Under the title of "The Memoirs of Napoleon," a translation of Constant's writings was printed in 1903 by the Scribners and it is from this volume that I have drawn for certain extracts printed here.

Napoleon, entering Russia in June, 1812, took with him an immense force. Until the great World war of more than a century later accustomed us to armed hosts numbering up into the millions, his total strength of 480,000 men seemed tremendous.

From the very outset, the invasion of the enmy's country was marked by setbacks. Sunstroke, heat, colic among the horses as a result of feeding them on green grain, worked heavy losses in the columns. Straggling began; the road back to the frontier was lined with deserters.

Before the oncoming French the Russians steadily retreated, burning the country as they fell back. Napoleon's plans to force a pitched battle all failed; his elusive enemy declined the issue. He chased them across a desolated terrain and all the while the vigor and the morale of his troops declined alarmingly.

He reached Moscow, expecting to find there provisions and shelter for the winter. But the city was fired by agents left behind for that purpose when the Russians evacuated it, and within two days the greater part of Moscow was in smoking ashes and the French were compelled to quit it.

They [illegible] their way through a barren land and now the rigors of the northern winter added to their miseries. Frost fought on the side of the Russians who constantly harassed their march, preying on the rear guard and picking off stray detachments.

It was at the Berezina, on November [illegible] that the climax of disaster. With enormous losses the army had reached the passage of the river. From that time on it was a mob, the retreat a flight of starving, freezing fugitives trapped between a hostile climate and beleaguered by wery and predatory swarms of foes.

CONSTANT was well-named. No man could have been more faithful in his devotion to the imperial master than he to Napoleon. We take it the memories of the adoring valet-historian at the point where he begins to describe the army's approach to the bridge of death.

There is one curly paragraph which describes very graphically and very simply the state to which the once-disciplined legions of France had degenerated. He says:

"One brave and kindly officer took off his own uniform to give it to a poor soldier who was razed garments, exposed him naked to the cold, putting on his own back a tattered old infantry coat, because he was more capable of resisting the rigors of the weather. If excessive misery hardens the soul, on the other hand it sometimes expands it to the highest point, as one may see. Many of the most wretched bore their bridles out in despite. In fact, there was a resignation and a coolness that made one shudder. In this disastrous campaign I saw what qualities are played force and human courage where that moral force which is born of a determined will is needed."

Working in Water.

He comes next to Napoleon, of whom always he speaks as the emperor. The well-being and the comfort of Napoleon were of more consequence to him than the fate of the hundreds of thousands of suffering wretches who made up the rank and file. This is easy to understand. Constant may have been a painstaking chronicler; certainly his eye was quick to see, and his pen to set down, the horrors that multiplied about him in that next month of recorded years. But above all he was the servant. He goes on:

"It was faithful to see these moving masses sometimes halting progressively, the advance corps first, then those that followed, then the last. When Marshal Ondinot, who was ahead, suspended his march for some unknown reason, there would be a movement of general uneasiness, then alarming rumors would begin and, as nobody knew everything are inclined to believe everything, both true and false things easily found credit. Only five days in the evening of the 27th some trestles had been fixed about the stream, constructed of wooden beams taken from Polish cabins. The trestles gave way at a little past five o'clock. They were not strong enough. It was plain that next day the army would have to fight the enemy's fire; but there was no room for choice. At the end of that night of anguish and sufferings of every sort the first trestles were driven down into the river.

"The soldiers stood up to their hips in water full of floating ice in order to drive the piles several feet deep into a mud bottom. Then, struggling against the most horrible fatigue, pushing away with their hands enormous masses of ice which would have knocked them down and submerged them by their weight; fighting, in a word, and fighting with success, against the greatest enemy of life. Well, that is what some French pontoniers did. Several of them were either dragged into the torrents or suffocated by the cold.

"The emperor awaited day in a wretched hut. In the morning he said to Prince Berthier: 'Well! Berthier, how are we to get out of this?' He was sitting in his chamber, great tears were rolling down his cheeks, which were redder than usual.

The French Leaders Really Lead.

"But the [illegible] exchanged very few words. The emperor seemed overwhelmed with sadness. It was then that the king of Naples spoke frankly to his brother-in-law, entreating him in the name of the army to think of his own safety, the peril being so imminent. Some brave Poles offered to form the escort of the emperor. They could go faster up the Berezina and [illegible] five days. The emperor shook his head in sign of refusal and said nothing. The king understood, and there was no further mention of it.

"Before the bridge was finished [illegible] one hundred men were partially transported from the other side of the river on two miserable rafts which they could with difficulty steer against the current. From the shore we saw them greatly shaken by the great pieces of ice which stopped the river. These masses would come to the very edge of the raft. Meeting an obstacle, they would stop for a while and then be drawn underneath those feeble planks and produce horrible shocks. Our soldiers would stop the largest ones with their bayonets and make them deviate beyond the rafts.

[illegible] on the other bank were the brave M. Jacqueminot, aide-de-camp of Marshal Oudinot, and Count Predzieczki. This last named was a brave Lithuanian whom the emperor greatly liked, especially when he shared our sufferings through nobility and devotion. Both of them crossed the river on horseback. The army uttered shouts of admiration on seeing that its leaders were the first to give the example of intrepidity. There was, in fact, enough to disturb the strongest minds. The current forced the poor horses to swim obliquely across, which doubled the length of the passage. Then came the masses of ice, which, striking against their chests and sides, inflicted piteous gashes.

Over a Road of Bodies.

"At one o'clock General Legrand and his division blocked up the bridge constructed for the infantry. The emperor was on the opposite side. Several caissons got entangled in each other and stopped the march for an instant. The emperor sprang on to the bridge, put his own hands to the teams, and aided in freeing the pieces. The enthusiasm of the soldiers was extreme. It was to shouts of 'Long Live the Emperor!' that the infantry landed on the other shore.

"When the artillery and the baggage were crossing, the bridge was so thronged that it broke. Then ensued that retrograde movement which crowded back in horrible confusion the whole multitude of stragglers who were advancing like driven cattle behind the artillery. Another bridge had been hastily constructed as if in sad prevision of the breaking of the first one; but the second one was narrow and unprotected at the sides. However, it was a matter-left which at first glance seemed very precious in such an appalling calamity; but what miseries ensued! The hazards flocked thither in droves. As the artillery, the baggage—in a word, the entire material of the army—had been in advance on the first bridge when it broke, and by the sudden recoil which took place, the catastrophe became known, then those who had been behind were the first to gain the other bridge.

"But it was necessary that the artillery should cross first. It pressed forward then with impetuosity toward the only way of salvation which was left. Here the pen refuses to describe the scene of horrors that took place. It was universally over a road of crushed bodies that the wagons of every sort reached the bridge. On this occasion one saw what baseness, what unfortunate ferocity, even, can be imparted to the soul by the instinct of self-preservation. There were some of the stragglers, the cruelest of any, who wounded and killed with bayonet thrusts the unfortunate horses that did not obey the whip of their drivers.

Saved From Icy Depths.

"I have said that the bridge had no ledges at the sides. Crowds of poor wretches who were trying to cross it were seen to fall into the streams and be sucked under the masses of ice. Others tried to cling to the miserable planks of the bridge, and would remain hanging over the abyss until their hands, crushed by the wheels of the wagons, would force them to let go their hold. They dropped and were engulfed by the waters. Whole artillery wagons, horses and drivers alike, were plunged into the stream.

"Poor women were seen holding their children out of the water, as if to retard their death by a few moments. The emperor wished to retrace his steps, hoping his presence might restore order; he was dissuaded from this, and in a manner so significant that he struggled against the impulse of his heart and stayed where he was, and assuredly it was not his grandeur that riveted him to the shore. You could see what sufferings he endured when, at every instant, he would ask how the passage was getting on. If the cannons could still be heard rolling over the bridge. If there were fewer cries from that side. 'Imprudent people,' he would say, 'why could they not have waited a little longer?'

"There were fine examples of devotion on this unfortunate occasion. A young artillery-man sprang into the water to save a poor woman who, encumbered by her two children, was trying to reach the other shore in a small boat. The boat was too heavy. An enormous piece of ice struck the boat and it foundered. The cannoneer seized one of the children and swam ashore with it. The mother and the other infant perished. This good young man brought up the little orphan as his son.

The Emperor Shivers While the Soldiers Die.

"Some officers harnessed themselves to sledges so as to fetch along a number of their companions who had been made helpless by their wounds. They wrapped the poor fellows up as warmly as possible, cautiously [illegible] Afterwards with a glass of brandy when any could be procured, and lavished on them the most touching attentions. [illegible] S. and Canada and uncertainty of seeding conditions in the Southern Hemisphere. Unfavorable weather conditions for spring wheat in North America was a strengthening factor in the wheat market. The condition of the U. S. spring wheat crop appears more favorable than for the Canadian crop, although lack of moisture has caused material damage.

The National Broadcasting Company has offered and the Secretary of Agriculture has accepted an invitation to participate in a National Farm [illegible] ning Monday, July 2, 1932, and ending Saturday, July 30.

This program supercedes the 15 minute network program which the department has carried on through [illegible] middlewestern, southwestern and southeastern groups of radio stations associated with the National Broadcasting Company. Briefly, the National Broadcasting Company is supplying 30 minutes of information and entertainment from Washington and its agencies to build around the Department of Agriculture 15 minutes each day. Besides this the company is adding the sixth day of each week to the schedule for the use of the department, the Land Grant colleges and the National Farm organizations.

The program will be known as the National Farm and Home Hour, and started Monday, July 5, 1926, and will be broadcast Monday to Saturday, inclusive, 12:30 to 1:15 p. m., Central Standard Time, until Monday, September 26. On the latter date the permanent schedule of 12 noon to 12:45 p. m., Central Standard Time, will begin.

The New Farm Relief Law.

The farm aid legislation passed last month is potentially a very important factor in the agricultural situation. Just what will be attempted or accomplished under this legislation remains to be seen. Apparently, however, it carries powers which are capable of influencing the production, distribution and price of important farm products to a profound degree.

Those who are concerned with economic developments in agriculture, should familiarize themselves with [illegible] new law. It represents a landmark in the postwar story of economic events.

Anyone who wishes to obtain a copy of the legislation may do so by writing to the senator making for the "Agricultural Marketing Act, 1929."

Memorandum on the Mexican Bean Beetle.

In most cases throughout the state this year early market and garden beans matured before the first brood of Mexican bean lettle larvae reached sufficient size to do commercial damage, but later plantings have been [illegible] ously injured where control measures were not applied.

Field tests and observations by this department in the various sections of the state this year have shown that both dusts and sprays have given control. For dusting the 20-20-60 copper arsenate lime dust or the magnesium lime dust 1-to-4 are both safe and effective. The former dust has the advantage of controlling bean diseases and is particularly recommended on limà beans where mildew and leaf spot are factors in production. The number of other uses for which the copper arsenate lime dust may be used on the farm i. e., on potatoes, tomatoes, cantaloupes, cucumbers, melons, etc., make it a most desirable dust. For spraying magnesium arsenate 1 pound to 50 gallons of water, or calcium arsenate 1 pound to 4-6 Bordeaux mixture have proved most satisfactory where good machinery was used.

Every effort must be made by canners, truckers, market gardeners and home gardeners within the next few days to protect later beans from the ravages of the second brood of beetles which are appearing now.

First, all early beans should be [illegible] dusted down as soon as the crop is picked to destroy all stages of the insect that may be on the plants. This step is urged, for when mature, these beans will migrate to later plantings. Second, begin systematic spraying or dusting as soon as adult beetles appear in considerable numbers in the bean fields. Repeat these applications at 8 or 10 intervals until the bean pods have formed on snap beans or until the infestation is cleaned up on limas.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Many states now have in force rigid restrictions on the interstate movement of plants, requiring all shipments to bear a certificate of inspection.

In a short time the State Entomology Department will be making such inspections that are necessary for growers to market their plants. The inspection is made free of charge, therefore it is important that growers make application at once if they expect to sell any plants of any kind.

Anyone desiring this service should apply to the County Agent's office as soon as possible.

From recent reports received from various sources indications are that the apple crop in the state will be slightly larger than that of last year.

OAKLAND AND MT. LAKE DESCRIBED IN ARTICLE

Feature Writer of Clarksburg Telegram Takes Trip on Monongahela West Penn Bus

In a fifth of a series of articles dealing with bus and motor trips to various points in West Virginia, written by Max R. Fullerton, and appearing in the Clarksburg Telegram, Clarksburg, West Va., the trip from Clarksburg to Oakland and Mt. Lake Park via the Monongahela West Penn Public Service company's bus is described in detail.

Practically all of the article dealing with the trip from Kingwood to Mt. Lake Park is reprinted here.

"S" Curve

Just out of Kingwood, one tops a slight rise to obtain a final view of the surrounding country before the descent of the Cheat river valley at Caddell This descent is winding and steep and as one reaches the railroad track on this side of the river at Caddell there is an "S" curve of considerable size.

In a few short weeks, Caddell will be swarming with olive drab uniforms as the West Virginia National Guard goes into camp on the great state rifle range a few hundred yards up the valley from the bridge.

Crossing the bridge, the view is entirely cut off by steep hillsides, except where the Cheat river battles its way down the valley, changing its course every now and then to accommodate little, grassy islets.

Some Hill!

Those who have braved Summit mountain near Uniontown, Pa., but have not tried Caddell mountain, have something in store for them. The consensus of motorists is that Caddell is much the worse of the two. It is four miles long and is a continual pull from bottom to top. This is indicated by the fact that at Kingwood the elevation is 1,800 feet above the sea level, but at the top of Caddell it is 2,800 feet, a rise of 1,000 feet in a little over four miles.

One of the finest things about Caddell mountain is that there are comparatively few road signs to mar its green beauty—and there are only two hot dog stands.

After quitting the summit of Caddell, the highway rolls along on top of the ridge, throwing open a view that should teach West Virginians that nowhere is there anything comparable with the Mountain State's own beauty.

Little Valleys

On either side of the highway—hundreds of feet below—lie little valleys, made by the junction of two or more hogbacks—some with tiny farms and others cradling woodlots of second growth timber.

Six miles from the top of Caddell we turn a curve and suddenly Terra Alta bursts into view. This little town of about 2,000 inhabitants is noted as the highest town of its size in the state and for the numerous camping facilities around it.

The main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company runs through the town and long association with train smoke has given much of the community a dingy look.

Sanitarium

Leaving Terra Alta we notice its high school, a modern building capable of housing about 300 students. Just beyond is Hopemont, the state tuberculosis sanitarium, with its many pretty brown cottages and its big administration building.

A large and modern farm is maintained in connection with the institution and a herd of seventy-five Holstein cows lazily graze in the rich bottom land on the right side of the highway.

Four miles past Hopemont is Hutton Md., on the state line. Hutton is little more than a railroad hesitation place, with a few houses scattered about.

Between Hutton and the next village, which is Crellin, Md., are the ruins of an old tannery, once giving employment to a number of workmen, but burned to the ground about five years ago.

Youghiogheny

At Crellin one crosses the Youghiogheny river, a spindling little stream and nothing like the big river it becomes by the time it has reached Connellsville, Pa.

Just a few miles of this excellent Maryland highway and we cross the Little Youghiogheny river into Oakland, Md., known far and wide as a place where one may be married without the red tape which hampers Cupid in other states. Statistics show that 1,300 marriage licenses were issued in 1928, mostly to elopers from Pennsylvania and West Virginia, although other states were represented also.

Oakland is a little town, rather pretty; and its court house, although erected about a quarter of a century ago, has been kept in perfect repair and looks as if it were built but a year or so ago.

Summer Resort

From Oakland it is but two miles to Mountain Lake Park, where so many West Virginians spend their summers Mountain Lake Park is a town in itself and in the summer time teems with hundreds of tourists from all over the nation.

DECREASE IS NOTED IN MARRIAGE APPLICATIONS

Twenty-two Permits Are Issued During the Past Week.

Following the Fourth of July and a day rush last week when 42 marriage licenses were issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court, there has been a scarcity of applications, according to A. G. Ross, deputy clerk. There were only 22 permits granted during the past week, ending Monday at noon, slightly over half the number of the week previous. This brought the total for the month thus far to 68, which is 40 below the July record of last year, and 47 below the all-time July record.

Ten of those issued were granted on Saturday, usually the busiest day of the week for the marriage bureau. One license issued was marked "don't publish."

Drake Brothers' Circus Coming To Oakland, August 8.

"With spring comes the circus, is an old saying and it means "Oh Joy" for the kiddies as well as the grown-ups. The rings filled with racing, prancing, dancing ponies at one man's command, unfalteringly running and doing all the feats of the big brother horses. The troups of trained canaries displaying wonderful intelligence, proving that they are thinking individuals conclusively is an inspiration to the young and old and the most thrilling and entertaining display ever seen beneath a circus canvass.

The Drake Bros.' show presents a long, varied program of feature acts that are a surprise when seen with other than the large circuses playing the big cities. The many clever trapeze and aerialist celebrities, the lady with the iron jaw, the swinging and revolving ladder acts, the comedy clown bar numbers by those white-faced court jesters. The Yodishas Japanese troupe of headline acts from the Orient direct this season with this circus in their athletic pyramid feats of agility and cleverness, juggling, aerial head balancing acts of endurance and skill. The Drake Bros. in a very painstaking manner still maintain their slogan, "the circus with a thousand wonders and novelties that keep the rings well filled with educational surprises." The performances are given under waterproof canvass at 2 and 8 p. m., rain or shine, and the circus presents a novelty feature free outside exhibition at 1 and 7 p. m. on the B. & O. show grounds.

There is weeping and wailing in Mexico City. The bartenders refused to take the new small U. S. money—thinking it was counterfeit.

MT. LAKE PARK.

The subject of this column this week is entirely different from what we had written. We have been halted and switched. When we mentioned to the general business manager of the Deep Creek Lake Regatta that we had boosted the Home Coming Week for Mt. Lake Park in this issue, she said "Drop it. Here is something hot," or words to that effect. So we halted the press and switched in order to tell you that what, in our judgment, is the best and biggest thing pulled off in Garrett County is going to happen along in August. And that is an up-to-date, honest-to-goodness regatta and pageant at the big lake. An account of it will be found on the front page.

All we want to say here is that if there is any one in Mt. Lake Park community who thinks that because it is to be held at Deep Creek Lake it holds no interest for him or her, banish the idea. It will be the biggest advertisement Garrett County and incidentally Mt. Lake Park has ever received. The results in dollars and cents (if you want only to consider it from that standpoint) will be reflected for years to come in increased number of visitors and tourists at the Park. Every one will be benefited—the merchant, the hotels, the boarding houses, the laborer. It will be the beginning of the era of increased prosperity.

So if and when the committee calls on you for your time, your labor, your money or effort of any kind to help put the show over, "kick in" and look pleasant.

Necessity is the mother of invention is proven here at the Park. A young man, who has been engaged in helping in the construction of a new tube in New York was affected by the high pressure of the condensed air under which he was compelled to work. He came to Mt. Lake to regain his health and was advised to take sun baths. Difficult? Not for him. Finding a cellar exposed to the sun light by reason of the house being destroyed by fire, he hauled in several loads of sand—and there you are. Every bright, sunshiny day you can see him (the gods forbid) taking his ultra-violet bath.

The Pittsburgh Conference Epworth League Institute ended on the 15th. Most of the young people left for their homes on Monday, but several remained over for the Baltimore Conference which began the same day and will continue until the 22nd. Thus the Park will enjoy two weeks laughter and song with a little (speak softly) work for Cupid on the side. Five hundred are expected.

WHAT IS A GOOD CITIZEN?

Miss Martha Jane Graber has now joined the growing list of aliens denied American citizenship because they cannot conscientiously swear to bear arms for this country. Miss Graber was born in Alsace Lorraine. She is a student in Bluffton College Ohio, preparing to be a medical missionary in Africa. She is a licensed nurse in Iowa where her mother lives. She wants to be an American citizen and has passed every test except that relating to taking up arms in her country's defense.

In answer to the judge's questions the young woman declared that if her mother were threatened she would try to protect her; that she would die in defense of her mother; that it would be unethical for a nurse to kill human beings; and that she could not kill even to save her mother. The judge praised her honesty, humanity and her courage while refusing her citizenship.

Perhaps this sort of questioning is necessary in examining aliens who would become Americans. Yet there are many native-born citizens who develop conscientious objections to killing human being even in a war emergency. Should not their citizenship rights be taken from them in that case?

Perhaps the Supreme Court can do something about this by interpreting anew that part of the oath of allegiance which deals with bearing arms. If no change is possible this country stands to lose some potentially fine citizens.—Cumberland Evening Times.

26 SCHOOL BUS ROUTES SCHEDULED FOR 1929-30

Board of Education Authorizes Solicitation of Bids for That Number at Meeting

Authorizing the solicitation of bids for the transportation of school children for the coming school term, and for the furnishing of coal used in all public schools of the county, were two important subjects decided at the regular monthly meeting of the County Board of Education, held on Tuesday afternoon at the school board offices in Oakland. H. A. Loraditch, president of the board, John O. Thayer, John W. McCullough, and F. E. Rathbun, secretary, were present at the meeting.

An advertisement appearing in The Republican today shows that busses must be run this year on 26 different routes, The Board to furnish the bus on three of them. Sealed bids for the transportation of school children will be received until Saturday, August 3, at 12 o'clock noon.

The routes include Hutton to Oakland, Jennings to Grantsville, Thayerville to Accident, Bittinger to Accident, Cove to Accident, Blooming Rose to Friendsville, Round Glade to Bray, Swallow Falls to Bray, Swanton to Oakland, Meese to Baker, Pa., Green's neighborhood to Avilton, Steiding to Deer Park, Sharpless to Mt. Zion, Meadow Mountain to Black Hawk, Weir to Lonaconing, Long Stretch-Pope-Boucher to Grantsville, Shield's Run to Red House, Harris-Bennett to Kempton, John Friend to McCabe, New Germany to Grantsville, sixth and seventh grade pupils from Gauer, Red House, Sunnyside and Swan Meadow to Oakland, Painter to Swanton, Keyser's Ridge to Accident, Pennsylvania State line-Keyser's Ridge to Grantsville, Thayerville to Oakland, Selbysport to Friendsville.

The bids for the furnishing of coal will be received at the office of the Board until noon Saturday, August 3.

The board decided to meet in short session on Saturday afternoon to open bids received for installing heating plants in Kitzmiller and Swanton school buildings. Other routine matters occupied the rest of the meeting.

KEMPTON MAN IS JAILED AFTER SHOOTING AFFAIR

Being Detained Here Pending Preliminary Hearing July 31

Mitchell Lewis, 25, Kempton, is recovering from a flesh wound said to have been inflicted by G. E. Bennett, 36, also of Kempton, with a revolver, Sunday afternoon. Bennett is being held in the Garrett County Jail until July 31 when he will be given a preliminary hearing by Justice W. A. Gonder on the charge preferred hy the officers of the State, that of feloniously shooting and wounding.

Bennett was arrested Sunday evening by Sheriff W. D. Casteel, Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith and Mayor L. M. Fraley. He offered no resistance to being placed under arrest and according to the evidence to be produced at the hearing by the officers, the shooting was accidental.

Young People's League to Meet At M. E. Church

The Young People's League meeting for next Sunday will be held in the Methodist church. George Altstetter will lead and his topic will deal with the position of the Church in the community. The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock.

The picnic at Kaese's Mill followed by the meeting in the Accident Lutheran Church last Sunday was termed a success. About 40 young people took part. The meeting opened with a candle-light service followed by a talk by Ellwood Hauser, the leader. After this was a general discussion on citizenship in which all took part. There were also several musical numbers as well as sentence prayers.

Civic Club to Meet Tuesday

The Oakland Civic club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. W. W. Grant on Tuesday afternoon, July 30. Arrangements are being made for an excellent program, and all members are urged to attend the session. The committee in charge is hoping to have one of the missionaries from Mt. Lake Park, deliver a short talk.

INJURED MAN IS FOUND NEAR MT. LAKE STATION

William Mackay, Colored, Suffering From Serious Hurts

Suffering seriously from a broken leg and other injuries apparently sustained when struck by a passing train, William Mackay, colored, was found sprawled across the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near the Mt. Lake Park station, at five o'clock yesterday morning and was in a critical condition when rushed to the Grafton hospital.

Mackay, who is thought to be a resident of Clarksburg, was first discovered by Hamilton Weeks and rushed to Grafton on train No. 3.

First attempts to identify the man were made by authorities at Mt. Lake but proved futile as Mackay refused to discuss the accident and at first refused to tell his name. He was removed to Clarkshurg from Grafton yesterday afternoon.

It is supposed he was employed in one of the hotels either at Deer Park or Mt. Lake prior to his accident.

WATER REGATTA ON DEEP CREEK LAKE POSTPONED

Postponement Due. Committee Says. To a Combination of Unavoidable Circumstances

The Deep Creek Lake Regatta, to have been held at the lake, seven miles north of Oakland, on August 9, has been indefinitely postponed, according to an announcement from the committee in charge of the affair. The reason given was due to a combination of unavoidable circumstances.

In view of this, the committee felt that if the regatta could have been held on August 23, all arrangements could have been completed and its success assured, but soon after this date was fixed it was learned that a similar carnival was to be held at Marietta, Ohio, on that date. The date of August 16 conflicted with Mountain Lake Park, and this left August 9 as the only open date.

Just as plans were being matured Dr. T. E. Bullard, who had been put in charge of the general arrangements for the affair, issuing invitations to boat clubs, securing entrants etc., was painfully injured when he fell and broke several of his ribs. Considering all this, the committee concluded that it would be best to postpone the regatta until next year rather than attempt to carry out the plans it had in mind in so short a time.

"Just because the regatta has been postponed this year is no reason why we should not have a really successful one next year," Carl Frame, secretary of the organization said yesterday. "The committee will be continued and will devote all the time necessary in perfecting plans for a really great affair next year, to be held on a date to be announced later, probably the Fourth of July or thereabouts. This will give ample time for it to be advertised in all the sport magazines and to draw entrants from this entire eastern section of the United States. Next year we will put it across in excellent shape."

Eleven Take Examination for Free Scholarships

Eleven Garrett county High school graduates took the competitive examinations for free scholarships to a number of Maryland schools, which was held in the Oakland High school building last Saturday morning, Mr. F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, stated.

Content examinations were given in the following: English, Literature and Grammar, Mathematics, Science, History and Social Science, and the following took the examinations: Robert Stemple, Hermit B. Lohr, Richard Stemple, Adeline Sincell, Leonard Murphy, Oakland; Roland C. Ready, Mt. Lake Park; Raymond O. McCullough, Mary Elizabeth Friend, Friendsville; Ola A. King, John P. Speicher, Accident; and Harry F. Arnold, Kitzmiller.

Free and partial scholarships are available to Garrett county students in Maryland College for Women, Maryland Institute of Art and Design, St. John's College, Blue Ridge College, St. Mary's Seminary, Western Maryland College, and a probable free scholarship in Washington College.

SUMMER MISSION SCHOOL TO HOLD 13TH SESSION

Nationally Known Speakers Scheduled for Meeting at Mt. Lake July 31 to August 7

The thirteenth session of the Mountain Lake Park Interdenominational Summer School of Missions will be held this year July 31 to August 7 at Mountain Lake Park, Miss Lulie P. Hooper, publicity chairman, has announced, and will include a school for seniors, young people, and juniors. A faculty of nationally known specialists has been provided for this school.

Instructors for the school will include Mrs. H. C. Bell, field secretary of the United Lutheran church in America; Mrs. Helen E. Scott, missionary to Turkey and world traveler; Mrs. F. I. Johnson, New York, an outstanding character in world-wide mission work, and who is also chairman of the program committee; Dr. W. D. Schermerhorn, Garrett Bihlical Institute.

Dr. F. I. Johnson of the Board of Foreign Missions, Methodist Episcopal church, will give a special course in five periods, which will include a study of Japan, China, the Philippine Islands, India, and Egypt, as they are.

Camp For Girls

Camp Gleam is a real home for the girls. A large, comfortable 22-room house with modern conveniences and good beds, plenty of carefully prepared home-cooked food, home-like, and healthful, and will be under the direct supervision of Miss Mary A. Collins, of Muncie, Indiana.

It is urged by the sponsors of the camp and school that all church societies send delegates for the week's outing and instruction.

There will be special speakers at the numerous meetings, including: Bishop Frank W. Warne, of Indiana; Dr. Frank Cartwright, of China; Mrs. Perry Bruerer, of India; Miss Gilbert, of the United Brethren church; Miss Elizie Scott, of the Baptist church; Miss Lowrey, of the Christian church, and others.

The Mountain Lake Park Summer School of Missions has been an annual affair for a number of years, with the exception of 1927, when it was allowed to lapse. Last year the school was a wonderful success, and this year it is the thought of those undertaking it to excel the interest and attendance then evidenced.

Anyone desiring information of the summer school is requested to write Miss Emma Hamill, secretary, Mountain Lake Park, Md.

DRAMATIC AND HUMOROUS RECITAL TO BE RENDERED

W. B. Burruss to Entertain Audience Monday Evening

A dramatic and humorous recital will be given by W. B. Burruss, inspirational sales counsellor, Washington, D. C., and summer resident of Oakland, at the High school auditorium, Oakland, Monday evening, July 29, at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will go toward the benefit of the Oakland Free Public Library, and the recital is being sponsored by the Oakland Rotary club.

There will also be a short musical program, according to R. R. Gilbert, a member of the committee. There will be vocal numbers by Rev. Joseph T. Kloman, Episcopal student rector, and Mrs. Frederick Thayer, Jr., and a piano solo by Miss Mary Virginia Willison.

An admission of 50 cents will be charged and an interesting time is promised all those who attend.

Enter the Horseshoe Tournament.

SCOUTS GETTING READY FOR TWO WEEKS' OUTING

30 or More Boys Will Leave on Tuesday for Permanent Camp on Deep Creek Lake

Thirty or more members of Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, their scoutmaster, assistant, and the camp cook, will leave Tuesday morning for their quarters on Deep Creek Lake, for their fifth annual camping trip. They expect to remain in camp for two weeks, during which time they will have plenty of sleep, recreation, fun, and work.

A semi-military schedule will be maintained throughout the two weeks, conforming to the best Scout camp standards, but this program will be interrupted on Wednesdays and Sundays when visitors may come and inspect the camp site and visit with the scouts.

The daily schedule will begin at 6 o'clock in the morning and will consist of setting up exercises, cleaning up the grounds and inspection, rest hour, play hour, study hour, swimming three times a day, and a camp fire hour and program in the evening. All will be in bed by 9 o'clock.

William Turney will again be the camp cook, and all who have tasted the meals he prepares are sure of being pleased at least three times a day while in camp. James Lee, Eagle scout, will assist the scoutmaster in his work, and will be in charge of the swimming periods.

The majority of scouts will be second class or above that rank at the time camp opens, and those who are still Tenderfoot scouts expect to pass their final requirements the first few days in camp.

The expenses of the camping trip are being taken care of by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Donations have also been received from the Oakland Rotary club, Knights of Pythias, and others.

BORELLI AND KIGHT HELD UNDER FEDERAL CHARGES

Given Hearing at Cumberland Before U. S. Commissioner

Alfonso Borelli, Oakland, Mrs. Marguerite Kight, south of Gortner, who were arrested a week ago by Federal Prohibition agents on alleged violations of the liquor laws, and taken before U. S. Commissioner Thomas J. Anderson, Cumberland, for a hearing, were each held under $1,000 bond on charges of sale and possession of liquor.

Mrs. Grachia Borelli was also cited to appear. James B. Nally, charged with sale and possession, was cited to appear July 31 for a hearing.

The hearing of Mrs. Dorcas Moyer, Wilson, W. Va., charged with sale and possession of liquor, was continued when it was testified that her husband, Aaron W. Moyer, fled when the officers approached. Temporary bond of $500 was fixed.

Officers Discover Still and Capture Reputed Owner

Albert Wilson, Kitzmiller, is in the Garrett County Jail following his arrest Tuesday afternoon by Deputies Cole, Burton and Sollars on charges of manufacturing and possessing contraband liquor.

Authorities discovered a 37-gallon still Tuesday morning which at the time was not being operated. They waited until the reputed owner of the outfit appeared and had begun preparations to turn out some of the famed "mountain dew," when they placed him under arrest. He is being held in lieu of $1,000 bond for his appearance at the December Term of the Garrett County Court.

BOY PAINFULLY BURNED IN SLIGHT FIRE AT PARK

Gasoline Ignites at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Tasker.

Walter Tasker, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Tasker, Mountain Lake Park, was painfully but not seriously burned on his left leg yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock when some gasoline exploded in a room on the second floor of the family home located on Cozy Row.

The injured boy was brought to Oakland by some members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, which organization was called to the scene of the fire, and given medical attention by Dr. Broadwater. He was later taken back to his home by Ernest Townshend.

The blaze following the explosion of the gasoline had been extinguished before the arrival of the department and before any material damage had been done the building.

The boy was engaged in cleaning some clothing with the gasoline and the fumes ignited in some way, which communicated to the leg of his trousers with the result that he suffered superficial burns.

HORSESHOE TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD IN THE COUNTY

County Champion Will Be Decided After Meet to be Held in Oakland on August 22.

County champion in horseshoe pitching will be decided at a meet to be held in Oakland on Thursday, August 22, according to L. M. Fraley, chairman of the committee. The winners will compete in the State-wide tournament to be held in Baltimore in September, under the auspices of the Sunpapers and the Playground Athletic League of Baltimore.

The committee in charge consists of Mayor Fraley, chairman; Henry McComas, W. R. Browning, Oakland; Henry Speicher, Accident; Charles F. May, Mt. Lake Park; and Bayard Keller, Grantsville. The committee named Frank Hansen, Baltimore, director of Camp Minnetoska, to conduct the tournament and serve as referee.

All those desiring to enter the contest should send their name and address to Mr. Hansen, or send in the entry blanks appearing in the Baltimore Sun.

Each county champion will receive a set of cromium horseshoes from the Sunpapers. The runner-up in the State championship contest will receive a set of silver shoes and the third best man will get a set of cromium shoes.

All horseshoe pitchers are asked to get their entry blanks filled out and mailed and then start practicing. All entries must be from Maryland.

ANNUAL "LUTHERAN DAY" TO BE HELD ON JULY 31

Program Includes Concert by Boys' Band and Two Addresses

Lutherans and their friends from the territory of the West Virginia Synod and Western Maryland will gather at Mountain Lake Park next Wednesday, July 31, for their annual program and day of fellowship. After a basket lunch the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band will give a concert which will he followed at 2 o'clock by two addresses.

Dr. Charles F. Sanders, head of the philosophy department of Gettysburg college, recently returned from a trip around the world, will be the first speaker. He will be followed by Mrs. H. C. Bell, field secretary of the Women's Missionary society of the United Lutheran Church. Rev. R. T. Vorberg, Keyser, W. Va., will preside and the quartet from his church will sing. Greetings will be brought by Rev. W. P. Cline, Fairmont, W. Va., president of the Synod.

"All are invited to share in this program," Rev. C. A. Shilke said.

Wilbur Davis Paralyzed

Regret was expressed on every hand yesterday morning when it was announced that Mr. Wilbur Davis had suffered a stroke of paralysis, his entire right side and power of speech being affected. This morning the patient, who resides with his mother, Mrs. C. S. Davis, shows a slight improvement.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION IN SESSION AT MT. LAKE PARK

Nationally Known Speakers to Address Delegates —Oratorical Contest on Friday

The 37th National Convention, Young People's Christian Union of the United Presbyterian Church of North America, opened at Mt. Lake Park yesterday. For a number of days, the secretary, M. M. Shaw, with his assistants, have been busy receiving registrations and working out housing plans for the large number of delegates. They are comfortably housed and provisions made for late arrivals it has been learned. Two thousand are expected for the five-day conference.

The convention was called to order last evening by Rev. Dr. Robert Allen Pollock, Denver, Col., chairman of the national committee of the organization, who made the opening address. His theme was "Take Christ, Live Christ, and Give Christ."

The feature of last night's session was the presentation of a resolution to he sent to President Hoover commending his campaign for law observance. It contained criticism of newspapers for the alleged manner of playing up the few abuses in which youth figures, in comparison to the right stand and right living of the vast majority of young people.

A number of nationally known speakers will address the delegates during the conference, among them being Francis J. McConnell, D. D., LL.D., New York, president of Federal council of churches of Christ in America, who will speak Thursday evening at 8:15; and William Hiram Foulkes, D. D., LL. D., Newark, N. J., vice-president of International Society of Christian Endeavor, who will speak on Sunday evening at the closing service, and also at the Quiet Hour each morning at 8:45. There will also be many others.

The first National Convention was held in 1889 at Allegheny, Pa., and since that time the conventions have been held in 13 different states, while no conventions were held in 1903, 1905, 1907 and 1917. This is the second convention held in Maryland, the other one having been held in Baltimore in 1911.

From information given by secretary Shaw, it is learned that oratorical elimination manuscripts were solicited and 18 young men and 14 young women responded. Out of that number four finalists and a like number of alternates were selected in the young men's division and a like number in the young women's division. A final contest will be staged on Friday evening, July 26, at which meeting the winner in each division will be selected. One hunderd and fifty dollars in cash will be distributed, fifty dollars to first place in young men's division, a like amount to first place in young woman's division, and twenty-five dollars to second place in each division.

Of the finalists in the young men's division, three are from Pennslyvania and one from New Jersey, while the alternates are from Iowa, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Kansas. In the young women's division, three are from Pennsylvania and one from Ohio; of the alternates three are from Pennsylvania and one from Kansas.

Stunt night will be observed on Saturday evening and awards and trophys will be awarded at this time.

Resignations of Two Accepted by Board of Education

The resignation of Miss Helen Kinnick, supervising teacher, was submitted at the regular meeting of the County Board of Education on Tuesday, and was accepted. She has been supervising teacher in the southern section of the county for three years.

The vacancy will be supplied by Miss Flossie Skidmore, Frostburg. Miss Skidmore has been critic teacher in Frostburg Normal school for five years and is well prepared, having made extensive preparation at the University of Maryland. She is already known to many of her teachers and comes highly recommended.

The resignation of Miss Mary Selby, helping teacher, Friendsville, was heard by the Board at its last meeting, and was accepted. The vacancy will be filled by Miss Gladys Hamill, who has been principal of the Dodson-Shallmar school for several years.

FISHING POSSIBILITIES IN YOUGHIOGHENY RIVER AND DEEP CREEK INSPECTED BY MR. HOOVER'S SECRETARY

For the purpose of inspecting the fishing possibilities along the Youghiogheny river at Swallow Falls and Deep Creek Lake, seven miles north of Oakland, Mr. Ritchie, the private secretary of Herbert Hoover, president of the United States, was in Garrett county yesterday when he visited numerous spots in company with Richard S. Browning, district game warden.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Ritchie, E. Lee LeCompte, state game warden, and Mr. Leech, a representative of the United States Bureau of Fisheries. They spent a few hours at Rock Lodge, near Bittinger; Rainbow Inn, along Deep Creek Lake, and visited Swallow Falls and Muddy Creek Falls before returning to Frederick from where they had started earlier in the day.

The entire party anticipated returning in the near future in company with the President of the United States, for a week-end fishing trip, according to the secretary. The secretary expressed himself as well pleased with the natural beauty of the county and felt sure that he could arrange for the president to visit here.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

Big Truth Sale

Through the efforts of Scoop and The Republican the merchants of Oakland are going to put on a Truth Sale, the truth, the whole truth, and nothing else but.

Although the idea isn't exactly original with Scoop, it's still in the family, and in order that the Oakland merchants will get a chance to see the value of good advertising, this sale is being put on free of charge.

The sale will be held this Saturday but if you inquire at the stores and they don't have any of the articles left, please don't blame Scoop or Archibaldson. You can blame Sapolio, because he left Saturday and can't defend himself.

An open confession is good for the soul. The following reveals the true facts concerning this clearance of merchandise sale. Prices slashed to figures way above cost so that the merchants can still make some profit.

Here Are the Bargains

Gortner's store—$30 walnut lined cedar chest. One thing we can say for it is even the moths have stayed away from it, so far. Now $18.95.

Oakland Hardware and Furniture company—$180 four-piece bedroom suite. You'd think this stuff had the measles the way people kept away from it. Therefore reduced to $99.

Frank Smouse—$4.50 bridge lamp and shade. We thought it was unusual but no one else did. Now only $1.98.

Harned's Pharmacy—$25 toilet sets. How in the world did they ever get in here? Out they go for $17.69.

Oakland Model Bakery—Choice fruit cakes. Should have gone last Christmas but we find them still here. Now 79 cents.

H. C. Sincell's—$18 dresses in the wierdest shades. Our buyer was color blind, but they are worth $17.95.

Gonder's Pharmacy—50 cent boxes of rouge that stick wherever you put it. We unconsciously bought these but we must get rid of them at 39c.

Fraleys' Big Store—$2.98 Kitchen Katchall. That is what it does under the sink. Here all it catches is dust. Now $1.39.

Hinebaugh's Restaurant —Gafluey cigars, $2.50 per box. Not much for smoking, but good enough to give away. Now $1.75.

D. M. Dixon and Son—$15 kiddies' play yard. They must play somewhere so it might as well be in one of these, at $7.95.

Dr. Grant—$20 set of false teeth. Have been on exhibition for years, but they might fit your mouth. $11.75 isn't much of a bite out of your week's wages.

Gonder's Jewelry Store—$15 Humidore smoker. Our guess is that our original price was too high. Well, it goes now for $8.75.

West Maryland Power Company—Rebuilt vacuum cleaners—Let's both clean up now with this good item, $12.95.

Coffman-Fisher Company—A lot of men's work suits at $25. Only Thurston could have made them disappear before, but now, even we can do it for $19.91.

Miller's Sanitary Market—Best grade prime hams of privileged porkers. Our buyer foolishly overbought, so we price them now at $6.10.

A. D. Naylor—Does nobody ever take a bath anymore? Any number of high grade bathtubs on hand. They say they have been here for 7 months, but some of us know better than that, $35.50.

Martin's Furniture—$129 three-picce parlor suite upholstered in velour. Just a little bit loud, still it won't scream at you. Yet you'll shout at getting it for $68.

Bon Ton Confectionery—Assorted candies, enough to satisfy the whole town. We've reduced the price only because some of it was soiled from handling. Now 29c per pound.

Bolden's Undertaking parlor—Business is dead. We have plenty of coffins that you will like. Somebody give them a permanent home.

Treacy's Cash Store—Some very loud dress material. Looked beautiful when it came but we've seen enough of it. Cheap at half price.

Brown's Store—$3 smoker lamp. No one has liked them so far, but you might for $1.29.

Empire Furniture Store—$35 Day Bed, you can use it at night, then the few scratches won't show, $18.

Sturgiss' Pharmacy—Percy's Pink Pills for Pale People. At one time they were most popular. Do us a favor and take them now for 61c.

E. C. Liller—Beautiful home tailored suit. Supposed to have been sold last spring, but it was so pretty we hated to see it go. Need the room now. Yours for $47.75.

M. Harvey Millinery—A lot of left-over hats from last season. Unlovely to say the least, but some people like them. We don't think they're so bad either, for 98c.

Hamill's Book Store—Fifteen and twenty-five cent Christmas cards The printer thought they were beautiful but our customers had other ideas. Buy them in advance for most anything.

Hart's Store —Under garments. Your choice of several very odd styles and colors. Nothing wrong but we have too many for our own use. Now 89c.

Oakland Jewelry Store—$1.49 serving trays. They are not so bad but we would rather you have them, 75c.

Elliott's Music Store—$150 upright pianos. Received in trade, but gone over and are good enough for the kids to cut their teeth on. Yours for $25. Also $125 Radio consoles. These things have been cluttering up the department for ages. Now we are going to give them the air. Console us by taking them for $59.75.

Owen Treacy—Best grade of chewing tobacco. Rather a sad case. Everybody gave it the go-by the last six months. Ought to sell for 9c. a wad.

Shaffer Jewelry—Solid Gold watch. We believe in this case that silence is golden, too. It's yours for $24.75.

W. H. Hinebaugh—$5 bridles and reins. Our buyer thought we ought to buy enough to furnish the U. S. cavalry as there are quite a few left. $3.59.

Don't rush the merchants with inquiries about these articles. They may be out of them.

Scoop almost forgot one truth sale. He is offering The Republican to readers for $1.50 per year in advance. It sold for $1.50 in 1879, when a dollar was worth in value many times more than it is today. If the paper was as bad now as it was then, it would still be worth $1.50, but just look at the improvements since then. You'll never miss the money, and you will miss the news if you don't get The Republican.

* * *

Now if the merchants will advertise in Garrett county's leading newspaper, The Republican, they will find that they can sell a lot of things people never knew they had.

Try it out for a few weeks.

'RAMBLING 'ROUND

(By Sapolio)

(Dirtier than ever, coming direct from Pittsburgh)

Having been troubled with Sleepitis for the past 30 years and gently dozing on a soft pine board I was very much surprised to find that one edition of The Republican cured me for an entire week. My only drawback was that I had no $1.50 for a subscription. After consulting with Scoop on ways and means, I finally offered a carload of Spinach, but he stated they were not planning any additions to the office and turned down my offer temporarily. Still I have hopes. The editor possibly may lay a cement walk in front of his home and spinach sand is so filling. However we came to amicable terms by my contracting for a bunch of Fourth of July bananas in exchange for subscription, so I am still on the mailing list for another year.

Pittsburgh, being very smoky, has a ban on all unnecessary smoke and imagine my surprise to find a box of my favorites labeled to Sapolio upon my departure from the city of having the slogan "Couples made one." Sure send my thanks even if I must go to New York to smoke them beyond the 12 mile limit.

Two Irishmen, while working on a railroad, were startled to see a train approaching. Mike quickly sprang up the bank alongside the tracks while Pat started down the tracks on a dead run. The train struck Pat, tossing him to one side. Mike asked why he did not run up the bank. Pat replied: "How the divil did you expect me to beat the train up a hill when I couldn't beat it on the level?"

* * *

If placed together the 1500 freight cars require daily to bring in New York City's food supply, would make a train 12 miles long.

27 MARRIAGE LICENSES ARE ISSUED DURING WEEK

Total for Month of July Thus Far Is Ninety-five

Twenty-seven marriage licenses were issued from the office of the Circuit Clerk for Garrett county during the past week ending Monday at noon, bringing the month's total thus far to 95. This number is 13 below that made in July of last year, and 20 below the all-time record for July, made in 1926.

The record of last year will probably be broken, A. G. Ross, deputy clerk, stated, but whether or not the all-time record would fall was uncertain. Eleven of the licenses issued during the past week were granted on Saturday, and six of the permits were marked "don't publish."

C. M. T. C. STUDENTS GET PLENTY TO EAT AT CAMP

1900 Candidates at Fort Eustis, Va., Have Healthy Appetites.

Fort Eustis, Virginia, July 16, 1929—"Send up 800 pounds of roast beef and have it here for dinner and don't forget the 15 bushels of tomatoes," as an order to your butcher or vegetable man for one meal, would cause him no end of excitement. The 1900 candidates at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Eustis, Va., eat that much meat at one sitting and the young men after several hours spent in the field, have a healthy appetite for good old roast beef. The three attending from Garrett County are no exception.

Captain Arnold J. Funk of the 34th Infantry, mess officer for the C. M. T. C., has made a hit with the candidates in his choice of menus for the ten days that the young men have been in camp. There must be wholesome food and it must be cooked properly, for the health of every man in camp is watched closely.

The candidates start their day's work with 400 quarts of blackberries, many dozen eggs, some 250 gallons of milk and plenty of coffee and other things that go with a good breakfast.

When a chicken dinner is order, which happens frequently, the young troopers eat about 1400 pounds of the birds along with 500 pounds of cabbage, 15 hampers of stringbeans and 100 gallons of ice cream. 150 watermelons seems to do the trick when served and gives every candidate as much as he desires. 350 pies are enjoyed by the candidate at one meal. Pie sand ice cream are made at the post.

Three Wise Wives

Because they are nejoying themselves and because each has a cake baking in the oven at home. Are you wondering what will happen when the cakes are done? There's no need for worry because they have Electric Ranges, and when the proper time comes, the heat will be shut off automatically by the electric clock.

Since electricity is so cheap many women have investigated the other convenient and economical features of the Electric Range and have become so enthusiastic that cooking for them now is a pleasure for a brief period each day.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

The troubles of the Democrats just now are at a maximum. They don't know what to do.

On every hand they hear that the control of the State is drifting into the hands of the Republican party. The main cause of this is the persistent candidacy of Governor Ritchie and his control of the State machine manned largely by officeholders.

Today it is dawning on the rank and file as well as on the leaders that Ritchie is trying his best to hold on to his political power. And if he is able to hold on to that power and to dominate the naming of the State ticket next year a Republican sweep is forseen. This gives the old line Democrats the shivers. The Republicans have not had complete control of the State government since 1899.

Much could be done to clear up the situation if Ritchie, dominating the State machine, would annonce his retirement from politics. His retirement as a candidate for a fourth term would not now be enough. Well informed people see that the Governor could not be reelected even if given a unanimous nomination. The prediction is now freely made that the majority against him would exceed 100,000 so badly has his strength failed. There is the determination to get rid of him and the Democrats will get rid of him—if not in the primary, certainly in the general election.

On the other hand persons who know the Governor picture him as unable to realize the situation. He is still under the influence of the 60,000 majority received by him in 1926. He seems to think of himself as still on the top of the heap when he is on the way to the bottom. His lack of appreciation of his own unhappy position is distressing to those who have stuck by him.

Talk of Conference is Now Heard

The most frequent suggestion among Democrats is the need of calling a party conference at an early date and canvassing the situation from a State-wide viewpoint. Then the question arises as to who is to call it. If he could see the situation as it exists the Governor himself would be the best man to call it. But a blind man can lead no one out of the wilderness.

Some of those who might well take the initiative have become more or less embarrassed by favors received at the Governor's hands. Thus they are robbed of courage. Just as the Governor desires. Man after man who should and could act in the party's interest at this time is tied hand and foot by patronage. The Governor has been dealing out favors for nearly ten years and that's a great matter.

While the Democrats delay and hesitate the Republicans grow more confident of victory next year. The Republican talk and predictions are not confined to the city. They can be heard in every county.

And here in Baltimore one hears it everywhere. On the street cars, in the lunchrooms, and restaurants—wherever men congregate from day to day it is the same old story—the Democrats are suffering themselves to be drawn to political disaster by the Governor—they have not the courage to make a move of their own. Most of them seem little better than galley slaves—a great contrast to 1875 and 1895 when there were many Democrats bold enough to defy a State machine.

McIntosh Restless; Seeks the Seashore

State Senator McIntosh, they tell me, has been seen at Ocean City this week and this is a new move for him. I cannot recall that he has ever been a frequenter of this Maryland resort but politics makes changes.

The supposition of the politically wise is that Mr. McIntosh went down there to see and he seen by the Eastern Shore Democratic leaders who are wont to frequent that place, especially on week-ends.

The Gubernatorial bee is annoying Mr. McIntosh considerably and I am told that he thinks it high time for some one to speak out and let the Governor know that he is not the only political pebble on the beach. In fact the Baltimore County Senator has evidently reached the conclusion that it is actually possible to fill the Governor's place at Annapolis and that the preliminary steps to fill it should not be much longer deferred. I rather think Mr. McIntosh would like to see a conference of party leaders called to strnighten out the many kinks in the party situation.

Possibly it might be a good thing for the Baltimore Countian to announce his own candidacy now and let political nature take its course. We might then hear whnt Wm. M. Mnloy, Judge Samuel K. Dennis, Emory L. Coblentz, Stephen W. Gambrill and others frequently mentioned propose to do. Certainly an announcement by a candidate might cause the Governor to go after his spontaneous petitioners of 1926 and see what they think about it. They should still be able to sign petitions.

Of course, Mr. McIntosh faces the danger that any and all candidates will face. That is to say he may be indorsed by the Governor. That would come near cooking his goose in the general election. In fact Mr. McIntosh is already more or less embarrassed by the fact that he was boosted to the Senate Presidency chiefly by the Governor.

May be a Fight For McIntosh's Place

From Western Baltimore County comes the report that County Commissioner Frank S. Given is contemplating becoming a candidate for the Democratic Senatorial nomination next year as the successor to Mr. McIntosh. Mr. Given has served terms in the House and was elected a County Commissioner three years ago.

But it does not appear he is to get the nomination by default as I hear that James J. Lindsay, Jr., has his eye on this same honor and there may be a fight. Jimmie is said to be close to the powers that at present be in the county while Mr. Given is by no means far away.

Jinx Pursues Our Governor

The jinx relentlessly pursues Maryland's Governor—the jinx that has been on his trail ever since he lost his rabbit's foot more than a year ago. Consequently those no longer enamored of His Excelency are snickering while the still faithful mourn and will not be comforted.

Last week just because some one wrote a letter to The Post referring to the Governor's grab of power thru the reorganization plan and gave a good word to Wm. M. Maloy, the Governor's opponent in the primaries of 1926, His Excellency took his typewriter in hand and indited an epistle to the aforesaid Post giving his version of the framing of the now more or less discredited reorganization scheme and saying that it not only had Mr. Maloy's support but that he and Maloy worked together "night after night" drafting it. The Governor evidently sought to put Maloy in a hole.

Promptly Maloy drew the record and showed that he could not have worked on the reorganization plan "night after night" with the Governor for the very good reason that he was in Europe at the time. This was the best sort of alibi and put the Governor in just as had a hole as he sought to put his late opponent in.

Of course those who know the Governor well are aware that his knowledge of State affairs has always been more or less superficial and it is because of this that so much has gone wrong in the last nine years.

The Maloy incident recalls the McMullen incident of some years back when the Governor took the former State Comptroller to task for using figures alleged to have been obtained from a Federal department, criticizing the cost of the State government under the present administration. Mr. McMullen promptly replied that he took the figures he quoted from the Governor's own budget. Thereupon intelligent people of the State had a good laugh.

Then there came along the incident of the hog cholera leaflet. The Governor made a public statement criticizing the Federal Government for spending money on such propaganda. Then it was shown that the leaflet came not from a department of the Federal Government but from a department of the Maryland State government. Again a laugh on the Governor for not knowing his onions and his hog cholera.

Harrison Rider, Prospective Boss

Looking at Harrison Rider, State Insurance Commissioner, the other day as he passed down the street on his way to the Rainbow Division parade I could not help but notice thnt he had just about the right physical build for a boss. He is as heavy and as stout as the late I. Freeman Rasin was when he attained the leadership of his party in the city and just as portly as were John J. Mahon and Frank Kelly when they reached political maturity.

Mr. Rider appeared to be in prime health and his step was quick. He is of the type to dominate and to build up a machine, one would think, by looking him over. But does he want to do it? That is another question. At this time he stands particularly well because he has not been deceived by the Governor's maneuvers for a fourth term. And the Ritchie opponents owe Rider something because it was he who a little less than four yenrs ago stopped the third term petition in Bnltimore County when the late Carville D. Benson, a Ritchie convert, was pushing it. He would have none of it and consequently the petition died where it started.

Dan Joseph's Sister Out of State Job

I see that Delegate Dan Joseph's sister, who had held a position under the State Industrial Accident Commission for several years, has quit though I have not been told the reasons why. In fact little has been said about it and I learned of it only through accident.

But everybody knows that Delegate Daniel Joseph was very active in the last Legislature in cooperating with the Jackson element in the House and that he was very annoying to Speaker Brooke Lee and other members of the ruling group. I wonder whether it was on account of her brother that Miss Joseph was made more or less uncomfortable in her State position—so uncomfortable that she thought it best to resign.

These are interesting times. Dan Carroll has been shunted out of the State Auditor's department. He uncovered the biggest governmental scandal in the State's history. And if anybody else now dares to uncover anything, why—

Easing Up in Sporting Section

There appears to have been an easing up by the police in that section of the Western district most frequented by what is known as the sporting element and many are the inquiries as to the reason why.

The district is in charge of Capt. Cooney and some time back he was placing a heavy hand on the bookmakers and other sports who have made their headquarters in that section for many years. Some places had been closed for a long time and as a consequence there was deep gloom accompanied by maledictions on the State administration, which controls the police department.

Now things have been eased up and the boys are happier. Eutaw Street is once more the Eutaw Street of old and peace seems to prevail. Of course there may be a bookmaker here and there who has not been molested but the section is said to be no longer tight.

Naturally some of the wise ones suspect that the fourth term project may have something to do with the change in conditions. It seems to be difficult for an administration to be heavy handed when a fight for re-election is in progress.

Meanwhile reports come to me that some of the town's bookmakers have recently been refusing to pay the winners. Such refusal usually brings a complaint to the police. So we shall see what we shall see even though in the northwestern section of the city the police have been rounding up men engaged in peddling the new policy game based on the figures of the U. S. Treasury balance.

Nelligan Committee Renews Activity

The Nelligan committee named by the Governor to make a report or two on the State Roads scandal has, I am told, recently renewed its activities and it appears that a new effort is being made to find out what became of the war material given the State by the Federal government. In the hearing of argument on a demurrer in the suit of former State Auditor Milbourne against The Baltimore Post Judge Samuel K. Dennis was reported to have made remarks about the failure to trace all this property and it is a fair supposition that this had an effect on the Nelligan committee. There is still some curiosity as to what the committee is doing even though there seems to be a feeling that the committee's final report cannot affect the public greatly, the majority of citizens having made up their minds to make a change in the State administration next year.

Dud Roe's Paper Suddenly Goes Dry

The drys and particularly the women drys of Queen Anne's county are somewhat mystified by the sudden activity of the Centerville Observer, owned by State Senator Dudley G. Roe, in undertaking to clean up the moonshiners and bootleggers who have been infesting that section.

In the campaign of last Fall as is pointed out by the drys, they were severly critivized by Senator Roe's paper for giving their support to the dry candidates. They got no sympathy from the Senator's paper altho Mr. Roe has been considered a personal dry. Now the Roe paper is crusading against the wets in great shape and published a list of stills destroyed and arrests made while some wets write letters of protest.

A reader in Queen Anne's writes to suggest that it will indeed be heartrending when a show down of the slot machines in Queen Anne's comes about. A hint, as I understnnd it, that the slot machine men have been reaping a harvest in the Roe bailiwick. The slot machines, I will explain to the innocent, are contraptions into which you drop an average of five nickels in order to get four out. They are just about as beatable as the other fellow's horse race.

THE TREASURY SURPLUS

The 1928-'29 surplus of $135,000,000 was a grateful surprise to the Federal Treasury, since at one time earlier in the year a deficit of $90,000,000 had been feared. It is eloquent testimony to the abundance of national prosperity and to the consequent ability of the revenues to resist the effects of repeated tax reductions. In spite of the heavy cuts in the tax revision of 1928 receipts practically equaled those of the preceding year, while expenditures increased $204,000,000, largely because of postal deficits and refunds, tax refunds, an initial government contribution to the civil service retirement fund and similar veritable or non-recurrent demands. Fifty-two millions were required to meet a Supreme Court award to the railroads for underpayments of mail transportation. Except for this the surplus would have been $237,000,000.

Income tax receipts as a whole increased $156,000,000 and individual income tax receipts increased $220,000,000, the 1928 reduction having been confined mainly to corporation income taxes and miscellaneous "nuisance" taxes. The public debt was cut $673,000,000 and is now below $17,000,000,000; $54,000,000 was saved in interest on the debt. This year's showing is the more notable because of the fact that Treasury receipts from the sale of government-owned assets holding over from the war, including money advanced to the railroads, have dwindled to almost nothing. Taking this shrinkage into account and also the fortuitous character of some of this year's additional expenditure, the 1928-'29 surplus compares very favorably with the surpluses of recent years. Economy of administration and drastic debt amortization have made many sweeping tax rate reductions possible. The financial policy of the government for the last eight years has been as extraordinarily successful in results as it was courageous and far sighted in conception.

The size of the surplus and the assurance of high income tax payments in September and December have started talk of further tax reductions, says the New York Herald Tribune. It is too early, however, to take a reduction in 1930 for granted. The test will come when the first of the new income tax payments are made in March, 1930. If they show no diminution it will be feasible to consider further curtailment of the tax on earned income. From an economic point of view such relief is desirable and highly equitable, and it can easily be given on a scale to fit the apparent excess of revenues. But this problem will not become urgent before next spring, and Congress will have plenty of time to deal with it at the long session.

CHINESE-RUSSIAN ROW.

The world will anxiously watch the progress of the dispute between the Chinese Nationalist government and Soviet Russia.

Both governments are reported to be massing troops in preparation for possible hostilities, following seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway by the Nationalists and expulsion of the Russians who were participating in the management of the road. Both the Japanese Cabinet and general staff have met to consider the incident, and the Japanese government is said to be prepared to send troops to Harbin if war develops. The situation is such that a clash might easily be precipitated.

The Chinese Railway has long been an important factor affecting the peace of the Far East. Built originally by Russians, it has been operated since 1924 jointly by Russians and Chinese. The treaty providing for this stipulated that the Russians were to refrain from spreading Communist propaganda. The Chinese have long been dissatisfied with Russian conduct under the treaty.

Their immediate excuse for the seizure was the charge that a raid on a Russian consulate at Harbin disclosed clearly that the Russians were violating the treaty. Japan's anxicty arises from the fact that she claims a special position in Southern Manchuria, where she operates the South Manchurian Railway, and has important concessions and large investments.

Japan fears that the action of the Nationalist government toward Russia may indicate an eventual policy of the same kind toward her.

No one doubts that Japan would use arms to defend her position if this became necessary, or that she would dispatch troops in event of war to protect her interests. A year ago Japan was preapred to intervene when the Nationalist government was trying to bring Manchuria under its control.

Manchuria is almost as large as California and Texas combined, and has a population of 30,000,000. Its climate and topography resemble those of Iowa and the Dakotas. It is a good farming country and is rich in minerals.

Neither Russia nor China is well prepared for a war, although the Russians are said to have a large army, well drilled and well equipped, six divisions of which are along the Siberian Railway between Lake Baikal and Vladivostok.

Chinese forces in Manchuria consist of fifteen divisions with experience in war and fair equipment, but poor organization.

The Soviet government has sent a plenipotentiary from Moscow to Harbin to negotiate for a diplomatic settlement of the row. It is to be hoped that he will succeed, for both the Chinese mission and the Russian peoples have suffered much in recent years. And if they go to war it is likely that others will become embroiled.

ROADSIDE BEAUTY

There are nine out of 48 states which have programs or roadside beautification, and are trying by planting trees, shrubs, flowers, and grasses along the roadsides, to make their tourist routes attractive to visitors, and make their states beautiful places to live in.

California, for instance, has 600 miles of roads that have been beautified in this way, and in addition many of its countries have forestry departments that are working for roadside improvement.

It has commonly been customary, in cutting forests that run along the public roads, to strip down every tree along these roads, and probably in many cases the landowners would take down trees along their land that were inside the public highways. In some localities now, the effort is made to induce landowners to save a few trees along the roadways, so as to preserve shade and beauty, and not reduce these roadways to a track through a barren area.

In former years many people who wanted to get rid of rubbish would haul their junk out along some pretty country road, and then dump it down along the side thereof, where the puhlic would see these accumulations of old iron, broken down furniture, waste paper and ashes and every sort of litter. These people have done their home localities a lot of injury.

Roadside beautification plans must be practiced, and it is not desirable to plant masses of shrubbery along the roads which obscure the view of motorists, or which in wet seasons will interfere with the drying up of roads. Many localities feel that masses of bushes along the roads are undesirable, and they send men out to cut them down regularly, which may be useful in many instances. But handsome trees along a road never do any harm, and the road that is well lined with them is one which tourists and residents like to visit.

SUCCESSFUL SCHOOL LIFE AND THE HOME

Education is a cooperative enterprise. When the home turned over to the trained school teacher the major tasks of education it did not assume the right to relinquish all of its own responsibilities.

Children live 24 hours a day. Of those hours not more than six or seven are spent in the school. The childhood or youthful mistakes that result in tragedies seldom take place in the classroom.

It is true that school conditions do sometimes wreck the life of a boy or girl but the real danger hours are those over which the school has no legal control.

The American home makes four definite contributions to education.

First, upon the home rests the responsibility for assuring the mental and physical health of every child before he enters the school. In many cities physical examinations are given to all primary children in the summer months. "The pre-school examination soon will extend to mental health because emotional maladjustments which occur in later life have their beginning in childhood," wrote Selden Carlyle Adams, assistant director, National Education Association, who further says:

"The family's second educational duty is that of giving to the child those basic life truths which need to be learned before he starts to school and which can be made much more effective in the familiar shelter and quiet of his own home than in the more public atmosphere of the classroom.

"The family may well expect the school to give the child the sense of self discovery and of community freedom, and to find, in the light of the child's comparison with others, those points in which he is different from the average or normal child. But the school, in return, has a right to expect the child to come to it with a foundation of truth and information on which to build.

"The third contribution of the home consists in creating a proper attitude toward the school in the mind of the child who is just entering the kindergarten or primary grade. The time-worn belief that children dislike school is rapidly passing away.

"Finally, the parent whose child has a fair chance in school is a parent who keeps himself informed of the best things which the school has to offer and who demonstrates to the teacher and school administrator his interest in all that is done for the child. Parents ought to visit the child's teacher just as regularly as they go to a physician and dentist.

VACATION TIME

While it is an undisputed fact that a vacation is a real need in the life of most persons in order to do better work, yet it is also true that many of us so abuse this annual period that any benefit derived from a change of scenery is overbalanced through a misuse of time and strength.

A vacation is, strictly speaking, a period of rest and leisure, not of doing a mad marathon from place to place, losing sleep and rest and consequently returning to work in a worse state than before leaving.

It depends chiefly upon what one's daily task is as to what would be a real recreation period, restful and beneficial; one accustomed to heavy physical work naturally will want to lie quietly in a hammock, or in some other secluded nook seek rest and strength. Persons of sedentary habits and indoor life seek a change in outdoor sports, golf, tennis, swimming and other exercises, and herein lies the danger of overdoing, overtaxing the body unaccustomed to the change which, while undoubtedly of benefit if persisted in, yet the period of change is too short to be a genuine benefit.

And so moderation would be the wise course to follow in seeking the rest; a change of scene, of environment and occupation, will work wonders if over-indulgence is not part of the program. Eyes worn with looking through rows of figures will be more rested by viewing a sunset or sunrise than in reading; while a good book will be the ideal companion for one whose mental fatigue is less and who seeks forgetfulness from endless planning of meals or trying to make one dollar do the duty of three.

Let us make every hour of vacation time count by doing the things we ourselves want to do, not doing something because somebody else suggested it, or finds pleasure in what would be boredom to ourselves. Let's make it a period of real rest.

Clothing

A brief resume of Mrs. Tobey's lectures at Rural Women's Short Course.

1. Ones wardrobe need not be elaborate to be well dressed.
   a. A well chosen suit lasts several years it need be freshened up with the following accessories:
   1. Select the hat the color of the suit.
   2. Scarf, gloves, purse.
   3. Shoes and hose.
   b. An afternoon dress to meet your needs.
2. A foundation garment is absolutely necessary to be well dressed.

You must have a smooth, well-fitting hip line to be really smart..

3. A coat or jacket effect is very popular this season. The jacket is carried if not worn but to be smart it must be a part of your costume.
4. Complexion—Sun tan of course.
5. Bobbed hair—if the hair is combed straight back giving a swirl effect at the back you will have a very pleasing bob, rather than wearing the parted style.
6. Leading colors for fall are:
   1. Brown.
   2. Navy blue.
   3. Black and white.

INSPECTION OF POTATO FIELDS FINDS 21 O. K.

Nine Farms Fail to Pass Standard of Inspection for Seed Certification of Potatoes

Twenty-one farms out of 30 visited in Garrett county last week by Dr. R. A. Jehle, plant pathologist of the University of Maryland, passed the standard of inspection for seed certification of potatoes, according to J. H. Carter, county agent, who accompanied Mr. Jehle on the inspection tour.

Out of the 21 continuing certification work, 20 of them are 4-H club boys, it was stated. The total number of club boys making application for certification was 23, but two of these were disqualified because their seed plot was adjacent to a diseased field and one disqualified, leaving 20 members still in the contest.

The seed used by club members was furnished free by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and has the reputation of being the best seed that can be obtained. This reputation was maintained by the results of the inspection, Mr. Carter said, as not a single plant was found to be affected with virus diseases. Even the two plots which were disqualified, he stated, were free from disease.

Dr. Jehle has been inspecting potatoes in the county since 1924 and he says that this is the first time he has found any field in Garrett county free from virus diseases, adding that the boys have an excellent opportunity to produce seed potatoes of high quality.

These potatoes, with a record of production, will be exhibited this fall either at the Garrett county agricultural fair, or at a special potato show, at which prizes will be given. This work is designed to teach the boys how to produce quality and quantity as well as grading and selecting exhibits.

"Garrett county can produce seed potatoes equally as good in quality as New York, Pennsylvania and Maine," Mr. Carter concluded, "and this project deserves the support of everyone interested in the welfare of the county."

Miss Guarde Entertains at Mt. Lake Hotel.

On Tuesday afternoon, Miss Ursule Guarde, of Baltimore, entertained her friends with several tables of bridge in the sun-room of the Mountain Lake Hotel. Bowls of delphinium and calendula on the tables with exquisite place cards and candy baskets formed a charming effect. The guests included Mrs. Dowlin, Mrs. Bolgiano, Mrs. Ruhl, Miss Mary Ruhl, Miss Goucher, Miss Fulton, Mrs. W. L. Camden, Miss Guarde, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Katherine Hardy, Mrs. W. D. Grimes, Mrs. Guarde, Miss Cottle, Mrs. Brand and Mrs. Wooden, all of whom are summer residents of Mountain Lake Park, and Mrs. James A. Towler, of Oakland.

The Mountain Lake Hotel is comfortably filled, notwithstanding the many cool days of the past week or two. Among the recent arrivals, prominent in their home cities, are Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hupp, Wheeling; Mr. B. F. Compton, Washington; Mrs. Fred. Hubbell, Baltimore, and Col. Dyer and his family, of Washington and Cincinnati.

Pleasant Valley Grange Holds Interesting Meeting

The regular meeting of the Pleasant Valley Grange was held at the hall on July 18, at 8 o'clock p. m. and was attended by approximately 45 people. An interesting business meeting was held during which the discussion centered around means of creating more interest in the grange and in bettering attendance.

The Cogley brothers of Oakland, furnished Hawaiian music after which refreshments were served. There will be several special attractions for the next meting which will be held on Thursday evening, August 1.

ROAD TO MANDALAY

In the hills of Western Maryland
There's a forest covered grove
Where all nature runs riot
And the feet of beauty rove,
And 'tis there you'll find a-plenty
Smiles and laughter, fun and play,
And 'tis there that Minnetoska
Seems like heaven's every day.

Chorus

So a cheer for Minnetoska
And a cheer for every joy
And a cheer for every pastime
Large and small that we employ
And a hail for all the counselors
And hurrah for everyone
And a whoopee for the best camp
Ever born beneath our sun.

CONTROL OF TREE PESTS EXPLAINED IN ARTICLE

Insects Said to be Most Active on Trees at This Time of Year

The "control of tree pests" is explained in an article appearing in this month's issue of the "News Letter," a publication issued by the Maryland State department of forestry. The article follows:

"At this season of the year there is always considerable interest shown in the control of tree pests for it is at this time that the activities of the insects are most evident. Bagworms, caterpillars, and aphids are quite prevalent during these months and their raids on shade trees and ornamentals are often viewed with great alarm.

"While the number of insects is legion and none but a specialst can accurately describe the hundreds of pests which are found, rough control measures are rather simple to apply. In recommending sprays for the control of various types of pests it is necessary to determine first, the feeding habits of the insects. In general it is possible to classify all insects injurious to shade trees and ornamentals into four groups;—biting or chewing insects such as the caterpillars; sucking insects such as the scale insects; and aphids, and the wood borers.

"The chewing insects can usually be controlled by spraying with some variety of poison, usually arsenate of lead. A safe solution of arsenate of lead for shade trees consists of 3 lbs. of powder to 100 gallons of water.

"For sucking insects it is necessary to apply some form of contact spray or in the case of scale insects an oil solution. The favorite contact spray is nicotine sulphate or Black Leaf 40. This spray is commonly applied at the rate of ¾ pint to 100 gallons of water with 6-8 lbs. of cheap soap added as a spreader.

"Miscible oils may be purchased under various trade names and applied under directions for the control of scale and aphids. These forms of sprays are often injurious to the trees and should be applied only with great care.

"Tree borers are very difficult to control because of their habits of feeding on the wood of the tree. A deterrent, which has been recommended for this type of insect, is prepared as follows: Dissolve one gallon of soft soap in six gallons of saturated solution of washing soda, add one pint of carbolic acid, and slack lime in four gallons of water to make a thick white wash, add one-half lb. of Paris green, mix thoroughly and apply.

"To be effective, sprays should be applied early in the season. While there are many types of insects not easily controlled by the above sprays, the greater variety of injurious pests will be destroyed if the application is timely and thorough."

Telephone Company Gains in Number of Subscribers

During the first six months of this year a net gain of 15,150 telephones was added to the systems of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone companies in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia. This is an increase of 93 percent over a similar period last year and is the greatest increase in telephones in this territory since the war.

Maryland had a net gain of 5,282 telephones, an increase of 147 percent. Nearly sixty-five percent of the telephones gained were in homes.

Having lost sight of each other for several years, C. D. Rinehart, father, and R. B. Rinehart, record sustained flight breaker, were united in the air the other day when the father cruised beside the Angeleno and waived encouragement to the son.

DIED

HENRY J. SELDERS

Henry J. Selders, Oakland, who has been in failing health for a number of months, and critically ill for the past several weeks, died at his home Saturday evening, July 20. He was aged 72 years, 3 months and 18 days.

Funeral services were held from his late home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. C. A. Shilke officiating. The deceased is survived by his wife, two sons, two daughters, and one sister. Mr. Selders was widely known in this vicinity, having lived here practically his entire life.

MRS. JOHN HORCHLER

Mrs. Winona Durst Horchler, near Grantsville, died in the hospital of Dr. C. C. Glass, Meyersdale, Sunday morning, after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Horchler was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Durst, Grantsville, who survive her. Her husband and eight children also survive, the youngest being four weeks old.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the Methodist church in New Germany, with interment in the nearby cemetery. Rev. J. E. Johnson, of Grantsville, officiated.

MRS. ELIZABETH MAGAW

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson Magaw, wife of J. W. Magaw, Pittsburgh, Pa., died last Wednesday morning after an illness of a few days of pneumonia and heart trouble.

Mrs. Magaw was the daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Johnson and the late Baker Johnson and was born in Grantsville. Jonas Johnson and Mrs. Ida Miller, Grantsville, are brother and sister to the deceased.

Funeral services were held last Friday afternoon at Pittsburgh. Those attending from Grantsville included Mrs. Rebecca Johnson, Mrs. Ida Miller, Clyde Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson.

MRS. ANDREW CHRISE

Mrs. Lucinda Chrise, of Uniontown, Pa., died in the Uniontown hospital last Thursday morning after an illness of a week. She was aged 47 years. Mrs. Chrise was a daughter of the lalte Rev. and Mrs. Jeremiah Beeghley, of near Accident. Her husband, Andrew Chrise, died over a year ago.

Surviving her are three sisters and one brrother: Mrs. Maggie Patheal, of Fruitland, Idaho; Mrs. Susan Alexander, of Accident, Mrs. Mary E. Merrill, of Avilton, and Mr. Jacob Beeghley, of Connellsville, Pa.

The funeral was held at the Markleysburg Church of the Brethren on Saturday afternoon with interment in the nearby cemetery, with Rev. J. C. Beahm, Champion, Pa., officiating.

GLADYS LOWDERMILK

Gladys Lowdermilk, aged 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lowdermilk, of near Oakland, died July 16, at the home of her parents. Death was due to food poisoning, the death certificate stated.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, July 18, Rev. F. L. Fultz, Mt. Lake, officiating. Interment was made in the Sang Run cemetery. It was reported that the child had been bitten by a poisonous snake but this was without foundation, the child's father stated.

ENOCH E. KESNER

The death of Mr. Enoch E. Kesner occurred at his residence in Loch Lynn Heights, July 19, 1929. Funeral services were conducted in the United Brethren Church Sunday, Rev. F. L. Fultz, the pastor, officiating.

Mr. Kesner was born in Pendleton county, West Virginia, February 21, 1868. He was one of a family of ten children, all of whom survive, except one who died several years ago. In early manhood he came to Garrett county, where he remained until the date of his death an honored and respected citizen.

On December 25, 1894, he was united in marriage to Miss Jennie M. Moon, who together with one son, F. E. Kesner, survive him.

Mr. Kesner has been afflicted with an incurable disease for some time, which brought to him great suffering and pain. His patience and cheerfulness during his entire illness endeared him to all with whom he came in contact.

Early in life he became affiliated with the United Brethren Church and remained a consistent and faithful member of that church until his death.

Among those present at the funeral were his brothers, George Kesner, B. C. Kesner and A. M. Kesner; his sisters, Mrs. Riggleman and Mrs. Whitehair, as well as a large concourse of other relatives and friends from this and the neighboring state of West Virginia.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for the kindnesses shown us during the illness and death of our little daughter, Gladys Marie. We are also grateful for the beautiful floral tributes.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lowdermilk.

DAMAGE SUITS ARE FILED AFTER CROSSING CRASH

Four Suits Are Entered at Cumberland Against B. and O.

Four damage suits have been docketed in the Cireuit court of Allegany county against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company, following a crossing accident at Weber's crossing, near Oakland. Negligenee and failure to give warning is alleged when a train of the railroad company and an automobile driven by Hugh Hedrick, with passengers collided, November 25, 1928.

Olie Smith, ex-sheriff of Pendleton county, W. Va., who retired on January 1, 1929, sues for $25,000 damages and Hugh Hedriek, garageman, Franklin, W. Va.; Andrew Eye, Franklin, present sheriff of Pendleton county, and Charles D. Harper, assistant cashier of a bank at Circleville, W. Va., are suing for $5,000 each. The bills are filed by Saul Praeger, Cumberland attorney.

The four men were enroute to their homes from Weston, W. Va., and according to a story at that time in The Republican, one of the men stated that he saw the blinker light and thought it was a cross-roads. A terrifie snowstorm was raging at that time.

Mt. Lake Park Lad Joins U. S. Marines

George E. Rathbun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rathbun, Mt. Lake Park, has enlisted in the U. S. Marine corps for a period of four years, to take part in the activities of the soldiers of the sea.

He joined at Cumberland a few days ago and was immediately transferred to the training camp at Parris Island, S. C., where he will undergo about six weeks of military training, at the end of which time he will take his place in the ranks as a full fledged marine. He will then be eligible for expeditionary duty in foreign lands, sea service aboard a U. S. man-of-war, or the various other duties which the marines are called upon to perform.

To Attend Camp Vail

Friendsville Potato Club Holds Third Meeting

The Friendsville 4-H Potato club held its third meeting at the school house Saturday evening, July 20. Ten out of the eleven members enrolled were present.

Many points in raising eertified seed potatoes were gleaned from an interesting discussion eonducted by the aid of County Agent J. H. Carter and G. E. Bishoff, local club leader.

Mr. Carter read the results of Dr. Jehle's inspection whieh is an important factor in determining the 4-H prize in the seed produetion eontest. Many other prizes will be offered to winners in yield, exhibition, and efficience of produetion.

The boys enjoyed the remainder of the evening telling stories while potatoes and other roasts simmered in the campfire.

Successful Ram Sale Held On Eastern Shore

Forty-five Hampshire and Shropshire rams sold for Maryland and Virginia breeders at the Centreville sale, Queen Ann's county, July 16, by the Maryland Sheep Growers' Association, brought an average of $58.55 which was $21.00 more than the average price at last year's sale. The 35 Hampshires sold for $61.60 each and the 10 Shropshires brought an average of $47.90.

The sale, which was attended by more than 200 persons, is reported by K. A. Clark, Specialist in Animal Husbandry for the U. of M. Extension Service. Many growers from Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania attended and the bidding was so spirited that prices soon went to a very high level.

The highest price paid for a ram in this state was that paid by a farmer in Queen Ann's county who purchased a fine ram from the St. Amour company of Pennsylvania, for $131.00 All of the rams offered were sold.

Mr. H. P. Miller, Grantsville, was the only Garrett county sheep-raiser who had any for sale. He sold one Hampshire ram.

Untie the Knot

According to the recent Bank Statements of the County deposits are ahead by far and the general financial condition is excellent. Yet, business could be speeded up.

It is necessary to create in the minds of the individual citizen a desire to own what you have to sell to them, and thus keep the new as well as the old currency in circulation.

Use space in The Republican to advertise your wares. Our striking illustrations and artistic arrangements of your Ads will bring most satisfactory results.

Untie the knot that holds the currency at a standstill.

THE STORY OF DANIEL

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 1:1-4, 19, 20; 2:17-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Obeyed.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Obeyed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Preparing for a Life Work.

I. Daniel in Captivity (1:1-4).

His captivity took place in the third year of Jehoiakim's reign by Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon. While a tender youth, he was torn from home ties and made a captive in a foreign land to be trained for court service.

II. Daniel in Training (1:5-20).

In order to be of the largest service in the kingdom, it was necessary that he be taught to love the king and nation and to be detached from his own people and religion.

1. Daily portion of the king's meat and drink appointed (v. 5).

The object of this was:

(1) To gain the good will of Daniel. Such recognition would encourage him to give himself to the king's service.

(2) To supply the proper food for his physical and intellectual growth.

2. His name changed (v. 7).

He was named Belteshazzar. The object in this change was the obliteration of national and religious connections, and his identification with the Babylonian nation. Daniel means, God is my judge. Belteshazzar means, Bel's Prince.

3. Daniel's purpose of heart (v. 8).

Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat and wine. He requested to be tested for ten days with the food which the law of his God allowed, agreeing to abide by the results.

4. Daniel's reward (vv. 17-20).

(1) Physical health (v. 15). The king's meat and wine would have been palatable, but to have partaken would have violated his conscience.

(2) Mental growth (vv. 17-20). He was found to be ten times wiser than the magicians and astrologers.

(3) Socially (v. 19). He was not only next to the king, but president of the college of wise men and prime minister of the empire, continuing through several dynasties (v. 21).

(4) Spiritual (v. 17).

God revealed to him Nebuchadnezzar's dream and gave visions stretching across the centuries. The secret of Daniel's success was:

a. Conscientiousness.
b. Loyalty to God.
c. Decision of character.
d. Prayerfulness.
e. Patience.
f. Courtesy.

III. Daniel Interpreting Nebuchadnezzar's Dream (2:14-46).

1. The dream revealed (vv. 14-35).

Nebuchadnezzar had a dream which made a tremendous impression on his mind, but its content had been forgotten. He urgently demanded of the wise men that they make known the dream and its interpretation. Because of their failure to do so the king was furious and commanded all the wise men of Babylon to be slain. Daniel sought an interview with the king and obtained time. In answer to prayer, God gave to Daniel the content of the dream. He told the king that in his dream he had beheld a great image with a head of gold, breast and arms of silver, belly and thighs of brass, legs of iron, and feet part of iron and part of clay. He beheld this image smitten by a stone which became a great mountain.

2. The dream interpreted (vv. 36-46).

(1) The head of gold represented the Chaldean monarchy, with Nebuchadnezzar as its head (vv. 37, 38).

(2) The breast and arms of silver represented the Medo-Persian power (v. 39).

(3) The belly and thighs of brass represented the Grecian empire under Alexander the Great (v. 39).

(4) The legs of iron represented the Roman empire (vv. 40-43).

(5) The stone cut out of the mountain (vv. 44, 45). This is the Kingdom of Heaven so graphically set forth in the New Testament.

a. The stone is Christ (Isa. 28:16; Matt. 21:42-44).

b. When did the stone strike? Observe that the impact upon this man was upon his feet (v. 34).

c. The Kingdom of Heaven is brought into realization through a great catastrophe.

Accepting Christ

We urge men to accept Christ, to accept Him now, and they say, "Well, we will think about it," or "Yes, I know it ought to be attended to." Why, you wouldn't act that way five minutes about your health or your wife's health, or your business.—Dr. Maltbie D. Babcock.

Trust the Creator

All I have seen teaches me to trust the Creator for all I have not seen.—Emerson.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Club Week Schedule for August 8 to 13

Plans have been completed to hold the Annual 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland, August 8 to 13 it is announced by E. G. Jenkins, and Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Boys' and Girls' Club Agents respectively. It is expected that more than 500 boys and girls, leaders and delegates, representing more than 600 clubs from every county in the state will attend. A program, similar to those of past years, will be conducted by the University officials for the visitors.

A feature of the week is the proposed visit of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, who has expressed his desire to be present at one of the assemblies of the club members. It is hoped by all that the Governor will find it convenient to visit the University during the week.

Dr. R. A. Pearson, president of the U. of M. will be one of the important speakers for the week and Judge F. I. Duncan, who has been an enthusiastic backer and valued patron of 4-H club work in the State for more than 10 years, will address the boys and girls on August 10. Another individual who is popular with the club members and who will be seen on the campus again this year is Mrs. Edith Craig of Boston who, at considerable expense and sacrifice, has in past years given much aid in training the young citizens in personal demeanor and conduct.

In addition to classroom instruction the young folk will have the opportunity of observing agricultural experimental work under way at the U. of M. Experiment Station, the U. S. Dept. of Agri. farm at Arlington, and the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry farm at Beltsville.

The B. & O. R. R. will have reduced rates for all 4-H club members. See the County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent for further information.

Poor Layers Molt Early

At least once during the summer or early fall the poultry flock should be culled to get rid of the birds that are not paying for their keep. Health and vigor are of first importance in culling poultry. Hens in good condition have bright red combs and wattles. Good layers have combs that are waxy in texture. In yellow-shanked breeds, the beak and shanks of the heavy layers are ordinarily pale yellow or white. The pelvice bone of a good layer are thin and flexible and when the hen is in laying condition they are wide apart. The skin of a good layer is soft, pliable, and of good texture and the back is wide and long. Another important point is the time of molting. Poor layers usually molt earlier than good ones. Heavy layers generally do not begin to molt before September or October. Culling improves the breeding qualities of the flock, but if done early enough will save feeding costs and spread the marketing of surplus hens over a longer period than if the culled hens are all marketed late in the fall.

Anyone who wishes to make application for poultry certification should do so not later than August 1. Applications after that date may be subject to additional charges to cover additional expenses.

Train Telephone Service On Demand

Up To Railroads Says President Gifford. Company Will Install Equipment As Desired

Walter S. Gifford

Telephoning from moviag trains as demonstrated by Canadian railroads recently has received much atteation la newspapers and magazines.

The question has been raised, "Why has this service not beea made available for American railroads?" The matter upon belag brought to the attention of telephoae officials, prompted Walter S. Gifford, head of the Bell Telephone System to issue the following statement:

"For some years the American Telephone and Telegraph Company has beea ready to iastall telephoae service oa moving trains and about two years ago had the matter up actively with two of the leading railroad systems in the country. Both railroads decided against it as it was aot considered commercially practical. If any railroad wishes to give such service on its trains and bear the necessary cost of it, we shall be very happy to install it and connect it with the lines of the Bell System."

Facts And Figures On Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Edwin F. Hill

Increased business results from increased talking. Telephone companies in the United States added 255,000 telephones to their systems during the first three months of this year, an increase of about 37 per cent over the same period in 1928. Figures receatly compiled show that daily local telephone calls increased more than 35 per cent and out of town calls 23 per cent during the same period.

Expenditures of $530,000,000 will be made by the Bell Telephone System for additions and improvemeats this year, which is about $1,450,000 each day. Last year the constructioa program, the greatest in the history of the system was $428,000,000.

The sales of the Western Electric Company, manufacturers of telephone supplies and equipment, for the first five months of 1929 total $160,000,000, an increase of $54,000,000, or nearly 50 per cent as compared with the first five months in 1928 In May, the latest month for which complete figures are available, the company established a new record for one month's sales with a total of $37,326,000.

Increasing demands for telephoae equipment have made necessary a large expansion program, Edgar S. Bloom, president of the Western Electric Company states. Buildings under coastructlon or contract will give the company an additional 2,000,000 square feet of floor space area for manufacturing purposes. A complete new plant is being constructed at Baltimore, Md., while extensive additions are being made to the already huge plants at Hawthorne, Ill., and Kearny, New Jersey.

In Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia aad the District of Columbia, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephoae Companies will expend about $78,000,000 for additions and improvements durlag the next five years according to a statement made by Pres ident A. E. Berry.

The coastructioa program includes, for laad and buildings, gross expeadltures of $8,000,000; ceatral office equipmeat, $17,255,000; exchange plant, $24,457,000; equipment on subscribers' premises, $20,508,000; and $6,620,000 for additions and improvements to the toll llae plant serving theso three states and the District of Columbia.

The Chesapeake aad Potomac Telephone System aow operates 302 central offices with approximately 600,000 telephones. Present forecasts show that there will bo about 725,000 telephoaes la service at the end of 1933. For the first five months of the preseat year, there was a gain of 2,509 telephones in service. This is the largest growth in any similar period in the companies' history except the abnormal war gain in 1918. From present indications, this rate of growth will be maintained throughout the year.

TELEPHONE BRIEFS

In Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, territory served by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone companies, there are now more than 4,600 P. B. X. systems serving about 130,000 telephones. During the past eighteen months more than 200 additional systems have been installed in these three states and the District of Columbia, according to a statement made by officials of the company.

NINE COUNTIES NOW HAVE FULL TIME HEALTH MEN

Cecil County Is Last to Employ Full Time Health Officer

The appointment of Dr. C. A. Kane, as full time Health Officer of Cecil county, with headquarters at Elkton, and of Dr. Arthur L. Oilar to succeed Dr. Kane, as full time Health Officer of Tnlbot county, with headquarters at Easton, is announced by Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health.

"The addition of Cecil to the list of counties having full time health officers means that nearly half of the population of the State, outside of Baltimore City, now has full time service," Dr. Riley said. "The goal we have set for the State, is a full time health officer, one especially trained for rural work, for each county. The beginning of service of this sort was made in 1914, with the organization of the State into ten Sanitary Districts, each District being in charge of a full time Deputy State Health Officer.

"Each District consisted of two or three counties, but as the work increased it became necessary to reduce the territory covered. The next step was the employment of full time men for single counties. The lineup at present is as follows:

Allegany, Dr. J. P. Franklin, Cumberland; Baltimore, Dr. J. S. Bowen, Towson; Calvert, Dr. I. N. King, Prince Frederick; Cecil, Dr. C. A. Kane, Elkton; Frederick, Dr. E. C. Kefauver, Frederick; Harford, Dr. T. A. Callahan, Bel Air; Montgomery, Dr. W. T. Pratt, Rockville; Prince George, Dr. W. S. Keister, Upper Marlboro; Talbot, Dr. A. L. Oilar, Easton.

"The total population of the State is 1,610,000 of which 842,800 live in Baltimore City and 797,200 in the counties. The counties that have full time service have a combined population of 386,503 or 48.4 per cent of the total population outside of Baltimore City.

"Next in order, so far as full time service is concerned, come the Sanitary Districts:

Caroline and Dorchester, Dr. E. A. Jones, Cambridge; Carroll and Howard, Dr. W. C. Stone, Westminster; Kent and Queen Anne, Dr. R. G. Beachley, Chestertown; Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester, Dr. C. F. Moriarty, Salisbury; Charles and St. Mary's, Dr. V. H. deSomoskeoy, La-Plata.

BIBLE SCHOOL SERVICES HELD SUNDAY EVENING

Bible Stories Are Dramatized in Closing Exercises

The Union Daily Vacation Bible school closed on Sunday evening with appropriate exercises in St. Paul's M. E. church, Oakland. More than a hundred children took part in the ceremonies. The work of each grade was depicted by an exercise of dramatizing some Bible story. A large group of people attended the exercises.

Mrs. W. W. Grant, the superintendent of the first grades, presided, and in opening the services told the purpose of the school which was to aid in the building of Christian character and citizenship. The management of the school provided a picnic for those enrolled on last Wednesday afternoon.

The Oakland council of religious education, under whose direction the school was held, desires to thank the superintendents, teachers and all who assisted. It enjoyed the largest enrollment and was said to be the most successful of any so far held. The school was held for two weeks in the Oakland Grammar school building.

"It is the intention that this school shall be an annual and permanent asset to the community," Rev. C. A. Shilke, one of the members, stated. "We hope that each year it will grow and finally envelop the youth of the entire community."

Circus Coming To Oakland

I am the laugh maker with the Drake Brothers Circus that will exhibit in Oakland on Thursdny, August 8, giving two performances, at 2 and 8 p. m., rain or shine, under sun and waterproof canvass. I am the laugh maker of the world. I am the antidote of griefs that poison the system and dulls the mind.

The world needed a good laugh so I was born. They call me a fool—but it takes a wise fool to play my part. I sweep the key of human nature. I must know my keys—but never touch the minor key. I am no new institution. Since the first man allowed his hairy face to spread into a smile there was n dream for me. Ancient kings employed me and gave me a place of honor on the throne.

I was called the Court Jester. I chuckled royalty under the chin and dispelled his frown. Today, under a cloud of canvass, I greet you and the world. I make them lnugh at my antics nnd all the children crown me king. I live but two lives behind the seenes. I have a fate much like yours, and probably I have a home and children. In the sawdust ring I have a white face with two grotesque designs painted about my eyes and mouth. In private I am known by none.

I am acquainted with all. Don't visit me unless you can stand the heartiest laugh of your life, for I am with Drake Bros. Circus and I have many brothers equally as funny as I. On the B. & O. show lot.

1929 FAIR PREMIUM LIST TO GO TO PRESS SHORTLY

Will Be Larger In Scope and In Size Than Those of Previous Years

Within the next week or ten days the copy for the Premium List for the Thirteenth Annual Garrett County Fair, to be held in Oakland October 1, 2 3, and 4, will be in the hands of the printer, it ws stated yesterday morning hy Henry M. Speicher, manager.

According to Mr. Speicher, the premium list will he an attractive one is bound to create an interest for more and better exhibits at the Fair. He further stated that he was meeting with favorable expressions concerning the fair and with assurances that the exposition will have the hearty and united support of many in all parts of the county, thus assuring its success. In all probability the catalogue will be increased in size so as to take care of the added list of premiums and advertisements.

Setting the date for the gala occasion a week or so later has met with the approval of farmers and stockmen of the county it was said, as the added time in the fall will enable them to better arrange for their individual displays and thus add much to the interest of the spectators.

Because of the splendid financial success of the fair last year when all premiums were paid promptly and other financial obligations discharged it is thought that this fact is responsible for the new interest in the association and success with which the manager is meeting daily in his endeavor to complete the program and catalogue.

Shows, rides, concessions, free acts and other amusements will be arranged for within the next few days, it was suggesed by the manager, when a representative of a large company operating such attractions, with offices in New York City, will be in Oakland to contract with the local association.

Miss Grace Speicher and Miss Ruth Speicher are assisting Mr. Speicher in the collection and management of material pertaining to the catalogue.

To Observe Law Enforcement Day on Sunday, August 11

Annual Law Enforcement Day will be observed at Mt. Lake Park on Sunday, August 11, it has been announced by the local committee. Prominent speakers will make addresses both morning and afternoon.

Judge L. G. Long, Dayton, Ohio, winner of the inter-State oratorical contest; George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Anti-saloon league of Maryland; W. R. Harvey, sheriff of Allegany county, and others will speak on personal experiences in Law Enforcement.

Everybody is invited to attend these meetings. Musical entertainment will be furnished by The Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band, of Oakland, and the Crellin Band.

Special Session of Court Terminates In Short Order.

Habeas corpus proceedings in a case wherein Bernard Preston, Frostburg, stands charged with criminal assault on one Ethel Rosenberger, of Garrett county, which was alleged to have been committed near Johnson, on the National Highway, on June 30, resulted in the refusal of Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan to admit the traverser to bail in a special session of the Circuit Court for Garrett county held yesterday morning in the court room in Oakland.

Preston, after a hearing before Justice of the Peace W. A. Gonder a few weeks ago, was held for the action of the December grand jury without hond, and has been confined in the County Jail since that time.

Attorney J. Philip Roman, of Cumberland, appeared in the case for Preston and Julius C. Renninger, State's Attorney, appeared for the State.

Young People Will Meet Sunday In Presbyterian Church

The next meeting of the Oakland Union Young People's League will be held in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Miss Nancy Franklin will be the leader. The topic has not yet been announced, but it will be well worth while, it is said by the committee. The meeting last week was well attended. After the meeting about thirty of the young people attended the closing service of the Y. P. C. U. at Mountain Lake Park.

Old Structure In Accident Partially Destroyed By Fire

After probably a hundred years of service to one family and then to another and within two or three weeks until it would be torn down and removed from sight the old John Echard house on the main street in the town of Accident, was partially destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon when a broken flue permitted the escape of sparks which communicated fire to the roof of the building.

The property is now being occupied as a dwelling by Philip Smith and his family until he has completed the erection of a new home nearby. It is his intention to tear the unsightly structure down and remove it as soon as the new home is completed.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department was called and responded but turned back at Sand Flat when it was learned that a bucket brigade at Accident had succeeded in subduing the blaze. The run to Sand Flat, a distance of six miles, was made in seven minutes by the department.

MR. BURRUSS ADDRESSES MANY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Given For Benefit of Local Free Public Library

About $50 was realized Monday evening by the Oakland Free Public Library at a benefit dramatic and humorous recital given by W. B. Burruss, inspirational sales counselor, at the High School auditorium, Oakland.

Mr. Burruss delighted his audience with humorous stories, recitations, impersonations, and character sketches for more than an hour. The entertainment was interspersed with musical selections by Mrs. Frederick Thayer, Jr., Mr. Joseph T. Kloman, and Miss Mary Virginia Willison.

Delbert Davis, president of the Rotary club, under whose auspices the benefit was held, opened the program with a few words about the need of a public library, and its value to the community. He was followed by Mrs. Thayer who sang "The Wedding of the Painted Doll," and "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water."

Mr. Kloman sang "On the Road to Mandalay," and "Because." Miss Willison rendered a piano selection.

Mr. Burruss has given his services for Library benefits on former occasions and those who have heard him once are of the unanimous opinion that they will not miss hearing him again when he is in this vicinity.

The Gilbert-Brown Boys' band was also present and gave a concert on the lawn fronting the school building.

Kempton Man Released For Insufficient Evidence

G. E. Bennett, 36, Kempton, who was being held in the county jail on a charge of feloniously shooting and wounding Mitchell Lewis, also of Kempton, was dismissed by W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace, because of insufficient evidence.

Bennett was arrested Sunday a week ago by county officers. He offered no resistance, and stated that the shooting was accidental. At the preliminary hearing no evidence could be brought out that he had intentionally shot Lewis.

Rotary Club Hears Unusual Address Last Friday

What has been termed as a remarkably interesting and instructive address was delivered at last week's meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club by William Hiram Foulkes, D. D., LL.D., of Newark, N. J.

Dr. Foulkes spoke for twelve minutes on the subject "The Rising Tide of Youth," and according to those present he presented his subject in a manner unusual to the ordinary after-dinner speaker, and related vividly a part of his life's experience with young people in America and most of the foreign lands where he has spent the greater part of his life.

Another pleasing number on the program, it was stated, was the rendition of several numbers by the male quartet of the Young People's Christian Union of the United Presbyterian Church, which was in convention at Mountain Lake Park last week. Members of the quartet were J. R. Dugan, Ray Davis Robert Belton and Albert H. Heinz. Mrs. Albert Heinz accompanied the quartet on the piano.

Dr. R. A. Pollock, of Denver, Colorado, was a guest at the meeting on Friday evening.

Mr. C. G. Davis, of Morgantown, W. Va., is an Oakland visitor today.

ANNUAL K. OF P. PICNIC TO BE HELD LABOR DAY

Festivities For Yearly Occasion Have Been Tentatively Arranged By Committee

Plans are nearly complete for the Tenth Annual Labor Day picnic to be held on September 2, under the auspices of Garrett Lodge, No. 113, Knights of Pythias of Oakland, and within the next few days, it is said by members of the committee, a program equal to any previous one will be ready for publication.

According to the completed portion of the program now adopted the usual large crowd will be entertained by a speaker of wide reputation following a street parade at ten o'clock in the morning. Merry-go-round ferris wheel and concessions as well as refreshment stands will be provided. A Ford coupe, completely equipped and costing $623, will be given away at five o'clock the day of the picnic. The program also includes an elaborate and expensive display of fireworks to be exhibited at nine o'clock in the evening.

The old established picnic ground in Helbig's grove will be used again for the 1929 celebration and two bands have been engaged for the day.

It is expected by the committee that a number of Knights of Pythias lodges of Maryland and West Virginia will be present and will bring with them their uniform ranks, including of course, the Dramatic Order Knights of Koroseans.

LOCAL SCOUT TROOP NOW IN CAMP ON DEEP CREEK

Daily Schedule Went Into Effect After First Day

Twenty-nine scouts of Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, their Scoutmaster George H. Hanst, James Lee, assistant, and William Turney, camp cook, left Tuesday morning for their permanent camping quarters on Deep Creek Lake.

The first day was given over to getting settled and yesterday the daily schedule went into effect. The following schedule is being observed:

Reveille, 6 o'clock; setting up exercises, 6:05; morning dip. 6:15; breakfast, 6:45; inspection, 8:00; play, 8:45; study, 9:30; swimming, 11; dinner, 12:30; rest, 1; play, 2; swimming, 4:00; supper, 5:30; retreat, 6:30; special hour and campfire, 8:00; bed, 9:00; taps, 9:30.

A number of Tenderfoot and Second class scouts have already passed their swimming tests and other requirements are expected to be passed throughout the remainder of the camp period which extends for two weeks.

WOULD MACADAMIZE AND AMISITE TOWN'S STREETS

Extensive Program Necessitated By Bad Street Conditions and Heavy Traffic on Them

Interest to a marked degree is being shown by many citizens of Oakland and cooperation promised following a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council held Monday night when a project contemplating the surfacing of the paved streets of town as well as the construction of several pieces of macadam was discussed and definite plans arranged to that end.

A conference with G. Clinton Uhl, chairman of the State Roads Commission and the Mayor and Council is being arranged for the purpose of having the State resurface certain sections of streets which are parts of the State highways passing through town and working out other plans whereby all the other paved streets may be covered with a dressing of amisite.

It is the plan of the Mayor and Council to complete an extensive program of street improvement at the nearest possible date, and that program calls for the improvement of one block on Fourth street between Alder and Green streets; one block on Green street from Fourth to Fifth street; two blocks on Fifth street from Green to Oak street, all of which will be macadam and 30 feet in width, except on Green street which permits a pavement of 22 feet in width.

The construction of a hard surfaced street in the vicinity of the high school building is made imperative on account of the heavy busses which will be used for the transportation of the school children this winter it was stated by a member of Council.

To Improve Three More Miles of Altamont-Kitzmiller Road.

Bids for the building of one section of State highway from the end of the concrete road at Altamont, toward Kitzmiller, a distance of three miles, will be opened by the State Roads Commission at its offices in Baltimore on August 6th, according to an advertisement appearing in today's Republican.

At present there are nine miles of unimproved highway between Altamont and Kitzmiller, but the completion of the contemplated three miles will take the improved road quite a ways beyond Wilson station. The building of an overhead bridge to eliminate the dangerous grade crossing at Altamont is included in the proposed road improvement. The road is to be made of concrete.

Has Leg Severely Cut.

Eugene Show, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett B. Show, of Oakland, while playing baseball in the yard at the home of his grandmother in Friendsville last Friday ran against the blade of a scythe and cut his leg very severely, the gash being several inches long and reaching the bone He was given medical attention and put to bed for several days and is now reported as improving nicely.

Mr. John Rodeheaver, of Pallahatin, O., spent a few days last week with his sisters, Mrs. Etta Sanders and Miss Dessie Rodeheaver at the Park.

Raid at "Western Bill" Harvey's Farm Results in Find

Persistency produced forty-five gallons of moonshine liquor, it is said by an eye-witness, at the residence of William ("Western Bill") Harvey, on the mountain east of Altamont, Tuesday, because the entire premises had been searched by seven federal agents and it was only after the door of a little outbuilding had been broken in that the liquor was found. When it was being poured out upon the ground "Western Bill" is alleged to have remonstrated with the officers by saying: "Gentlemen you are destroying some mighty good liquor."

The agents made the raid on the Harvey farm shortly after noon on Tuesday and after finding what they sought took Harvey to Cumberland where he was given a hearing yesterday before Commission Thomas J. Anderson who held him under $500 bond for his appearance at the Federal term of Court.

BLOOMINGTON YOUTH IS DROWNED IN THE POTOMAC

Efforts to Revive C. G. Moon, Following His Rescue From Water Prove Futile

Seized with cramps while swimming in the Potomac River near his home in Bloomington, Garrett county, Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock, Charles G. Moon, aged 20, a government employe, was drowned before help could reach him. His body was recovered some fifteen minutes later by John Cavey, of Beryl, W. Va., a member of the swimming party.

Efforts to resuscitate young Moon with a pulmotor of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, secured by Dr. Paul R. Wilson of Piedmont, W. Va., proved fruitless after they had worked over his body for more than an hour. The body was removed to the Fredlock Undertaking Parlors at Piedmont, W. Va., and prepared for burial.

Moon was a former trackman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad but had been furloughed. Recently he was employed by the U. S. Geological Survey, now engaged in constructing a water weir to measure the depth and velocity of the Potomac river. The accident occurred a short distance from the point where the work of construction is being carried on by the surveying party.

Dennie Browning Fined For Assault and Battery

Dennie Browning, Deer Park, son of S. S. Browning, was fined $18.00 and costs yesterday by E. I. West, justice of the peace, when found guilty by him of assault and battery upon Edward E. Sollars, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Sollars, Deer Park.

Sollars and a few other youths were camping in a tent near Deer Park when Browning went there about midnight and disrupted the camp. Another youth with him was charged with assault and battery also but Justice West dismissed the charge.

Browning also promised to pay for repairing the tent which is said to have been partially destroyed. The tent was owned by Earl George and Dan Hinebaugh.

Civic Club Holds Well Attended Meeting

Mrs. William W. Grant was hostess to the members of the Oakland Civic Club at her home on Second street Tuesday afternoon, when a comparatively large number was present.

The meeting was opened in regular order with the pledge to the flag, and the singing of "America, the Beautiful." Following the report of the chairman and a short business session the Club was addressed by Miss Mary Collins, director of Camp Gleam of the Summer School of Missions at Mountain Lake Park. Mrs. H. C. Bell, an instructor of the Mission School, also addressed the membership on Home Missions.

Mrs. Harold Harned, accompanied by Mrs. James P. Treacy on the piano, sang a composition by Mrs. K. R. Rasche, a life-long resident of Oakland.

Refresments were served by the hostess and adjournment followed after the appointment for the August meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Julius B. Littman.

GIRL ATTEMPTING SUICIDE IS FOUND SERIOUSLY ILL

Maid at the McComas Home Leaves Note Stating She Loves One She Cannot Win.

Failing to respond to a call to arise at the usual hour on Tuesday morning the room of Hazel Miller, aged about 16 years, a maid at the home of Dr. Henry W. McComas, was entered by members of the family and the girl found unconscious from the effects of drinking a quantity of arnica and chloroform, with the avowed intntion of committing suicide.

In the absence of Dr. McComas, Dr. N. I. Broadwater was called to the home where the girl was revived and later removed to her home at Sand Flat, seven miles north of Oakland, where she is said to be recovering from the effects of the drugs.

Two notes were found in her room one being addressed to a member of Dr. McComas' family, in which she expressed regret for her act but stated it was necessary because she could not win the man of her choice. The other note was addressed to Clarence Earl Hauger, of Corinth, and the contents of that note were not made public. Upon being notified Hauger came to Oakland when he stated that he had a merely passing acquaintance with the young girl. It is generally supposed, however, that Hauger is the man referred to in the first note.

DEER PARK YOUNG MAN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

E. W. DeBerry Dies From Injuies Received in Pennsylvania

A tractor backfiring is thought to have been the cause of injuries which proved fatal to Everett Worthington DeBerry at Graysville, Pa., on Friday morning.

Mr. DeBerry, who had been employed by the Tri-State Construction Corporation for more than three years, was found lying unconscious in front of a tractor which he had endeavored to start, and while there were no marks on his body to indicate the crank had struck him, it is supposed that the machine had backfired and injured him internally.

The accident occurred Friday morning about 9:30 o'clock, at Graysville, 16 miles southwest of Waynesburg, Pa., and the injured man died Sunday morning at 5 o'clock in a Pittsburgh hospital without regaining consciousness.

Young DeBerry, 24 years, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen DeBerry who reside on the Broadford road, two and one-half miles west of Deer Park, and had been in the employ of the Tri-State Construction Corporation since the time that company constructed the concrete road leading from Deer Park to Sand Flat, in Garrett county.

The parents of the dead young man were at his bedside from late Friday evening, and accompanied the body to his home on Sunday.

DeBerry is survived by his parents, two brothers and two sisters: Maurice DeBerry, of Dover, O.; Corwin B. DeBerry, and Oma E., and Madesta I. DeBerry, all at home. A sister, Iris Maywood, died in infancy.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon from the Deer Park church, Rev. Sherman Westfall officiating. The pallbearers were Maurice and Corwin Deberry, Richard and Robert DeBerry, and William and Preston DeBerry. The flower bearers were Misses Mary Sebold, Mary Pysell, Mary Kreyenbuhl, Lillian Holtschneider, Alice Holtschneider, Mabel Harvey, Rose Paugh and Hazel Paugh. Interment was made in the church cemetery at Deer Park.

Diamond Ring and Wrist Watch are Stolen

County officers are searching for the thief or thieves who stole a diamond ring, wrist watch and money the property of Mrs. John H. Carter, and some small change belonging to Mrs. Lowell Loomis, of Oakland, yesterday, at Swallow Falls.

The articles were stolen from a pocketbook in an automobile which was locked when the parties left it and was likewise locked when they returned a short time afterward. Mr. Carter and Mr. Loomis have several under suspicion and there is a slight chance that the stolen goods will be recovered, officers say. The value on the property is placed at $400.

MAGISTRATE KEEPS GAVEL HOT CALLING NEW CASES FOR 'STOP' GOBYERS AND RENDERS NINETEEN VERDICTS

"Five dollars and costs."
Bang!
"Call the next case."
"Five dollars and costs."
Bang!
"Call the next case."

And so on far into the night, until the office-boy had to procure another gavel for Hizzonor.

Thus was the monotonous routine in Justice of the Peace W. A. Gonder's court Sunday evening and Monday morning in an effort to clear the docket of "Boulevard Stop" violators who failed to observe the sign at the intersection of Route 37 and the Mountain Lake Park road midway between Oakland and the Park.

By Monday morning it was the general report that more than a hundred motorists had fallen into the clutches of the law for violating the "Stop" which they "didn't see."

However, when the docket wns finally cleared the treasury showed an increase of $109.25, and at the rate of $5.75 per, it proves conclusively that there were just nineteen who fell that day at the crossing of the lateral and through traffic highways.

Those who paid their dues to the J. P. and which entitles them to this publicity are, Agnes H. White, Lonaconing; R. N. Michael, Oakland; Ray Hance Dawson, Oakland; Ernest Wotring, Oakland; Francis E. Meager, Frostburg; William J. Hahn, Frostburg; Karl Kahl, Oakland; Nelson Thomasson, Oakland; Arlie M. Nine, Oakland; Marion E. Wildesen, Gorman; Robert W. Stemple, Oakland; Mrs. Madge E. White, Oakland; Ray L. Heffner, Baltimore; James E. Hart, Oakland; Paul B. Naylor, Oakland; Julius B. Littman, Oakland; Harland L. Jones, Oakland; Ellwood L. Hauser, Oakland; Norine Hostetler, Oakland.

Banker Harland L. Jones insisted that his name precede that of Hardware Dealer Paul B. Naylor in this report, but since the Hardware Dealer went by the sign first and had preference in court, his name appears first here.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

So anxious have county Democrats become over the situation in their party and the danger of defeat in next year's election that they are coming to Baltimore to seek help and alliances to stave off disaster.

Ever since the adjournment of the Legislature city Democratic leaders have been hearing the plaints of the county people who fear they may lose everything political if Governor Ritchie continues to dominate the party councils. Their view is that he cannot be elected and that by forcing himself on his party through his office holders he will bring wreck upon all.

In recent days there was a meeting in this city of Democrats representing nineteen of the twenty-three counties in the State and I understand that their object in coming here was to seek alliance with city leaders able to deliver something. This alliance would be for the purpose of backing some Gubernatorial candidate who would have a reasonable chance of winning in the general election.

The outcome of the conversations held here has not been reported but it is understood that no commitments to any candidate were made. All agreed on one thing and that was that the renomination of Governor Ritchies would be suicidal and that every local Democratic ticket would suffer in the event that Ritchie is at the head of the State ticket again.

There was discussion of candidates but no attempt to advance the interest of one over the other. One difficulty was to learn just who are active candidates instead of merely receptive ones. The receptive candidates are, of course, more numerous than the other brand. Fighters are unforaunately few. And what is needed, practically all admit, is a two fisted fighter. The best candidate who can be picked will not find it an easy contest, now that the current administration has after three continuaous terms turned out so badly.

City people seem to think that it is too early to pick a candidate. Some express the view that ere long the Governor will come to a realization of the hopelessness of the fight he is making for a life-time place at Annapolis and will conclude to go back to private life while there is more to be had in private life than there may be later on.

It is reasoned that the Governor must come down out of the clouds some time and get his feet on earth and that when he does he will be able to see what nearly every other person now sees—that his political day is done.

No new candidates are mentioned. Of all those suggested Senator McIntosh is most active and restless and some are saying it might be a good thing for him to announce himself at an early date in order to smoke out the others. And this might smoke out Howard Bruce, who has been McIntosh's friend even though I hear that Mr. Bruce is talking of quitting the political arena.

The surviving Ritchie people are urging various objections to McIntosh. First, they say State Treasurer John M. Dennis is against him, the reason given being that as Mr. Dennis hails from the same county as McIntosh the Dennis hold on the State Treasurership would be imperiled. Then it is urged that McIntosh is a fox hunter (like Howard Bruce) and that the Maryland people will not elect a fox hunter to the Governorship.

Reorganizing the City Wards

The Jackson-Bichy Democrats have been busily engaged in reorganizing the wards and to date they have made much progress. I understand that instead of a single executive for each ward there is to be a committee of five members. In this way five of the six districts have been organized or nearly so, and I am told that the First district will be left to the discrimination and activities of William I. Norris, old rivel of Wm. Curran.

What Norris proposes to do no one seems to know for certain, but it appears that the Jackson-Bichy people count on his full cooperation. On the other hand there are acquaintances of Norris who quote him as advising that everyhody should go along with Ritchie for another term.

Possibly Norris is one of those Democrats so averse to the Governor's continued dominance in the party that he is willing to see him renominated and sacrificed. Possibly. One never knows about some politicians—they have ways of their own. But there are Democrats who would very much like to know just where Norris does stand. He may be playing for the position of chief city leader. Some think he is.

Roosevelt Starts Talk of 1932

Political writers have begun to discuss the Democratic Presidential possibilities of 1932 and the spotlight has settled on Governor Franklin Roosevelt of New York because of his address on July 4 when he called attention to the problem of mergers and power regulation as issues for the near future. He struck a subject concerning which every business man and many others too, have been thinking recently as they scan the financial pages of the papers.

The power question comes home to Marylanders when they remember Conowingo and they recall that in the Presidential campaign of last year Candidate Smith spoke of this question while Governor Ritchie was swinging around talking about bigotry. Recently at the Governors' conference the Maryland Governor found no national issue except prohibition and the reaction to his remarks on that subject even here in wet Baltimore did not bring him much commendation.

In fact the Maryland Governor gets nowhere with his harking to the past while the New York Governor discusses problems of the immediate future. So there is some discussion of the vast difference between the two men—one looking to the front and the other looking to the rear.

It is well known that the one argument that Ritchie has for his fourth term candidacy is that a reelection would keep him in line for the Presidential nomination. But to the fellow who looks at the national horizon there is no sign that a term at Annapolis would bring him anything nationally. He seems to have petered out nationally just as he is petering out as a state figure. There is no reason to think that the Democrats of the nation would want to have his record as Governor—with the sleeping sickness—made a party issue.

Letter Writing Not Such a Success

The jinx hangs to the Maryland Governor and causes him to write more letters. He addressed the second one to Wm. M. Maloy through the columns of the Baltimore Post and for his pains got a warm reply. In his response Maloy made it plain that the Governor wrote his letter as a candidate for a fourth term and to do as much damage as possible to any aspirations that Maloy has. To date Governor has gained nothing while Maloy has certainly lost nothing. Indeed, the Governor's floundering epistles only serve to emphasize the rapidity with which he is slipping and must greatly cheer his increasing army of foes.

I am wondering whether, after he sees he can do nothing with or to Maloy the Governor will go after Senator McIntosh, who is becoming more and more a thorn in the royal ribs. Then he might take on Steve Gambrill if he decides that it is not good form to go after a member of the bench such as Judge Samuel K. Dennis. Sad fact it is that the last ditch Ritchie people now think it their duty to their chief to do their best to show that every Democrat who dares aspire to the Governorship is either a knave or a nincompoop.

What Was Proposed In Reorganization

As long as the Governor has dug up his reorganization plan, one of the direct fruits of which was the wholesale looting of the State roads fund, it may be well to explain just what happened.

The fact is that the Governor had in his budget a special appropriation of $10,000 to pay for a report on this subject. Most of this money was paid to the Griffenhagen company of Chicago which makes a specialty of doing such things for profit.

The report was laid before the handpicked committee named by the Governor and from which he excluded all Republicans. The late Judge N. Charles Burke was Chairman. Judge Burke and others on the committee, after reading the report (which Frank A. Furst said reminded him of a patent medicine almanac) threw it out the window. It proposed a vast scheme which would have made the Maryland Governor much more of a monarch than he is today and would have heen a terrific burden on the taxpayers.

And it was this scheme, sponsored by the Governor and paid for out of the public treasury that Judge Burke was condemning when he said that there was no wisdom in greatly increasing the powers of the Governor.

TAIT SOUNDS G .O. P. KEY NOTE FOR 1930 CAMPAIGN

Tells Republican Women at Hagerstown Party Can Win Governorship Next Year

A Republican Governor of Maryland in 1930 was the keynote struck by Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee; Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, and Senator David A. Robb, of Cumberland, at the afternoon meeting of the Federation of Repuhlican Women's Clubs of Maryland. and the Women's Republican League of Washington county, at Hagerstown Friday.

The meeting was held at "Long Meadows," country home of Mrs. J. Forney Young, president of the latter organization. Approximately 200 women, representing branches of the federation in all parts of the State, were present.

Back Naval Curtailment

President Hoover's move toward curtailing naval construction, and his efforts in behalf of universal peace received the unanimous indorsement of the organizations.

A telegram expressing the confidence of the two organizations in the Hoover Administration was dispatched to the Chief Executive.

Mr. Tait declared he addressed the club members not as women primarily but as eitizens and Republicans equal with men in the public affairs of the State.

Lauds National G. O. P.

Mr. Tait prefaced his discussion of current politics in Maryland by reviewing the record made in national affairs by the Republican Presidents from Lincoln to the present time, crediting the prestige of the United States to the work done by them. Maryland Governors and Senators played no small part in helping to make this record, he declared. He paid tribute to the retrenchment and economy policy of President Coolidge, stating it came when it was most needed.

"And now that we have reached a new period of international adjustment, looking to the possibility of bringing permanent peace to the world, we have a veritable Hercules of strength in the person of Herbert Hoover," the speaker said.

Maryland "50-50" State

Maryland, Mr. Tait declared, was a "fifty-fifty State" in politics, as well as in many other respects. It is, he said, for the most part Republican in national affairs, but goes over to the opposite party in State campaigns.

"When Republicans are united, as they are today, and Democrats disunited, as they are today," Mr. Tait said, "we are almost certain to win a State election despite a Democratic majority of 75,000."

The most important thing for Republicans to remember, he said was the necessity for party unity. Party control must be through its membership in the party, official and unofficial, with all leaders working in harmony, he added.

Little Doubt Of Success

"Select a ticket from the excellent field available, and internal disruption and there is little doubt of the success of the Republican State ticket in 1930," he told the gathering.

Speakers at the executive session, which lasted well into the afternoon, included Mrs. Georga B. Sparrows, chairman of the Federation of Republican Women of Baltimore; Mrs. Lulu E. Powell, of the Republican City Committee; Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown, Baltimore attorney, and Miss Jane Gabriel, of Baltiomre.

Following the business session a box luncheon was served on the lawn at Long Meadows.

Broening Talks

Mayor Broening emphasized the importance of every Republican woman in the State exercising her right of franchise.

"While woman has but comparatively recently come into the franchise," he said, "Administration is not new to her. She has always practiced the fundamentals of government, of which the home is the unit."

"The greatest opportunity that ever presented itself" was the way former Senator Robb, final speaker of the afternoon, summoned up the Republican outlook in Maryland. Mr. Robb scored what he termed "Government extravagance" in the State, and mentioned the State road scandal.

Mr. Robb declared that the next Governor should be nominated on a platform which would emphasize support of the Constitution.

Cities Prohibition

"While a State executive may recognize that there is a difference of opinion on the prohibition question, and may not ask anyone to change his own individual opinion, when he takes the oath to support the Constitution of the United States, he should abide by it," Mr. Robb declared.

The text of the telegram sent Hoover follows:

The Federation of Republican Women's Clubs of Maryland and the Republican Women's League of Washington county, in session here today, wish to express profound appreciation for your efforts in behalf of peace among the nations of the earth. We also unanimously indorse your program for curtailment of expensive naval construction. We also wish to express our utmost confidence in our Administration, and to say that you can at all times rely on our support."

SAYS NORMAL SCHOOLS TRAIN STATE'S TEACHERS

Education Board Asserts State Institutions Supply Teaching Force Demand

The Maryland normal schools train most of the teachers needed to fill vacancies in white elementary schools, according to an announcement issued yesterday by the State Department of Education.

Including fifteen students who will receeive normal school diplomas after the satisfactory completion of work this summer, the number of county graduates from the three State normal schools at Towson, Frostburg, and Salisbury totals 314, the announcement said.

Fewer Than Last Year

"This number," it continues, "is 30 fewer than the number of county graduates last year, the decrease appearing entirely for the county graduates from Towson.

"In addition to the county graduates, however, 115 Baltimore city students received diplomas from Towson, eighteen more than the number for the preceeding year, making the total number of graduates at Towson 262, while Frostburg and Salisbury had seventy-nine and eighty, respectively.

Allegany First

"Every county in the State, except Howard, was represented among the graduates. Among the counties, Allegany stands first with fifty-six graduates, Baltimore county ranks second with thirty-two, Washington third with twenty-four graduates.

"The counties in which the three normal schools are located evidently appreciate more fully than other counties the advantage of a normal school education, since parents and students alike in these counties are in sufficiently elose touch with the activities of the schools to recognize their value."

County Graduates

County graduates from the three State normal schools are shown below for the various counties, arranged in order of total number of graduates:

"During the school year just ended," the announcement concludes, "it was necessary to employ 450 elementary teachers to fill the positions added to care for increased enrollment and vacancies due to resignations, dismissal or leave of absence. Of the 450 appointees, 326 were inexperienced teachers Towson, Salisbury and Frostburg graduates of 1927 received appointments to 289 of these positions and the remainder came from schools and colleges of neighboring States.

Teachers Employed

"Of 66 teachers who had taught in other States prior to their appointment in Maryland counties, 15 had received their training in Maryland normal schools and colleges and the remainder had had their education in 15 different States. Prince George's and Montgomery counties, probably because of their proximity to Washington, D. C., employed the largest number of out-of-State teachers.

"There were 58 teachers who had taught in Maryland counties at some time prior to 1927-28, but who were out of service in 1927-28 for study, travel, illness or other eauses, and who returned to join the county staffs in the fall of 1928.

"Counting these three groupes as new additions to the county white elementary staffs, the per cent of 3,067 teachers new to the county service in October, 1928, was 15 per cent. In addition there was probably a slight turnover of 3 per cent during the year due to teachers who began teaching early in the year but who dropped out for one reason or another, requiring the appointment of others to replace them."

CIRCUS COMING; JOY FOR THE BOYS AND THE GIRLS

Will Exhibit Here Next Thursday on Old Hotel Ground

Drake Brothers Circus and trained animal show will exhibit in Oakland on the old Oakland Hotel ground on next Thursday, August 8, two performances, rain or shine, at 2 and 8 o'clock p. m.

A circus is something that no boy or girl should miss. Within the circus tent there is a mystic realm, which brings to the children's mind and contains the acme of all that is wonderful, great, and bewildering.

The great red pictorial posters which have come in advance have filled every young mind with visions of a perfect haven of delight and amusement and nothing can fill the childish heart with so much gloom and abject despondency as the idea of being debarred from casting wide open eyes about this wonderful and beautiful aspect as it will appear beneath the big circus tent. This circus has among its novelties, "Maud" and her trainer, "Si." Maud, at a word of command can kick a hundred ways in a minute, and at the next command will be so docile that a child can lie down between its four legs or mount it and ride it around the ring. It is also so trained to cake walk, perform the Spanish trot, and jump over gates that are high. Drake Brothers have a celebrated troupe of canines, trained ponies, riding monkeys, educated bears. High class aerialists and trapeze swinging, perch revolving and swinging ladder artists hold you spellbound.

Yodisha's troup of Japanese artists, direct from the orient, are wonderfully pleasing to the audience with the head balancing perch pole juggling and feats of athletic endurance. The Drake Brothers show presents a world of novelties and the circus rings are filled with many feature acts seen only with the very largest circuses playing the big cities. A free exhibition is given on the show grounds daily at 1 and 7 p. m.—Advertisement

JULY MARRIAGE RECORD IS SURPASSED BY SIX

At Noon Monday 121 Licenses Had Been Granted During Month by Clerk

With two and one-half days of the month remaining, the all-time record for number of marriage licenses issued in July was surpassed at noon on Monday, when 121 had been granted by the clerk of the Circuit court. This number was 13 more than had been issued for July, 1928, and six more than the all-time record made in 1926. July makes the fourth month this year in which the totals have surpassed the totals of the same months of last year, they being, January, March, April and July. Records for February and June showed them just one less than the records of last year.

One of the licenses granted this week was to a former man and wife, they having previously been divorced, and another one was to a couple attending the Young People's Christian Union of the United Presbyterian church at Mt. Lake Park last week. Eleven of the twenty-six permits granted during the past week were issued on Saturday. Five licenses issued were marked "don't publish."

FIVE MONTHS OF HOOVER

President Hoover has been in office for less than five months. His record is one of quiet but extensive accomplishment. Whatever expectations may have been entertained of the administration of an executive of such large prior accomplishments, no reasonable person believed that his program for national advancement would produce over-night results. Years are not too long a time in which to work out comprehensive plans for permanent betterment. But in less than half a year enough has been done to prove that given reasonable time and proper support in Congress, President Hoover will fully fulfill the expectations of those who believed that his inauguration would usher in a new and brighter era in national government.

In less than five months a farm relief measure in conformity with the pledges of President Hoover have been enacted and put into operation under the direction of a board of experts of national reputation along agricultural and general economic lines. Properly enough the activities of this board are now centered upon a quick review of conditions preliminary to mapping a practical course of action. The proper approach is being made to the difficult question of prohibition and the broader question of general law enforcement and observance through a commission which because of its personnel commands general confidence. Curtailments have already been made in national expenditures, and a survey of this field is in progress which undoubtedly will result in reorganization of the executive departments along the line of greater efficiency and economy. Oil conservation, which so many politicians and industrialists have been talking about, but doing nothing about, is on the way toward realization, and oil scandals, the chief provendor of political scandalmongers for a decade, has been made impossible by changes in land-leasing regulations. A tariff measure which will give needed and just relief to American industries suffering from unfair foreign cheap-labor competition, and which will give to American farmers fair play in their own home market, is nearing completion, and despite the outery of those who may always be depended on to take the alien side of any domestic quetion, this law, when passed, will erect some additional protective barriers between the foreign low standard and the American home standard of wages and living. Foreign relations have been distinctly improved, and there are signs abroad of a more reasonable and friendly attitude toward the United States both in France and England; undoubtedly the world-wide prestige of President Hoover prior to his election as President is a factor of importance in this improvement.

There is some sniping at the Hoover administration, as might have been expected. On the political and patronage side of the administration, there has been some disappointment and complaint. But the primary interest of the people is not in personal politics or in patronage. President Hoover will be judged by the effect of his administrative policies on national economic and social conditions. So far these have been such as to strengthen him with the people. Today American industry is running with record breaking swiftness and steadiness. Unemployment is diminishing. Wages measured in purchasing power of the dollar are higher than they have ever been before in the United States, and much higher than they have ever been in any other country. The shibboleths of demagogues are getting threadbare, and their output is attracting less than the usual amounts of respectful attention, though carried in great volume by the public press, a large section of which does not understand that this sort of thing does not command the old-time popularity.

Those who circulate among the people—and fortunately members of Congress have been so circulating during the past few weeks—know that President Hoover's strength with the great mass of every day people is even greater than at the time of his inauguration. The people intend to give President Hoover a fair trial in his effort to put good intentions and generous imagination into public administration, and it is the wise political medicine against the national administration while the signs of the moon are contrariwise. The truth is that unjust attacks upon a President who has the confiedence of the people only strengthens sentiment in his favor and discredits those politicians who are not willing to bide their time in the hope that something may really happen that will create an issue

MOTOR VEHICLE FATALITIES

Last April the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford predicted that 30,000 persons would be killed in motor vehicle accidents in the United States this year. The number in 1928 was 27,500. Statistics collected since the first of the year indicate an increase of 10 per cent in 1929. Periodically the Department of Commerce publishes reports from seventy-eight cities with a population of about 33,000,000. These are cities in which trafic rules are supposed to be rigidly enforced. In the fiifty-two weeks ending July 13 there was in the seventy-eight cities named by the Department of Commerce an increase of 734 fatalities over the corresponding period in 1927-28, according to the New York Times.

Many more cars and trucks and faster driving (up to sixty miles an hour) would account for increasing casualties, unless there was improvement in the skill and carefulness of drivers. Unfortunately, the average driver likes to travel fast, and does not always have his car under control in emergencies. In every community there are men and women who excel at the wheel, and they are rated as much better than the average driver. Owners of automobiles are much given to talking of the growing risk of driving in congested areas.

Motor Commissioner R. B. Stoeckel of Connecticut a few days ago issued an illuminating pamphlet on driving a motor car. It is evident that he does not have a very good opinion of the ordinary man or woman who sits at the wheel. He believes that the driver who makes it a habit to dodge in and out of traffic, as if he were accident-proof, is sure to come to grief. Mr. Stoeckel asks "What's the hurry?" when he deals with the driver who is forever hurning up the road. "Nobody," he says, "needs to take a chance or force other people to do so at corners or intersections, for the sake of saving ing a few seconds." The commissioner holds that no person can be a good driver unless "he thinks about his driving every moment while he is out." He must regard every one he meets on the road as a "potential trouble-maker." It is poor driving, he insists, to make speed down a street lined with parked cars. Calmness in driving is of more importance than "perfect ability to handle the wheel." To be safe, the driver "must always carry on in the spirit of willingness to live and let live." Constant education of drivers will be the greatest factor in reducing the appalling casualty list.

HISTORY OF DEER PARK

By J. W. KIMMELL.

History, either ancient or modern, is always interesting. Time changes all things material, so the changes of time make history.

A Mr. Droege, from the Fatherland, father of the late E. F. Droege, settled here long before the Civil War and engaged in the manufacture of liquor. He kept a large herd of fine catttle which was fed and fattened on the mash coming from his still.

After the War, Hon. Henry G. Davis, whose farsightedness and keen picturization enabled him to see into the future and to grasp its possibilities, bought large tracts of timberland covering the country from what is now known as the village of Deer Park and extending northward to Deep Creek which separates Marsh Hill from Roman Nose Mountain back of the farm owned by the late John L. Browning in his lifetime and now posessed by his surviving sons, and across the Youghiogheny River above Swallow Falls.

Mr. Davis located his first saw mill on the land west of the J. L. Browning farm, near Deep Creek. Shortly after the War the timber tract was cut and the mill moved further down the stream at a point near the breast of the present Deep Creek hydro-electric dam. His lumber industry, centering at Deer Park developed that place and being located within the lines of a tract of land called "Deer Park," the natural result was that the town should bear the same name. Mr. Davis, in order to carry the name still further, enclosed a large number of acres of land within a park and in it he turned loose a number of deer. These animals soon adapted themselves to the confines of the restricted space and were thrifty for a number of years following. Eventually, however, they ran into the forests and were killed by hunters.

Deer Park was the shipping point for all the lumber hauled to the place over a tramway built hy Mr. Davis from his mill. At the mill a large number of men were employed in cutting and shaping the logs for lumber. An equally large number found employment in the lumber yards at Deer Park and the stables in which the mules and other animals were kept.

John H. Riley was the first sawyer on the mill, afterwards succeeding James Anderson as superintendent. He remained in the employ of Mr. Davis until the timber in Garrett county had all been cut and was then appointed timber inspector for the West Virginia Central Railway Company, of which Mr. Davis was president and one of the chief stockholders. Today Mr. Riley resides at Elkins, West Va., and is more than ninety years of age. His wife is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John L. Browning. Mr. Riley was sheriff of Garrett county at one time and is remembered as having been an excellent officer.

Among the early settlers of Deer Park were A. J. Head, general foreman for Davis Bros., by which name the lumber company was known; the Thrasher family, who came to Deer Park about 1870. Two of this family, Benjamin T. Thrasher, 80, and Frank, still live.

There were also the Jankeys, Garretts, Madigans, Griffins, Madvilles, Dawsons, Rasches, Hinebaughs, Burks, Cropps, Clearys and Marleys. Mr. George Marley is still living and is 93 years of age. Possibly less than a dozen people are living today who remember the town as it was sixty years ago.

A Mr. Rinehardt was the first postmaster and also the first person to he buried in the Deer Park cemetery. Col. E. C. Tilson was superintendent of the lumber yards and succeeded Mr. Rinehardt as postmaster. He kept the first boarding house and hotel in the village, which was known as "The Wing and Wing."

At that time what is now known as Deer Park was mostly a lumber yard. The houses were small and were of the same type as those which may today be seen south of the Baltimore and Ohio railway track in the village.

A union church was built, the town being too small for each denomination represented to support its own minister. The first minister was a Mr. Snapp, of the U. B. curch. Later on came Rev. Neihiser, Rev. Thatcher, Rev. Jacob Roderick, Rev. Rexroad, Rev. J. E. Widmyer, and Rev. Clary. Rev. O. C. Miller, of the Oakland Lutheran church, preached occasionally. J. C. Rodeheaver, who is now living near the village, was possibly the first Sunday school superintendent.

Today Deer Park boasts two general stores, three churches, garage and is an up-to-date flourishing little village without a jail but many beautiful homes with well kept yards and lawns.

LARGE NUMBER ENROLLED AT 13TH MISSION SCHOOL

Annual Summer Meeting For Missionaries Now In Session—To Present Mammoth Pageant

The thirteenth session of the Mountain Lake Park Interdenominational Summer School of Missions opened at Mt. Lake Park yesterday with the most promising enrollment of its career. The school will continue until August 7.

The enrollment for Camp Gleam, a camp for girls under the direction of Miss Mary Collins, is entirely filled, and the enrollment in the other classes is larger than ever before.

Instructors for the school include Mrs. H. C. Bell, field secretary of the United Lutheran church in America; Mrs. Helen E. Scott, missionary to Turkey and world traveler; Mrs. F. I. Johnson, New York, mission worker; Dr. W. D. Schermerhorn, Garrett Bihlical Institute; Mrs. A. C. Bruere, missionary; Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Bancroft, former missionaries; Dr. Harry R. Calkins, missionary; Miss Janet Gilbert, Miss Edith Lowrey, and Bishop W. F. Warne.

To Give Pageant

In connection with the school a pageant will be given at the lake on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, "The Triumph of the Cross." About 200 people will compose the east and the entire play will be presented on the waters of the laks.

The pageant will consist of three scenes: 1. "The Pagan World," consisting of about 100 characters, illustrating the pagan world and the sending of light down the Ganges river, Muttra, India. Boats carrving lights will illustrate this scene.

2. "Arrival of Missionaries to Pagan world," the missionaries going out to them in boats.

3. "The Triumph of the Cross," A lighted cross with the group around it forms the final scene while a voice, singing "The Old Rugged Cross," is heard.

This is free, and all are cordially invited and urged to attend this pageant.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Beginning with the Pittsburgh Conference, followed by the Baltimore Conference of the Epworth League, and culminating in the convention of the Young People's Union, just ended, the past three weeks have seen much activity at Mountain Lake Park. It is estimated that the three meetings brought to the Park more than five thousand people exclusive of the regular summer residents and their visitors. Being from nearly every state in the Union, the fame of our scenic beauty and delightful elimate will be spread far and near. It would seem to be the beginning of the rehabilitation of the Park.

The Summer School of Ministerial Training, Pittsburgh Area, which began July 29, is to continue until August 8. This is the eighth annual session. Courses are offered in what is known as the four-year classes, attendance on this course being required as well also as for candidates for admission to the ministry and along other lines of study.

An interesting feature of this school will be a meeting of sixteen of twenty district superintendents from Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and part of Maryland, which will convene on Thursday for a three or four days' conference. It will be presided over by Bishop Herbert Welch.

The Interdenominational Summer School of Home and Foreign Missions is also in session and will continue until August 7th. As the name implies this school is not confined to any one church and includes the Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, United Brethren, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal and a number of other denominations. The attendance at this school will probably be more than two hundred.

An act of heroism performed by a small boy, has just come to our notice. It seems that a crowd of boys went in swimming at the lake in the Park a few days ago. Among the number was Bobbie Utterback, Roderick Johnson and Jack Schill. Young Johnson attempted to swim across the lake and when he had gotten probably two-thirds across his strength failed and he began to go under. He shouted for help and Bobbie Utterback, who is a good swimmer and able to negotiate the distance from shore to shore, went to his assistance. While Bobbie is well developed for his age (being only 9) yet he feared he would be unable to save Johnson, who was struggling in his efforts to save himself, when Jack Schill went to his assistance. Between them Johnson was saved from drowning. First aid was rendered and in a short time the near-victim was in his usual health. If Bobbie is not a Boy Scout this act alone should entitle him to membership.

We have been asked to broadcast the fact in the Park that Miss Edith Bolden and Mr. Emroy Bolden have donated a beautiful cedar chest, specially designed, which is to be filled with linens, etc., and awarded on Hallowe'en night for the benefit of the Oakland Fire Department. When the chest arrives it will be on display in the show window of the Fraley store. Mrs. Utterback is in charge of donations here at the Park. Every one interested in fire protection (and every one of our citizens should be) are asked to donate something to fill this hope chest. Linens, table scarfs, pillow cases, sheets, and articles of like nature. The general committee in charge desires a value placed on each article donated. This is a chance for all to show their appreciation of the manner in which the Department has served the Park. Just call Mrs. Utterback on the phone and she will call for the articles, or better still take them to her home.

Mr. M. C. Clayton received the sad news of the death of his sister, Mrs. J. C. Dent, who passed away suddenly on the 27th at her home in Los Angeles, Cal. A Michigan judge decides that when a woman engaged to marry makes home brew this is sufficient grounds for her fiancee to commit breach of promise. Usually in a case like this it is the home brew itself that commits breach of promise.

Brooke Lee's tax-fed Maryland News tearfully tells its readers that the Baltimore Post "has been bitterly attacking Governor Ritchie and the Democratic State administration for the past year and a half." We wonder what Brooke Lee would have The Post do? Commend the roads and other scandals of the Ritchie administration and lay on the grease in the fine style of the Wet Blanket and its imitator, The Baltimore News?

The much-heralded and long-awaited "The Broadway Melody," is scheduled to open at the Maryland Theatre Monday and run for three days, closing Wednesday night. This is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's first all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing production, and those who hold the destinies of M-G-M in the palms of their hands promise new novelties in their initial hear and see "opera." Word comes from the camera capital and from Broadway, New York, that "The Broadway Melody" is entitled to a couple of "supers" prefixing the familiar word "production." When a picture can make hard-boiled Hollywood and New York give a few loud British cheers, it is apt to find its way onto moviegoers' "don't miss" list.

INCREASE IN SICKNESS NOTED BY HEALTH BOARD

Records Show Marked Increase in 1929 Over Number in 1928

The records of the State Department of Health show a marked increase in both sickness and deaths from communicable diseases in the counties and in the State as a whole during the first six months of the current year in camparison with the total reported during the corresponding period of 1928, according to a report prepared by Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the Department.

From the first of January to the end of June, this year, 47,748 cases of notifiable diseases were reported in the State, 21,097 in Baltimore City and 26,651 in the counties. During the corresponding period of 1928, the total number of cases reported was 35,202, of which 23,774 occurred in Baltimore City and 11,428 in the counties. The more favorable showing made by Baltimore City during the current year, in spite of the influenza epidemic of last winter, is due to the fact that 1928 was an epidemic year for measles, with 16,673 cases reported in the State during the first six months. Of the total, 12,139 occurred in Baltimore City, and 4,534 in the counties.

The influence of the influenza of the current season is reflected in the figures for the six months ending on June 30, for both Baltimore City and for the counties. Influenza, with 23,809 cases recorded, 6,599 in Baltimore City and 17,210 in the counties, led all causes. The pneumonias—broncho and lobar—contributed 3,645 cases to the total, 1,659 in Baltimore City and 1,986 in the counties; tuberculosis added 1,749 cases, 767 in Baltimore City and 982 in the counties, and whooping cough with 3,206 cases, 2,574 in Baltimore City and 632 in the counties, brought the total from these four causes up to 32,409 cases or over two-thirds of all the reported illness during the six months.

The total number of cases of sickness from the same diseases, during the corresponding period of 1928, was 6,667. Influenza was responsible for 919 cases, 404 in Baltimore City and 515 in the counties; the pneumonias for 2,902, of which 1,433 occurred in Baltimore City and 1,469 in the counties; tuberculosis for 1,463, 703 in Baltimore City and 760 in the counties; and whooping cough for 1,385, with 1,121 in Baltimore City and 259 in the counties.

Ten cases of undulant fever—also known at Malta fever—,3 of typhus, 8 of malaria, and 8 of smallpox were reported in comparison with 5 of undulant fever, 3 of malaria, none of typhus, and 15 of smallpox during the first six months of 1928.

The total number of deaths from all causes recorded in the State from the first of January to the end of June of the current year, was 11,080, of which 5,803 occurred in Baltimore City and 5,277 in the counties, in comparison with 10,582 during the corresponding period of 1928, with 5,758 in Baltimore City and 4,824 in the counties. Influenza and the pneumonias were responsible for 2,209 deaths in 1929, and for 1,588 in 1928; tuberculosis for 936 in 1929

—OF A—
DESIRABLE SMALL FARM

Under a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage executed by Edward L. Rathbun and Mary M. Rathbun, his wife, to Charles A. Ashby, dated March 11, 1922, and recorded in Liber No. 81, folio 565, etc., Mortgage Records of Garrett County, the undersigned attorney (named in said mortgage to make sale in case of default, and default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured thereby and the interest thereon), will on THURSDAY, the 15th DAY OF AUGUST, 1929, at 2 oclock P. M., in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Maryland, sell at public auction all that piece or parcel of land, with the improvements thereon, situate, lying and being in Garrett County and State of Maryland, containing 18 1-4 acres, and which is fully described in said mortgage, to which reference is hereby made.

The same is located on the public road leading from Loch Lynn Heights to Deer Park Hotel, about midway between said two points. It is improved by a good dwelling house and outhuildings, and is a desirable location for a truck garden or chicken farm, as both of the above named places are excellent markets for anything of this kind, and are within two miles of this farm.

TERMS—Cash; conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

FRED. A. THAYER,
Attorney named in Mortgage to make sale. 23-4t

TRUSTEE'S SALE

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE
Situate Near Sines, in Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of the powers vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, passed on the 11th day of June, 1929, in a cause wherein John Reams is plaintiff and Maud M. Sines and others are defendants, the same being No. 2881 Equity on the docket of said Court, I, the undersigned trustee, do hereby give notice that on at the hour of eleven o'clock A. M., in front of the Court House in Oakland, Maryland, I will offer and sell at public auction the following real estate, situate near Sines, in District No. 14 of Garrett County, Maryland, to-wit:

All that parcel of land containing 8½ acres, and being the same which was conveyed unto Phila B. Reams, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, by deed from Columbus B. Sines, dated the 24th day of June, 1925, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 91, folio 219, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland. By said deed the right-of-way described as a lane through said parcel of land and also the use of the water from a running spring on said land were reserved to the said grantors, their heirs and assigns, and the same will be reserved from this sale.

Part of said land is cleared and under cultivation and the rest is covered with second-growth timber. The property is also improved by two dwellings, stable, garage and other necessary buildings.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third cash on day of sale, one-third in six months and the remaining portion in twelve months, or all cash at the option of the purchaser, the credit portion to bear interest and to be secured to the satisfaction of the trustee. Conveyancing at the cost of the purchaser.

ERNEST RAY JONES,
22-4t. Trustee.

Untie the Knot

According to the recent Bank Statements of the County deposits are ahead by far and the general financial condition is excellent. Yet, business could be speeded up.

It is necessary to create in the minds of the individual citizen a desire to own what you have to sell to them, and thus keep the new as well as the old currency in circulation.

WISHBONE TURNED TO BACKBONE

(©by D. J. Walsh.)

BETTY OLLOWELL paused to read a line of advertising in the window of a bank: "Make your wishbone backbone," then she flounced on up the street, sounding a contemptuous little "umph!" as she went.

Her eyes flashed. She was still aggressively antagonistic to the world in general, because of the uncalled for blows she considered had been dealt her, when a moment later, she met Alyse Hayes.

"Hello Bet!" Alyse called out, beaming upon her friend. "What's wrong this morning? You look like a cannibal about to devour an unsuspecting missionary."

"I'll be forced to do just about that if my present state of pocket-book keeps up," Betty grumbled gloomily. "If I didn't have to be nurse as well as wage-earner, I could—"

"Betty Ollowell!" Alyse interrupted testily. "Perhaps it's none of my business but I'm here to tell you you'd better count your blessings. If my mother was spared to me and I was given the privilege of caring for her, nothing else would matter."

"Mothers, sick or well, have to be fed, don't they?" Betty retorted bitterly. "And they have to have medicines and extra comforts and things. How am I to get all those when I'm only able to work at home?"

"You try too hard and worry too much," Alyse answered kindly. "It unfits you for giving your best. Plainly speaking, dear, it tells in your work. Mazie Walker's the kind that wouldn't say a word—she'll just take her next blouse to some one else but I love you, Bet, and want to see you throttle this monster that's dragging you down, so I'm going to tell. You forgot to stitch in one sleeve of that blouse you made for Mazie and it ripped half way out while she was at a party."

Betty groaned aloud and tears came. "Oh, what's the use!" she finally said hopelessly. "I tried so hard on that blouse, I worried myself thin over it."

"There you are! Worry is the disease of the age—doctors admit it. It brings wrinkles, exhaustion, indigestion—what a preachment I'm wishing on you! Anyway, think it over, Bet. I'm on my way to inquire about opera tickets for Saturday."

"How I envy you! To have the price of opera tickets! Oh!"

"Haven't yet, but I'm sure if it's right for me to go, the price'll turn up from somewhere. Try a little of my philosophy sometime, Bet. Bye, bye."

Alyse went toward the city and Betty returned to her home, envy of Alyse rankling in her mind.

Try as she would, however, she could not forget Alyse's philosophy and advice. The longer she thought about it, the more she viewed it with favor and the less envious she became.

Poor little Betty! Stronger characters than she have gone down under a similar load; a suicide father, an empty treasury, an invalided mother. Her only real asset was what her associates always had called her "fairy fingers." Betty could fashion a "Paris" hat or a "Drecote" blouse from next to nothing.

Had she been content to confine her thought and effort to her dressmaking, all might have been well, but she grew restless. She who once had had thousands to draw upon found it hard to confine herself to less than hundreds.

When the money did not come as rapidly as she thought it should, she resorted to all sorts of side lines; sent in original cross word puzzles to all newspapers, supplied last lines to foolish limericks, named picture panels, furnished recipes, bright sayings, slogans and then allowed herself to waste many precious moments watching vainly for returns. It never seemed to occur to Betty that literally thousands of people all over the country were indulging in this same indoor sport every day.

She had just about resolved to give up wandering into the bypaths, and confine her best efforts to some lingerie she had received an order for, when she chanced to pick up a sheet of the Sunday paper announcing that a hundred dollars would be given to four persons each week, whose handwriting gave evidence of unusual character.

"Umph!" she thought contemptuously. "A new one. No use my trying that. My character is anything but unusual. Still—takes no time—only costs two cents—guess I'll fall again—just this one last time."

She mailed the coupon and almost immediately forgot the whole incident, so engrossed was she with the lingerie upon which she was at work. It happened to be the trousseau of a millionaire's daughter.

For the first time since her father's death she was able to put her heel upon the serpent of envy which had raised its head and hissed whenever she was at work upon luxuries for others. Instead, she dove into this soft, silken fabric which grew into lovely garments beneath her skillful fingers, beautiful, happy, hopeful dreams for the young girl who was to wear them.

In three days they were finished. Betty enjoyed them as one enjoys a beautiful picture but every now and then a little stab of fear pierced her consciousness when she realized that if she was not paid when these were delivered she must take the precious rent money to fill their almost empty larder.

Resolutely turning her back upon the demon of worry she wrapped the lovely things as attractively as she knew how and set out to deliver them.

A servant answered the door and told her that none of the family were in. Betty checked back the tears which already had begun and started home, bravely repeating to herself Alyse's philosophy: "If it's all right for me to take the rent money, I'll just take it. If it isn't, something else will turn up;" then she laughed aloud at the ridiculousness of her daring to think that she could apply that philosophy to her life.

The first thing that met her gaze when she reached home was a letter from the newspaper which dealt in prizes for penmanship and when she opened it a check for $100 dropped out. Accompanying the check was an analysis of her character, reached, supposedly, from her handwriting.

"Exceptionally talented but constantly belittles her own power. Too much given to unnecessary worry. Banishing that, this writer will soar to great heights unaided."

"Old Man Worry, here's where you and I part company forever!" Betty declared happily to herself. "My wishbone's turned to backbone after all."

To Alyse Hayes, buying opera tickets with money earned as special assistant to the handwriting expert of the Sunday Chronicle, there came a mental picture of Betty's face when she discovered the check for $100 and its accompanying character analysis. She smiled gratefully when she recalled how easy it had been to turn the tide of the expert's opinion in Betty's favor.

Lonely Places Lure Hunters of Big Game

Master of his own destiny while in the wilds of Africa, W. S. Chadwick, big game hunter, declares that he is fearful of large cities. Writing in Field and Stream he cites several experiences he had which made him realize that he preferred the lonely forests to the noisy civilized habitations of men. One particular case he mentions in this article is how he and a friend outwitted a local band of police, 12 in number under a captain. The police had been sent after him to the Belgian Congo to arrest him and take tribute on his quota of ivory. Hearing of their approach Chadwick and his mate dressed their "boys," 20 of them, in some extra khaki clothes they had. When the Congo police arrived they were stupefied to meet with a larger array of soldiers than themselves and decided the better part of valor would be to remain as amicable as possible. Chadwick points out in his Field and Stream article that if this happened at home the police captain would have merely blown a whistle and the arrest would have been made. The writer admits he enjoys being a man in a man's world where what one can do with brain and brawn marks him apart.

Gave It to Hinkler

The qualities needed by a successful airman have at last been precisely analyzed and clearly expounded. At a flying school in Australia notice was recently given to applicants for admission that they must first give proof of possessing inherent flying ability. Some of the candidates wanted to know in what this ability consisted. They were then told that "the pilot must possess the innate faculty of selective and instinctive discrimination of the stimuli of the sensormotor apparatus to harmoniously adjust metabolic changes in physiological and psychological equilibrium in such manner as to comprehend and assimilate instruction in the attributes essential to perform the intricate and complex operations which constitute the details of pilotage." Very property they all exclaimed, as with one voice, "Hinkler has it!"—Manchester Guardian.

Cat Catches, Rears Mouse

Confirming a scientist's declaration that animals are becoming more civilized, a cat at Manchester, England, caught a mouse and instead of making a meal of it, adopted it as a chum. The couple now share the same sleeping basket and pussy faithfully washes and plays with its charge. Their only separation was when the cat spent a few days with the veterinary. On his return his excitement at meeting his little friend again was so great that it was feared that he had returned to primitive cathood, but the playmates soon settled down to their old companionship.

Red-Haired Celebrities

We find no reference in biographies to Caesar having red hair, though he was of fair complexion. Among others listed by various authorities as having had red hair are the following: Cato, Clovis, Frederick Barbarossa, William Rufus, Demetrius, Alfieri, Tasso, Queen Elizabeth, Red Douglas, Red Comyn, Otho II, Camoens, William H. Seward, Van Buren. A little biographical research would probably disclose numerous others.

Remarkable Formations

The Garden of the Gods is a region in Colorado near Colorado Springs, covering about 500 acres, and remarkable for the strange forms of the rocks with which it is covered. The red and white sandstone assumes grotesque shapes, to which various names have been given. For instance, the gateway is formed by two huge masses of rock of a bright red color, which are 330 feet high and between which the road passes.

SWANTON.

The Swanton 4-H club went on a picnic on Wednesday, July 17. The members present were: Clara and Gladys Baker, Hdra Friend, Nina Sweitzer, Mae Sharpless, Rosie Wright, Maud and Mary Sweitzer, Nellie Johnson and Mary Mason.

They finished weaving their reed baskets and did other hand work.

Nina Sweitzer, the local leader, was in charge of the outing and she taught them many new games and songs which she had acquired from being at Camp Algajoy for a week. Several of the members were unable to be present, due to sickness, and some were out of town at the time. All those present reported having had a splendid time.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Leniel Friend, a son, on Thursday, July 11.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Sweitzer, a son, on Sunday, July 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wilt and son, of Thomas, W. Va., were visiting relatives here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Burk, Mrs. Joseph Winters and Messrs Billy Burk and Julius and Thomas Johnston visited relatives in Davis, W. Va., last Sunday.

Mrs. Jerry Sweitzer is visiting at her daughter's home, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lohr, at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wilt and son Millard, of Thomas, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Wilt, Mrs. Mary Burk, of Piedmont, W. Va.; Mr. Willison Friend, Mr. Carl Lohr and daughter, Winifred, and Mrs. Jerry Sweitzer and daughters, Winifred and Nina, and son Millard were calling at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sweitzer Sunday.

Mrs. Bruce Friend and sons are visiting her mother at Blaine at this writing.

Mrs. Silas Johnston and daughter, Elsie, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sweitzer.

GRANTSVILLE.

The closing program of the Daily Vacation Bible school, which was held in the social room of the Lutheran church Friday morning, was splendidly rendered by the children.

The school was sponsored by Rev. S. D. Sigler, assisted by Rev. J. E. Johnson and Rev. R. H. Beck, and the standard Vacation Bible school course was used.

Much credit should be given the teachers, Misses Viola Broawater, Alverta Miller, and Helen Folk, for the excellent work accomplished in the two weeks of training. The average attendance was fifty, an increase of ten over last year. The program follows:

Processional, "Soldiers' March;" Lord's Prayer, kindergarten group; song, "Good Morning," stories, "Four Fishermen," by Dorothy Miller; Jesus Grows to be a Man," Cecil Edwards; song, "Jesus Loves me," stories, "Jesus Living Little Children," by Grace Swauger; "Baby Jesus," by Bayard Keller, Jr.; talk on Chinese children, by Rev. K. H. Beck; Bible song; Junior group, Memory work, song and flag salute; "Puppet Show."

Primary group, poem, "I love you Mother," by Mary Schaefer; memory work; song, "Father, We Thank Thee;" story, "Why Jesus Came," Russell Shearer; story, "Why Dick Lost the Prize," Mary Helen Gnagey; story "The Creation," Marie Miller; song, "Creation"; talk by Rev. J. E. Johnson; dramatization junior group; "Ruth and Naomi;" song, "I'll be a Sunbeam."

At the close of the program a picnic was held by the pupils on the church lawn.

Studio Club

The July program of the Studio Club of the Holmes-Wallace studios, opened with a juvenile section in which Miss Margaret Miller played a waltz by Schmoll; Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller a waltz by Biederman, and Miss Florence Davis a group of three of Oesten's "Mayflowers." The question box was then opened and Misses Ruby Dahlgren and Delta Gantt gave talks on the different classes of poetry and vocal music. Mrs. George Diefenbach illustrated her definition of "transcription" by playing the piano transcription of Rossini's "Prayer" from Moses in Egypt. Clyde Miller sang Meyer-Helmund's "Of thee I'm Thinking," and the program closed with a Chaminade selection in which Miss Helen Folk gave a sketch of the composer. Voice work was illustrated with vocal numbers by Miss Gantt and instrumental by Miss Folk.

Bridge Club Outing

The members of the Bridge club and friends enjoyed their annual outing on Wednesday by swimming at Gorley's Lake in the afternoon and a delicious dinner at 7 o'clock at "Five Acres" the home of Mrs. John Augustine, Addison, Pa.

Following the dinner four tables of Bridge were in play. The prizes were won by Mrs. L. O. Broadwater, high; Mrs. J. F. Fahey, second, and Mrs. William Powell, low.

Those in the party were Mesdames B. T. Keller, N. R. Davis, J. F. Fahey, J. R. Gnagey, A. C. Stanton, Byron Bender, C. O. Keller, A. J. Bender, T. O. Broadwater, Misses Ruth Stanton and Ethel Broadwater. The guests, Mrs. James K. Smart, Philadelphia; Mrs. William Powell, Fayettsville, N. C.; Mrs. C. O. Bender, Misses Ruth Keller and Viola Broadwater.

Birthday Party

A party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swauger on last Wednesday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Grace's 7th birthday anniversary. Those present were: Grace Hanft, Mary Schaefer, Mary Jane, Mildred and Grace Beachy, Claudie Paul, Grace Folk, Rosella Hanft, Kathryn Spreyer, Betty Jane Beachy, Vera Miller, Betty Kamp, Vera Miller, Mary Helen Gnagey, Marie and Dorothy Miller, Philadelphia, Pa., Refreshments were served on the lawn and a number of gifts were presented to the little hostess.

Mission Circle Entertained

Mrs. Ella Keller and daughter, Miss Ruth, royally entertained the Reformed Missionary Society on last Thursday evening. The topic "Brotherhood" was ably discussed by Miss Ruth Keller, and was most interesting. A delicious two course luncheon was served.

Personals

Harry C. Edwards and George Edwards attended a Chevrolet dealers' meeting and banquet at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C., on Friday.

Miss Lois Miller left to spend two weeks with relatives in Akron, O.

Mrs. W. M. Cotton who spent a month with Mrs. Fred Livengood, returned to her home in Connellsville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leatherman, of Thurmont, Md., spent several days in town this week.

YOUNG PRESBYTERIANS' WONDERFUL CONVENTION

Five-Day Session Closed Sunday Night At Mountain Lake Park —5,000 Persons Attended

The thirty-seventh national convention of the Young People's Union of the United Presbyterian Church of North America, which began the 21th ended last Sunday. With every seat in the large auditorium filled, it is estimated that between 3500 and 4000 people partook of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, administered by Rev. John E. Bradford, General Secretary of the Board of Edueation, Chicago. Sunday morning a convincing and powerful sermon was preached by Rev. John J. McLlwain, pastor of the Indiana (pa.,) United Presbyterian Church, on the theme "Possessing Christ." Following the solemn and impressive ceremony of the Communion, Rev. Raymond Druker delivered an unusually strong and appropriate address, entitled "After Dedication What?"

In the evening the final sermon of the convention was delivered by Rev. William Hiram Foulkes, of Newark, N. J., on the theme "Christ and the Career of Youth."

This convention brought to Mt. Lake Park the cream of the youth of the Young People's Christan Union, which is the matrix in which Christian manhood and womanbood of this and future generations is molded. Every day of the convention was replete with addresses on themes calculated to inspire all members to take seriously the general theme of "Take Christ, Live Christ. Christ Liveth in Me." The music for all meetings was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Heinz. Columbus, Ohio.

Five of the speakers who delivered addresses at the meetings are authors of note, namely, Francis J. McConnell, President Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; William Hiram Foulkes, vice-President International Society of Christian Endeavor; Edna Geister, nationally known as a Recreation Director; Catherine M. Balm, Young People's Director, Reformed Church in the United States, and J. Brad Craig, National Bible School Secretary.

The national oratorical contest, on the evening of the 26th, was of special interest to the large audience. The theme was "The World for Christ." The winner in the young men's division was Paul E. Carson, Indiana, Pa.; second, Edward B. Holborow, Union City, N. J. In the young women's division, Edna L. Cookson, Grove City, Pa., was awarded first honors and Margaret E. Wilson, Carnegie, Pa., second.

The Efficiency Contest was participated in by 57 Presbyteries, divided according to size. The winners of this contest were: division 1, Rock Island, comprising Illinois and Iowa; division 2, Delaware, located in New York state; Division 3, Beaver Valley, comprising Western Pennsylvania. The subjects graded are: among others, gain in membership, promptness in reporting, enrolling tithers, etc. Zenie Presbytery, Columbus, Ohio, was the winner in the series of recreation ball. Trophies were awarded in all contests.

Saturday night, designated "Stunt Night," developed the fact that among the Union membership there is abundance of talent for the creation of amusing and curious situations. The evening was delightfully spent, the musical elimination and automobile stunts being particularly amusing.

Take it all in all, it was a most inspiring, spiritual and educational convention not only to the members of the great religious organization back of it, but to the people of this and neighboring states who were fortunate enough to attend. The secretary in charge, Mr. Shaw, is efficient, genial and courteous, commanding the respect and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. The total registration of 1958 required much diplomacy and patient thought in order that the visitors might be pleasantly and agreeably housed. One of the striking features was the predominence of young men, unusual at this time of the year when they are busy holding down their positions.

We regret that the Union will not be with us again for at least two years. The meeting for 1930 has been fixed at Estes Park, Col., and for 1931 at Geneva, Wis.

Radio Program For 4-H Devotees

About half of a 45 minute period will be devoted to music and entertainment features characteristic of the 4-H club and the other half to news and information concerning 4-H work over a net-work of 31 radio stations on August 3 and September 7, it has been announced.

The radio programs come through the courtesy of the National Broadcasting company, and the stations used for the broadcast extend from the Atlantic to the Rocky Mountains.

The programs will be on the air from 12:30 to 1:15 p. m. eastern standard time.

Wool Shorn in 1928 and 1929

The amount of wool shorn in the U. S. in 1929 was 2,753,000 pounds greater than the amount shorn in 1928, according to tho preliminary estimate of the 1929 wool production of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The total production is estimated at 301,866,000 pounds compared to 229,113,000 in 1928 and 281,914,000 in 1927, and is the largest of record since 1894.

Most of the important sheep states showed increase in the number of sheep shorn. In the western group of states where about 60 per cent of the wool is produced the average weight per fleece decreased from 8.0 pounds in 1928 to 7.6 pounds in 1929, which accounts for most of the decrease in the U. S. average, although there was some decrease in the North Central states.

Fowl Houses

July, August and September are usually the best months for the building of poultry houses.

All too often, the matter of housing the pullets for the winter is left until everything else has been provided for, and then any kind of an old shack will be hastily thrown together, and often in a location not specially chosen for the house, but used because it was left after everything else was taken care of.

When you are about to erect a poultry house, select the best piece of ground possible, on a well drained location with a gentle slope to the south. After the location for the house has been determined, construct a house not only for the comfort of the chickens, but for their health as well. The good that can be obtained from handling poultry in a house best suited to their needs is equally as important as the cost of the house, and perhaps more so.

Housing conditions are fundamental to successful poultry production. The relation of housing conditions to efficient utilization of feed, sanitation for the prevention of disease, and good fall and winter egg production, can hardly be over-estimated.

Many poultry troubles, such as disease, parasites, low production, etc., are often aggravated by housing conditions, which do not provide sufficient ventilation, sunlight, protection from weather and wind, or facilities for ease in cleaning and management to insure a clean and healthful environment for the birds.

Poultry raisers too often overcrowd birds in houses which may be poorly constructed from the standpoint of principles of poultry housing.

The average layman in building a poultry house is apt to make as many mistakes in its design and construction as he would in designing and constructing any other building, the principles of which he was equally unfamiliar with. Much money and labor is misspent each year in the construction of poultry houses, which if more wisely directed would aid greatly in solving problems of disease, parasites, and low production.

Plans and specifications for the Maryland type poultry house are yours for the asking This house is the result of many years of study and experimentation at the Maryland Agriculture Experiment station.

If you can afford to lose money in the poultry business, you can afford to do your own experimenting. Don't experiment in building a poultry house unless you are sport enough to stand the loss that might be involved.

Your County Agent and poultry specialist can give you some helpful service in constructing a Maryland type poultry house. For further information and help on poultry house construction, call on your County Agent.

Don't wait until fall to build or remodel that poultry house. That means a last minute job and, usually, a poor one.

THOUSANDS OF AUTOS IN MARYLAND DEFECTIVE

"Save a Life" Campaign Showed Many Vehicles Needed Repairs

Thousands of automobiles throughout the state were found to show mechanical defects, according to the office of the commissioner of vehicles, Baltimore, during the recent "save a life" campaign conducted by the office, during which 193,364 machines were examined. A report issued by E. Austin Baughman, commissioner, showed that total to date, with some 80,000 cars as yet untabulated.

Baughman said that the results of the campaign showed the necessity for at least annual examinations of automobiles for mechanical defects, in order to keep inferior machines, tending to cause accidents, from the state roads, adding that many defects had been corrected before "safe" stickers could be issued by the state.

The campaign was conducted by the office of the commissioner in pursuance of an act passed by the last session of the legislature calling for the annual examination of automobiles.

THIRD ANNUAL LUTHEAN DAY OBSERVED AT PARK

Over 250 Attend From Congregations of West Va. Synod

The Third Annual Lutheran Day at Mountain Lake Park yesterday was attended by more than 250 persons from Clarksburg, Morgantown, Grafton, Wheeling, Frostburg, Keyser, Accident, Bittinger, Red House, Aurora and Oakland. More than half of those present brought their dinners and enjoyed the noon social hour when the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland were their guests.

The band gave a concert from one until two o'clock. Rev. R. T. Vorberg presided during the rendition of the formal program, which featured two addresses.

Dr. Charles F. Sanders, head of the department of philosophy of Gettysburg College, spoke of "The Impact of Jesus on the Orient," which was a presentation of the religious conditions as seen by Dr. Sanders on his trip around the world.

The second address was made by Mrs. H. C. Bell, Field Secretary of the Missionary Societies of the United Lutheran Church. She showed in a striking manner the spirit of missions of the present day.

At a business session it was decided to ask the conference of the West Virginia Synod to continue Lutheran Day at the Park, to increase the committee from three to five members and to appoint a Mountain Lake Lutheran Day secretary in each congregation of the Synod.

INTEREST SHOWN IN THE CONDITION OF CEMETERY

Suggestion of a Correspondent, If Followed, Will Be Valuable

A few weeks ago The Republican printed a communication relative to the existing condition of the Oakland cemetery and as a resule several communications were received by the editor suggesting various means for overcoming the distasteful and unsightly (we may say disgraceful) state presented to the visitor in many sections of the burying ground.

One suggestion offered was that an association of lot owners be formed, assessments made and the funds thus collected be used in defraying the expenses necessary in keeping the cemetery in at least a presentable condition. With this association as a going concern individual effort on the part of lot owners would not be necessary aside from the payment into the treasury of an amount each year for the upkeep of their holding the work to be done by a caretaker and thus all lots would receive the same consideration. Other plans were advanced hut in some instances these seemed to be too wide in scope for the amount of money possible to be raised through the formation of the proposed association.

The Republican has a message from a former resident of Oakland Calvin Crim now a successful business man of Cincinnati in which Mr. Crim offers a stipulated sum for a stated number of years for the upkeep of the cemetery.

Saturday last The Republican received the following communication from an Oakland resident on the subject:

To the Editor of The Republican.

Dear Sir:—The Oakland cemeteries are nicely located and with very little work and attention could be made a pleasant place for those who desire to do so to resort for a quiet half an hour's meditation.

Some of the lots are nicely kept and cared for but others are neglected and allowed to grow up in grass and weeds thus marring the beauty of the last resting place of the departed dear ones. One half hour each month of the summer season with a lawn mower, would keep your lot in fine condition.

Don't you believe you owe this little service to those whom you so dearly loved and who are now sleeping their last sleep in this plot?

If it is not convenient for you to do this personally you can have it done by communicating with James Maroney or George Welling. They will attend to it for you for a trifle.

OBSERVER.

Intoxicated Driver Pays Minimum Fine

Charles Rodeheaver, of near Sand Flat, paid a fine of $100 and costs to Justice of the Peace A. S. Teets, for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and was discharged from a count charging him with the resisting an officer and another one on a reckless driving charge. Rodeheaver was arrested on Sunday, July 21, by Corporal Currie, of the State Police, along Route 57, north of Oakland, and was taken before Magistrate W. A. Gonder who postponed his hearing. The case was later removed to Justice Teets' office who ruled in the matter, with the aforesaid verdict.

Forsythe Family Holds Reunion

With seventy-eight persons present, the Forsythe family held a reunion in the Speicher grove at Accident, Garrett county, on Sunday, July 21. Brief devotional services were conducted in the afternoon with F. G. Fox, of Friendsville, presiding.

Rev. L. K. Young, of Gettysburg, Pa., who is a member of the family, and Rev. Stuck, of Confluence, Pa., gave short but splendid addresses. It was decided before adjournment of the meeting of the family to organize a committee for the arrangement of succeeding reunions and the following were elected: Mrs. Hervey R. Smouse, Oakland, president; Mrs. Clyde Roseberry, Uniontown, Pa,, vice-president; Mrs. Dwight Speicher, Accident, secretary and treasurer.

The third Sunday of July has been designated as the date for the reunion next year.

Frogs Prefer Triangles

That frogs can distinguish between squares and triangles was shown in recent tests made by S. Biedermann, an European scientist. He set before the jumpers square and triangle blocks in pairs. One of the blocks had an insect attached to it. After the triangular block had appeared accompanied by food several times, the frogs would hop expectantly to triangular blocks. Tests with several species of frogs confirmed their ability to distinguish between different shaped blocks. Biedermann says that little frogs are the "brainiest."

Joining Church

Polly, age seven, was taken into church Easter Sunday. During the ceremony she was greeted by the minister and an assistant who had been enlisted in order to handle the large number of newcomers.

Returning to her home, Polly remarked to her brother: "I joined church today. And I met two men, the preacher and a gentleman."

GARRETT COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS NAMED

List Includes Four New Instructors For Oakland Schools; Teachers To Meet

Three new instructors were appointed by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, for Oakland High school and one new one for the Oakland Grammar school staff, it was learned this morning at the office of the Board of Education for Garrett County.

Mr. Rathbun pointed out that the list of teachers was but tentative and might be changed to some extent between now and the opening of school on Monday, September 9.

Teachers to Meet in Three-Day Session

The teachers of the county will meet in Oakland on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 4, 5, and 6, and the schools will open for actual instructional purposes upon the morning of September 9.

Male Instructor at Grammar School

For the first time in a number of years, a male teacher will be employed for the Oakland Grammar school, being Mr. Edwin Elias, of Frostburg, who comes to Garrett county highly recommended as an able instructor, according to the superintendent of schools. He will instruct the fifth grade pupils.

The list of teachers in the High and Elementary schools for the county for 1929 follows:

High Schools

Grantsville—W. Day Mullinix, principal; Emma Caulk, Frank Getty, Alverta Miller, John Leatherman.

Friendsville—W. J. Glenn, principal; Ethel Roberts, Clifford E. Funk, Roselle Bishoff, Emerson Bishoff.

SCOUTS TO MEET OTHER TROOPS IN BALL AND TRACK

Tenderfoot and Second Class Scouts Pass Test in Camp

Preparations for a baseball game and track meet between the local troop of Boy Scouts, now encamped at the permanent quarters on Deep Creek Lake, and the Pittsburgh troops, encamped at McHenry, to be held Friday at 1 o'clock, are now in progress and have been occupying the play periods of the Oakland Scouts since Monday. If the weather is unfavorable the meet will be held on Saturday.

The daily schedule is being carried out with the exception of Wendesdays and Sundays, which are visitors' days. More than a hundred visited the camp on Sunday.

During the daily study periods 14 Tenderfoot and Second class scouts have passed 34 tests and the first class scouts have been studying on numerous merit badge requirements. Richard Glotfelty has passed all his requirements for a second class scout and the rest who are active in passing tests include George Stuck, Kenneth Lawton, Chester Browning, Jack Treacy, Stuart Hanill, James Treacy, George Kerins, Schell Hoye, William Tillett, Walter Dawson, Gene Nordeck, Richard Gonder and Gerald Iman. Swimming and cooking are the two tests which have been creating the most interest.

A campfire program has been arranged each evening by the four patrol leaders consisting of numerous stunts and thus far the Beaver patrol with Elvin Iman as patrol leader, has been winning the majority of times. The Eagle patrol with Lewis Lawton as patrol leader, is ahead thus far in number of merits.

Rev. C. A. Shilke, Lutheran pastor, conducted vesper service Sunday evening around the camp fire, while the Catholic boys joined to the Holy Cross camp Sunday morning for their services. Next Sunday Rev. W. B. Brock, Presbyterian pastor, has promised to hold the evening service.

Prominent Terra Alta Merchant Succumbs to Typhoid

Luther B. Parrick, aged 57 years, a prominent merchant of Terra Alta, West Va., and well known to a number of Oakland merchants and other business men, died in the Western Maryland hospital at Cumberland on Saturday from typhoid fever.

BLOOMINGTON MAN DIES TRYING TO SAVE ANOTHER

Was Reported to have Succumbed Following an Attack of Cramps

Charles G. Moon, aged 20 years, who was drowned Tuesday night at Bloomington in the Potomac river, is said to have lost his life trying to save Lester Bernard, one of the lads who was swimming with him when the tragedy happened.

It was reported that Moon was drowned when he was attacked by cramps in the water, but it was later learned that when Lester Bernard, who couldn't swim, and who became frightened when he stepped into deep water, called for help that Moon rushed to him and in the excitement that followed was pulled under and drowned.

Moon was a former trackman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad but had been furloughed. Recently he was employed by the U. S. Geological Survey, now engaged in constructing a water weir to measure the depth and velocity of the Potomac river. The accident occurred a short distance from the point where the work of construction is being carried on by the surveying party.

SECTIONAL GOLF TOURNEY LISTED FOR DEER PARK

Annual Western Maryland Championship Tournament Will Be Held There August 22 to 27

The Western Maryland Golf Championship tournament will be played on the famous Deer Park Golf and Country Cluh, at Deer Park Hotel, from August 22 to 27, inclusive.

This event will bring together not only a large majority of promising young golfers, but this year a number of veterans are among those who have already expressed their desire to participate in the contest.

The championship cup has been won by six different golfers. W. Forrest "Red" Welch of the Cumberland Country Club, won the title last year. Others who have held the trophy for one year are Gene Casper, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Lee Hutchinson, Fairmont, W. Va.; Dr. C. N. Beagle, Crafton, Pa.; Dr. Lee Bradford, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Kellerman, Washington, D. C.

HON. JOHN J. CORNWELL TO BE LABOR DAY SPEAKER

Julius C. Renninger Makes Announcement This Morning

The committee in charge of the Tenth Annual Knights of Pythias Labor Day picnic announced this morning, through its chairman Mr. Julius C. Renninger, that Hon. John J. Cornwell, former Governor of West Virginia, and chief counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, will be the speaker for the occasion, and due to his departure that afternoon at a few minutes after three o'clock, Mr. Cornwell will probably address his audience at two o'clock.

Mr. Julius C. Renninger, past Grand Chancellor Commander of Maryland, was instrumental in securing the services of Mr. Cornwell for the occasion and has expressed his delight in thus having Mr. Cornwell present. He is both a gifted and logical speaker of broad vision and commanding presence.

The committee is still working on the program of entertainment for the day and promise that the affair for 1929 will be the banner one during the years that have passed.

Judge Sloan Will Address Rotarians Tomorrow Evening

A program consisting of special musical numbers and an address by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, of Cumberland, will be presented tomorrow evening at the regular weekly meeting of the local Rotary Club.

Dr. F. I. Johnson, of New York, delivered a stirring address to the membership of the club at the meeting last Friday evening. Dr. Johnson, an official of the Mission Board of the M. E. church, and an extensive traveler, gave some interesting facts concerning China and its government gleaned at first hand while he was in that country.

TENNIS TOURNEY TO START AUG. 12 AT MT. LAKE PARK

Tenth Annual Western Maryland Championship Spreads Over Entire State

Sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, the Tenth Annual Western Maryland Tennis tournament will be ushered in August 12 at Mountain Lake Park, and will be held under the auspices of the Women's Civic club.

The tourney will be in session from Monday until Saturday, August 17, both days inclusive, and two new challenge cups have been placed for competition in both the men's singles and women's singles this year. The cups must be won three times before becoming one's permanent property.

The first Western Maryland Challenge cup in men's singles was in competition for nine years and was won permanantly by Gwynn King, of Washington, D. C., in 1928. The names of the following players are inscribed upon the trophy: John Brown, Connellsville, Pa., 1920; Jarvis Adams, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1921; Wright Hughus, Wheeling, W. Va., 1922; Ray Johnson, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1923; Kier Boyd, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1924; Jarvis Adams, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1925; Gwynn King, Washington, D. C., 1926-27-28.

"The Women's Singles cup" was in competition for five years and was won permanently by Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson, of Washington, Pa., in 1928. The names of the following players are inscribed upon the cup: Miss Sara Wright, Frostburg, Md., 1924; Miss Elizabeth Hugus, Wheeling, W. Va., 1925; Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson, Washington, Pa., 1926-27-28.

The tennis committee is composed of George A. Sawin and Paul Sullivan, Pittsburgh; Edgar Hammer, of Greensburg, Pa.; and Howard Friedrich, Wheeling, W. Va.

Women's singles begin August 13 at 10:00 a. m.

Men's doubles begin August 13 at 2:30 p. m.

Mixed doubles begin August 13 at 2:30 p. m.

All entries must be in writing to Mrs. Wilson Lee Camden, Mountain Lake Park, Md.

The day has finally come for the boys and girls who have waited for the circus. It is here and the show will go on promptly at 2:00 o'clock at the Baltimore and Ohio show grounds providing a truck or two more arrive in time. One of the circus officials stated this morning that two trucks had failed on the National Highway about thirty miles out of town and that three trucks had been sent back from here to bring the loads in that were carried by the disabled vehicles. He felt that no trouble would result from the little mishap, however, and that the two performances would be conducted on schedule time.

WIDELY KNOWN EXHIBITOR TO BE HERE FOR THE FAIR

1929 Event Creating Much Interest Thruout County; Attractions Being Arranged For

Hugo Cheffolo, a world-wide known entertainer, has been engaged by the Garrett County Fair association for the big free acts at the 1929 Fair, it was announced this morning by H. M. Speicher, manager.

Cheffolo makes a sensational high dive from a 110-foot ladder into a net and also rides a bicycle down an incline and leaps a gap of approximately 25 feet through flames onto another plane.

In commenting upon the exhibitor, Mr. Speicher stated that he had performed at the largest fairs in America, being at the York County, Pa., Fair two years ago, and had spent the last year in Paris, France, where he performed almost daily. He added also that he felt that the entertainment would be of the highest class yet to be presented at the Garrett County Fair.

"We are meeting with a more genuine cooperation with the people of the county in our effort to make the 1929 exhibition of real benefit to the county at large, than ever heretofore," stated the manager this morning, "and with the exception of a few details to work out, and another trip over a part of the county, the program and premium list will be ready for the publisher. We feel certain that more interest will be taken in the list this year and have been promised on every hand that the farmers, stockmen, business men, and the women of the county will prepare their exhibits to make the best showing that has ever been seen on the fair grounds.

The manager requests that any of the department heads who desire a change to be made in their department or any person desiring a change to be made in their advertisement, to get in touch with him or The Republican, catalogue publishers, at once

Collision On Cheat Mountain Causes Other Car To Wreck

Two cars in collision on Cheat Mountain, south-west of Aurora, W. Va., caused another car to wreck in an attempt to avoid hitting the cars in the roadway on Sunday.

Cyrus Wotring and family, of Terra Alta, West Va., were occupants of one car and George Nestor, of Thomas, West Va., and a friend occupied the other car which came in collision when it is stated that Nestor cut the inside of a curve in descending the mountain. Both cars were damaged almost beyond repair it is said, and the occupant of the car with Nestor had her hand badly cut with flying glass. The third car, which hit a high embankment to avoid the wrecked cars in the road, was damaged when a wheel dropped into a hole along the roadway and a door was jarred from the body of the car.

GARRET COUNTY'S NATURAL BEAUTY SPOTS ARE SEEN AND WRITTEN ABOUT BY MEN OF "DESCRIPTION ART"

From "Reliable Statements of Attractions, Facts and Features on Trails for Motorists" Garrett county receives a bit of publicity "as others see us."

"Reliable Statements, etc.," is a publication from the press of Registered Service International, of Greensboro, N. C., containing one hundred twenty pages of history and legend of Washington, D. C., the hub of a Nation, and motor trails to important points. The publication is a side-bound book, 9 By 12 inches, and is well compiled, and has a reputation for truthful and reliable descriptions.

The paragraph in relation to Garrett county follows: * * * * *mountain scenery and one reaches Aurora, a delightful summer resort on the crest of mighty mountains. This resort is near the Maryland border. * * * * *Five miles intervene between Aurora and Red House. This point is located in the heart of a scenic region of unsurpassed beauty. It is the intersection of U. S. 50 and the scenic roadway used on eastern journeys which leads by Oakland, Maryland, a distance of nine miles to Keyser's Ridge, Grantsville, Piney Grove, Frostburg, Keyser, Burlington, West Va., where it rejoins U. S. 50. Oakland is a beautiful city located in a mountain section of unsurpassed scenery. Every provision is made here for the comfort and amusement of the vacationist. Probably no other section of the entire east boasts more scenic values than this wonderful section. One of the most magnificent lakes in America is located here and it renders the whole section a most desirable vacation point. The scenery here is a sublime symphony of "sky-kissed peaks and crystal waters." Rhodendron and crystal cascades conspire to convince the visitor that this mountain magnificance can not be equaled elsewhere. An additional twenty-seven miles brings one to Keyser's Ridge, situated within a few miles of the line between Pennsylvania and Maryland on U. S. Route 40 at its intersection with Maryland state route 37. Keyser's Ridge enjoys a strategic location and the mountain climate makes it attractive to the summer vacationist. Six miles westward one reaches Grantsville, located near the intersection of U. S. 219 and U. S. 40. Grantsville is a beautiful little town with plenty of accommodations for tourists or vacationists desiring a place of beauty and quiet."

PASSENGER AIRPLANE IS OPERATING OVER OAKLAND

May Establish Flying Field at the Weber Farm East of Town

Trips over Oakland and vicinity are being made daily from a landing field at The H. Weber & Sons Company plant, near Oakland, by Reginald Shaw, Kingwood, West Va., who is carrying passengers.

Shaw is a brother to A. T. Shaw, local manager for the Monongahela West Penn Electric Company, and has been following the flying game for several years with an aviator of years of experience from Marietta, Ohio, who is known as "Scotty" to many Oakland residents. Shaw recently purchased a plane outright and is conducting a passenger carrying business in this section of the country. It was stated this morning that he would remain here until after Sunday at least, and that if present plans work out satisfactorily he will build a hangar on or near the Weber farm and establish headquarters here. Bernard Cover is pilot of the plane.

CAMP MINNETOSKA TO GIVE ANNUAL PROGRAM SUNDAY

Large Crowd Expected In Attendance for Land and Water Pageants; Dedication of Building

"Dick Whittington" is the title of a pantomime for the land pageant, and "The Princess Learns to Swim" is the title of the water pageant to be presented at Camp Minnetoska on Sunday by about 25 girls who are members of the camp, and to which an invitation is extended the people of Oakland and vicinity to witness.

Miss Lucy E. Hyde, one of the directors of the camp, has made extensive preparations for the entertainment of the expected crowd and promised an interesting and instructive program.

During the afternoon Dr. Henry W. McComas will dedicate the new dining hall and kitchen, a building 20 by 50 feet, recently completed and, according to Frank Hansen, director, the new building will be known hereafter as "McComas Lodge."

The land and water pageant has become an annual affair at the camp, and two years ago there were more than 250 guests present for its presentation. Last year the affair was called off after a fright of infantile paralysis became prevalent in the county and state. This year at least 500 visitors are expected for the afternoon and all are requested to bring basket dinners for the evening meal.

The program will start at 2 o'clock p. m., and continue until late in the afternoon. It is suggested by the camp directors that cars going to the camp from Oakland will use the road leading off the concrete road west of The Pines, near Corinth, as it is in good condition and only a short distance from that point.

Natal Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Lawrence announced on Tuesday morning the birth of a daughter.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Linaweaver, of Washington, D. C., announced the birth of a son on Saturday.

Born, to Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Torrey, at Grafton, W. Va., on Tuesday, a daughter.

Youth Escaped Serious Injury When Pushed in Front of Auto

Rex Bowman, aged six years, received only minor cuts and bruises when he was struck by an automobile as he was riding on the State highway in a little wagon.

The youth was playing along the roadway at the Hammond rock crusher, near Thayerville, Tuesday afternoon and was pushed onto the highway by his playmates in front of an on-rushing automobile driven by William Giessman. The wagon was demolished and thrown approximately 60 feet, and the occupant, who was unconscious for a short time was brought to the office of Dr. N. I. Broadwater, and after receiving medical attention was taken to his home at Thayerville. While the injuries were painful, being cut about the face, head and hands, yet they were not considered serious by the physician.

AMISITING OF STREETS IS ORDERED BY CITY COUNCIL

Work Will Be Commenced In 30 Days—Time Required To Replace Water and Gas Lines

Upon motion by J. W. Whorton, a member of the city council, "it was ordered," Monday night, "that the brick streets of Oakland be amisited, provided the citizens approve the same by petition."

This motion was made after a thorough discussion of the question of improving the brick streets of the town, which question had been the main topic at the past several meetings of the Mayor and Council, including a special meeting held Monday night a week ago, when plans took a definite step in the direction of completing an extensive program of street building and improvement of the brick streets in the city.

So that the town fathers would feel that the citizens approved their move, a petition was circulated among the citizens and signed by a large number on Tuesday and Wednesday.

30 Days Allowed for Prelimiaaries

The time required for the completion of the amisiting of the brick streets will be approximately 60 days, it is said by members of the council. Thirty days of that time will be needed by the water department to run new copper service lines to about 40 residences along those streets, as well as for the inspection and replacement of damaged gas lines. This work is being done at this time, of course, so that the surface will not be disturbed after the new coating is laid.

Approximately $13,000 will be expended for the amisite work, according to members of the Council, which figure is said to be sufficient to take care of incidentals, and includes the highest possible figures for such work. Mr. Whorton stated he expected this figure would be cut materially after bids for the work were received.

The State Roads Commission will be notified of the action of the Mayor and City Council, with the request that the Commission would resurface their two streets in the city.

Street Lights to be Installed

The Council approved a petition to have street lights erected on the alley in the rear of The Republican Office, and one on Second street opposite the William-James Hotel.

Firemen To Go To Terra Alta Tomorrow

Members of the Oakland Volunteer Department will go to Terra Alta, West Va., tomorrow with the new LaFrance Fire truck and participate in the firemen's parade to be held in that town in connection with the "homecoming" which is in progress there. The parade is scheduled for one o'clock p. m.

Young People To Meet In The Lutheran Church

The meeting of the Oakland Young People's League will be held in the Lutheran Church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Mary Eva Compton will be the leader and she has a splendid topic to work up. The meeting last Sunday was well attended, and all appreciated the talk by Rev. Brock on "What the Young People Expect from the Church." A large number of the young people attended the pageant at Mountain Lake, Tuesday night. Plans are being made to have a picnic some time next week which will be announced at the meeting on Sunday evening.

West Va. Guardsman Killed At Caddell Range

Frederick Snyder, a West Virginia Guardsman, of Morgantown, W. Va., accidentally shot and killed himself at the Caddell Rifle range, at the foot of Caddell mountain on the Kingwood road, Sunday afternoon. Snyder, along with company C. of Morgantown spent the day on the range and the tragedy is said to have happened after inspection of arms when none of the men were supposed to have had any shells in their possession. The company was leaving the range for the return trip to Morgantown when Snyder is supposed to have accidentlly discharged his rifle, firing a bullet into the point of his chin which went through the top of his head, death resulting instantly.

Lesson for August 11

DANIEL AMONG THE LIONS

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 6:1-28.

GOLDEN TEXT—The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Daniel Is True to God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Daniel Is True to God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of True Courage.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Courage of Faith.

Sterling worth brought him to the front and kept him there. The new king wns keen to discern his worth and to give it recognition.

II. An Occasion Sought Against Daniel (vv. 4-9).

1. The reason for (v. 4). No doubt that whieb prompted this effort was envy and jeniousy.

2. Failure of (v. 4).

Daniel's official record was blameless. They could not even find an error. Envy is still in the world. Those who excel in any line are sure to suffer in some way for their excellencies. The successful business man in relation to his competitors, the ranking pupil in school, the child of superior merit in the home, will be envied by the others. In politics many times those who honestly strive to do their duty are persecuted. Even in the church we find ministers are sometimes envious of their superiors.

3. The wicked plot (vv. 5-9).

They trumped up a charge on the ground of his foreign religion. They were not careful about their method, so their end was attained. In spite of Daniel's loyalty, the decree was signed by the king which would put him into the den of lions.

III. Daniel's Noble Confession (vv. 10-13).

Though Daniel knew that the wicked decree was signed, he knelt before God as usual. Note the silence of heroism. Weak men bluster; strong men have little to say.

1. He continued his usual habit (v. 10).

He knew that the civil law had absolutely nothing to do with his religion. God's law is first. Laws forbidding reading the Bible, praying, or meeting to worship God, have no authority over men.

2. Daniel reported to the king (vv. 11-13).

These wicked men watched to find out whether Daniel would pray before his God, and when they found that he continued his worship, they went to the king and reported that Daniel disregarded his decree.

IV. The Foolish Decree Executed (vv. 14-17).

1. The king displeased with himself (v. 14).

He labored till the going down of the sun to deliver Daniel, conscious that he had been entrapped.

2. The king helpless (v. 15).

The proud ruler found that he was a slave. To enact laws which change not is the height of folly.

3. Daniel cast into the den of lions (v. 16).

The king's parting word to Daniel was a poor, feeble excuse for his guilty conscience.

4. The double seal (v. 17).

V. Daniel Delivered (vv. 18-23).

1. Note the contrast between the night in the lion's den and the one in the palace. In the palace there was no sleep, no mirth. Daniel's quiet is as a picture of the safety and peace which are the portion of those who trust God and do His will.

2. The king's question in the morning (v. 20).

3. Daniel's answer (v. 22).

God's angel has done many wonderful works. The early Christians despised bonds, stripes and death.

4. Daniel delivered (v. 23).

No manner of hurt was found because he believed in his God.

VI. The Doom of His Accusers (v. 24).

They were cast into the den of lions and "or ever they came at the bottom of the den" their bones were broken in pieces. Daniel's enemies go into the same trap which they prepared for him.

VII. Darius' Decree (vv. 25-27).

Men were to tremble and fear before Daniel's God. As to whether Darius had a change of heart we do not know.

VIII. Daniel's Prosperity (v. 28).

Daniel goes higher into the kingdom and continues in his place of honor even though dynasties change.

In a Better World

A comfortable old age is the reward of a well-spent youth; therefore, instead of its introducing dismal and melancholy prospects of decay, it should give us hopes of eternal youth in a better world.—Palmer.

When a Cross Is Formed

When our will runs parallel with the will of God, no cross is formed; but when our will runs counter to God's will, a cross is formed which is heavy to be borne.—Aughey.

GRANTSVILLE.

Entertained Quilters

Miss Christina Winterberg entertained the ladies of the Lutheran and Reformed Missionary Societies at an all-day quilting in the social room of the Lutheran church on Tuesday. A bounteous three-course dinner was served to thirty-nine, who completed two quilts and one comfort. A short program was given, Mrs. F. C. Diehl as the leader.

Helps For Jelly Making

Standard

Perfect jelly must have not only sparkling clearness but also quivering tenderness of texture and fresh fruit flavor.

Requirements For Jelly Making

Fruit juice containing pectin and acid. Sugar in right proportions. Heat.

Homemade and commercial pectins can be used with fruit juices deficient in pectin, but, with the addition of pectin and necessarily increased sugar, the fruit flavor is less pronounced.

Kind of Fruits to be Used for Jelly Making

Apples, tart and firm; currants, crab apples, blackberries, red raspberries, black raspberries, some varieties of plums, gooseberries, grapes, Concord, Fox and Chicken; quince.

Ripe fruit, best flavor. Under-ripe fruit, more pectin and acid. Over-ripe fruit may be used successfully by the addition of 1 tablespoon of lemon juice to 1 cup of fruit juice.

Preparation of Fruit

Hard fruits washed and scrubbed if necessary. Remove stem and blossom end and cut in eighths or quarters, rejecting bruised or rough spots. Drain.

Wash berries in a bowl of cold water and lift with the hands as a sieve to a second bowl of water, or use a colander in a large bowl of water, taking care that the fruit is not bruised, for that will mean the loss of juice. Continue until the fruit is clean. Drain.

Prepare from 6 to 8 pounds of fruit at one time.

Water to use in Extracting the Juice

Most of the berries without added water. Exceptions are gooseberries, blackberries, black raspberries, currants, and wild grapes, which are better with from ¼ to ½ cup of water to the pound of fruit.

Hard fruits, water to cover, which means one half as much water as fruit. Stir to prevent burning.

Time of Cooking

Hard fruits, from 15 to 25 minutes, depending upon the condition of the fruit.

Grapes from 10 to 15 minutes or until the seeds show.

Soft fruits, from 3 to 10 minutes, depending upon the condition of the fruit.

Straining The Juice

Canton flannel jelly bags are best, but a double thickness of good quality cheesecloth is good. Suspend from a wire rack or a wooden support. When the flow of juice stops, press the bag lightly with the flat side of two knives to start the flow.

A second extraction may be made by adding water to the pulp and cooking from 10 to 15 minutes, but perhaps a more satisfactory use is to rub the pulp through a strainer and make a spiced butter to be used with meat or as a spread on bread. If a good extraction is made, combine with the first before making the jelly.

Method of Cooking the Juice for Jelly

From 4 to 6 cups of juice should be used at one time. It is better to cook a small quantity twice than a large quantity at one time. The larger the amount of juice, the slower the evaporation and the longer time for cooking, which destroys flavor and color.

A large, flat bottom pan to allow a rapid boiling is the best. Use either ¾ or 1 cup of sugar to each cup of juice (not concentrated). If currant juice has been extracted without water, use 1¼ cups of sugar to each cup of fruit juice. Stir until the sugar has dissolved over slow heat. Add lemon juice, if used. Increase the heat and cook rapidly for the jelly test. No exact time can be given as different juices vary in reaching the jelly test. A thermometer can be used, but the temperature varies with the kind of juice and quantity of sugar.

Watch Carefully for Jelly Test

Dip a long handled spoon into the hot mixture and when the drops run together and from a sheet, take the jelly at once from the fire. Remove the scum.

Kind of Jelly Glass

A low jelly glass is preferred because the mold of jelly when turned out has a broader base and does not topple over when served. The glasses must be clean and hot.

Filling the Glass

Pour the jelly slowly into the sterilized glass to ¼ of an inch from the top. Use a small spoon and remove any scum or bubbles that come to the surface. Cover the jelly at once with a clean cloth. When set, stand in the sun to dry the surface, for this helps to make a perfect seal. If the jelly does not set overnight, do not be discouraged, for the jelly that sets slowly is sometimes of the best texture.

Sealing the Jelly

When the jelly is firm, heat paraffin in a pitcher until hot but not smoking and pour over the jelly. Rotate the glass while the paraffin hardens so that it will form a high rim.

Another method is to cover the jelly with a thin coating of the paraffin and while it is hardening to make an indentation around the outer edge next to the glass with a toothpick, and when the paraffin is firm pour more over the firm layer. This helps to make a better seal.

Storage

When the seal is firm, cover, label with date and name of jelly, and store in a cool, dry place.

Detailed information may be obtained from the Home Demonstration Agent's office.

SWALLOW FALLS

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Beckman and family, Sines, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer, near Red House, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Reams had as guests during the past week, Mr. Walter Lewis, Mrs. David Reams, and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Harland Reams and daughters, Glendine and Elouise, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Trickett, of near Deer Park.

Miss Holice Reams is spending a week's vacation at her home here.

We regret to note the death of Mr. James Browning, of near Oakland.

There will be preaching and Sunday school at the Pine Grove church on Sunday, August 11. Sunday school will go into session at 10 a. m., and worship will be held at 11 a. m. Everybody is invited to attend.

Will Open Children's Hospital At Hopemont

The official opening of the new Children's hospital at the West Virginia Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Hopemont, about nine miles west of Oakland, will take place Saturday morning, August 10, between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock. This is a modern fire-proof structure and is up-to-date in every respect. A number of prominent speakers will be in attendance.

JULY MARRIAGES BECOME OPPULAR IN THE COUNTY

A-1 Records for July are Broken When 132 Apply for Papers Last Month

July was one of the big, busy months at the local marriage license bureau, according to A. G. Ross, deputy clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, when 132 couples applied for the papers necessary to make July weddings in Garrett county as popular as June weddings are elsewhere.

Searching the records it was found that in 1926 there were 115 couples to make application at the Court house for licenses to marry, and going further back into the record book it was learned that in 1923, another big year for July, there were 113 prospective grooms entered the portals for the purpose of securing the certificate.

During the last week, or from Monday noon until Monday noon, only one requested that the record of his application be not published.

Charles Gongales, 21, a Mexican and of the Yellow race, and Mildred Tucker, 20, both of Mannington, West Va.

MT. LAKE PARK.

The Interdenominational Summer School of Missions, which closed Wednesday, has been proclaimed by all who attended as one of the most successful ever conducted at the Park. A large measure of this success can be attributed to Mrs. B. H. Sincell, local chairman, and her associate, Miss Hamill. The speakers included Dr. Schermerhorn, of the Garrett Bible Institute; Mrs. H. C. Bell, Field Secretary of the United Lutheran Church in America; F. L. Johnson, S. T. D., Board of Foreign Missions, M. E. Church; Miss Gilbert of the U. B. Church; Dr. Frank Cartwright, of China; Mrs. Perry Bruere, of India, and others. The chill of the Fall-like evenings distracted somewhat from the enjoyment of the audience in the large auditorium. Nevertheless, for those interested in the Foreign Mission Field, there was not a dull moment during the entire week. Among the churches represented were the Baptist, Christian, Church of the Brethren, Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Southern Methodist and United Brethren. Of especial interest were the lectures on Japan, China and the Philippine Islands.

The pageant "The Triumph of the Cross," staged on the lake, was impressively arranged in three scenes: "The Pagan World," "Arrival of Missionaries in the Pagan World," and "The Triumph of the Cross." this last scene, with the lighted cross and a sweet voice wafted over the waters singing the well beloved old song of "The Old Rugged Cross" was impressive. With the lights from hundreds of automobiles parked around the lake, mingling with the reflection on the water from the electric lights, lanterns and red flares on the island where the pageant was staged made a beautiful picture—one suggesting the possibilities that lie in extending and enlarging the lake.

The Eighth annual meeting of the School of Theology of the Pittsburgh Area, Methodist church, brought to the Park many young preachers and those just entering the ministry for intensive training along the line of their chosen profession. We noticed among those here for the meeting several who attended the Pittsburgh Conference Epworth League a few weeks ago. The two meetings held simultaneously brought to this resort a class of citizens we were proud to welcome as guests. They are the backbone of Christian America.

We are convinced that the so-far rather successful season at the Park justifies, to some extent at least, the continued agitation in this column of added improvement and betterment. We have taken occasion to interview a number of the leading visitors and without exception each has expressed the opinion that in no section of the eastern part of the country can be found a more ideal place for a convention center. One who was with us several weeks in connection with the Young People's Convention outlined what, in his opinion, should be done to make this place more attractive to the young men and women, without whom no convention is a success. The first thing he mentioned was an up-to-date outdoor bathing place, well kept and sanitary, properly beautified and supervised. Another thing he mentioned (which you may possibly remember has been likewise mentioned in this column with more or less regularity) was a system of side walks. These were only a few of the improvements he mentioned. We happen to know that Superintendent Baker has ambitions along the same lines. Whether finances will permit them to be carried out we do not know. But just the same we need them.

It has been our observation that as a general rule the young people who attend these different conventions are a clean-living, out of door bunch and are attracted by the advantages of exercise in the open and unless that is provided for them they will seek it where it is provided. It is, therefore, our fault if this does not become a convention center.

We have just learned that a project is on foot to turn the swimming pool on the Loch Lynn side into a chicken hatchery. If this is permitted, it will be the biggest mistake the citizens of that progressive village could possibly make. The hard surfaced road will be built through Loch Lynn to join with the road at Gormania sooner or later and when it is that community will need that site for the entertainment of the large number of tourists who will pass through. It would likewise be a detriment to Mountain Lake Park. We don't know on whose toes we are stepping, but we hope the party has no corns.

Just in passing we want to say that we hope the city fathers will keep better lighted, whether we are here to enjoy it or not.

We are glad to note that Joseph Rathbun and family and his son-in-law and wife, Mr. J. B. Gibson, will be with us during part of this summer. They will occupy the Romney cottage, owned by the Harmisons. Their present home is in Gainesville, Florida, from which place they motored.

Word has been received from the sick room of Miss Mollie Hamill that she is steadily improving and hopes to be soon among her friends.

At a meeting of the Thompson Rest Home Association held August 2, the following Board of Managers was elected: Mrs. J. L. Stratton, president; Mrs. E. L. Davidson, vice-president; Mrs. Elizabeth Talson, treasurer; Mrs. Logan Carr, secretary and Miss Octavia Hicks, superintendent.

Rev. F. L. Fultz and H. C. Cuppett are in attendance on the Indian Creek Camp Meeting, near Buckhannon, W. Va. Rev. Fultz is president of the Camp Meeting Association and Rev. Cuppett has charge of the music.

Misses Helen and Elizabeth Gibson are visiting relatives in Washington, D. C.

Mr. L. B. Crane and son, of Buckhannon, were visiting Loch Lynn relatives over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sanders and family of Morgantown, spent Sunday at Mt. Lake Park, visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. P. F. Gortner and children, who were here for the past month visiting Mrs. Gortner's parents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ream, have returned to their home, Mazon, Ill.

Mrs. John Stevenson, who has been ill for some months from a form of rheumatism, has been taken to a Baltimore hospital for treatment.

Mr. Carl Whetsell, Pittsburgh, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Warren Rathbun.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harvey and daughter, Ellicott City, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Harvey.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church of the Park will hold another of their delightful chicken suppers in the dining hall of the church the evening of August 14, from 5:30 until 7 o'clock. The price of the supper being 75 cents.

CANADA AND THE RUMRUNNERS

Canadian newspapers, without regard to political affiliations, are outspoken in condemnation of the attitude of that country's Government toward rumrunners across the border. They hold the government's position is untenable from the standpoint of friendly relations with the United States. It charged that the Canadian Administration virtually had become a party to the illicit traffic in booze and to the border lawlessness to which it has given rise. Our journal, the Manitoba Free Press, which is identical in political faith with the King Government of Ottawa, repeatedly has charged that the administration policy is due directly to the influence of the Canadian liquor interests.

These are grave accusations, which apparently have received no satisfactory answer. On the contrary, it is maintained by a statement from the Canadian Minister of National Revenue, cited by the Free Press and the Toronto Globe, that "the customs regulations actually encourage the smuggling of liquor into the United States by imposing a lower excise tax than the payment demanded as a bond upon liquors cleared for export elsewhere."

It is explained on behalf of the Government that the customary bond required for export liquor is $18 per gallon. This is canceled upon receipt by the customs department of a certificate showing the liquor actually was delivered in accordance with export clearances. No such certificate, of course, could be expected in the case of liquor sent into the United States. Hence, in this instance, the Government merely collects the usual excise tax and passes up the bond requirement.

That is the government practice under condemnation. It seems to be obviously unsound, if not otherwise questionable. It is suggested that the feasible course for the Government—if it is not to deny outright clearances for liquor destined for the United States, as the Government at Washington has requested—is to require such a bond that the shipments would become prohibitive, since the bond could not be canceled.

The Canadian Government has indicated its readiness to continue conversations with the Washington representatives to the end that a more satisfactory agreement may be reached on the matter. That, at least, is a promising phase of the situation, says the Kansas City Times.

Living In An Epoch-Making Age As We Are Today Is Not Tranquil Living, According to This Correspondent.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Living in an ephoc-making age is not tranquil living. Cross currents of opinion are encountered, lines of differing endeavors; finally one main purpose evolves and becomes historic.

Writers of history who look back through the records of a century or even a half-century can trace the currents and point out results—to them it all looks plain and easy. But it was not so when those epochal accomplishments were in the making. The American Constitution had a stiff fight with the newly proclaimed states before it was adopted. There were more Tories in the Colonies than they are generally accredited with. Wonder arises as to the opinions of the barons at Runnymede and the conflicting arguments before the Magna Charta was demanded and presented.

But difficult as it is to judge the era in which one lives it is at least certain that this age beginning the second quarter of the twentieth century is ephocal. It is one which expands toward internationalism, it is one which begins to understand the tying-together interests of commerce and health-guarding and general safety for the peoples. And the event to which these interests have lead, thru discussion, opposition and other difficulties, is the ratification of the Kellogg pact and its proclamation by President Hoover.

On July 24th, the President proclaimed effective the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war and congratulated the whole world upon this "additional instrument of human endeavor for the sake of peace."

The ceremonies which attended the promulgation of the pact were of imposing simplicity. President Hoover, former President Coolidge, Mr. Kellogg and the diplomatic representatives of all but two of the nations that have become parties to the past were gathered in the East Room of the White House. Mr. Hoover delivered a short address. He asked the diplomats to convey to their governments the appreciation of the United States that "through their cordial collaboration an act so auspicious for the future happiness of mankind" had been brought to consummation. And the President expressed his opinion of the importance of the hour—and era—thus: "I dare predict that the influence of the treaty for the renunciation of war will be felt in a large proportion of all future international facts. The magnificent opportunities and the compelling duty now open to us should spur us on to the fulfillment of every opportunity that is calculated to implement this treaty and to extend the policy which it so nobly sets forth."

Special mention was made of the part France had played in the making of the pact and of the work of Mr. Kellogg. The articles constituting the treaty were read "to the end that every article and clause thereof may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the citizens of the United States and the citizens thereof" the proclamation made proclaiming the treaty to the people; the fifteen signatory powers named, the thirty-one other countries "which have deposited with the United States instruments evidencing their definite adherence to the treaty."

"This," he said, "is a proposal to the conscience and ideals of civilized nations. It suggested a new step in international law. It represented a platform from which there is instant appeal to the public opinion of the world as to specific acts and deeds."

DIED.

MRS. CHRISTIANA WOTRING

Mrs. Christiana Wotring, aged 70 years, widow of the late Abraham Wotring, of Oakland, died at her home on Third street at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning following an illness of two weeks' duration. Mrs. Wotring had been in failing health for quite a long time and was practically an invalid during the last two years of her life. The deceased was long a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and became identified with the local St. Paul's church after her removal to Oakland many years ago. She devoted a great part of her life to work in the church and the socities which it sponsored. Mrs. Wotring is survived by her mother, Mrs. Levi Echard, of Mt. Lake Park, who is nearly ninety years old; two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Shirer and Mrs. Elsie Ashby, of Oakland, and four grandchildren and one great-grandchild; two brothers, J. L. Echard, Mt. Lake Park, and Willis W. Echard, of McHenry; and by four sisters, Mrs. Stephen Mattingly, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Walter Myers, of Mountain Lake Park; Mrs. Earl Willetts, of Cumberland, and Mrs. Calvin Glotfelty, of Swanton. Interment of the remains was made in the Oakland cemetery following services conducted in St. Paul's church at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Rev. B. T. Trevey officiating.

JAMES BROWNING

James Browning, aged 43 years, son of the late John M. and Missouri Browning, died at the home farm about nine miles west of Oakland, Monday morning at 2:30 o'clock following an illness of a few days of intestinal flue. He had been afflicted since birth.

He is survived by three brothers and five sisters: Lee Browning, of Akron, Ohio; Ray and Joseph Browning, at home; Mrs. James Delawder, and Mrs. Clarence Sweitzer, Terra Alta, West Va.; Mrs. John Manges, Lambert, Pa.; Mrs. Joseph Wolfe and Miss Florence Browning, of Oakland.

Funeral services were held yesterday morning at the home, Rev. Chas. A. Shilke, pastor of the local Lutheran church, officiating. Interment was made in the Oakland cemetery.

MRS. RICHARD G. RICHARDSON

Mrs. Agnes Aurora Richardson, aged 77 years, wife of Richard G. Richardson, died at her home on Jones street, Piedmont, Saturday afternoon of chronic bronchitis and complications. Although she had been in ill health for several years she died suddenly. Had she lived to September 25 Mr. and Mrs. Richardson would have been married fifty-seven years. She was born at Aberdeen, Md., August 15, 1852.

Besides her husband, she is survived hy four children: Harry Richardson, Westernport; Carl Richardson, Durham, N. C., and Misses Frances and Virginia Richardson, both of Piedmont; and five grandchildren. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock from the home in Piedmont, and interment was made in the Oakland cemetery. Rev. William B. Gold, a former pastor of the Presbyterian church, Piedmont, officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and family have spent the past twenty-five or more summers at their summer home at Mountain Lake Park.

Sanitary Supervision of Canneries

Holding up the modern kitchen with its spic and span cleanliness as the model for packing houses to follow, Mr. A. L. Sullivan, chief of the Bureau of Food and Drugs of the State Department of Health, in a letter recently sent to the proprietors of canneries throughout the State, puts cleanliness first among the sanitary requirements for establishments engaged in the canning industry. He also places particular emphasis on the importance of the prompt and adequate disposal of waste and of the sanitary supervision of the living quarters of employees.

"The sanitary inspection law requires," Mr. Sullivan said:"

"That all buildings in which canned foods are packed be adequately equipped for the sanitary handling of food. Buildings must be well lighted and ventilated; walls smooth, clean, and painted or whitewashed. Floors must be smooth, tight and well drained; they should be built of cement.

"Washstands with soap, towels and running water are necessary. An ample supply of good drinking water must be available for employees and for use in the cannery. Sanitary toilets are another requirement.

"Benches, tables, etc., used in the canning processes must be so constructed that they can be kept clean. They must be cleaned daily.

"The cannery must be kept clean! Each canner should assign a sufficient number of persons to superintend the general sanitation of the cannery. The place should be cleaned twice a day. Employees should be required to wash their hands when starting work and after visiting toilets.

"All wastes must be removed daily and disposed of so that they will not constitute a nuisance. Drains and ditches must be kept clean and free from decaying products.

"Living quarters must be kept clean and must have ample facilities to protect the health of the workers. An abundance of good water should be available and facilities for bathing provided. Closed garbage cans should be furnished and the garbage removed daily. The grounds around the living quarters must be kept clean. Toilets must be maintained in sanitary order at all times. A competent person should supervise the sanitation of the living quarters and surroundings."

That's Why Business Isn't Better.

"I'll look after the Advertising Dad, and you take care of the customers, and we'll make our business much better.

"There seems to be a lull just now, but if we can induce the prospectives to enter the doors, then we have a chance to please them with our merchandise.

"Our entire sales force can't bring them in, but our ads will.

"With the splendid illustrations which we can procure from our newspaper without cost to us, I can arrange my ads with the pulling power to make the people want what we have to sell them. I am going to devote some time and study to advestisements, and then I'll say to you 'That's why business is better.'"

Call the Advertising Department of The Republican for a man who will go into the situation thoroughly with you and assist you with your individual necessity.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Bean Beetle Control Methods are Effective

Observations of the Campaign being conducted against the Mexican bean beetle in the State have shown, according to Dr. E. N. Cory, State Entomologists, that the control methods used have been very effective. Costs, it is pointed out, have varied but, in cases where canners have checked plots untreated, the indications are that the treatments have been absolutely necessary in order to save the crop.

While several canners have suggested the dusting or spraying of the plots between the first and second pickings Dr. Cory has discouraged the practice as unnecessary from the standpoint of possible injury to the bean since most of the bean larvae have finished their feeding by that time. Also, it is discouraged because an extra spray or dust will unnecessarily increase the probability of excess arsenical residue and Dr. Cory warns, while the danger from excess arsenic is slight, it would take only one rejection on that basis to put the buying public and food officials in the same phychological state that was brought on by the English apple rejections.

Therefore, for this reason, it is strongly advised that careful consideration be given before putting on the sprays or dusts even if the beetles are present. If there should be any doubt as to the proper procedure, Dr. Cory advises that a member of the staff of the entomology department be consulted.

After a recent inspection in company with the County Agent J. H. Carter, Dr. R. A. Jehle, Specialist in Pathology for the University of Maryland Extension Services, reports that the potato plots of the 20 members of the Certified Seed Potato 4-H club of Garrett county are looking in fine condition and should produce some very good potatoes.

The club was formed in an effort to train and interest the young farmers of the county in the growing of certified seed potatoes, and as an inducement, the agricultural department of the B. & O. Railroad supplied each contestant with sufficient seed to plant ¼ of an acre. Later on prizes will be awarded by the Railroad to the leading club producer.

The contest originally started with 23 members. However, 2 of the club members suffered losses when their plants became diseased from adjacent potato fields and a third member, in using a northern variety of seed, developed so much leaf roll in his plants that he was disqualified. The remaining 20 members, however, should produce very fine certified stock, it is declared by Dr. Jehle.

Dr. Jehle expects to visit Garrett county within another week or so to make the second inspection of these potato plots.

Maryland Breeders Order Purebred Ewes

As a result of the increased demand in recent years for purebred stock in the State, K. A. Clark and W. E. Hunt, Animal Husbandmen of the University of Maryland left recently for Western Montana for the purpose of selecting three decks of purebred Hampshire ewes to fill the orders of twelve Maryland breeders. The orders call for 10 lambs, 80 yearlings, and 163 older animals. These purebred ewes will be used to establish new flocks and to increase the size of flocks already established.

A considerable amount of the animals will be shipped to the Eastern Shore where there is a shortage of purebred stock. The rest are to go to other parts of the state. At the ram sale held in Centreville, 45 purebred rams sold for an average price of $58.55. Nineteen of the rams sold came from out-of-state flocks. Maryland breeders of purebred sheep, therefore, now have a good outlet for their rams.

Two Scholarships Awarded 4-H Club Boys

Charles Hines, of Olney, and Jack Price, of Darlington, Md., have just been awarded scholarships to the 4-H Club Week which will be held from August 8 to 13 on the campus of the University of Maryland. The scholarships, which defray all expenses for the week, are being awarded by the Southern Planter, an agricultural magazine published in Richmond, Va.

Charles Hines was selected for the honor because of his fine reputation for good 4-H club work. He has had a wide and varied experience and was the first boy ever to be called upon to speak before a Senate Committee on his and other 4-H club boys' work. Charles is in complete charge of his mother's farm in Montgomery county and has, as a part of his club work, some of the finest cows, swine and poultry in the State of Maryland.

Jack Price has likewise been outstanding in his work and is rapidly becoming one of the best known club members in the State. He is very helpful in local club and county affairs and has shown himself to be a leader. He is working his way thru High school.

GORTNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Cosner and daughter and and Mrs. Anderson, of Fairview, were with us Sunday. Mr. Cosner filled the Brethren appointment using as his text, "If the Lord be God follow Him."

EVERYBODY INVITED TO SPEND THE DAY

ENFORCEMENT PROGRAM COVERS WEEK'S TIME NOW

"Lest We Forget," A Movie, to be Shown in Five Towns

The Annual Law Enforcement Day which is observed at Mountain Lake Park next Sunday has grown to larger proportions in that it will be carried through sections of the country for the entire week.

The Anti-Saloon League is projecting a prohibition educational program which centers around the annual meeting to be held at the Park at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, when a noted jurist, Judge L. G. Long, of Dayton, Ohio, and George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Maryland Anti-Saloon league will speak. Sheriff William R. Harvey, of Allegany county and former federal prohibition agent, will relate some personal experiences in his effort to control the illicit manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

Pictures To Be Shown

"Lest We Forget," a five-real picture, which is said to be interesting from the beginning and which shows conditions before prohibition as regards conditions of today in the country, will be shown at five different towns in the county during the week, beginning on Monday, August 12, at the Grantsville M. E. church at 8 o'clock. On Tuesday the picture will be shown at the same hour at the Friendsville M. E. church. Wednesday night, at 8, the picture will be reproduced at the Oakland M. E. church; Thursday at 8, at the Kitzmiller M. E. church, and Friday at the same hour at the Blomington M. E. church.

In addition to the afternoon meeting at the Park on Sunday, the greater part of the churches of the county have arranged to have the prohibition question discussed in the pulpits, it is said.

4-H CLUB LEADERS LEAVE FOR STATE CAMP TODAY

150 Per Cent Increase Noted In Delegates Over Last Year

Unusual interest is being manifested in the eleventh annual 4-H Club Week which will be held at the University of Maryland, August 8 to 13. It is expected that five hundred club members, leaders, and delegates from approximately six hundred clubs in all the counties of the State will attend.

The Garrett county delegation left Oakland this morning on the 9:05 train for Cumberland where they will join the delegates from Allegany county and will go from Cumberland to College Park on a special train, leaving Cumberland at 11:30 o'clock.

Miss Elsie Benthien, county demonstration agent and supervisor of the local 4-H clubs will be in charge of both the Garrett county and the Allegany county delegates.

Members of the local clubs who will represent Garrett county and who left this morning in company with Miss Benthien are Miss Dorothy Welch, local leader of the Mt. Lake-Sunnyside club; Miss Frances Thrasher, local leader of the Deer Park Junior 4-H club; and Miss Mildred Stemple and Miss Adeline Stuck, members of the Oakland 4-H clubs.

Arrangements are being made by E. G. Jenkins, State boys' club agent, and Miss Dorothy Emerson, girls' club agent, for a program of courses which will include instruction in home economics and agriculture, training in leadership, recreation and entertainment.

Many Trips Planned

Trips will be taken to the U. S. Department of Agriculture Farm at Arlington, Va., and the U. S. Department of Animal Industry Farm at Beltsville, Md., in addition to a number of private farms. Observation will be made of the work going on at the University of Maryland Experiment Station Farm and experimental plots and specialists of the College will give instruction in many subjects to selected groups.

Among important speakers scheduled for the week are Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, and President Raymond A. Pearson, of the University of Maryland. Others who are planning to attend assemblies are Judge Frank I. Duncan and the members of the agricultural committee of the Maryland State Bankers' Association, an organization which has for years taken a very active interest in the 4-H club movement in the State.

Another feature of the week which is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest is the fact that Miss Edith Craig, of Boston, who, in years past, has given much of her time in the interests of Club Week at the University, will again be on the campus after having missed the affair last year.

The entire delegation will visit the U. S. Department of Agriculture buildings in Washington on Monday, where it is hoped that they will be received by the Secretary of Agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde.

Garrett county shows an increase of more than 100 per cent in delegates attending in 1929 as only two delegates attended the 1928 classes.

Gilbert Family Holds Seventh Annual Reunion

The farm of J. J. Gilbert at Sand Run, in District No. 8, this county, was the scene of a most enjoyable affair last Sunday, at which time his family gathered for their seventh annual reunion, together with a few invited guests. Despite the cold weather the day was enjoyably spent in renewing family ties and greetings.

There were 36 present at the reunion when four generations were represnted. The number gathered from six states including Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Pennslyvania, Wisconsin and Maryland. A useful gift was presented to the host, Mr. J. J. Gilbert, and the date of the next gathering was set for the first Sunday in August, 1930.

TWO MINE FIRES STILL EXIST IN MARYLAND FIELD

Spruce Hill and Midlothian Burning for Years With Loss of Millions of Tons

The fact that Allegany county has two burning mines and they have been burning for years with the loss of millions of tons of coal and consequently of millions of dollars is not generally known because there is but little exterior evidence that acres of coal seams continue to burn.

The most noted burning mine is Spruce Hill, an abandoned working near Vale Summit. This fire started 53 years ago and is still blazing at a depth of several hundred feet under the surface. The fire has spread over an area of from three to four miles, it is estimated.

The other mine fire is at Midlothian, which started 35 years ago—in August, 1892. It is estimated at least 1,000,000 tons of coal have been lost to the appetite of the flames at Midlothian. At both burning mines, hundreds of mine holes are to be seen.

Now and then smoke may be seen issuing from the ground. The existence of the fires is made more evident when snow is on the ground for steam is seen to arise with the smoke, from the thawing snow, while the ground is soft and muddy. The ground is also denuded of vegetation.

Faulty Ventilation Caused Fires

The fires in both mines came as the result of faulty ventilation. The Spruce Hill, one of the earliest operations of the Maryland territory, had a large salamander or basket furnace in which a fire was kept burning all the time, the draft from the burning coal acting as a suction in ventilation. The heat from this furnace burst through to a coal seam which became ignited and efforts were finally abandoned to stop the fire. Holes were drilled above and water pumped into the burning mine to no result.

At the Midlothian mine, a fire was built in the shaft to draw off the foul air when it ignited the coal in side wails and the entire mine finally became as a blazing furnace.

Robert Duncan, one of the older residents of Midlothian, was one of the crew that entered the mine to fight the fire when it was first kindled. A bucket brigade and pumps were employed at the time and after working some hours, Mr. Duncan and a number of others were overcome from inhaling smoke and fumes and were carried unconscious from the mine. Others in the party were John Little, superintendent of the mine; Thomas Reese, William Patterson, John Donnelly, and George Broadbeck. They penetrated the mine 1,000 feet.

During the World War when coal was taken from the adjoining Adams mine, men worked with canvass against a blaze and until they could no longer withstand the heat. When coal was dumped on the tipple, it was often too hot to be taken in the bare hand.

Wensell Reunion Held Friday

Mrs. V. B. Wensell, near Oakland, spent an enjoyable day Friday, August 2, when her children and a number of her grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered at the sugar camp where they held a basket picnic. Games, target shooting and horse-back riding were enjoyed by the young folk, while more restful recreation was enjoyed by the older members of the group.

Those present were: Mr. O. S. Wensell, Akron, O.; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wensell and daughter Evelyn, Massilon, O.; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wensell and son Joseph, and Mrs. Earl Boyd and son, Edward, of Keyser, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Simmons and son Blair, near Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Durst and son Earl Lee, Oakland; and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wensell and family, and Miss Ada J. Wensell, at home.

"Flies have caused more deaths than all wars," says Major Ramson of the Medical Department of the United States Army. "Since the fly came into the world it has been synonymous with epidemics of pestilence and disease." But with FLY-TOX it is a very simple, easy matter to rid the house of flies—to keep it fresh and clean, free of insect taint. FLY-TOX is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. FLY-TOX has a perfume-like fragrance is harmless to people. ## EXTRA ENTERTAINMENT IS OFFERED FOR LABOR DAY

High Class Attractions To Be Here Entire Week At Helbig's Grove on State Road

That Weaver's Park Attractions, of Pittsburgh, Pa., would furnish the entertainment for the Tenth Annual Labor Day picnic, to be held on September 2, under the auspices of the the local lodge of Knights of Pythias, was announced yesterday by Harry Stemple, a member of that order.

The attractions will consist of a merry-go-round, with three animals abreast; a Ferris wheel, a chair plane, and eight games of skill. Abont 30 men are employed, it was stated. The amusements will be open on Monday morning, September 2, and will remain open throughout the remainder of the week.

"Weaver's Park Attractions will come to us very highly recommended," Mr. Stemple said. "They have no gambling games of any kind, and their entertainment will be of the highest class. The owner of the shows and his advance agents were in Oakland on Friday and closed the contract."

Hon. John J. Cornwell, former Governor of West Virginia, has already been engaged to be one of the speakers for the occasion, and other committees are busy completing plans for the mammoth celebration in Helbig's grove, at the north edge of town.

The committee now at work include the following: Executive committee, Edward P. Kuhl, chairman; I. R. Rudy and Otis Hardesty; committee on speakers, J. C. Renninger, W. R. Offutt, and L. M. Fraley; automobile committee, A. G. Gortner, Charles Reckard, W. Grossman; purchasing committee, David Walter, A. G. Gortner, and Henry Lauer; advertising committee, Harry Stemple, I. R. Rudy, Stanley Bond; parade, A. R. Martin, Paul Naylor, Charles Reckard.

The tentative program calls for a mammoth parade in the morning, speaking and amusements in the afternoon, and amusements and fireworks at night. A number of representatives from other Maryland and West Virginia lodges are expected to be present and take part in the parade, and the Knights of Khorassan will appear in a body.

Horseshoe Contest to be Held at Picnic Grounds on Labor Day

That the horseshoe pitching contest, being conducted under the auspices of the Sunpapers and Playground Athletic League of Baltimore, would be held at the Labor Day picnic at Oakland on September 2, instead of August 22, as previously stated, was announced this morning by L. M. Fraley, local committee chairman.

The county champion will compete in the State-wide tournament, to be held in Baltimore in September. Each county champion will receive a set of ox-shoe horseshoes. All those desiring to enter should get in touch with Mayor Fraley, it was stated.

Hon. ex-governor John J. Cornwell, of West Virginia, who is to speak at the Knights of Pythias labor day picnic, would pitch the first horseshoe of the tournament, was also announced by the committee in charge.

Young Peoples' League To Go On Hike This Evening

Members of the Oakland Union Young People's League will leave from the Lutheran church at 6:30 this evening on a "follow-your-leader" hike. When the destination is reached lunch baskets will be opened and after the meal is finished the rest of the evening will be passed in playing games and other amusements.

Those who attended the meeting on Sunday evening received a great treat when they were addressed by W. W. Wolfe, of Keyser, president of the Synodical Luther League of the West Virginia Synod. Mr. Wolfe's talk followed the lines of the topic for the evening, "God, as revealed in the laws of nature."

The meeting on next Sunday evening will be held in the Lutheran church, at which time Miss Coral McRobie will be the leader.

Funeral services for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Liller, Loch Lynn Heights, who died on Monday morning, were held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock from the Loch Lynn L. B. church, Rev. F. L. Fultz conducting the service. Interment was made in the Pleasant Valley cemetery.

PIEDMONT GROCERY CO. TO LIQUIDATE BUSINESS

Process Will Require Several Months, It Is Said

The stockholders of the Piedmont Grocery Company, at a meeting Monday, decided to liquidate the business. Though the company is in excellent financial condition, it has failed to return a profit in recent months, and the stockholders therefore plan to close out the stock of merchandise.

D. W. Anders, who has been manager of the main office at Piedmont for the past ten years, tendered his resignation, effective immediately. T. C. Dye, former manager, will take personal charge of the company's affairs until they are wound up, which is expected to require several months.

The company has been in the wholesale business at Piedmont for twenty-nine years. A branch store was located in Oakland several years ago and has been prosperous with Mr. John Michael resident manager. He has under his employ six people and with the liquidation of the business these men will be forced to seek employment in other lines of work.

Mr. Michael has been with the grocery company for nearly twenty years.

CRISSINGER IS NABBED; WAS INDICTED LAST JUNE

Mrs. Crissinger Also Held On Federal Charge—Mrs. Robert Hoye Held Under Bond

Philip Crissinger, Hutton, until recently a resident of the Fair Grounds, Oakland, was arrested by Federal and county officers on Saturday evening. Crissinger was indicted at the last term of the Garrett county Circuit court but failed to appear. He was indicted on a charge of manufacture and possession of moonshine liquor, and is now lodged in the Garrett county jail.

Mrs. Philip Crissinger, who was arrested at the same time on a charge of possessing liquor, was taken to Cumberland for a hearing before the U. S. Commissioner, on a Federal charge. County officers stated that some beer, mash, and whiskey had been found in their home.

Mrs. Hoye Arrested

Mrs. Robert Hoye, of near Oakland, who was also indicted at the last term of court, was arrested on Saturday night and officers state that they also discovered 18 quarts of beer and some mash on her property. She was held under $1,000 bond at a hearing before the Circuit court, and $800 bond at a hearing before W. A. Gender, justice of the peace, on a charge of possession of liquor.

Charles Madigan had his Chevrolet coach confiscated on Monday when Thomas Seymour, and Joy Griffith, deputies, discovered a gallon of whiskey in the rear seat. He waived a hearing before Justice Gender and was placed under $500 bond for his appearance at the December term of court.

Charged With Larceny

Arthur Sweitzer, Swanton, was arrested last Friday by Deputies Seymour and Griffith on a charge of larceny. He was given a hearing before E. I. West, justice of the peace, who held him under $500 bond for his appearance at court. Articles stolen from a lodge in that vicinity, are alleged to have been found on Sweitzer's property.

Pageants at Camp Minnetoska Sunday Afternoon

Before a fairly large number of town and county people, land and water pageants were presented Sunday afternoon at Camp Minnetoska, a recreation camp managed and directed by Miss Lois Hyde and Mr. Frank Hanson, a few miles west of Oakland.

The land pageant entitled "Dick Whittington," under the direction of Miss Hyde, was given in a beautiful setting of tall green boughs at the foot of a slight rise, forming a natural amphitheatre. Those participating, numbering nearly twenty girls, were members of the recreational camp, and their work was of a superior nature. The water pageant entitled, "The Princess Learns to Swim," was presented by a number of the girls at the lake and was equally as beautiful as the land pageant.

Following the two pageants the new dining hall, which was recently completed, was thrown open to inspection and dedicated to the purposes for which it was built, Dr. McComas delivering the address.

DR. M'COMAS ASKS FOR INTEREST IN ANNUAL FAIR

Head of Fair Association Urges People to Attend and Arrange Making Exhibits of Products

To the Citizens of Garrett and Surrounding Counties:

The thirteenth annual Garrett county agriculture fair, to be held October 1, 2, 3, and 4, is near enough to urge everyone to arrange to attend it on at least two days this year. The committee in charge is doing everything possible to make this year's fair the greatest in the county's history and is naturally anxious to have every co-operation on the part of exhibitors and everyone interested in making this year's Fair a success.

DR. HENRY W. McCOMAS

Arrangements are being made to supply clean, wholesome entertainment during Fair Week which will be of interest to everyone attending. It is the aim of the Association to instill in everyone's mind, that the Garrett County Fair is an institution to exploit Garrett county and its people.

The usual prizes for the best exhibits will again be given, and competent judges selected to make awards.

Tell your friends about Garrett county, interest them in the Fair, arrange to have an exhibit of some sort and above all, make yourself feel that you are personally responsible for the Fair's success and in that way we will be assured of a real Fair that will long be remembered.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) H. W. McCOMAS,

President Garrett County Agricultural Fair Association.

CLAIMS HE WAS ASLEEP WHEN WRECK OCCURRED

Several Injured as Cars Collide On King's Hill on Sunday

Herbert Pruitt, Baltimore, Monday that he was asleep at the wheel of his automobile traveling at 25 miles an hour when it crashed head to another machine approaching from the opposite direction on a curve near Oakland Sunday afternoon.

Both machines were wrecked in the accident, which occurred at King's Hill, on the state highway between Oakland and Accident.

Pruitt, whose wife and three children were in the machine, said he had left Baltimore early in the morning for Fairmant, W. Va., where he was to visit relatives, and had been driving for the greater part of three days through Virginia, before leaving Baltimore for West Virginia.

On a curve, he said, his machine swerved while he was asleep, and crashed into one driven and owned by Ralph Martin, of Clarksburg, W. Va. Mrs. Pruitt was seriously injured but is recovering nicely at the Browning House, Oakland. Mr. Pruitt and his children were slightly injured as were also Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Weimer, and Mr. Martin's father, who were in the other car.

Mr. and Mrs. Pruitt and children are staying at the Browning Home, while Mr. and Mrs. Martin and party are at the Mountain Lake Hotel.

Suffers Burned Arm from Acid.

Gerald Johnson, young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson, Oakland, had his right arm burned with a carbolic acid solution Tuesday evening at the NuWay Laundry when the child pulled the cork from the bottle containing the liquid which spilled a portion of it over his arm and leg. The injury is not serious, it was learned.

MAN DIES OF PNEUMONIA FOLLOWING KNEE INJURY

Truck Tire Blew Off, Striking Ernest Fike, Friendsville

Following an accident on Monday, August 5, in which a tire blew off and injured his knee and possibly his chest, Ernest Fike, aged 20 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fike, Friendsville, developed pneumonia and died in the Confluence hospital, Confluence, Pennsylvania.

The accident happened near Friendsville on the property of the West Penn Public Service company where the deceased was employed by Sanderson and Porter contractors, in erecting steel towers. He was engaged in pumping air into a tire when it blew off, striking him on the knee.

After pneumonia developed he was taken to Confluence on Thursday, where he died. Funeral services were conducted on Wednesday morning from the M. E. church, Friendsville, Rev. Stuck, Confluence, officiating. Interment was made in the Friendsville cemetery.

The funeral was largely attended and the contracting company discontinued work during the services. The pallbearers were selected from his friends engaged in the construction work.

Miner In Serious Condition at Cumberland Hospital

Floyd Gordon, 25, miner of Kempton, Md., is in a serious condition at Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, officials at that institution reported Monday, as the result of shock and loss of blood following the crushing of his right leg by a fall of coal Monday morning. He was admitted to the hospital late Monday afternoon and underwent an amputation of the member above the knee by Dr. Wm. A. Gracie.

ONE INJURED IN MISHAP AT RED HOUSE YESTERDAY

Two Cars Collide at Intersection of Northwestern Turnpike

One was seriously injured and several people cut and bruised yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock when two cars collided at the intersection of the Northwestern Turnpike and the Oakland-Thomas highway. Miss Ervin, the injured lady, of Elkins, West Va., was taken to the Davis hospital, Davis, W. Va., suffering with a badly cut shoulder. She was given preliminary medical attention by Dr. N. I. Broadwater, Oakland.

The Jordan sedan, driven by J. Stewart Ervin, Elkins, was enroute to Oakland from Thomas when it collided with a Buick sedan, driven by Frank J. Kohut, Wilmington, Del., which was enroute to Oakland from Grafton, West Va.

The other occupants of the cars were bruised and cut by flying glass but none of them was hurt seriously. Mr. Ervin is an instructor in the schools of Clendennin, West Va.

4TH ORTHOPEDIC CLINIC WILL BE HELD AUGUST 24

Letters Are Being Sent Out to All Known Cases by Civic Club Welfare Committee

The fourth orthopedic clinic to be held in Garrett county will take place on Saturday, August 24, at the office of the County Health nurse, Court House, Oakland, Mrs. C. Mason Sincell, chairman of the public welfare committee of the Oakland Civic Club, announced yesterday.

The clinic will begin at 10 o'clock and will be in charge of Dr. George Bennett, orthopedic specialist, Baltimore, and his assistants, Mrs. Sincell said.

Letters are being sent out by the Welfare Committee to all known cases, but it was emphasized that those desiring examination should come to the clinic whether they received one of the letters or not, as the records are not complete.

All old cases of infantile paralysis of last year are especially urged to return for an examination, and all other old and new cases with orthopedic afflictions are expected to be present.

Last Clinic Successful

The third orthopedic clinic, held on October 27, 1928, was the most successful one of the three, according to the files of The Republican. Forty-nine patients were examined, 18 of them recent paralysis sufferers, 27 of them old cases, and 4 of them new ones.

Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse, will be here for the clinic on August 24, and will assist Dr. Bennett in his work.

SERIES OF FISTIC DUELS IS FOLLOWED BY ARRESTS

Five Men of Deer Park Fined For Disorderly Conduct

A series of fistic arguments Sunday night within and in front of the house of Mrs. Long, Deer Park, resulted in the arrest of five men of that vicinity on charges ranging from drunkenness to disorderly conduct and fighting.

They were said to have disturbed the peace of the citizens of Deer Park for three or four hours. Thomas Seymour and Joy Griffith, deputies, arrested them all on Monday and they were given a hearing before W. A. Gender, justice of the peace, on Tuesday morning. Russell Harvey pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and was fined $1 and costs; Courtney Tasker and Dennis Long, who were charged with being drunk and fighting outside of the building, were each fined $5 and costs.

Dennis Browning and Hugh Paugh, who were charged with fighting within the Long home, were found guilty. Paugh was fined $5 and costs while Browning was fined $10 and costs. Browning's fine was placed higher than the others because of his recent conviction for assault and battery on Edward E. Sollars, Jr. All fines and costs were paid.

Ralph Welch, also of Deer Park, who on July 21 was arrested for being drunk and disorderly, was given a hearing on Tuesday and fined $10 and costs. The fine was paid.

MARYLAND NEEDS SOBER GOVERNOR, CRABBE SAYS

Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League Assails Policies of Governor Ritchie

Opening a drive at Mountain Lake Park on Sunday to bring about on the part of the people greater adherence to the prohibition laws of the nation, George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Maryland Anti-Saloon League declared that what the State needed was "a sober governor."

"What Mayland needs is a sober governor who will attend to the business of the state," Mr. Crabbe said. "We should have a governor who will quit talking state's rights and spend more time attending to the business of the State.

"Our opponents say the way to solve the liquor question is to let the states handle the business. My reply is that a state which cannot build good roads and eliminate gratt had better keep out of the liquor business."

Governor Ritchie was not mentioned by name by the Anti-Saloon League official, and his remarks were made in the course of his introduction of Judge L. G. Long, of Dayton, Ohio, who was the principal speaker at the meeting which drew more than two thousand people. His attack on the state executive did not draw the applause which followed during the attack of the principal speaker on the wet.

The wet newspapers of the nation were assailed by Judge Long in his address, the speaker declaring that the failure of citizens to observe the prohibition laws was due to these newspapers. He declared that the three opponents of prohibition were the "bootleg fraternity the consumers of bootleg liquor and the wet newspaper." He also asserted that the underworld was controlled by the wet newspapers, and the underworld "constitutes a great menace to this country."

Sheriff William R. Harvey, of Allegany county, also was a speaker at the meeting.

Governor Comes Back at Crabbe

According to the Baltimore Sun of Tuesday "George W. Crabbe offered to support Albert C. Ritchie for Governor of Maryland in the next campaign if the Governor would back a State Volstead act." This statement came from the office of Governor Ritchie Monday evening.

According to the Governor, Crabbe made this proposition in writing to Joseph D. Baker, of Frederick, and he explained that Mr. Baker was not a party to the proposition. He simply told the Governor about it.

Statement Is Answer

Governor Ritchie made these declarations Monday in a statement prepared in answer to a speech delivered by the superintendent of the Maryland branch of the Anti-Saloon League at Mountain Lake Park Sunday. In that speech, quoted above, Mr. Crabbe took the Governor to task on many questions and criticized him for his attitude concerning the prohibition laws and its non-enforcement by state officials.

Governor Ritchie's statement is as follows:

"Crabbe has been lying about me for a long time and I suppose my patience has encouraged him, but Crabbe was willing to stop his lies if I would sell out by passing a State Volstead act and thus become a tool of this organization and put on the people of Maryland the cost and burden and the corruption which such an act would mean.

"During the last Legislature Crabbe made the proposition that he and his organization would support me for another term as Governor if I would back a State Volstead law saying that in all other respects he thought I had been an excellent Governor. He made this proposition in writing to one of the most prominent citizens of the State, Joseph D. Baker, of Frederick, who communicated it to me. Of course, this was not Mr. Baker's proposition and he was in no way a party to it. He simply passed it on to me.

"Of course, I refused to sell out my convictions at any price, but if I had been willing to do it Crabbe would have been for me today instead of lying about me.

"I don't think it is necessary to say more about Crabbe's contemptible insinuation.

"Everyone who knows me knows that it is not true."

THE RETURN FROM CAPTIVITY

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 29:10-14; Ezra 1:1-6; Ps. 126:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Happy Home Coming.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Second Chance.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making a Fresh Start.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Historic Significance of the Return.

I. The Return Predicted (Jer. 29:10-14).

False prophets were flourishing in Babylon telling the people that they would speedily be restored to their own land. To counteract this the Lord moved Jeremiah to send a letter to the captives in Babylon (vv. 8, 9) In this letter he advised them to settle down and quietly pursue their regular callings of life, and not to be led astray by the false prophets (vv. 6, 7).

1. The length of the captivity (v. 10).

Their coming back was to be "after seventy years." From Daniel 9:2 it is clear that seventy years means a definite time. It dates from the time when the first company, among which Daniel was found, was taken captive.

2. Recovered by God (vv.10-14).

God's purpose in the captivity was to cure them of their idolatrous practices. He assured them that when His purpose was accomplished He would visit them and convince them of His good purpose toward them.

II. The Predicted Captivity Fulfilled (Ezra 1:1-6).

1. The Proclamation of Cyrus (vv. 1-4).

(1) This was not by accident, but that the word of the Lord might be fulfilled (v. 1). What God has promised He will do.

(2) By divine initiation (v. 1).

"The Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus." How this was done we do not know. Possibly Daniel brought to his attention the prophecy of Isaiah and Jeremiah (Isa. 44:28; Jer. 25:12).

(3) The content of the king's proclamation (vv. 2-4).

(a) "The Lord God of heaven hath charged me to build Him a house in Jerusalem" (v. 2). This makes clear that he had some impression of God's hand upon him.

(b) Appeal to Jewish patriotism (v. 3). He invokes upon such as possess the national religions feeling the blessing of God, and commands them to go and build the house of the Lord God.

(c) To lend assistance (v. 4).

Many of the Jews were established in business and therefore were not free to go. Many, no doubt, had lost their national spirit and were not anxious to go. All such were to lend friendly assistance with silver, gold and beasts.

2. The response to Cyrus' proclamation (vv. 5, 6).

The elect of the fathers of Judah and Benjamin and the priests and Levites presented themselves as willing to go. The company which returned was largely made up of representatives of Judah and Benjamin.

3. The royal favor (vv. 7-11).

Cyrus returned 5,400 vessels of the house of the Lord which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jerusalem and put into the house of his gods. This was a great encouragement to every loyal Jew whose heart had been grieved over the profanation of these sacred vessels.

III. The Gladness and Rejoicing of the Returning Exiles (Ps. 126:1-6).

1. The proclamation of Cyrus as a dream (v. 1).

They recognized that their going back was through the favor of the Lord.

2. Their laughter and singing (vv. 2, 3).

They not only recognized the favor of the Lord upon them, but testified thereof in the hearing of the heathen round about them.

3. Their prayer for prosperity in the land (v. 4).

They were not only come back with the consciousness of the good hand of the Lord upon them, but were truthful. Hen for the brethren of the land.

4. Sowing and reaping (vv. 5, 6).

The seeds which they were to sow on the land were so precious that they seemed to have hesitated as to sowing, and yet they recognized that joy would follow their sowing when they should bring in the sheaves of the harvest.

Gaining Fragrance

We never lose an opportunity of giving innocent pleasure, or of helping another soul on the path to God, but we are taking away from ourselves forever what might have been a happy memory, and leaving in its place a remorse.—Frances Power Cobbe.

Victory

A victory won over self is the only victory acceptable to God.—Charles Noel Douglas.

HEALTH BOARD DIRECTS ATTENTION TO VACCINE

All Children Must Be Vaccinated Before Entering School

Because two out of every three prospective first graders who have been examined at the child health conferences held throughout the State under the auspices of the State Bureau of Child Hygiene, in preparation for their admission to school in the fall, had not been vaccinated against smallpox, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, calls attention to the State law which requires a child to be vaccinated before he or she can be enrolled in school.

"The schools will reopen in a few weeks," Dr. Riley said, "and the youngsters who go up for enrollment can not be accepted by any teacher unless they have been vaccinated against smallpox. Our Maryland law requires the vaccination of young children, preferably in infancy, but positively before they are enrolled in school. Before the children enter school, the responsibility rests upon the parents. If for any reason, the parents have failed to have it done by the time their child reaches school age, the teachers have no choice in the matter, but under the State law, have to exclude the child from school until it is done. Furthermore, the law provides that a teacher who enrolls an unvaccinated child, shall be fined 'ten dollars for each and every offense.'

"Last year, out of a total of 3,531 children, 3,153 white and 378 colored, ranging in age from five to seven years, who were examined at the preschool conferences held during the spring and summer months throughout the counties, 2,115 had not been vaccinated. Of these children, 3,132 were white and 227 colored. The proportion of unvaccinated children has been as great among the children who have been examined this year.

"The comparative freedom from smallpox that we have had in Maryland is due largely to the intelligent cooperation of the people of the State in the observance of the vaccination law. For the disease has by no means been stamped out. Terrific outbreaks are occurring constantly in other countries and in other parts of the United States. Wherever they have occurred they have been especially serious in sections that are without stringent vaccination laws.

"During a single week recently, the smallpox were reported to the U. S. Public Health Service by health departments in different parts of the country. The majority occurred in the Middle Western and Western States. The total for the one week was more than four times as many as the total we have had reported in Maryland in the last five years. Here is our record: 1924-97 cases; 1925-16; 1926-5; 1927-9; 1928-22, a total of 149. From the first of January, this year, to the end of June, we had a total of 8 cases reported in Maryland in comparison with 15 during the corresponding period of last year.

"A single case of smallpox is one too many. The disease is unnecessary. Children cannot protect themselves. Parents must have it done for them."

Early Molt Not Right for Eggs

Poultry keepers who fed a wet mash in addition to the regular grain and dry mash kept their hens laying heavily last year, says L. M. Hurd, of the New York State College of Agriculture. Hens should be kept in production through careful feeding during the summer and early fall so that they will molt rapidly and soon return to producing.

Records of the Missouri College of Agriculture show that early molting hens lay fewer eggs during the following winter than those hens which molt late.

In the summer and fall hens should have an abundance of tender, leafy green food, shade, and fresh clean water at all times. Hens that do not respond to good treatment should be removed so as to give the others a better chance. Skim milk or semi-solid buttermilk at the rate of one or two pounds to the hundred birds should be used. A good plan for this is to mix it and enough water with the regular dry mash. This mash should be fed in the afternoon, just before the night feeding of grain. The hens should have only what they can eat in 20 minutes.

If milk is not available, fill a pail half-full of dry oats fill it up with water and let it stand from one afternoon until the next. Then add sufficient of regular dry mash to take up the remaining moisture and feed as described above. After September 1 poultrymen have had good results from using lights to prolong the laying season. Late in the fall this should be discontinued to give the hens an opportunity to molt before cold weather, and rest for the breeding season.

Poultry Facts.

Provide a nest for each four or five hens.

Fowls stand cold better than dampness.

Market eggs at least twice a week in summer.

Build the self-feeder so that it protects feed from rain.

Select the best growing and most vigorous cockrels for breeders.

Old hens are the most common spreaders of poultry tuberculosis.

Make the house dry and free from drafts but allow for ventilation.

Teach the chicks to roost as soon as they are old enough to learn.

Send your big fluffy boarder hens to market. This is one way to relieve your farm from loss.

Get the hens out in the sunshine and feed plenty of oyster shell to get plenty of good strong eggshells.

Sweet-cream butter made for winter use will keep best if stored in brine made of one part of salt to three parts of water says the Bureau of Dairy Industry U. S. Department of Agriculture. Butter stored by the bureau in dry salt and parrafin deteriorated on the surface. Be sure to use enough salt in the brine, wrap the butter in parchment paper and see that the rolls are entirely submerged in the brine.

Price of Beef Checks Expansion in Dairying

The relation between the price of beef and the price of milk has an important influence on the number and age of the milk cows of the United States according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Because of the present prices of beef says O. E. Reed, Chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, dairymen are culling their low producers and aged cows to make room for the heifers just coming into milk. Indications are that for the next few years the price of beef will be an important factor in restricting the expansion of dairying, and the number of cows milked is expected to show little increase for several years. The gradual increase in the demand for milk due to increasing population seems likely to result in prices averaging sufficiently above feed costs to permit a gradual further increase in the production of milk per cow.

GORTNER.

CHEVROLET

Another Record!

a Million

SIX CYLINDER CHEVROLETS

on the road in less than eight months!

Less than eight months have elapsed since the first Chevrolet Six was delivered into the hands of an owner—and already there are more than a million six-cylinder Chevrolets on the road! And the reasons for this overwhelming success are easy to understand.

Into a price field that had hitherto been occupied exclusively by four-cylinder cars—Chevrolet has introduced a six-cylinder car of amazing quality and value. Not only does it offer the smooth, quiet, velvety performance of a great six-cylinder valve-in-head motor—but, from every standpoint, it is a finer automobile than was ever before thought possible at such low prices! Its beautiful new bodies—which are available in a variety of colors—represent one of Fisher's greatest style triumphs. And its safety and handling ease are so outstanding that it's a sheer delight to sit at the wheel and drive. In fact, the new Chevrolet Six has completely changed every previous idea as to what the buyer of a low-priced car now has a right to expect for his money.

You owe it to yourself, as a careful buyer, to see and drive this car. For it gives you every advantage of a fine six-cylinder automobile—in the price range of the four and with economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon! Come in today!

"STOP" SIGNS INADEQUATE

The time has arrived for either larger and better "Stop" signs along the Maryland highways or for none at all.

If it is the idea that traffic traveling certain known routes in the State have the right-of- way at all times, it is more necessary that traffic entering these highways should be warned that it is positively necessary to come to a complete stop before entering upon these thoroughfares

Little doubt exists that the present "stop" signs cost the State Roads Commission (and in this case, the people of Maryland) plenty of money, but it is in all probability just another incident where the Commission has fallen down on its job of rendering the people a service

Little public censure had been expressed concerning the wholesale arrests of motorists at the Weber intersection of the Mountain Lake Park road on Sunday, July 29, until personal letters were received by those arrested from the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles when in an impolite and wholly ungentlemanly manner the Commissioner told those folks that if they ever again failed to stop at a "stop" sign they were "in danger of having the pleasure of driving a car revoked." Rather a Czar-like position to take.

The Republican suggests that the present signs be replaced with signs that can be seen and for the sake of the traveling public have them placed where they are visible and not hidden behind a road intersection sign.

Under the present condition the Commission should be held responsible for any accidents that might occur due to the failure of the drivers to see these absurd signs, and when the blame for the destruction of life and property is thus placed, the Commission might realize that it has a responsibility greater than just spending the public's money.

Future Farmers Hold Week-end Camping Party

A good representation of boys of the Future Farmers Association of Friendsville High school pitched tents for a three-day camping trip Friday at Swallow Falls.

Those included in the trip were Frank Coddington, George Coddington, Ernest Hauser, Murl Hinebaugh, Bruce Jenkins, Karol Rush, Ray Shevel, Floyd Umbel, Wade Umbel, and G. Emerson Bishoff, instructor.

County Agent John H. Carter and a few members of the 4-H potato club who were guests, arrived on Saturday evening. An informal club meeting was held around the campfire at which various topics of interest to potato growers were discussed.

Mr. Carter also announced his plan to take a 4-H cattle judging team to the State fair at Timonium this fall. All members of 4-H clubs in the county will be eligible to try out for this event.

Rotarians Host To District Governor Bjorlee

Local Rotarians had as their guest at luncheon Tuesday evening Ignatius Bjorlee, of Frederick, Governor of the Thirty-fourth District of Rotary International. Mr. Bjorlee came to the local club enthused with the condition which he had found existing in other clubs he had visited in various parts of the State and brought an illuminating message. He expressed himself as being delighted with the atmosphere which surrounded the meeting here and with the wonderful natural beauties of the section through which he had motored from Frostburg in order to reach Oakland.

Following the meeting of the club, a meeting of the board of directors was held when it was decided that the members with their ladies have dinner at the Mountain Lake Hotel on the evening of August 30. There will be music and dancing following dinner.

The board also accepted an invitation extended by the Kingwood club to participate in an inter-city meet of the Morgantown, Kingwood, Terra Alta and Oakland clubs to be held at Kingwood on the evening of September 3.

DEATH OF A MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK CENTENARIAN

Mrs. Corille Shearer, Native of Maryland, Lived Under Administration of 19 Presidents

Born August 1, 1830, at Mount Airy, Maryland, died August 11, 1929, at Mountain Lake Park, Maryland—was the span of life of Mrs. Corille Shearer, who died Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McClelland Clayton, with whom she had made her home for the past eight years, being an aunt of Mrs. Clayton. Interment was made at Barton, Allegany county, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Shearer was the widow of the late D. D. Shearer, who in his life time was a prominent coal operator of the George's Creek region, and represented Allegany county several times in the General Assembly of Maryland.

Of a genial, kindly disposition, unselfish and solicitous of the comfort and happiness of others, Mrs. Shearer endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact. Refined and educated, she always took a great interest in National affairs and to within a short time of her death called for the daily papers, which she read without the aid of glasses.

Mrs. Shearer is survived by two sisters, Miss Ellen D. Harn, who passed her one hundredth birthday on January 18th last, at Kenesaw, Nebraska, and Mrs. Margaret Jane Groves, aged 97, the mother of Mrs. Clayton, who resides at Fairmont, W. Va. The combined ages of the sisters was 200 years. Thus, the circle has been broken.

Mrs. Shearer's span of life covered the administration of nineteen presidents, Andrew Jackson occupying the White House the year she was born She was 35 years old when President Lincoln was assassinated and the Declaration of Independence had been in existence only 54 years at the time of her birth. William IV was England's King.

During her life time Mrs. Shearer witnessed the innovation of the mowing machine and reaper, the street railway and telegraph, the friction match, steam fire engine, the discovery of oil and the commercial and domestic use of petroleum, the sewing machine, the rotary printing press, the discovery of gold in the United States, the building of the Baltimore and Ohio railway, the use of wood pulp for paper, the linotype, the air brake, the phonograph and in fact all the inventions of the century closing with her life, and which to this generation appears commonplace and which is taken as a matter of course.

Mrs. Shearer had been in failing health for some weeks, but the end came suddenly. As gently as the falling of an autumn leaf she sank to rest in her native state and at the place she loved so well. Her appreciation of life was summed up in the sentiment she sometimes expressed: That "life was worth living because of the music, the flowers and the poetry along life's pathway."

AVILTON.

A reunion of the Merrill family will be held on September 1 at the Cherry Grove church, two miles south of Avilton. All members of the family and others who wish are welcome to attend.

A reunion of the Fike family was held at Pine Grove, two miles north of Salisbury, on August 10th. Those from here attending were Mr. and Mrs. Otho Fike and daughters Rose and Mildred and son George; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Merrill and daughter Mary and son Billy; Mr. and Mrs. George Grove and sons Austin and Cecil.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fike and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fike and daughter Margelle, of Braddock, Pa., visited Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Fike on Sunday.

Mrs. David Pope visited her daughter, Mrs. Jesse Merrill, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Robeson spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stark.

Miss Leah Robeson, who has been in Grantsville for some time, is at her home suffering with an infected finger.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Michael and Miss June Merrill spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Merrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Robeson and family spent Sunday at Cumberland.

Miss Anna Fike, from the B. Y. P. D. class and Miss Bessie Goodwin, from the George's Creek church, attended the Young People's Conference at New Windsor, Md., from August 5 to 10.

Rev. Murray Wagoner, pastor from the George's Creek congregation, spent Sunday at the home of Jesse Merrill.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Broadwater on July 28.

REGATTA COMMITTEE IS BUSY ON FUTURE RACES

Efforts to be Made to Join National Association

The Deep Creek Lake Regatta Committee has been busy during the past few weeks working out the preliminar details incident to holding a regatta next summer according to E. Carl Frame, secretary. Owing to the increased interest manifested by the lovers of out-door sports in this community and the publicity given the natural beauty spots of Garrett county through the large number of visitors who have been with us this season, the committee is greatly encouraged and feels justified in arranging to carry out its rather pretentious plans.

A member of the committee will visit the regatta to be held at Marietta, Ohio, on the 23rd of this month, thus putting it in close touch with the best of the possible entrants and enable it to complete its plans early the coming spring. Efforts will be made to join the National Regatta Association and hold the Deep Creek Lake Regatta under its rules and regulations. This will insure entrants of the very highest type as well, also as putting the regatta on the high plane the committee desires, Mr. Frame stated.

"With the Western Maryland Tennis Championship tournament now successfully established at the Park and the regatta assured as an annual event, there would seem to be no good reason why this should not be made an outstanding place for sports along these and similar lines," he continued. "The benefits to Garrett county can hardly be estimated. Events in water and other sports will draw to us a class of very desirable people and will go a long way towards developing Western Maryland. It will encourage Garrett county business and enterprise. There is no reason why we should go out of our own county for pleasure and entertainment. Every dollar spent out of Garrett, whether for business or pleasure, saps the capital structure of the county and every dollar kept here strengthens it."

SCOUTS RETURN TUESDAY FROM TWO WEEKS' CAMP

Over 60 Tests and Other Requirements Passed During Period

Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, returned Tuesday morning from the annual camping trip along the waters of Deep Creek Lake, after having spent two weeks in working, studying, and plenty of recreation.

The recreational program reached its peak on Friday afternoon when the entire troop journeyed to McHenry and played a baseball game and took part in a dual track meet with the three troops of Boy Scouts from Pittsburgh, Pa., which are encamped there. The Pittsburghers were victorious in the baseball and speedball games, but were tied with the Oakland scouts in the track meet with 31 points each. The local scouts won second place in the hundred yard dash, all three placed in the senior high jump and broad jump, first in the junior high jump, and second in the shot put.

Those winning points for the Oakland troop were James Lee, Bernard Gonder, Joseph Sollars, Leonard Murphy, Jim Nordeck, Gene Nordeck.

During the two weeks in camp, more than 60 tests for second and first class scout rank were passed, two boys became Second class scouts, three passed the requirements for the merit badge in life saving, and three passed the requirements for the merit badge in swimming. All but three Tenderfoot scouts passed their 50-yard swimming test, and the three all learned to swim a short distance.

The work periods were spent in beautifying the camp surroundings and according to a number of visitors, the camp was in excellent condition. Through the courtesy of Mr. William Tillett, a Maytag washer was sent down to camp last week and was used by the boys for all the clothes in camp that needed washing. Acknowledgement is also made to Mr. George D. Sprague, who donated ice cream, and to Mr. A. D. Naylor, for some vegetables.

The two weeks' outing is an annual affair which is made possible through the efforts and donations of a number of local clubs, individuals, and the Ladies' Scout auxiliary. This was the fifth annual trip.

Browning Family Reunion.

The Browning family reunion will be held at the City Park, Terra Alta, West Va., August 31, 1929. It is earnestly hoped that all Brownings and their connections will join us in this get-together meeting. Come out and renew old friendships, make new ones. There are yet Brownings that some of us have never met.

S. F. KELLY, Secretary.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS MEET AT MARYLAND UNIVERSITY

500 Boys and Girls Convene at College Park for Week Session

Members of the local 4-H clubs of Garrett county, in company with Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonsration agent, returned Tuesday evening from College Park, where five hundred boys and girls from every county in the State attended the annual club week on the campus of the University of Maryland.

Representatives from the local clubs were Misses Dorothy Welch, Frances Thrasher, Mildred Stemple and Adeline Stuck. Miss Benthien was in charge of both the Garrett county and Allegany county delegates.

The first important feature of the week was the assembly hour on Friday when President R. A. Pearson welcomed the club members to the University. Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the Extension Service of the University also said a few words to the visitors during the same hour. Later the young people had the opportunity of hearing from another distinguished individual, Judge Frank I. Duncan, chairman of the agricultural committee of the State Bankers Association, who spoke to the club members during the assembly hour, Saturday morning. A few of the other individuals who assisted in inspiring the boys and girls through talks and demonstrations were Miss Fannie Buchanan, of the Victor Talking Machine company; Mrs. Edith Craig, of Boston; Miss Ella Gardner, Children's Bureau, Department of Labor; and Miss Elinor Peregoy, Postum company. The entire week's program was under the direct supervision of Miss Dorothy Emerson, Girl's Club Agent and E. G. Jenkins, State Boy's Club Agent.

The instruction and recreation features of the week included lectures, tours of inspection, councils and games for the boys and judging, exhibits, news writing, talks and recreational programs for the girls. In all, about thirty specialists, home and county demonstration agents, and outside individuals aided in the instruction of the visiting club members.

On Friday and Saturday a number of groups of club members made trips to the United States Bureau of Animal Industry Farm at Beltsville, Md., and the United States Department of Agriculture Farm at Arlington, Va. These trips aided greatly in furnishing a practical side to the class instruction conducted at the University during the week. On Monday the visitors went on a sight-seeing tour to the national Capitol and in the evening a farewell council meeting was held on the grounds of the Department of Agriculture at which time awards and cups were presented to those who had been successful in the various contests during the week.

A reception was tendered the visiting players on Monday evening at the bowling alley by members of the Civic Club. Refreshments were served during the dancing. Following a dance was given at the Deer Park Hotel on Wednesday evening. The women of Oakland, with Mrs. Elwood Offutt as chairman gave a four o'clock tea to the players and their friends. The bowling alley for the occasion was artistically decorated.

This afternoon Mrs. Wilson L. Camden and Mrs. Carl Frame will be hostesses at a four o'clock tea. They will be assisted by a number of young ladies. Tomorrow evening there will be a frolic at the bowling alley under the auspices of the Civic Club.

Sincell since the close of the Summer School of Missions at Mountain Lake Park, conducted an all-day meeting at the Red House Lutheran church Tuesday at which quite a number of members of that and other congregatins were present as well as several from Oakland. A picnic luncheon was enjoyed at the noon hour. The services of Mrs. Bell have been in great demand since her stay in Oakland. She conducted four meetings on Sunday in the Eglon pastorate.

DIED.

ARTHUR YOUNG HINEBAUGH

The announcement of the death of Arthur Y. Hinebaugh, aged 48 years, which occurred at the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, Monday afternoon, came as a distinct shock to his many friends in Oakland, although it was generally known that his condition for several days preceding was serious. He was admitted to the institution on August 6th, suffering from an affection of the gall duct, an operation being necessary to relieve the trouble when pneumonia developed, resulting in his death.

He was the youngest son of the late William and Elizabeth Hinebaugh of Oakland, having been born in Accident and came to Oakland with his parents forty-three years ago..

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gracia Bartlett Hinebaugh; a daughter, Helen Hinebaugh, and a son Edward Hinebaugh. Also by four brothers, James O. Hinebaugh, Wade H. Hinebaugh, Thaddeus C. Hinebaugh and Dr. Mahlon C. Hinebaugh, all of Oakland, and by two sisters, Mrs. Etta Bover, Fairmont, W. Va., and Mrs. John G. Robinson, of Gettysburg Pa.

Funeral services were conducted in St. Mark's Lutheran church, of which he was a member, by Rev. Charles A. Shilke, assisted by Rev. Samuel E. Wicker, a former pastor, with interment in St. Matthew's Episcopal churchyard in Oakland. The pallbearers were Lawrence Fraley, Lawrence Dixon, J. W. Glotfelty, Carl Brown, Emroy Bolden and Bernard I. Gonder.

Herd Improvement Association Finds Value in Testing

Having completed the fourth month of successful cow testing members of the Friendsville Herd Improvement association seem to realize more and more the benefits of accurate testing of each cow's milk and the keeping of records on the herd, according to G. Emerson Bishoff, agriculture instructor.

By observing the record of the ten highest cows in the association during July, the members may improve production through better methods of feeding and breeding.

The boys owning the cows highest in production of butter fat for July include Glenn N. Fike, Ernest Hauser, Karol Rush, Wade Umbel, and George Coddington. Glenn Fike had the highest average.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

Unless you have been away from your regular work for two weeks, you won't be able to appreciate how hard it is for Scoop to sit down and pound out his weekly column. He has been in a Scout camp for that length of time where the routine is somewhat different from that in a newspaper office. But the boss editor said he must get busy as his subscription list has decreased mightily since his vacation started.

* * *

And since Archibaldson announced last week that this column would appear regularly in this issue and thereafter, I must have something to say to keep up his reputation for integrity, fidelity, accuracy, hombasticity and whatnot, even if it is only a flow of words that don't mean anything.

* * *

Antiphlogistine, Scoop's brother, who is really responsible for the truth sale of a few weeks ago, is with us in person and with his personality and influential presence my mark ought to be at least 71 for the week's work.

Everybody Enter Now.

This is the season of contests, with more or less varying success on the part of the contestants, and since everybody seemed to be on the go this week, including Col. Bell, Slim Shaw and all the rest of the members of the Amalgamated Society for the Prevention of Work, Scoop had no place to turn for a noble idea for this week's explosion, but Harry Stemple put a bug in his ear. He wants a "squatting contest," conducted by Scoop and The Republican for the benefit of the community in general, but let it be said here and now there will be no automobiles, suites of furniture, icwehy or other valuable prizes awarded.

Scoop agreed to sponsor such a contest provided Harry did not enter into competition, for it would be a hard matter for the judges to decide whether or not he was squatting or standing.

Therefore

Due to the fact that lots of people believe one can't squat on a mountain top; due also to the fact that Baltimore has its flagpole sitters; St. Louis, Cleveland and Los Angeles its endurance fliers, Oakland might as well have a champion squatter.

Let Oakland show them that champions are born as well as reared within the area of the beautiful Allegheny mountains of Western Maryland.

Many Entries Listed.

That the contest would begin on Saturday, August 24, and continue indefinitely, was decided by Scoop, the boss editor, Archibaldson, Antiphlogistine, Lizzie Tish and Mary Ann Small, the whole force, last night.

Suggestion was made that it be held in a rocky field just outside of town where there are many stones on which to comfortably squat, but it was finally concluded that it be held on the fence posts of Sweeney's lot on Third street.

The acknowledged localized champions are expected to be the strongest contenders for high honors, and they have already entered the contest. They as as follows:

East side of Second street, or The Republican's green bench, H. C. Sincell, Neil Fraley and Reed Smouse. Ed. Wallace, Betsy Hart and Bill Sturgiss are tied for honors on the north side of Alder street; Ted Mason, Andy Gondor, Dave Walter and Bill Eggers, for the west side of Second street; Carl Brown, Bob Wolfe and Nixie Davis are close contestants for honors on the south side of Alder street.

Ed. White is an easy winner on north Third street as he has already squatted for fifteen years or more. Jim Painter can hardly be classed as a contestant as he can't stay squatted in one place long enough. He was heard to remark that "if I entered, nobody else would have a show. Let some of these second-rate sitters qualify."

Judges Selected

The members of the Amalgamated Society have been selected to be the judges in the contest as they will know the difference between squatting and sitting. "Squatting in a championship contest is indeed an art," Slim Shaw, president of the Amalgamites said. "Anyone can sit, but it takes lots of practice to squat properly. Did you ever hear of a hen squatting?"

Practice periods in squatting are now going forward daily. This is being done by playing the well-known game of squat-tag, so if Scoop's readers see any peculiar actions being performed on the streets of Oakland, remember that squatting can be learned properly only in public and not in one's back yeard.

Enter the contest most any time. Amateurs have just as good a show as the semi professionals. You may only be a sitter now but anybody can learn the art with a little practice. Be a real squatter.

Did you ever see Charlie Sprague come to town when he didn't know at least one new Scotch joke or have something amusing to show you? Well, neither did Scoop.

The Far Seeing Man ADVERTISES.

Advertising, to-day, is an art, compared to that of yesterday. No matter how great a product may be, it remains obscure without proper merchandising and sales promotion effort.

Your newspaper, at a very slight cost, can easily become the medium thru which the public learns of your product. Let them know what you have to sell . . . tell them the facts about it . . . believe in it yourself . . . and see how readily it will move.

The wide-awake, progressive merchant of to-day is a constant advertiser---Do you, yourself, buy unadvertised goods? Certainly not---and yet you turn right around and attempt, very often, to sell them without reminding the public of their quality.

By the Man In The Street

From The Observer, Baltimore

As the days go by and the nights lengthen, reminding one of fast approaching Autumn the gloom among the Democrats grows deeper and deeper. The single ray of hope is a possible announcement from the Governor of his absoluet abandonment of his candidacy for a fourth renomination advisedly because the prospect of his getting a fourth term is next to nothing.

The more intelligent party men realize that every day the Governor remains in the field trying to manipulate a renomination through his appointees and under job holders the party becomes that much weaker for the general election. The party is becoming like an overloaded and leaking ship. And Ritchie is the excess cargo.

Last week one of the regular Democratic papers, the Towson Jeffersonian, presumedly speakiug for the party organization in Baltimore county, editorially demanded that the Governor publicly state his position. The only reply to this demand so publicly made was a report, alleged to have come from the inner section of the most inner circle, to the effect that the Governor had determined that he had to stay in the field to save his face and that he was counting on or hoping for not less than 77 convention votes to be dilivered to him in next year's primary by the office holders, chiefly in the counties.

This report, of course, brought more gloom to those Democrats who still barvely hold the party above mere tax eating, and the hope was expressed that some daring Democrat would at an early date throw his hat in the ring and challenge the Governor. To date no such man is visible but the amount of profanity now in the air is indicative of the bad feeling that has been aroused.

I am advised that early this week the Governor called on Frank A. Furst and made another effort to get his endorcement for the fourth term adventure. There is no sign that he got anything and the result has been more harsh talk concerning Mr. Furst emanating from the Ritchie camp of place holders and beneficiaries. Indeed in the last few days the verbal assaults on Mr. Furst have been fully as severe as those directed against Emroy L. Coblentz, who was some weeks ago touted as the Ritchie favorite.

Now and then one hears the suggestion that if Ritchie finds he cannot make the grade he will be in a position to name the man, but this reminds the more intelligent of the custom in Central American counties where the educational average is not high, of a dictator, faced with retirement, handing his office over to a favorite who at some future date may hand it back again, thus keeping the honor (and emoluments) in the same political group from one generation to another.

Howard Bruce's Attitude
Subject of Inquiry

More and more frequently are the inquiries concerning the attitude of Howard Bruce, who is now doing most of the running of the State Roads Commission for the Governor. The Roads Commission, through the so-called investigation took care to keep the main facts from coming to the surface, has been the main reliance of the Governor to retain political power.

It should be fresh in the public mind that the greater part of the road work to be done by the Roads Commission this year and next is to be the carrying out of the terms of a most vicious log rolling bill put through the Legislature by the Governor. Millions of dollars have been apportioned for special work in a limited number of counties on a mathematical basis so as to capture as many convention votes as possible. Today the Roads Commission is expending the money in accordance with the Ritchie made plans as a part of the renomination scheme willy nilly.

Ritchie has seemingly put Howard Bruce under obligation by naming his uncle, the politically late William Cabell Bruce to a sinecure in the Public Service Commission. This was supposed to hook all the Bruces for a few years at least. But the question is as to whether Howard Bruce will stay hooked. He hasn't been in Maryland politics very long but he should by this time know his way around. If he does he sees that Ritchie by trying to hold on for life is taking the party over the edge of the presipice. And Mr. Bruce must realize that by joining with the Governor in 1927 and dabbling in Baltimore municipal politics he helped to make it easy for the Republicans to get the City Hall. Possibly at that time Mr. Bruce was so new and innocent in politics that he did not realize how badly the Governor really wanted to get rid of Billy Curran as a political factor. Ritchie has never forgotten the time when Curran had the courage to call him a thimble rigger in public.

Republicans Watching
Broening Campaign

The main question in the Republican camp these days is the status of the Broening campaign for the Gubernatorial nomination. Of course the Mayor has not announced himself but his movements in the counties have been interpreted as campaign movements. He goes about a great deal, adding to his list of acquaintances. Recently he was in Queen Anne's county. He goes to secret society affairs and he belongs to a number. He does his handshaking.

But there is a long road yet to be traveled. New names may come up. The latest is that of Judge Lindley M. Sloan of the Court of Appeals. He hails from Allegany, the home of David A. Robb and with whom he was associated in the practice of law before being elected to the bench. It is not known that Judge Sloan would want the nomination but his name has been brought up recently.

Friends of Judge Robert F. Duer of Somerset say he would make no contest for a nomination but that he would accept it if tendered. There are others in the same obliging attitude.

Banquet Proposed
For Investigators

Gossip has it that a fine dinner may be given to John N. Nelligan and other members of the Governor's State Roads Investigating Committee by friends of the former who probably want an excuse for a function and can think of nothing else. It would be a fine gesture, as the members of the committee got no pay even though this and the Legislative committee together spent something like $75,000 of the public funds without ascertaining anything much that we did not previously know.

Under the recent ruling of the Nelligan committee, as I interpret it, the cost of such a dinner might very well be extracted from the State highway fund and under that same ruling appropriate "mementos" might be provided. While we are liberal we might as well do things right. And if this fine dinner is given I here meekly suggest that among the features there should be toy balloons marked "Ritchie for President in 1932, 1936 and 1940."

Many Wonder Why
Mr. Shriver Signed

There have been many queries concerning the acquiescence of Vice-President George M. Shriver of the B. & O. railroad in the whitewashing report submitted by the Nelligan committee last week and of which Mr. Shriver is or was a member. But there is no more explanation at hand than there is of the attitude of Attorney Edwin G. Baetjer, who from the first appeared to be hostile to anyone giving information critical of the State roads administration.

It is possible that Mr. Shriver took some of the findings on faith as he did not attend all the meetings of the committee that were held in public. He is a very busy man and the great wonder is that he served at all. Naturally his first interest is the B. & O. railroad company in which he grew up.

I recall that during the term of Mr. Ritchie as Attorney General Arthur P. Gorman, Jr., as Chairman of the State Tax Commission, directed public attention to the fact that the Belt Line railroad company, a subsidiary of the B. & O., was not paying State taxes on the Belt Line tunnel. As the State authorities had done nothing in the matter, but had neglected it for years, Mr. Gorman suggested the employment of former Attorney General Isaac Lobe Straus to press the claim and collect the taxes if possible.

Mr. Ritchie seemed indignant at the suggestion of employing special counsel in this case and it was not done, but the claim was sent to the Attorney General Mr. Ritchie, for investigation and collection. Mr. Ritchie sat there and served his term without collecting a dollar or even getting the P. & O. to acknowledge the justice of the State's claim. Then Ritchie was succeeded by Alexander took up the matter, soon reached an agreement with the B. & O., collected $25,000, and the tax has been paid annually ever since.

Then I recall that in 1922 the Maryland Legislature, after a sharp fight repealed the full crew law, a measure enacted at the behest of organized labor, and Governor Ritchie signed this repeal. It was the talk at the time that the fight was managed by the B. & O. people and that quite a large sum was expended at Annapolis.

Thus it does appear that B. & O. officials are justified in feeling kindly toward the Governor.

Power Trust Found
By Wet Blanket

One of the interesting events of recent days has been the discovery of the Power Trust by the Wet Blanket. For months and months the Hearst papers have been belaboring the Power Trust from Washington but the Wet Blanket did not pay much attention. Suddenly the old sheet broke loose and indicated that all the doings of the Power Trust in its effort to get a strangle hold on the Federal Government were not exactly to be approved and were not even as praiseworthy as the effort of the Nelligen committee in investigating the State Roads Commission's activities.

So there is now no such thing as predicting what the Wet Blanket will do next. It was not impressed by the Conowingo deal even though Conowingo is an important stone in the Power Trust structure it being classed as a Pierpont Morgan property and as such a part of the Northern New York combination assailed by Governor Roosevelt of New York.

It may be that the Wet Blanket is trying to reform. One can never tell. Reforms occur occasionally in journalism just as they occur among politicians.

Parking Cases
Worry His Excellency.

Somehow the Governor seems a bit nervous these days and one of his troubles is the parking charges made by the police involving State-City officials such as the Sheriff and the State's Attorney and so on. I can't see any cause for excitement about it but I hear that the Governor sent for all three justices of the Traffic Court and gave them a piece of his mind for imposing penalties in some of these cases. Since he began to slip politically the Governor probably thinks there is a conspiracy against him with Howard Jackson and Charlie Bichy in the background.

MT. LAKE PARK.

With the Championship Tennis tournament on at Mountain Lake Park and a chicken fight in progress at Loch Lynn, this community is being well provided for in the way of sports. An account of the former will be found on another page of this paper, but the latter perhaps requires some explanation.

Some time ago it was proposed by certain parties to establish a chicken hatchery on the Loch Lynn Hotel site. At once there cropped up such opposition to the proposed plan that it was decided to have a referendum on the question as to whether or not the town council should grant a permit. This was held and the "Nos" won out by a few votes. The matter then came before the council at a called meeting on Monday night and again the proposition was defeated. But the end is not yet, as the proponents of the hatchery declare that in spite of the action of the council, the crowing of the cock and the cackling of the hen will be heard in the village soon.

Mt. Lake Hotel Well Patronized.

The Mountain Lake Hotel is enjoying an unusually pleasant and successful season and for this reason will remain open indefinitely this year. Late arrivals of note include Mr. and Mrs. George Filbert and Miss Bennett, of Baltimore; Mrs. Lee Stout and family of Clarksburg; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jarvis, of the same city; also Mr. and Mrs. C. Booth, of Wheeling and Texas, and Attorney Clinton James, of Washington.

The hotel has been crowded to the doors over every week-end since July first, and the management is untiring in its efforts to make the guests comfortable and happy.

Weather permitting, contract, players good, golf smart looking, or what have you?

The Weekly Reporter will be held in Hardesty's grove next Sunday. A large number of the clan is expected to [illegible] a picnic and basket dinner.

Mrs. Vera Crane and daughter, of Clarksburg, West Va., are occupying the Bell House for a few days.

Charles A. Sims and family, Lake, Md., are occupying a portion of the Pennsylvania House, Loch Lynn Hill.

Donald, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Liller, died Tuesday. Funeral services were held in the P. B. church and interment in Pleasant Valley cemetery Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Clayton, who accompanied the body of the latter's aunt, Mrs. Coville Shearer, to Barton, for interment Tuesday, have returned to their home.

Mr. Elmus Ream, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ream, has been elected a member of the faculty of the Charlott Hall Military Academy, in the Commercial Department. He will assume his duties September 9th.

Mrs. James C. Frame and son, Master James C. Frame II, are visiting the parents of Mr. Frame, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frame, and the great-grandmother of James Jr., Mrs. Allie Haymond.

CRELLIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Shaffer motored to Cumberland Sunday and were accompanied home by their daughter Crystal Shaffer, who has been a patient in the Western Maryland hospital for the past several weeks.

Mrs. J. C. VanHorn, Belpre, Ohio, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. C. Ford, here.

The First Aid Team of the Stanley Coal company attended the Central West Virginia Meet at Jackson's Mill, W. Va., last Saturday. The standing of the team participating has not yet been announced. This team has been recently organized, and obtained a percentage of 93.7 in Frostburg during the Maryland State Meet a short time ago.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carbaugh, on Saturday evening, a nine pound son.

Messrs. Erval Ream, and Dennis Colaw motored to Natural Bridge, Va., last Sunday.

We understand the prohibition officers were busy in this section last Saturday night. Our little village didn't know anything about the raid until most of the citizens attention was drawn to a very fine quartett singing in front of the Company's store. These men made a spectacular escape and were rejoicing by singing "Show me the way to go home, I'm tired and want to go to bed." The personell of the quartett was: Harry Uphold, first tenor; Okey Savage, second tenor; Walter Holler first bass, "Chuck" Wotring, second bass. Congratulations, boys.

COMPETITION AT COUNTY FAIR IS AID TO QUALITY

County Treasurer Lee Urges Every Citizen to Get Behind Thirteenth Annual Fair

Just as competition in athletics spurs the contestants to do their best, so will competition in agriculture tend to increase the quality of Garrett county products, and that is one big reason why every citizen in Garrett county should get behind the Thirteenth Annual Garrett County Fair, and Link Fair, talk Fair, and act Fair, until the dates of October 1, 2, 3, and 4, are passed. Then think and dream about a greater Fair for next year.

Any project that serves to better the quality of agricultural products in this county should invite the keen interest of every lady. Garrett county is primarily an agricultural county, depending on farm products for the advancement of its people, but without advancement in the quality of its products, the county as a whole will be at a standstill.

Friendly competition with neighbors at the annual Fair will show just where improvements and advancements can be made and the interested and wide-awake farmer will resolve to make his products better and finer each succeeding year.

Prizes for exhibits also offer an added inducement to the farmer. Last year under the management of Henry M. Speicher, the Fair was financially successful. Every premium was paid. Exhibitors, however, were scarce. Visitors at the Fair were few.

The dates this year are so fixed that every farmer will be finished with his harvest, will be able to enter his exhibits and spend a greater portion of the four days in Oakland.

Enter into the Fair season with a desire to make it a success both financially and socially. Make yourself feel that you are a part of it, without whose assistance the project might fail, and then do your part. It would surprise you to see just how wonderful a Fair Garret County could have if it had the interest and support of every citizen.

This year is the time to make it that way.

ALBERT L. LEE.
County Treasurer.

Four-H Club Enjoys Picnic

Kempton 4-H club members enjoyed a picnic and camp fire at its regular August meeting. Twenty 4-H girls were present. Virginia Gilbert and Mildred Stemple of the Oakland Senior 4-H club, accompanied by Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, attended the Kempton meeting.

Both Miss Gilbert and Miss Stemple attended the Girls' county camp for nine day and Miss Stemple attended the State club week at College Park. The Oakland young ladies led in the recreation for the evening, songs and stunts comprising the program. At the September meeting these two leaders will again assist in the program, when a picnic supper will be prepared over the campfire.

County Homemakers Hold Picnic at Lakeside.

The County Homemakers held a picnic at Lakeside yesterday. Seventy-five homemakers and guests were in attendance. There was community singing and a number of group games played. Prizes were awarded in most instances. Mrs. C. C. Beachy, of Bittinger, brought fourteen guests with her in a truck.

FIRST AID CREW OFFERS SERVICES AT ANY TIME

Deep Creek Organization Completes Course in Life Saving

Members of the operating organization of the associated Gas and Electric system at the Deep Creek Power station have just completed a course in First Aid and have been certified as such, according to C. E. MacMurray, chief engineer.

Training in the use of the prone pressure resuscitation, use of the inhallator, etc., have been received by the men and they are now competent to work it and upon call a crew will go anywhere at any time of the day or night, Mr. MacMurray states.

"The inhallator is not a pulmotor, but gives the patient oxygen in a natural way. The use of this method has been the means of saving many lives. Anyone knowing of a case of drowning, carbon monoxide or gas suffocation or of electric shock, will get immediate aid by calling our plant and asking for a crew to give aid. The telephone number is Oakland 171-F-2."

A treatment of the new Brazilian Antivenim, an anti-venom for poisonous snake bites, is also being given by the organization, and if used within 8 to 12 hours the chances of saving the patient's life are said to be about 90 to 1. Upon call a trained operator will go anywhere in the county to administer this treatment.

"We trust that such occasions as we have mentioned above will not arise in our county," Mr. MacMurray said, "but if they do please call us at once, as half the battle is prompt action."

OVER FIFTY ARE ENTERED IN DEER PARK GOLF MEET

Qualifying Round Of 36 Holes to be Played Today

With more than fifty entries listed, the Ninth annual Western Maryland championship golf tournament got underway at Deer Park hotel, Deer Park, this morning at ten o'clock. The 36-hole qualifying round is being played today. Eighteen holes were played this morning while a similar number will be played this afternoon.

Pairings will be made for match play after the qualifying round is completed.

The Offutt Cup, which has been in competition since 1921, will be the prize which will go to the winner of the championship fight. Gene Caspar, Pittsburgh, and B. Lee Hutchinson, Cincinnati, O., each have won two legs on the trophy which must be won three times before becoming one's permanent possession. The defending champion is W. Forrest "Red" Welch, of Cumberland, who won the title in 1928.

The entry list includes D. A. Young, of Belleville, N. J., champion of New Jersey, and golfers from New York, Washington, D. C., Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Rhode Island, North Carolina and Cuba.

Eight Hundred Attend Maryland Reunion

A reunion of those who had come to Akron, Ohio, from the state of Maryland was held Sunday at Rex Lake, near Akron. One year ago was the first time that this group gathered to form a temporary organization with Prof. R. C. Durst as president. At that time there were 250 present.

On Sunday there were 800 present. A permanent organization was formed with the following officers elected: Prof. R. C. Durst, Cuyahoga Falls, president; Fred Lynch, Akron, vice-president; William McMillin, East Liberty, secretary-treasurer.

After the business meeting there was an informal program of addresses and music. An orchestra composed of eight members of the Frazee family entertained with musical numbers which were much enjoyed.

Maryland Tuberculosis Association. Clinic

A clinic for diseases of the chest will be conducted in the Court house, Oakland, Thursday, August 29, 1929, at 10:00 a. m.

Individuals complaining of any of the following: Cough, expectoration of blood (spitting), tired feeling, loss of weight, and appetite, indigestion, hoarseness, etc., should see their family physician and obtain permission to attend clinic at the place announced above.

RECENT PARALYSIS VICTIMS URGED TO ATTEND CLINIC

Danger Lies in Possible Curvature of Spine, Dr. George Bennet, Specialist, Says

All cases of infaatile paralysis of last year are especially urged to be present and undergo an examination at the fourth orthopedic clinic, to be held Saturday at the Court House, Oakland, under the direction of Dr. George Bennett, Baltimore, orthopedic specialist.

Recent sufferers of this disease may show no defect whatever immediately after their recovery but according to Dr. Bennett there is danger of curvature of the spine in two or three years. For this reason he is particularly anxious to examine paralysis cases and detect this defect in plenty of time if it shows up in any of the patients.

All other cases with orthopedic conditions and any new cases which may have been overlooked are expected to be present for examinations.

The clinic will begin at 10 o'clock and Dr. Bennett will be assisted in his work by Miss Rhesa M. King, state health nurse, and by members of the public welfare committee of the Oakland Civic club. Members of the welfare committee sent letters to all known cases notifying them of the clinic, but it was stated that those desiring examination should come to the clinic whether they received one of the letters or not, as the records were not complete.

To Hold Benefit Picture For Free Public Library

A picture entitled "Moon of Israel," featuring Marie Cordia and an all-star cast, will be presented at the Maryland theatre, Oakland, on Friday, August 30, for the benefit of the Oakland Free Public Library.

There will also be a dance recital by the Bolgiano dancing class and also by Misses Mary and Charlotte Bolgiano. Miss Mary Virginia Willison will accompany them on the piano.

Everybody is asked to attend and aid in maintaining the Library. Tickets will be 50 cents.

James Junkins, Deer Park, submitted to the first major operation performed in the new Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, on Monday. The hospital was dedicated Sunday. Mr. Junkins was one of the seventeen patients removed from the Western Maryland hospital to the new building. He was operated upon for appendicitis.

JOHN HAUGER IS KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Stepped in Front of Fast Moving Car—Coronor's Jury Declare Accident Unavoidable

A Preston county jury Monday afternoon declared unavoidable an automobile accident at the Pines, five and one-half miles west of Oakland, about nine o'clock Monday morning in which John Hauger, 66, of Corinth, was instantly killed, and several automobile passengers injured. M. C. Snyder, Kingwood, prosecuting attorney, headed the jury.

The victim attempted to cross the road to talk to his son and stepped directly in front of a car driven by H. Nixon, of Elyria, Ohio. Nixon applied the brakes, turning his car over and the occupants, Mrs. Nixon, Miss E. M. Dillingham, Toledo, Ohio, and E. R. Clifford, of Elgin, Ohio, suffered slight lacerations and acid burns when they were pinned beneath the car.

Hauger was thrown fifteen feet from the machine into a rock pile, being fatally lacerated and crushed. Many bones were broken. He was a property owner at Corinth and was well known in this vicinity.

Miss Dillingham and Mr. Clifford were enroute to Oakland for the purpose of being married. They later continued their journey to Oakland where they obtained a license and were married Monday afternoon by Rev. C. A. Shilke.

The deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Hauger, Terra Alta; five sisters, Mrs. Emma Friland, Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. Jennie Liller and Mrs. Belle Kimmell, Oakland; Mrs. Lydia Smith, Parsons, and Mrs. Rhena Stockett, Grafton, and by one brother, Herman Hauger, Terra Alta.

Young People's League to Meet In The Methodist Church

The next meeting of the Oakland Union Young People's League will be held Sunday evening in the Methodist church at 7 o'clock. Miss Mildred Stemple will be the leader.

The hike last Thursday was termed a success by those who attended. The crowd left the Lutheran church at 6:30 and were led by a round-about way to a point near the city water tank on Crook Crest. After all the sandwiches were eaten, the rest of the evening was spent in playing games under the leadership of Rev. C. A. Shilke. Plans are under way to hold a lawn social the first week in September for those who are going away to school this winter.

"CAP. SI" ALLEN, CIVIL WAR VETERAN, VISITING AT MT. LAKE PARK, HAS HAD INTERESTING EXPERIENCES

Captain and Mrs. Josiah B. Allen and daughter, of Athens, Ohio, are visitors at Mountain Lake Park. That statement in itself is, perhaps, not remarkable, for there have been a great many visitors there this summer, but among the entire number none has had a more interesting career than "Cap. Si Allen", as he is popularly known throughout the state of Ohio.

Enlisting at the tender age of 17 in Company C, 30th Ohio Regiment, on July 1, 1861, on August 1, of the same year, he marched with his regiment to Clarksburg, West Va., (then Virginia) thus beginning his active participation as a soldier in the Civil war. From Clarksburg, his regiment marched to Weston, West Va., and at Carney Ferry on Gauley engaged in his first battle with Southern forces. Cox's Division, army of the Potomac. In 1862 his regiment was ordered with Cox's Division, Army of the Potomac. After his regiment had been moved from place to place, including a march from Hagerstown to Cumberland, he, with his companions finally landed at Manassas Junction in time to participate in the second battle of Bull Run. At Bull Run he was assigned to the 9th Army Corps, Burnside's old division, commanded by General Reno. Marching through Washington to Frederick, Md., on September 14th, he engaged in the battle of South Mountain, where his commander was killed. On September 17th he was engaged in the Battle of Antietam, where his regiment sustained heavy loss, which battle, for its length, was one of the bloodiest of the war, 52,000 being killed and wounded. It was a few days after this fight that President Lincoln reviewed the troops, when Captain Allen got his only view of the martyred President. After this his services were principally in the south and southwest.

It was at Vicksburg where the Captain suffered the loss of his left arm and four additional wounds. For his participation in this noted battle, he was cited by General Sherman, in person, for bravery. Concerning this ciaion Captain is reluctant to speak.

After he was mustered out, Captain Allen became interested in politics and has held many important and responsible positions in his native state. He bears the distinction of being the only man elected for three terms as Clerk of the Supreme Court of his state. Allying himself with the McKinley-Hanna faction, the Captain, until his retirement, rode the high wave of Republican success and was the close personal friend and advisor of those two noted statesmen. He has been assistant sergeant at arms of three National Republican conventions and was tendered that position for the fourth time when the convention met at Cleveland, but declined. He has personally known six presidents, Hays, Grant, McKinley, Taft, Harding and Coolidge.

Captain Allen is 86 years young, being vigorous and active for a man of his years. He delights in making new acquaintances, especially those who saw service in the great conflict of the 60s, and while he and his family have been here but a few days, already he and Captain James Hayden, former owner and editor of The Republican, who is but a few months older than Captain Allen, have spent some quiet hours recalling events of those stirring times that tried men's souls.

COMMITTEES AT WORK ON LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Everything in Readiness for Tenth Annual K. of P. Picnic

With less than two weeks remaining before the Tenth Annual Labor Day picnic, to be held under the auspices of Garrett Lodge No. 113, Knights of Pythias, the numerous committees are at work perfecting plans for what they term will be the biggest celebration ever to be held at Helbig's grove, at the north edge of town.

The parade will be the feature of the morning and will consist of members of the lodge, Knights of Khorassan, Oakland troop of Boy Scouts, at least two bands, automobiles, trades display and other organizations.

In the afternoon there will be speaking, band concerts, amusements, etc., and the automobile will be awarded at this time. A large fireworks display will help entertain in the evening. There will be many things of interest on the grounds at all times, those in charge say, and something doing every minute.

The Horseshoe pitching contest will be held at the picnic grounds in the afternoon, and Hon. John J. Cornwell, former governor of West Va., who is to be the main speaker for the big Pythian celebration will also pitch the first horseshoe in the contest.

Grand lodge officers are planning to be present at the festivities.

Scout Court of Honor to Meet Monday Evening

Examinations for a number of merit badges will be given at the monthly meeting of the Court of Honor of the Boy Scout troop to be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the scout hall. During the recent camping period three boys qualified for life saving and three for their swimming merit badge, and it is expected that those boys will all be present for their examination before the court.

The fall and winter program for the scout troop will get under way on Friday evening. John McIntire applied for membership in the troop at the last meeting and has already passed all his tenderfoot requirements. After rearranging the troop roll it was found that there are now 15 members. There are still places for five more boys, the scoutmaster stated, and any boy who is 12 years old and willing to become a real scout is eligible to join.

Interdenominational Day At Mt. Lake Park, Sunday

The last services held under the auspices of the Mountain Lake Park Association will be on Sunday and will be known as "Interdenominational Day."

In the morning at 11 o'clock Dr. Robert Louis Wood, of the First M. E. church, Martinsburg, W. Va., will preach, his theme being "Choosing the Highest." Dr. Morris W. Ehnes, New York City, will assist at the services. There will be special music by a selected choir.

Interdenominational Day is receiving the hearty co-operation of the Lutheran, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal and the Methodist Episcopal churches of Oakland; the United Brethren church and Baptist church, Loch Lynn and Methodist churches of Pleasant Valley and Mountain Lake Park.

Miss Elizabeth Bender, accompanied by Mrs. Harlan Updegraff, will sing.

It is the aim of Superintendent Frank E. Baker to make this the outstanding worship hour of the season and a cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

Considering that there has been a Lutheran Day, the Convention of young people of the United Presbyterian church, and now Interdenominational Day, points to a tendance on the part of the Board of Directors of the Association to make of this resort an Interdenominational Park.

West Virginia Clubwoman to Speak to Civic Club

Mrs. Davison, Parkersburg, W. Va., a prominent clubwoman of West Virginia, will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Oakland Civic club, to be held on Tuesday, August 27th.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Julius B. Littman, and all members are urged to attend.

FOUR DAY PROGRAM FOR ANNUAL FAIR ARRANGED

Plans Call for Automobile Day, School Day, Business Men's Day and Farmers' Day

That the business and professional men of Oakland would have charge of the third day of the Thirteenth Annual Garrett County fair, to be held October 1, 2, 3, and 4, was announced yesterday by Henry M. Speicher, secretary and general manager. This will make the third consecutive year that the business men have taken charge of one day of the fair, and it hoped that everybody will resolve to have a part in the program for the day.

More than 60 floats representing a number of Oakland's establishments were in the parade in 1927, but the 1928 affair was only a shadow of the business men's first attempt, according to a number of the Fair officials. This year they are hoping for a larger turnout than was seen in 1927.

Mayor L. M. Fraley, D. Emroy Bolden, I. S. Rady, Harry Stemple, and Blaine Giessman compose the program committee for Thursday, October 3, Business Men's Day.

Other Days

The first day, October 1, will be known as "automobile day." The committee is composed of Charles Beksard, George Keens, Walter Jaeske, Ray Feets and Harry Edwards. There will be a parade in the morning and all automobiles are expected to be decorated and entered in the procession.

The second day, October 2, will be known as "school day," and will be in charge of the following committee: Prof. F. E. Rathbun, supervising and helping teachers and county high school principals. There will be a school parade in the morning.

The fourth day, October 4, will be known as "Garrett County Farmers' Day," and will be in charge of John H. Carter, county agent; Carl Frazee, H. E. Orendorf, W. C. Welch, Harry Porter, B. C. Scott, and Paul Friend. There will be a large parade in the morning.

"The parade each morning will be the signal for the beginning of the day's activities," Mr. Speicher said. "Everybody should follow the parade to the Fair Grounds and inspect the exhibits and take part in the festivities. There are going to be many new special premiums listed in the Fair catalog, now being compiled by The Republican, and they will absolutely be paid.

"The premiums will cover live stock, poultry, farm products, horticultural products, school work, household products, domestic arts, and others, and from the present outlook there are going to be many more exhibits than last year."

Two Romney Men Are Killed On Railroad Crossing

Joseph F. Corbin, 47, and H. B. Hines, 55, both of Romney, West Va., were killed early last Saturday morning on the Main street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, Keyser, West Va., when the truck in which they were riding was struck by a switching engine.

They were returning from Morgantown, West Va., where Mr. Corbin, who was an orchardist, had taken a truck load of peaches. Mr. Hines, a farmer, had accompanied Corbin. The accident occurred at 3:15 a. m. There is no watchman on the crossing from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m.

The truck was demolished and both men were badly mangled. Corbin was well known among Oakland merchants, having sold his produce to them for some time. He is survived by his wife and nine children.

Second Person Arrested in Recent Alleged Assault Case

Enoch Plunket was arrested yesterday morning in Detroit, Mich., by city officials and turned over to Sheriff W. D. Casteel, of Garrett county, on a warrant issued in connection with the alleged assault on a fifteen-year old girl, Ethel Rosenberger, near Johnson's, this county, on June 30. He was brought to Oakland last night by the officer and placed in the County Jail and will later be given a preliminary hearing. Bernard Preston, of Frostburg is being held in the local prison for his participation in the alleged crime. He was arrested immediately following the alleged assault, but Plunket left the county and was not apprehended until yesterday.

REBUILDING THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 3:10-13; 6:14-16; Psalms 84:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—I was glad when they said unto me, let us go unto the house of the Lord.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Rebuilding God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Rebuilding God's House.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Building God's House.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Builders of God's House.

After becoming settled in the towns surrounding Jerusalem, the people were called together for the purpose of establishing the worship of the Lord God. The leaders in this movement were Joshua and the priests, and Zerubbabel, the governor. In view of the fact that the clearing away of the debris of the old city and temple and the erection of the new temple would take a long time, an altar was erected where sacrifice might be offered at once unto God. Upon this newly erected altar were offered the regular sacrifices commanded by Moses, including those of the Feast of Tabernacles (Ezra. 3:1-7).

I. The Foundation of the Temple Laid (3:8-13).

This was an auspicious occasion and was celebrated with most impressive ceremonies.

1. The priests' apparel (v. 10). These garments symbolized their consecration to the Lord's service.

2. The priests with trumpets (v. 10). The trumpets were used in calling together the people.

3. The Levites with cymbals (v. 10). This was according to the arrangement made by David (1 Chron. 15:16-21).

4. They sang together by course (v. 11). This means that they sang to one another responsively. The one company sang, "The Lord is good," the other responded, "For His mercy endureth forever."

5. Mingled weeping and sighing (vv. 12, 13). Some of the older men who had seen the magnificent temple of Solomon, which had been destroyed, wept much when they saw how far short the present foundation came of the former temple. Others were glad of the favor of God which had brought them back, and that a beginning was made in the new house of worship.

II. The Building of the Temple Hindered (ch. 4).

The leading adversaries were the Samaritans, a mongrel people—the offspring of the poor Jews who were left in Palestine and the foreign people who were sent into Palestine after the Jews were taken captive. The three perils which delayed the building of the temple for about fourteen years revealed the persistent methods which the enemy uses to hinder the program of God's people in every age.

1. An unintelligent pessimism (3:12).

Under the circumstances, a glorious beginning had been made. Many today, because things are not quite what they should be, do not go forward with a constructive program, but even hinder those who have the hopeful outlook. In spite of all the evil forces at work to thwart the purpose of God, the Christian church should push forward its program of evangelization.

2. Worldly compromise (4:2, 3)

"Let us build with you, for we seek your God." This is Satan's most common and effective method. God's children should not seek the world's patronage in building churches and carrying on His work. The leaders should declare with Zerubbabel, "Ye have nothing to do with us to build an house unto our God."

3. Opposition by word (4:1-24).

When refused a part in the work intimidation and political scheming were used by the enemies to defeat the building plan of God's people.

III. The Temple Finished (5:1-6).

Through the ministry of the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, people were encouraged to resume enthusiastically the work of building the temple. When the temple was finished, it was dedicated to God.

IV. The Blessedness of Dwelling in God's House (Ps. 84:1-4).

1. The hungering of the soul for God's house (vv. 1, 2).

It is refreshing when people long to meet God in His house.

2. The sparrow and swallow find protection in the sacred precincts of God's house (v. 3).

3. Dwelling in God's house (v. 4).

Those who have a heart for God find their chief delight in dwelling in His house.

Keep Going

One new science of flying teaches us that a plane will not go down as long as it can go on. The birds have long known this and they fly. Keep going, believing, hoping, loving, and you cannot go under!

What Will the Master Say?

Will it matter at last whether you have been rich or just lived from hand to mouth? What will the Master say? Ah! that is the question.—Dr. J. B. Shaw.

Everything in Readiness

More and more interest is being manifest in the squatting contest suggested by Harry Stemple, and being sponsored by Scoop, Col. Bell, and The Republican, which is due to begin on Saturday. More than 461 people have looked over the squatting field at Sweeney's lot and a large number are going to enter the contest. A larger number, however, are not.

The additions thus far to those of last week are Russell Brown, who has been practicing squatting on Second street ever since the gas company started laying new service lines; Ed. Lawrence, Lloyd Shaffer, John O. Thayer, Jerry Stanton Berne Teter, and Harry Edwards.

Bill Eggers had Berne Teter in front of Doc Yutzy's jewelry store Tuesday afternoon teaching him to squat. Bill said that when Berne got proficient enough he might practice on Gonder's bench, but at the present time he was nothing but a greenhorn in the art. He didn't even know how to sit properly on hot cement steps.

After an examination it was decided to disqualify J. B. Lipscomb, Bun Nethkin, Judson Loar, Col. Bell, Gus Delawder and Mike Liller because the inspectors said their feet would touch the ground when squatting, and this would be considered too much of an advantage.

Dave Walter Withdraws

In a telegram received by Scoop through the postoffice department, Dave Walter withdraws from the contest. The telegram follows:

Dear Scoop:

It is with deep regret that I will have to withdraw from the squatters' contest owing to the fact that I am on the move looking after contractors and Labor Day picnics. Best regards.

Dave.

All others however, are practicing daily to become efficient squatters and the following snapshot, taken by Col. Bell, shows Harry Edwards just getting ready to practice.

Down for the Count.

Amalgamates Increase

The Amalgamated Society for the Prevention of work had a rush on applications for membership this week after reading a story in the papers wherein it stated that a faithful husband who had worked for 25 years, got no reward but kicks and cuffs from his wife. "Why work if it isn't appreciated," Betty Dawson, one of the Gold Dust twins of Harned's drug store, said.

The news story carried several reasons set forth in the divorce petition: never missed a working day in 23 years, always turned over his pay envelope to his wife, arose early to cook his breakfast, did the shopping, cooked evening meals, washed dishes and did housework on occasions too frequent to enumerate. For this he received blows, kicks and whatnots, and on one occasion had six shirts, two suits of underwear, one necktie and one suit of pajamas torn up when she got angry.

"All women may not be alike," Soldier Halsey said, "But I'm taking no chances. I'm going to remain a member of the Amalgamites."

Facts About a Wedding

If editors told the truth at all times, Scoop believes that the circulation of the papers would be increased mightily. One editor from North Carolina did tell the truth once about a wedding which is printed below. Readers of The Republican need not be alarmed however, that we might publish a similar story about a local couple. Scoop may know all about you but he will keep it a secret from the majority, especially when you are taking your beloved "until death do us part," or however it goes.

Here's what the Carolina editor wrote:

Popular Young Couple Weds

Mr. Robert Zelby and Miss Tessie Nella were married Monday at noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Nella, Rev. M. L. Gassoway, officiating.

The groom is a popular young bum who hasn't done a lick of work since he got shipped in the middle of his junior year at college. He manages to dress well and keeps a supply of spending money, because his dad is a softhearted old fool who takes up his bad checks instead of letting him go to jail where he belongs.

The bride is a skinny, fast little idiot, about 35 years old, who has been kissed and handled by every boy in town since she was 12 years old. She paints like a Sioux Indian, sucks cigarets in secret and drinks mean corn liquor when she is out joy-riding in her dad's car at night. She doesn't know how to cook, sew or keep house.

The house was newly plastered and painted for the wedding, thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered and the bride newly painted.

The groom wore a rented dinner suit over athletic underwear of imitation silk. His pants were held up by pale green suspenders. His number eight patent leather shoes matched his state of tightness and harmonized nicely with the axle-grease polish of his hair. In addition to his jag he carried a pocket knife, a bunch of keys, a dun for the ring, and his usual look of imbecility.

The bride wore some kind of a white thing that left most of her legs sticking out at one end and her bony upper end sticking out at the other.

The young people will make their home with the bride's parents—which means they will sponge on the old man until he dies and then she will take in washin'.

BITTINGER.

Many people took advantage of the splendid weather last Saturday and came to this village from nearby and distant places to spend the day in the beautiful sugar grove where the annual Sunday school picnic was held. The Sunday school choir furnished some excellent music and the Hare brothers, of Jennings, entertained the gathering with some excellent violin and guitar selections and were assisted by Mr. George Stark, of this village. Addresses were delivered in the afternoon by Mr. George Moon, of near Swanton; Mr. Root Beachy, of Jennings, Rev. Amick, of Accident, and Rev. J. L. Marvin, of Reynoldsville, Pa. All agree that the day was a success, both financially and socially.

A reunion of the members of the immediate family of Josiah Bittinger was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brenneman last Sunday.

Mrs. Lydia Wiley, of Grantsville, and Mrs. Fannie Weitzel, of Avilton, were guests of Mrs. Peter G. Stark last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith, of Lumberport, West Va., and also Mr. John W. Fortney, postmaster, at Lumberport, West Va., spent the week-end with Mr. Fortney's son, Lawrence Fortney, at this place.

Mr. Charles H. Harbert, of Shinston, West Va., visited his daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Fortney at her home on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Reckner and daughter, Grace, accompanied by Mr. Hagar, all of near Confluence, Pa., were Sunday visitors among relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Engle, of Baltimore, spent the early part of this week with friends and relatives here.

Messrs. Webster and Arthur Detrick, of near Uniontown, Pa., spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Detrick, at their home near here.

Clever Brenneman and family, of Akron, Ohio, are visiting relatives here this week.

Miss Huldah Stark, of Cumberland, visited her home folks here over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Bittinger and sons, Noah and Elbert, of Akron, Ohio, were among the week end visitors here.

Leonard Stark, of near Uniontown, Pa., visited her father at the old home place early this week.

Noah Stark and family, of Kitzmiller, spent the early part of this week with relatives here.

B. H. Wiley and family, of Reisterstown, Md., are spending some days with relatives here.

Mrs. C. C. Beachy is entertaining a number of Pittsburgh, Pa., friends at her home south of Bittinger.

C. C. Beachy and his father-in-law, Mr. Jonas Gnagey, made a motor tour of the eastern shore of Maryland and part of Delaware last week, and we acknowledge the gift of some very fine melons, left at our home on their return.

Thomas W. Wiley and family, of Canton, Ohio, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here and in the Meadow Mountain Settlement.

Vernon Wiley and his friend, Mr. Johnson, of Akron, Ohio, were among the visiting young folks who enjoyed the picnic here last Saturday.

Rev. J. L. Marvin, of Reynoldsville, Pa., a former pastor of the local Lutheran church, occupied the pulpit in the village church Sunday evening.

Dewey R. Wiley, of Akron, Ohio, visited relatives here on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Bradley and daughters, Beulah and Ione, of Morgantown, West Va., returned to their home last Sunday after a week's visit with relatives here.

NORTH GLADE.

An all-day rally service will be held here on Sunday, September 1. Speakers of different denominations, music and recitations are expected to enliven the occasion. All are cordially invited to come, bring filled baskets and make the meeting a real success.

A number of our folks attended the Bittinger picnic on August 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Moon, of Washington, D. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Moon and son Harland, Cumberland, were week-end visitors of home folks here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Moon and daughters Betty Louise and Margaret Jane, Cleveland, O., were recent visitors of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Moon.

Mr. Daniel Otto and family, Cumberland, were week-end visitors of relatives here.

Mr. Porter Wilt and family, of Cumberland, were week-end visitors to relatives here.

Mr. Lambert Bernard has been ill for the past few days.

AVILTON.

The Merrill family reunion will be held at the Cherry Grove Church on September 1. Relatives and others who wish may attend. A basket lunch will be served.

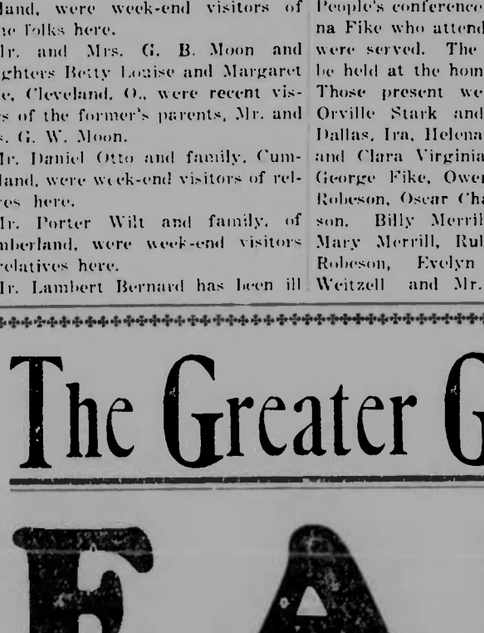
A. B. Y. P. D. meeting was held August 14 at the home of Herman Robeson. The program was rendered by the class. A report of the Young People's conference was given by Anna Fike who attended. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Jesse Merrill. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stark and children Edgell, Dallas, Ira, Helena, Rotha, Catherine and Clara Virginia; Edwin Robeson, George Fike, Owen Robeson, Albert Robeson, Oscar Chaney, Frank Robeson, Billy Merrill, Mildred Fike, Mary Merrill, Ruby Weitzell, Leah Robeson, Evelyn Robeson, Viola Weitzell and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Robeson.

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Fike and family and Mrs. Fannie Weitzell attended the picnic held at Bittinger Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Merrill and children, Robert, Mary and Billy, and Miss Mildred Fike spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Fike, Piedmont.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weitzell and son Clyde, Mr. and Mrs. John Merrill and Johnny Miller left Sunday for Sykesville. They will return this week.

A council meeting was held at the Cherry Grove church on Wednesday night.



Mrs. Fannie Weitzell is visiting her sister at Bittinger.

Mrs. Samuel Walker and daughter Mary Virginia, and Mr. William Skidmore visited Mr. and Mrs. Otho Fike last week.

Misses Ruby and Viola Weitzell visited Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Broadwater Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Robeson and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Wade Broadwater, Sunday.

The Greater Garrett County FAIR!

CAPT. E. H. HUGO

Much has been said and written in reference to the thrilling performance of Capt. E. H. Hugo, but mere words seem utterly inadequate in describing his feat of reckless daring. : : : : : : :

High up in the air on a huge frame structure, the top of which is a steep incline, this carefree dare-devil astride a bicycle, careens madly down the deep sloping chute and taking off at the end, he precipitates himself and the wheel through space, passing through a blazing barrier of flames in mid air, to land on a gentle slope a considerable distance away, still seated on the cycle which he nonchalantly rides away. : : : : : : :

There have been many dare-devil stunts attempted but none that could ever compare with the hair-raising performance of Capt. Hugo. : : :

CHEFALO

There have been many persons who have proclaimed themselves to be the highest divers in the world, but we are convinced that these same people would surely hide their heads in shame after one glance at the lofty ladders used by Chefalo, for his ladders tower so high in the air that it seems as though they must touch the clouds. : :

In place of the usual tank for a landing place Chefalo uses only a ridiculously small net, thereby increasing the hazard of his dangerous undertaking tenfold. : : : : : :

Thrill-seekers cannot afford to miss the startling stunts of Chefalo, The Master Sensationalist.

Selecting the Dairy Bull

In selecting a dairy bull on the basis of the records of his ancestors consideration should be given to the conditions under which the records were made, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. An investigation by the Bureau of Dairy Industry at Beltsville, Md., showed that when cows were milked and fed three times a day instead of twice, confined in box stalls instead of in stanchions, fed enough to make them fat instead of keeping them in ordinary flesh, and bred to freshen at intervals of 15 months instead of 12 the production was increased 50 percent.

A herd improvement association record of 400 pounds of butterfat, if made under ordinary farm conditions, the bureau says, is equal to an advanced registry or register of merit record of 600 pounds

Horse and Mule Outlook Good

A report on the horse-breeding situation in the U. S., including stallion and jack enrollment, just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, indicates an impending shortage of good horses and mules within a few years. According to J. O. Williams and S. R. Speelman, horse specialists who prepared the report, the price cycle of horses and mules already has turned upward. Draft horses with size and quality are in strong demand at good prices, and the demand for saddle horses is nation-wide. Desirable saddle horses and polo mounts are bringing exceptionally good prices.

The report shows that although stallions and jacks licensed for public service have decreased in numbers, a higher percentage of these sires are purebred than in former years. Many of them, however, will soon be too old for breeding service and will have to be replaced by younger animals. The Government specialists advise farmers to study their farm-power situation carefully and to select breeding stock of the type that will produce high-quality horses and mules, for which there should be good prices a few years hence.

A common mistake in the management of sweet clover is to pasture a first-year stand too heavily. New seedlings should seldom carry more than one mature animal to two acres. The rate of grazing may be heavier than this in August, but by September 15 the rate should be decreased, to allow the plants to store food in the roots. Each plant should go into the winter with at least 6 inches of top growth. Sweet clover pastured too heavily the first year will start slowly and grow unevenly the second year, and will yield considerably less forage than if pastured lightly the first year.

The premium list for the Garrett County Fair will soon be out. Secure a copy, decide upon entries and have them in good show condition by October 1.

Some work is being done on the eradication of quack grass and the Canadian thistle by the use of Sodium Chlorate.

Plots have beed treated in the Pleasant Valley vicinity. Ernest Ridder, R. 2, Oakland, Md., and Albert Kahl, Oakland, Md.

Anyone interested in the results are urged to see the plots that have been sprayed.

Baltimore to Celebrate Its 200th Anniversary

Baltimore, the metropolis of Maryland, is 200 years old, and on September 12 to 15 will celebrate its birthday in an elaborate manner. On September 12 the biggest and most spectacular military parade in the history of the city will be held. It will comprise men of the regular army, national guard, marines, American Legion, and sailors from warships that will be in the harbor at the time.

A parade by fraternal orders and a program prepared by the Playground Athletic league will feature September 13, while on September 14 a mammoth pageant will be held comprising 56 floats depicting the city's history and growth. Commemmorative services will be held in the city churches on September 15.

Gardening Notes

The Bagworm

This interesting insect often causes serious damage to evergreens during midsummer. The curious habit which the larva has of weaving a protective bag of silk and pieces of leaves, so disguises his appearance that a specimen plant may be badly defoliated before the gardner suspects his presenc. The female is wingless and never leaves the bag. Eggs are laid by the female in the bag and these hatch in early spring. Removal of the bags during winter is an effective means of control. Spraying the foliage with arsenate of lead is a good remedy when plants are attacked.

Drying Everlasting Flowers

"Straw" flowers such as helichrysum are often grown in the garden for winter decoration. In order to preserve them in good shape they should be cut before the flower is fully open. Otherwise the ugly centers will be too much exposed in drying. After being cut at the proper stage the leaves should be removed and after the stems are tied in bunches they should be hung up to dry with the flower heads hanging down. This will insure straight stems and the holding of the flowers erect when dried.

Glads Need Water

The gladiolus is a very satisfactory and popular flower for cutting during the summer months In their culture, good soil, thorough and frequent cultivation and plenty of water at all times, are essential. Petals are not nearly so likely to scorch in the sun when the roots are well supplied with water Observations made last season indicate that the crooked stems so often seen in some of the Primulinus group, comes from the wilting of the stem during the heat of the day and its inability to recover its erect position when the stem becomes turgid at night.

Planting Seeds in the Fall

Many seeds seem to germinate best after having been subjected to low temperatures. In experimental work germination is hastened by placing seeds in a refrigerator at about 40 degrees for varying lengths. The amateur gardner may, perhaps, obtain the same results with many types by planting seeds in the fall so that they are subject to the low temperatures of winter. This is a good method for handling seeds of iris, peony and many kinds of trees and shrubs, particularly those with hard or impervious seed coats. The Japanese barberry is often grown from seed handled this way.

If one has a good stock of patience many of the hardy bulbs may be grown from seed. Many of them will not reproduce the variety from which seeds are collected, but it does give one the opportunity of producing occasionally a new type which is of more than ordinary merit.

In making up the seed bed it is well to use a good supply of leaf mold, well rotted manure, or pulverized peat to mix with the soil.

An accurate plot should be made of the plantings, for some seeds are temperamental and may not come up until the second spring. For this reason the bed might be located in an out of the way place where it would not be disturbed.

Such bulbs as tulips can be developed to the flowering stage in 3 or 4 years from seed if given good growing conditions.

ADMIRES NEGLIGENCE

We extract from the Worcester Democrat (Pocomoke) via young Davy Winebrenner's Frederick Citizen the following remarks:

"What we have to say, at this time, is that we are perfectly satisfied with the present administration. The Democrat favored a three-time governor in the person of Albert C. Ritchie, and it has no reason to oppose another term for the same man, if he desires to return to his arduous duties. And we take this stand because we do not believe there is another man in the State who is so well qualified by education, experience ,integrity and all-around ability, to manage the affairs incumbent upon the position, as is the present Chief Executive."

We presume it was the Governor's "all-around executive ability" that let the State road plundering proceed for eight years without detection—until the State lost a half million dollars. Anyway it is interesting to know that the Worcester Democrat admires negligence in official station. Everyone to their own liking, as the aged lady remarked when she osculated the bovine.—Baltimore Observer.

THE JINGLING ADVERTISER

The ingenious editor of the Webster Journal out in South Dakota, is enjoying the happy adventure of putting the day's news into rhyming captions. Instead of blunt prose and shouting headlines he juggles types so that they tell the story in poetic meter, a device which lends a note of gayety to happenings otherwise drab. Probably some of the Journal subscribers now lustily sing the news rather than read it.

The practice of the Webster headwriter may lead to the recovery of a lost art. The [illegible] would find joyous [illegible] who delighted [illegible] and happenings of the [illegible] flowing cadenzas. The Middle Ages produced the traveling balladmonger who put an inn audience [illegible] glow by [illegible] rollicking verse.

And there are more practical days to send the poet more into retirement until for [illegible] years now stolid prose has [illegible] through newspaper columns. If the Webster editor's suggestion is at all worth heeding, editorial might now be set to music, so that a dissertation on the tariff captures the sweep of a sailor's hornpipe. For instance:

RAISE THE TAX ON HIDES AND BEEF, AND BRING THE FARMER
SWEET RELIEF.

But present-day advertisements probably need the poet's assistance more than any other part of the paper. Instead of the old stereotyped announcement a rhymeful haberdasher might proclaim:

BUY YOUR TIES OF CHARLEY BURR!
DOTS AND STRIPES, A DOLLAR PER.

Another merchant might readily win the ear and bank notes of women buyer with [illegible] typical invitations as this:

BAXTER'S BEADS ARE MIGHTY NIFTY.
HAVE A LOOK—A DOLLAR
FIFTY.

Once this idea begins to spread, and every newspaper "ad" climbs into the musical rocking-chair, all the wise advertiser has to do is to engage the services of some first-class poet. Effusions on sunsets and sighing zephyrs seldom ring the cash register today, but rippling rhymes extolling the delicious flavor of Polly's Doughnuts, ah, that is poetry certain to pay large dividends.

DIED.

MARVIN COLES SMITHWICK

Marvin Coles Smithwick, for some months a patient in the Maryland State sanitorium at Sabillasville, died August 16. His body arrived in Oakland Monday evening and funeral services were held from the Bolden Funeral home on Tuesday morning at 9:30. Interment was made in the Oakland cemetery.

The deceased was the nephew of Mrs. John Michael, near Mt. Lake, with whom he had made his home prior to his illness. He attended Oakland High school and was an employe of the H. Weber and Sons, florists.

MISS ELSIE E. EBERT

Miss Elsie E. Ebert, aged 22, daughter of Mrs. Katie Ebert, Kitzmiller, died August 8, at the home of her uncle, Wilbur Ebert, Akron, O. She was a graduate of Kitzmiller High school, class of '25, and Frostburg Normal school, class of '27.

She has been a teacher in the schools of Garrett county for the past two years and was reappointed as teacher of the Short Run school for 1929-30. Her father, Thomas W. Ebert, died 18 months ago. She is survived by her mother and a host of relatives and friends.

The funeral was held August 12 from the M. E. church, Rev. Z. C. Adkins officiating, assisted by Rev. Staniforth. Interment was in Nethken Hill cemetery, Elk Garden.

Pallbearers were Don Wilson, Carl Gough, Claud Amtower, Harold Huff, Clever Pool and Milo Wilson. Flower girls were Virginia Barrack, Elsie Walker, Alice Hartley, Nellie Kirby, Hazel Warnick, Dorothy Harvey, Josephine Harvey, Jennie Vodopivec, Mary Bishop, and Ruth Strachan.

Relatives and friends from Keyser, W. Va.; Piedmont, W. Va.; Laurel Dale, W. Va.; Akron, O.; Hartmonsville, W. Va.; Ridgeley, W. Va.; Accident, Morgantown, Cumberland, and Deer Park, attended the services.

MARK WILSON BENDER

Funeral services for Mark Wilson Bender, aged 22 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Bender, Kitzmiller, who died in Washington, D. C., last Thursday night, were held from the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Z. C. Adkins, officiating. Interment was in Nethkin Hill cemetery.

The deceased was engaged in the fumigating and cleaning business and it is supposed he suffocated in one of the rooms of his establishment. Two brothers, Alva, of Washington, and Dan, at home, survive.

Flower bearers were William Sapp, Frank Vodopivec, Jr., Frank Rafter, Glen Chappell, Allen Smith, Frank Long, Clark Walker, Roy Robinson, Benj. Sisell, Lawrence Junkins, Cecil White, Walter Price, Jesse Walker, Joseph Ridder, Cabert Sissler, Allen Weatherholt, and Milo Wilson. Pallbearers were H. G. McDonald, Chas. Sprague, Jr., H. L. Pool, Clever Pool, Harry Wilson and Hugo Devail.

White Family Holds Reunion

A reunion of the White family was held in Hardesty's grove, Loch Lynn, last Sunday, at which time there were [illegible] members and relatives present. The register shows that they came from West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Texas. The day was most delightfully spent by the White clan in renewing old friendships and making new ones. A bountiful basket dinner was spread under the Oaks.

It was probably in the year 1776 when William White and family migrated to this country from Virginia, and as nearly as can be ascertained settled for a short time on, or near, the same spot where the Reunion was held this year. It appears that William together with John White, presumably a brother, then journeyed over into what is now West Virginia, near Buckhannon, where the former became a noted Indian fighter and lost his life in a hand to hand fight with a red man on March 8, 1782. He is buried in Heavener Cemetery, Buckhannon, where a beautiful monument has been erected by the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to commemorate his services in the Revolutionary war. Thus it is that the Whites can date their Maryland ancestry back to the very earliest times. Frequent mention is made of these early settlers in Withers Chronicals of Border Warfare as well as in the histories of the State of West Virginia, showing that the White family has taken an active part in the settlement and founding of Maryland and the Virginias.

The oldest man present at the reunion was Murray White, 89, and the oldest woman was Mrs. Ellen Tasker, 84 years of age.

OFFICIAL PARK PROGRAM COMPLETED LAST SUNDAY

Senator Guy Goff Speaks Before Lord's Day Alliance Group

The Lord's Day Alliance, a society devoted to emphasizing the advantages of strict Sabbath observance, ended the official program at Mt. Lake Park on last Sunday. Senator Guy Goff, of West Virginia, was the principal speaker of the day.

His address teemed with true American principles, stressing the fact that religion was the underlying basis of American civilization. He urged obedience to the enacted laws.

Senator Goff, a lawyer by profession, was assistant United States Attorney General under the Harding administration. He is a son of the late Nathan Goff, one of the first volunteers in the Civil war, judge of the United States circuit court, fourth division, U. S. circuit court of appeals and U. S. senator from West Virginia.

Dr. W. W. Davis, Baltimore, president of the alliance, had charge of the program and spoke at 11 o'clock in the morning. The Crellin band gave a sacred concert at 2 o'clock p. m., followed by Senator Goff. In the evening at 8 o'clock Dr. Edwards and Dr. Davis both gave addresses.

DRUG STORES

Pity the plight of Dr. George Cohen, Berlin druggist. Arrived in New York, Dr. Cohen started out to look for a drug store, to see how it compared with such institutions in Germany. He couldn't find any. There were stores that bore signs representing them as drug stores, but were found, on closer inspection, to be general stores or refreshment stands. One of them, which Dr. Cohen entered, was so full of women getting beauty treatments and buying soaps and powders and ice cream sodas and things, that he fled. Nowhere could he find a genuine "chemist" or "apothecary" shop.

Alas! The poor fellow would probably have hunted through all the cities of this great land without any more success.

Our drug stores, as we quaintly call them, are all right for us. They are a grand and glorious institution, serving a many-sided purpose. But they fail to measure up to the standards of a man who presides over a genuine German drug store which was found before Columbus sailed for America, and has been in the same family, descending from father to son, for 25 generations.

To an apothecary of his traditions, drugs are drugs, not to be desecrated by association with ice cream, pop, peanuts, apple pie, combs, lunch kits, cameras, magazines, candy, cigars, flash lamps, postage stamps, electric fixtures, flags and canned heat stoves. We are a queer people, with queer institutions, not to be understood.

Roth Family Holds Reunion

The annual reunion of the Roth family was held at the Fair Grounds, Oakland, on Sunday, August 18. More than 250 gathered from the surrounding communities of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, many coming great distances.

The Crellin Boys' Band was a guest of the family and gave a concert before dinner and a few chosen selections following the meal. Mr. Charles W. Ream, Crellin, gave an interesting address, after which a short business session was held and the following officers elected: Alphius Roth, president; Steward M. Roth, vice-president; A. R. Martin, secretary; Earl Roth, assistant secretary; William Hauser, treasurer; D. O. Roth, historian.

Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, also addressed the gathering and called attention to the value of family ties as a rich inheritance. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in renewing acquaintances. Next year the reunion will be held the third Sunday in August at the Fair Grounds.

DEATHS DUE TO AUTO ACCIDENTS INCREASING

One-fourth of Entire Number Are Children Under Fifteen

Calling attention to the increasing number of deaths from automobile accidents, and to the fact that nearly one-fourth occur among children under fifteen, Dr. John Collison, Chief of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, urges parents to take special precautions to safeguard their children from accidents of this sort during the vacation period, because it is during this season that the majority of such accidents in this age group, occur.

"From January to June of this year," Dr. Collison said, "156 deaths from automobile accidents occurred in Maryland, in comparison with 135 during the same period last year. Our death rate from automobile accidents—that is the number of deaths to each hundred thousand of the population—has increased from less than one per hundred thousand in 1910 to 21.5 in 1928. Some idea of the gradual increase can be seen from the rates for the last live years—16.2 out of every hundred thousand of the population in 1924; 17.1 in 1925; 19.7 in 1926; 20.7 in 1927, and 21.5 in 1928.

The total number of deaths from automobile accidents in 1928 was 551. This was more than four times as many as the total from typhoid fever, for which the rate per hundred thousand was 5.2. As a matter of fact, the deaths from automobile accidents now rank about twelfth in the leading causes of deaths in the State.

"Analysis of our records show that the greater proportion of deaths from automobile accidents occur during the second six months of the year. This is due largely to the fact that there is more and more travel of that sort during the vacation season and during the pleasant weather of the early fall.

"In checking up our records, we also find that nearly one-fourth of the total deaths from motor vehicle accidents have occurred among children under fifteen and that the larger proportion of these have happened during the vacation season. Because of the menace of the open road to young children at all seasons, but particularly at this time of the year when the children are more likely to be out of doors, special precautions should be taken by parents to protect them from this danger."

The Far Seeing Man ADVERTISES.

Advertising, to-day, is an art, compared to that of yesterday. No matter how great a product may be, it remains obscure without proper merchandising and sales promotion effort.

Your newspaper, at a very slight cost, can easily become the medium thru which the public learns of your product. Let them know what you have to sell . . . tell them the facts about it . . . believe in it yourself . . . and see how readily it will move.

The wide-awake, progressive merchant of to-day is a constant advertiser---Do you, yourself, buy unadvertised goods? Certainly not---and yet you turn right around and attempt, very often, to sell them without reminding the public of their quality.

POTOMAC TOWER. BAYARD. IS NEARING COMPLETION

To House Instruments to Measure River's Depth and Velocity

The United States Geological Survey has nearly completed one of three towers to be erected along the Potomac river between Bayard, W. Va., and Westernport, Md., for the stallation of instruments to record the various stages of the water in the Potomac river. Construction of the first tower, on the bank of the river near Bayard, started the first week in July, will probably be completed in a week. The Maryland State Health Department is cooperating in its construction.

The tower, of reinforced concrete, is five feet square and thirty-two feet in height. An intake is being built from the river bank to permit the water to seek its level in the base of the tower, which is several feet below the surface of the water. The recording instrument will be placed on a shelf in the tower. By use of floats suspended from the machine into the water and by a clock mechanism, which will regulate the motion of the chart, the depth of the river will be recorded for every hour of the day.

Will Show Depth And Velocity

From time to time instruments will be taken there to record the velocity of the water at various stages. From the records of the two machines showing the velocity and depth of the water, the survey will be able to compute the amount of water flowing past the point for any given period. Such information is invaluable when dams are being considered for city water supplies, industrial purposes or flood control.

The work of building the tower and placing the instruments is under the general supervision of A. H. Horton, Washington, D. C., district engineer for the survey. J. W. Mangan, Washington, assistant hydraulic engineer, has been there for several weeks and is in charge of the local work. The tower is in plain view from the bridge between Beryl and Bloomington.

Two Others Planned

Steel towers for housing similar recording instruments will be erected on the Savage river, above Deep Hole, and on Georges creek near the suspension bridge at Franklin, Md., as soon as the one in the Potomac is completed. These streams are Potomac tributaries.

Instruments for recording the depth of the Potomac have been used in past years, but never before have they been permanently housed.

63 MARRIAGE LICENSES ARE ISSUED IN 2 WEEKS

Total for Month of August Thus Far is Now Seventy-seven

Sixty-three marriage licenses were issued from the office of the clerk of the Court during the past 2 weeks, ending Monday at noon, bringing the total for the month of August thus far to 77, according to A. G. Ross, deputy clerk.

The record number for August applied in 1927 when 149 licenses were granted. Last year 148 were given permits. Twenty of the licenses issued during the last weeks were granted on Saturday. Twelve permits were marked "don't publish," while three applicants were refused the coveted papers.

MT. LAKE PARK.

There is on valid reason so far as we can see why activities at the Park should cease with the termination of the official program. The latter part of August, the moaths of September and October are the most beautiful of the entire year. It is true that Labor Day seems to mark the end of number of our people, but there are thousands of others who have the leisure and the money to take advantage of the crisp and bracing air of the late fall in the mountains, when Nature paints her best picture with the ever changing, veri-colored forests. We can attract this class of tourists by proper advertising. In some communities we notice that included in the budget of the cities and counties, an item is carried for county-wide advertising purposes. ublic moneys can be expended to no better advantage, for every tourist attracted is an added asset.

Sabbath morning at 11:00 o'clock, Rev. Wood will preach in the auditorium, and at 8:00 p. m. Rev. J. S. Middaugh will preach in the M. E. church.

Rev. Fultz, U. B. minister, expects to preach his farewell sermon at his church next Sunday morning. Not only members of his congregation, but the citizens of the community at large will regret the leaving of Mr. and Mrs. Fultz. By the strict adherence to the tenets of his faith, his honest and fearless statement from the pulpit of the principles he represents, and his uprightness as a citizen, have endeared Rev. Fultz to the people with whom he has come in daily contact.

Mrs. Hugh S. Wade, Lexington, Va., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Camden.

Mr. Camden Taney, editor of the Whmeeling Register, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Camden last week, has returned to his home.

Mr. C. M. Hood and Rev. W. W. Castle, have been here arranging for the next season's Interdenominational Camp Meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Pollard, Jr., and son, Walter Weir Pollard III, who have been guest of Mrs. Pollard's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Wm. Skyles, left by motor for their home in New York.

"CRIPPLE CAR" BEING BUILT IN PITTSBURGH, IS THE WORK OF VINCENT HESEN, FORMER OAKLAND RESIDENT

Machine Is a Tricycle Arrangement, Front Part Motorcycle. With Rear End Of Auto

A "Cripple car," entirely hand driven, the invention of Vincent Hesen, formerly of Oakland, and David Brookrer, was tried out on the streets of Pittsburgh one morning recently and found to be successful in every detail, according to a story appearing in the Pittsburgh Press of August 19.

It is a tricycle arrangement, the front part motorcycle to which is attached the rear end of an automobile. There are no foot pedals. A hand lever also controls the clutch. The cripple car is made with a four-cylinder motorcycle motor. One of the features is that it is equipped with a self starter, an arrangement which has heretofore not been used with a motorcycle motor.

"The advantage of a motorcycle motor over a two-cylinder automobile motor is, of course, the high speed gained," Hesen told a reporter. "A small type two-cylinder motor would have had to be used because of space but this way we save space and at the same time gain speed. The chief problems were the differential and starter. Often we were baffled. Some nights we worked till 3 a. m. The night we put in the fan we worked [illegible]

[illegible] is a case of detailed study and application. The heat from the motor is blown back. As the rider sits only a few inches above the cylinder heads the thing presented a problem, but the way it is fixed one can ride in comfort.

The car is being constructed at the order of a capitalist Brisbon who intends to race in New York in it. As he has [illegible] the keenest [illegible] and [illegible] a motorcycle engine.

If [illegible] enough the ground [illegible] to hide himself into it. At the same time an allowance had to be made for ground clearance. The men set to work and found that a five-inch clearance would be ample and that this was also sufficiently low for him to reach the car himself. Then as he was without feet or legs the car had [illegible] controlled.

The cripple-car has a six-foot wheel base, two and a half feet shorter than that of a Ford. It has one motorcycle wheel in front and two auto wheels behind. There are three forward speeds and a reverse gear. The men have been at work on it for three weeks day and night. They expect to deliver it this week.

"Everything has been welded. Nothing [illegible] bolted," the men speak with pride of their machine. "It is not entirely an auto rear end. We have used an auto housing but there is also a motorcycle chain."

A five-gallon gasoline tank has been cut down from the tank of one of the large cars. Head and tail lights and an electric horn are included as are fenders. The thing is so arranged that if anything goes wrong it can be repaired without being completely torn down. The cripple car will be patented, its builders say.

DR. JEHLE MAKES SECOND INSPECTION OF POTATOES

Finds All 4-H Club Members' Plots in Good Condition

After a second inspection for certification of seed potatoes in 4-H potato club work, Dr. R. A. Jehle, plant pathologist, University of Maryland, announced that all 21 4-H club boys entered in the contest had passed the examination. At the last inspection in July, 20 out of the 21 passed the inspection.

Dr. Jehle was in Garrett county last Wednesday and Thursday and in company with John H. Carter, county agent, visited the various potato club members and looked over their plots of potatoes. All potatoes were found to be in good condition. The farms of H. P. Miller, Grantsville, and Paul Brown, Selbysport, also passed the second inspection, Mr. Carter stated.

The chances for producing good seed potatoes are exceptionally fine, according to Dr. Jehle, and he believes that there will be a market for them in this and adjoining counties. Attractive prizes are being offered for potato exhibits at the Garrett County fair by the fair association and also the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, under whose auspices the potato clubs were formed.

Plots for determining the yield in club work competition will be measured by Mr. Carter during the middle of September, and Dr. Jehle will make his first late inspection of the potatoes on September 30, the day prior to the opening of the fair.

Shaffer Family Reunion.

The fourth annual reunion of the descendants of John D. and Catherine E. Shaffer will be held at the late home of Jesse H. Shaffer, Horse Shoe Run, West Va., on Sunday, September 1.

All relatives, friends and neighbors are invited to attend. Bring well-filled baskets and spend the day with us.

Music Course Offered.

An intensive course in the rudiments of music will be offered to a limited number of children from six to twelve years of age. This class will be organized on Saturday morning, August 24, at nine o'clock in the music school conducted by Sr. Augustine, in Oakland. It will cover twelve hours, and it will be completed before school re-opens. The object of the course is to give children an opportunity to learn music reading, rhythm, time and ear-training. This foundation is essential for the proper study of any instrument.

A parent who contemplates giving his child musical advantages will do well to let the youngster have this course as a preparation; also, for the discovery of possible talent. A fee of two dollars will be charged. Phone 158 for reservation. Advertisement 1

MAKE 13TH ANNUAL FAIR HERE REAL "HOMECOMING"

Mr. Orendorf, County Commissioner, Tells What County Fair Means to Community

"I think the Thirteenth Annual Garrett County fair, to be held this year from October 1 to 4 inclusive, should be made a homecoming affair as well as an agricultural exhibit," D. F. Orendorf, county commissioner, stated yesterday morning in supporting the articles of Dr. McComas and A. L. Lee, which appeared in The Republican during the last two issues.

MR. DANIEL E. ORENDORF

"Meeting and greeting friends, renewing acquaintances and making new ones should be one of the main objects of the Fair. This in itself should afford more pleasure and genuine enjoyment than all of the amusements on the grounds.

"In addition, however, many useful ideas may be obtained from the different exhibitors and their exhibits. The exhibits, whether farm products, live stock, poultry or whatever department they may be in, should be of the very best quality, variety and type produced in the county. Everyone coming in the County Fair is bound to learn a great deal. He trades ideas with other exhibitors and goes home richer in thought. He discovers where the best seed, finest eggs and different breeds of livestock in the county may be obtained.

"The premiums paid for the best exhibits are the smallest reward one can get from taking part in the county fair. They are merely ideas any committee from time to time who choose to award, however, will be the satisfaction of knowing that, when placed in competition, your products ranked with the best.

"A good fair is a county booster. When a county has a good fair it advertises itself. The county becomes known as a fine place for farming, a splendid place in which to live, and a good place for visitors to come for worthwhile ideas, products and men.

"I hope everybody will take an interest in the Fair this year and make it the very best that we have ever had."

Canning Operations To Start On Tuesday

The Mt. Airy Canning company will open its plant at Mt. Lake Park next Tuesday for the purpose of canning a quantity of corn, according to Howard Rinehardt, manager, and will remain open two or three weeks, depending on the yield.

Prospects are that the crop will be very good, he stated. The cannery will employ about 50 men and women.

To Hold Lawn Social For Students Leaving for College

The Oakland Union Young People's League will hold a lawn social for the young people of Oakland who are going away to school this winter. The event will be held Thursday, September 5, in Roy Winter's grove. The festivities will commence at 8 o'clock and last until the delightful program that has been prepared is ended and every one has had enough to eat. In case of rainy weather the party will be held in Naylor's Hall.

The meeting next Sunday will be held in the Episcopal church at 7 o'clock. Helen Hinebaugh and Mary Eva Compton will take charge of the meeting together.

LUTHERAN CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT RED HOUSE

Eighteenth Annual Meeting Scheduled for October 8-9

The Eighteenth Annual Conference of the Lutheran Synod of West Virginia will be held in Red House Lutheran church October 8 and 9. Rev. W. E. Waybright will be the host.

Rev. C. A. Shilke, president of the conference, will preach the conference sermon and preside over the meetings. Two addresses will feature the Wednesday morning session, "The Church, Her Worship Program," Rev. W. P. Cline, Jr., Fairmont, president of the Synod of West Virginia; and "The Effective Preacher," Dr. A. B. Leamer, Charleston, W. Va.

The conference will be given over on Wednesday afternoon to a Sunday school institute, and will be in charge of Dr. Charles P. Wiles, Philadelphia, Pa., among America's foremost Sunday school men. The Sunday school superintendents and teachers of all the churches of the Synod are invited.

Dr. Wiles will also make the address in the evening. It is planned to make this the best conference ever held in the history of the institution.

Mrs. Galvin Wins Case in Local Court.

By a decree signed by Judge D. L. Sloan, on Monday of this week, as a result of an equity suit tried in the Circuit Court for this county on July 11, the claim of Alice Carey Galvin, defendant in the action, that she is the sole owner of a spring located upon her premises along the National Pike between Grantsville and Frostburg, was upheld against the claims of the plaintiffs, George D. Meese and Hazel Meese, his wife.

The parties to the suit are the owners of land on opposite sides of the National Pike, both parcels of land having originally been part of the old Thomas Johnson farm. At the trial of the case it was shown that the spring in question is a very copious one and provides sufficient water for a number of families and that the original grantor of both parcels of land had reserved the right to use the water on the Galvin property and then conveyed this right to the former owner of the present Meese property. The evidence further showed that early this spring Mr. Meese went to Miss Galvin and apprised her of the fact that he desired to put in a pipe line, in accordance with his deed, and convey some water from the spring to his property. On the witness stand Miss Galvin denied that she agreed to this while Mr. Meese and other witnesses stated that she had recognized the rights of Mr. Meese and stated that she would make no objection. It was further shown that after the pipe line was in Mr. Meese suggested certain improvements to the spring and understanding that same was agreeable to Miss Galvin secured the services of a stone mason and had the work done. Frequently, according to the evidence, Miss Galvin was out where this was being done and seemed satisfied, but after it was practically completed and before the concrete had hardened either tore it out or had it done.

Upon learning of the action of Miss Galvin, Mr. Meese applied for an injunction to restrain her from interfering with his right to the water from the spring and the various questions involved were taken up before the Court in the above hearing. The decision turned upon an unusual question of law and finally decided in favor of the plaintiff because of a technical defect in the wording of the reservation of the water in the spring contained in the original deed, the Court holding that by the wording of the reservations only a personal right to the spring was retained by the original grantors and that they had nothing which they could convey. The case was one of the most interesting heard in the Garrett county court for quite a while.

Rotarians to Entertain Rotary Anns Tonight.

Ladies' Night will be observed by the Oakland Rotary Club tonight when a banquet will be given to the Rotary Anns at the Mountain Lake Hotel, Mt. Lake Park. Mr. W. S. Burgess, of near town, will deliver the address of the evening, his talk being entitled "Tebuoysuoromuh." Mrs. Frederick Thayer and Mr. Joseph T. Kloman will render some special music and vocal numbers and the club members will join in several songs. Following the dinner there will be dancing and cards.

SCOUT RECEIVES MERIT BADGE FOR LIFE SAVING

Court of Honor Presents Award to Arthur Lawton, Jr., for Aiding William Tillett

Arthur Lawton, Jr., a first class scout of Oakland Troop No. 1, was awarded the merit badge of Life Saving by the Court of Honor at its regular monthly meeting on Monday night, for practical demonstration in aiding William Tillett when he was seized with a cramp while in swimming, in Deep Creek Lake, last week.

The two boys were members of the M. E. Sunday school class which had been in camp at the Scout camp since the regular troop had returned home, and according to witnesses Tillett was about 50 yards from shore when he was seized with a cramp in his leg. He appealed for aid and Lawton, who was on the bank at the time, swam to his rescue.

Lawton had already passed several of his official requirements for the merit badge in Life Saving, and the Court decided that this award should be made for his practical service.

Seven other first and second class scouts were awarded eight merit badges on Monday evening. James Nordeck, Lindsay Gonder and Elvin Iman were awarded Life Saving; Richard Gonder, and Stuart Hamill, Jr., swimming; James Treacy and Schell Hoyle, firemanship; and Richard Gonder, lookbeyong.

Inspection Tomorrow

The monthly inspection of the troop will be held tomorrow evening at the regular meeting, so that everything will be in readiness for the K. of P. parade on Monday morning. The Troop will also assist in parking cars at the picnic grounds. At the meeting last Friday John McIntire, newly registered Tenderfoot scout, passed several of his second class requirements. These were first aid, signaling, observation, fire building, cooking, thrift, and compass.

TO HOLD JUNIOR TENNIS TOURNEY THIS SATURDAY

Games to Take Place on Weber's Courts, Near Oakland

The Junior Western Maryland Tennis Tournament will be held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Weber, August 31. After the drawing, which will take place Friday afternoon, the players will be notified whether the events will take place Saturday morning or afternoon. This depends on the number of entrants. All persons 18 years or under are eligible to enter. Girl and boys of Mt. Lake Park should hand their entries to Miss Ellen Jane Grimes. Those of Oakland to Thomas Gonder, Jr. All entries must be in by Friday noon.

Singles only will be played and the match will consist of one set. After the play an out-door supper will be served by the camp fire.

The entrance fee, including supper, will be 75 cents; playing only, 50 cents; supper only 35 cents.

This Junior Tournament is said to be a delightful affair and all tennis players in this community, who are within the age limit, should enter, in order that it may be made a success and assure it as an annual event. All interested in tennis and out-door sports are invited and urged to be present.

Trophies will be awarded in each event.

To Begin Laying of Amiesite

Purchase of 1,200 tons of amiesite from the Inter-State Amiesite Company, Wilmington, Del., was made at a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council held last night at the City Hall. The amiesite will be used in covering the paved streets, which include, Liberty, Second, Alder, Third and Oak streets, and work will begin within a week or two, it was stated.

Brady Brothers, Frostburg, are contractors for laying the amiesite. The representative of the material company recommended the use of a two-inch covering on some of the streets to be improved.

The cost of the amiesite will be $8.50 per ton plus freight, with a discount of 40 cents per ton if paid within fifteen days after invoice is received. Repair of the water and gas lines is going on and will likely be completed on the streets to be improved in ample time not to delay the work of the contractors in laying the amiesite covering.

COUNCIL MAY AUTHORIZE AN INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

Compilation of Data Concerning Community Was Favored At Meeting of Business Men

An industrial survey of the City of Oakland has been approved by a group of business men, who held a meeting last night at the City hall, and will receive favorable action at the regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council, to be held early in September, according to L. M. Fraley, mayor. C. T. Mangum, a representative of the Craig P. Gilbert Company, Inc., industrial engineers of Washington, D. C., was present and gave the Oakland business men an idea as to the nature of his business and offered to make the survey.

The survey when completed will contain data concerning labor supply, transportation facilities, labor laws, taxes, natural resources, freight rates, water supply, building costs, available factory sites, cost of fuel, population, wage scales, housing, recreational and educational facilities, social and living conditions. It will be available to both the company and the Town council.

The Craig P. Gilbert Company is an organization of industrial engineers that caters to the large manufacturing concerns that are seeking new locations, supplying them with desired data regarding various localities and communities, and advising on the locality best adapted to a particular line of manufacturing.

Through advertising in trade journals and other publications and through personal calls they seek to sell their service and the advantages of the communities they represent to reliable firms seeking new or additional factory sites.

The advantage of having data concerning the community compiled and arranged in presentable form was recognized by the business men who attended the meeting last night, it was pointed out, and they authorized the Mayor and Town council to act favorably, if they saw fit, in the matter.

ATTEMPT TO BE MADE TO UNIFORM THE BOYS' BAND

"Boys Must Look Well During Engagements," Director Says

That an attempt would be made to raise funds to purchase uniforms for the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band was announced yesterday by R. R. Gilbert, director.

"Since the boys have been getting engagements to play in towns other than Oakland, it is almost imperative that they have some regularity in dress," Mr. Gilbert said. "Heretofore most of the boys have had white trousers, but the coats and shoes have been all colors, and it spoils the appearance of the band as a whole."

The needed parts to the uniform Mr. Gilbert has in mind would cost approximately $17 each. He is wanting to purchase for each of the boys white caps with blue braid, blue coats with white braid, and white shoes. The boys would continue to wear the same color trousers that they have been wearing throughout the present year.

"Some local support is necessary if Oakland is to have a band worthy of sending to other cities to represent it," Mr. Gilbert stated, "and the majority of the local support must come in from donations. It is to be hoped that a number of people will respond to an appeal for funds. We certainly need assistance."

A letter thanking the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band for the services they rendered at Mt. Lake Park at the law enforcement meeting recently, has been received by Mr. R. R. Gilbert, director, from G. W. Crabbe, superintendent of the anti-saloon league of Maryland.

The band is praised very highly in the letter.

Pomona Grange to Meet

The regular meeting of Pomona Grange will be held on Thursday, September 5, at 7:30 o'clock in the Pleasant Valley Grange hall, according to Miss Elsie M. Benthien, home demonstration agent.

Miss Benthien will address the members during the lecturer's hour, and an attractive program is also being prepared. All members are urged to be present.

BALTIMOREAN WINS GOLF TOURNEY AT DEER PARK

M. W. Crane Defeats F. W. Heinrichs, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

M. W. Crane, Baltimore, yesterday defeated F. W. Heinrichs, of Pittsburgh, Pa., to win the Western Maryland Golf Championship at Deer Park hotel golf links.

Crane rallied after a bad start to take the final match of the tournament 8 and 6. He was two down at the seventh, but rallied to make it square at the turn of the first 18. He steadily increased his margin in the afternoon round.

The games leading to the finals were as follows: F. W. Heinrich defeated C. S. B. Ward, Pittsburgh, 2 and 1. M. W. Crane defeated S. A. Ward, Pittsburgh, 3 and 2. In the consolations Frederick E. Welch defeated A. Preston, Washington, 2 and 1. C. V. Erdman, Steubenville, Ohio, defeated Eugene Cable, Miami Beach, 5 and 4. L. H. Paulger, Washington, defeated Hugh Jay Flynn, 3 and 2.

SURVEY BEING MADE OF NEW STATE FOREST PLOT

More Than 7,500 Acres Taken Over by Forestry Department

Surveys of Western Maryland's new state forest in Garrett county will be completed early next month, according to State Forester, F. W. Besley, who has been in this county most of this month co-ordinating the work of three crews who are running the boundary lines of the Bond, Dimeling and Bloom lands along the Savage river.

Tales of strange animals roaming at night, which causes a ferocious dog to quake with fear, are being told by members of the surveying corps, and a number of snakes, some of them rattlers, have been killed.

H. C. Buckingham, in charge of this district, has not only had State Forester Besley with him during August but also Walter J. Quick, head of District two, and K. J. Seigworth, head of district three. Thus the entire Maryland official forestry personnel has been concentrated in the Garrett county area.

The new state forest contains considerably over 7,500 acres and will make a valuable addition to those already in the hands of the State forestry department.

Virgil Sines, forest warden located at the Bond mill site, and A. L. Sines, district forester, have been assisting with the survey.

Civic Club Members Hear West Virginia Clubwoman

The regular monthly meeting of the Oakland Civic club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Julius Littman, and included an account of the recent orthopedic clinic and an address by Mrs. E. L. Davidson, of Parkersburg, W. Va., prominent clubwoman of that state.

Concerning the clinic Miss Grace Jones mentioned several cases which showed marked improvement since the last time. Dr. John Legge, Baltimore, was present at the clinic and commended the work being done in the county.

Mrs. Davidson read a paper entitled "Conservation of Things of the Spirit." The poem which she began her paper was the theme which threaded its way through the entire address.

"Thank God for the Things of the Spirit,
(There, a meadow-lark sings!
Do you hear it, do you hear it?)
For the sigh of the heart,
The contagion of laughter,
For the longing apart,
For the joys that come after,
For the things that we feel
When we clasp, when we kneel.
Thank God for the sharing,
For the things of life's living.
Thank God for the riches
Of flowers in the ditches,
For the roof from the weather,
The fireside together,
For a step at the portal,
For the love we have treasured,
For something immortal,
For our grief, for our mirth,
For our heaven on earth,
For the things of the spirit!
There, a meadow-lark sings.
Do you hear it, do your hear it?

After the reading of Mrs. Davidson's paper Miss Daisy Grant, Washington, D. C., played three piano numbers: "Fleecy Cloud," by Mendelssohn; "Ballet Music," from Rosamund by Shubert; and "The Love Waltz", by Shuett.

EVERYTHING READY FOR LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Tenth Annual Knights of Pythias Picnic to be Held Monday, Helbig's Grove, Oakland

With a more pretentious program than ever before, more amusements, distinguished speakers and other features, everything is in readiness for the Tenth Annual Labor Day picnic, to be held in Helbig's grove, at the north edge of town, Monday, September 2, under the auspices of Garrett Lodge, No. 113, Knights of Pythias.

Stores to Close

All stores in Oakland will close at 10 o'clock a. m., according to Harry Stemple, one of the committee, and will remain closed throughout the remainder of the day. All business men are asked to display their flags.

Parade at 10 o'clock

The parade will get under way at 10 o'clock promptly, Alvey Martin, chairman of the parade committee, stated. The parade will form on Alder street near Fourth street, facing east, and the line of parade will be as follows: Alder to Fifth, Fifth to Oak, Oak to Third, Third to Alder, Alder to Second, Second to Crook, Crook to Third, and thence to the picnic grounds at the north edge of town.

The parade will consist of the grand lodge officers and speakers, the Knights of Khorassan and local lodge members, the Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts, the Terra Alta and Oakland Fire departments, the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band and the Crellin Band, and a number of business floats of all description. The committee in charge include Alvey Martin, Paul Naylor, and Charles Reckard. All members of Garrett Lodge are asked to be at Castle Hall at 9:30 a. m. for the parade.

Detailed Program

After the parade at 10 o'clock the following program will be carried out: band concert by Crellin band, 11; horseshoe pitching contest at 11:30; dinner at 12; band concert by Gilbert-Brown band 12:30 to 1:30; address of welcome by W. R. Offutt, attorney, 1:30; Labor Day address by Hon. J. J. Cornwell, ex-governor of West Virginia. Amplifiers are being provided for this address so that everybody on the grounds will be able to hear him. J. C. Renninger, local attorney will introduce the grand lodge officers, Geo. W. Stevens, grand chancellor, and A. Ellwood Martin, grand keeper of records and seal.

Park amusements of all kinds are scheduled for 2 o'clock; band concert by Crellin band at 4; awarding of Ford car at 5; supper and band concert by Gilbert-Brown band from 5 to 6:30; band concert until 8:30; fireworks at 9 o'clock.

Committee to Meet Cornwell

The reception committee, Mayor L. M. Fraley, Mr. Renninger and Mr. Offutt, will meet ex-governor John J. Cornwell, who will arrive in Oakland by special car over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, about 9 o'clock. The Gilbert-Brown Boys' band will also be present.

Weaver Park Attractions

Weaver Park Attractions, of Pittsburgh, Pa., will furnish the entertainment for the picnic. The attractions will consist of a merry-go-gound, with three animals abreast; a Ferris wheel, a chair plane, whip, and a number of games of skill.

There will be ample parking space provided for automobiles and the members of the local scout troop will assist in parking the cars.

Second National 4-H Radio Program Scheduled Sept. 7

The second national 4-H club radio program scheduled for Saturday, September 7, will be broadcast by 57 stations in the coast to coast network. Four-H club members from North Carolina, and New Jersey will discuss their club experiences and club work in their states. Nationally known extension workers will also speak and there will be appropriate music by the National Broadcasting company's staff orchestra and soloists. The program will last 45 minutes, 1:30 to 2:15 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

The stations near Garrett county scheduled to carry the program are WRC, Washington; and KDKA, Pittsburgh.

Mr and Mrs. Julius C. Renninger are spending several days in Pittsburgh with relatives this week.

Lesson for September 1

THE RETURN OF THE SECOND GROUP OF EXILES TO JERUSALEM

GOLDEN TEXT—The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek Him.

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 7:1-8:36.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Care on a Journey.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Care on a Journey.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Prayer Helps.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Prayer and Providence.

I. The Leader—Ezra (7:1-10).

1. Who he was (vv. 1-6).

(1) A priest (vv. 1-5). He was from the line which was to stand between God and the people, a descendant of Seraiah, the chief priest who had a lineage back to Aaron. The leader of the first company was Zerubbabel, a sort of military governor. The great need now was for a religious leader, for the people had gone far from God.

(2) A ready scribe (v. 6).

He was a teacher of the law of God. A scribe's training began at thirteen years, but he did not enter upon his official duties till thirty years of age, giving him seventeen years of training.

2. His high ambition (vv. 7-10).

(1) He set his heart to seek the law of the Lord (v. 10). He definitely set out with the purpose to know God's word. No one who purposes in his heart to seek the law of the Lord can fail.

(2) He set his heart to obey the Lord (v. 10).

He was not only concerned with knowing God's word, but obeying it. God's word cannot be known in its fullness by the intellect; it must be experienced.

(3) He set his heart to teach in Israel God's statutes and judgments (v. 10). He not only had a love for God's word, but a desire to implant it in the hearts of others.

II. Ezra's Commission (7:11-26).

Artaxerxes, the king, gave him a copy of the decree, authorizing him to lead a company back to Jerusalem. This decree empowered him:

1. To collect funds (vv. 15, 16).

2. To levy tribute (vv. 21, 22).

3. To appoint magistrates and judges (v. 25).

4. To execute penalties (v. 26).

For this great favor Ezra lifted his heart to God in thanksgiving (vv. 27, 28).

III. The Company Which Returned (8:1-20).

The company was comparatively small—only seventeen hundred and fifty-four males, but including women, children and servants there were perhaps six or seven thousand people.

IV. Ezra's Prayer and Fasting (8:21-23).

The first thing that Ezra did was to seek God's guidance. All Christians, as well as leaders of the people, should seek divine guidance and help in every new undertaking. No success can be realized without His help and blessing. The reason Ezra sought the Lord's help was that as far as possible he desired his mission to be free from human dependence. He did not minimize the dangers attending his journey, but since he had assured the king that the hand of the Lord would be upon all for good who sought Him, he was now ashamed to ask the king for a military escort to protect them from the marauding Arabs. His desire was to prove to the king the reality of God's help; for God's honor among the heathen was at stake. This was a real test of faith, but God was faithful.

V. The Successful Journey (8:21-32).

God heard their prayer. The treasure entrusted to them was great. Perhaps the entire value of money and sacred utensils was about five million dollars. For a small caravan carrying such an amount of money to go through a country infested by robber bands was most perilous, but Ezra knew that God was able and would protect them. Observe:

1. Care and honesty (vv. 21-30).

The money was weighed unto them at the start and was to be weighed when turned over to the authorities at Jerusalem. The incentive to honesty and strict accounting of the trust was that they were holy men and were entrusted with that which was holy because it belonged to God. Most exacting care should be exercised in handling the Lord's money.

2. Their safe arrival (vv. 31, 32).

Some four and one-half months were required to make the journey. God brought them safely to their destination, thus proving that He is faithful to those who put their trust in Him.

God's Answer Not Always Yes

A little girl had been invited to a picnic party. Being a devout little girl, she prayed for fine weather and a happy time. But on the morning of the day the skies were gray and rain fell heavily. Instead of running in the fields she stood looking out on a drenched landscape. "You prayed for fine weather, dearie," said her mother, "and God hasn't answered your prayer, has He?" "Oh, yes, He has, mother," came the apt reply, "and He has said 'No.'"

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

Elite Social Notes

Among those who attended the McRobie-Butcher musical comedy, "Murder at the Toll Gate," presented at Nally's hall, Oakland, on Saturday night were Emroy Bolden, Jerry Stanton, Bill Browning, Frank Browning, Bill Shaffer, Andy Gonder, and Bun Nethkin, city police. Bun, it is said, was there on business.

The McRobie-Butcher company is incorporated at Swanton and is well known throughout Garrett county for more reasons than one. "Philadelphia" McRobie, it is said had his wounds inspected by a local physician after the show. He gave a free exhibition before the performance by dancing on broken glass.

Tom Compton, plumber deluxe, was seen going to work the other day. His automobile was in low gear.

* * *

We'll Be There!

There are going to be many things of interest at the Agricultural exposition on October 1, 2, 3, and 4, according to Henry Speicher, general manager. A number of girls are going to exhibit calves at the county Fair.

* * *

And speaking of girls and movie actresses the other day, Antiphlogistine, Scoop's brother, said, "What this country needs is more BOW legs." Clara is a pretty hot sketch, at that.

* * *

It's Now Squattin' Time

The long-looked-for squatting contest is now under way, and there were so many in the contest that some extra fence posts had to be erected on Sweeny's lot. Third street, where the exhibition is in progress.

Ed. Wallace, Bill Eggers, Ed. White and Reed Smouse got off to a running start and have six minutes advantage over the rest of the entrants. They are all standing, or rather squatting the strain pretty well, although the elements are against them at times. Several have cold feet but have not entirely given up hope, and unless they lose their balance this afternoon, all will have spent five days, ten hours, 11 minutes, 05 seconds and 92 ticks at 6:30 this evening, except the four who are six minutes ahead of this.

Jim Kerins and Tom Flanigan were last minute entries and boast about the race with which they will win the Offutt Silver Trophy. Col. Bell took a photo of a part of the lineup and reading from left to right they are or should be Neil Fraley, Berne Teter, John O. Thayer, H. C. Sincell and Bill Sturgiss. If it doesn't look like any of them, blame it on exposure.

Neglecting Their Business

Col. Bell Is Sued

Col Bell has been sued by Ed. White for having his picture published in Scoop's column. Col. Bell is charged in the suit with ad sederatus capiendum status quo proficiendi sub Rosie, and Col. has left the county in search of legal advice from such noted attorneys as assisted in the cases for Harry K. Thaw, Professor Snook and Hickman. It is understood his plea will not be temporary insanity, but of self-defense. By special apparatus he took a picture of himself just after he was served with the notice and immediately thereafter hiked out for Ben Bush, or Gobler's Knob, West Va., (wherever that is.)

Completely Overcome

K. of P. Lawn Social

Such excitement among the K. of P's of Oakland has not existed since the last time they held a picnic in Helbig's grove, and all the active timbers are rehearsing and practicing for what they expect to be the height of their ambition (until the next one).

Earl Shartzer was seen chasing a pig up in Offutt's alley the other day, so it is expected that there will be plenty of fresh pork sandwiches there for Louie Waingold and others, and Henry Lauer is measuring out his flour for the buns. He can measure out the flour all right, but don't let him make the buns yet.

Tony Combs has been spilling paint on everybody who passes Doc McComas' office and when somebody called him down for it he said he was practicing "Wheel spinning" for the picnic on Monday. Walter Hardesty, treasurer, expects to have his hands as well as his pockets full on that day. Harry Stemple and Paul Naylor will act busy as usual, and Alva Gortner has obtained a special alarm clock so that he will be certain of getting out of bed in time.

Romanus Rudy, Charles Reckard, Bill Gessman, Elzie Naylor and Ed. Kahl are stewing around the picnic grounds, while H. P. Stuck has absolutely refused to have any active part at all this year, due to strenuous overwork in his vocation.

Alvey Martin, who will lead the parade in the morning, has been rehearsing in private and Col. Bell has exposed him on his trusty steed in the William-James hotel alley.

In Full Regalia

Fashion Hint

If you wear a petticoat, the latest fad is to match your petticoat with your hose, if you wear hose.

GORTNER.

You are invited to come to church services, conducted by the Brethren, next Sunday morning.

Mr. Bud Yoder left Monday for Norfolk, Va., to secure employment in the Ford factory there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Lichty and three children, Salisbury, visited Mr. Lichty's home folk here last week.

Mrs. B. H. Yoder is quite ill at this writing.

Mr. Noah Slabaugh was confined to his bed several days with pleurisy.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. Noah Slabaugh were: Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Slabaugh and daughters, Rosemary and Marguerite, and Mr. and Mrs. Constable, Clarksburg; Mrs. Will Welch, Miss Ruth Schlossnagle, Mrs. Paul Welch and son, Mr. J. H. Sanders, Rev. F. L. Fultz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hervey Bittner and Mrs. Louis Killius.

Miss Lottie Butler and Mr. Simon Bittinger, of Avilton, were Grantsville visitors over the week-end.

On last Tuesday evening Miss Anna Virginia Slabaugh had a corn roast in honor of her guest, Miss Grace Filer. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Swartzentruber, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Compton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sisk, Mrs. Lee Slabaugh, Misses Ida Martin, Fannie Yoder, Mary Lichty, Messrs. Paul Stutzman, Carl Swiers, Bud Yoder, John Wilson, Roy and Ross Lichty.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schlossnagle and children, Accident, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Schlossnagle on Sunday.

Mrs. Dorsey Lohr and two sons, Sunnyside, visited Mrs. Holt on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Hershberger, Mr. and Mrs. Crist Yoder, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Slabaugh, Mr. Allen Yoder and family and Miss Bertha Lechner, all of near Grantsville, visited the Beachys and Lichtys Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Robert Friend was home over the week-end.

A number of our folk attended the corn roast given by Mr. Elwood Beckman at Lynn Dale, one night this week.

The following attended the darkey camp meeting near Greenhind Gap last Sunday. The Dodges, Lees, Mr. W. E. Spoerlein and family, Messrs Harvey and Jacob Swartzentruber, and families, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sisk, Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe, Mrs. Dessie Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sisk, Misses Lena Slabaugh, Iva O'Brien, Mary Sisk, Messrs Isaac Beckman, Cecil Sisk, S. W. Slabaugh, John Wilson, Paul Stutzman and Joe Callis.

An excellent sermon was preached in the afternoon by Rev. Spiller, while the singing was especially commented on by every one who heard it. The meetings will continue every night this week and all day next Sunday.

The Greater Garrett County FAIR!

CAPT. E. H. HUGO

Much has been said and written in reference to the thrilling performance of Capt. E. H. Hugo, but mere words seem utterly inadequate in describing his feat of reckless daring. : : : : : : :

High up in the air on a huge frame structure, the top of which is a steep incline, this carefree daredevil astride a bicycle, careens madly down the deep sloping chute and taking off at the end, he precipitates himself and the wheel through space, passing through a blazing barrier of flames in mid-air, to land on a gentle slope a considerable distance away, still seated on the cycle which he nonchalantly rides away. : : : : : : : :

There have been many daredevil stunts attempted but none that could ever compare with the hair-raising performance of Capt. Hugo.

CHEFALO

There have been many persons who have proclaimed themselves to be the highest divers in the world, but we are convinced that these same people would surely hide their heads in shame after one glance at the lofty ladders used by Chefalo, for his ladders tower so high in the air that it seems as though they must touch the clouds. : :

In place of the usual tank for a landing place Chefalo uses only a ridiculously small net, thereby increasing the hazard of his dangerous undertaking tenfold. : : : : : :

Thrill-seekers cannot afford to miss the startling stunts of Chefalo, The Master Sensationalist.

NEW ENTRANTS IN SCHOOL NEED MEDICAL ATTENTION

State Health Department Wishes "Good Health" to Children

Barbara and Betty, Junior and Jack are getting ready to enter school this fall. They are just a few of the thousands whose last birthday cake had five or six candles on it and who are grown up enough now to start their journey along the royal road of learning. All sorts of things have been done in preparation for the great event—dresses, suits, shoes, school bags, are all ready, in spick and span order.

Barbara and Junior have been to the doctor's, too, and to the dentist's. Barbara had to be vaccinated and Junior had to have a tooth filled. Betty and Jack have everything else ready, but for some reason their mother has neglected to have them looked over by the doctor and dentist, so they are not as well prepared for the journey as the others.

Wishing "Good Luck, but better still, Good Health" for all these new entrants on the road to the three Rs, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, in a "Last Call" message to mothers and fathers said, "Just a few more days remain before these youngsters start off on the more or less difficult road to learning. I hope you will make as thoughtful preparations for their start as you would if you were getting your automobile ready for a journey.

"These little human machines are infinitely more precious than any car that was ever built and the Barbaras and Juniors who have been carefully inspected in advance and have been safeguarded as far as possible against ill health or disease have a much better chance of making a safe and happy journey than little Betty and Jack have, who start out uninspected, and without these safeguards.

"If Betty or Jack belongs to you, be as careful of them as you would of your car. Take them to your doctor for a thorough going over. Pay special attention to their weight and posture; to the condition of the nose and throat; have their eyes examined for vision; the ears tested for hearing; and have the teeth carefully inspected. Then follow your doctor's advice. A LITTLE ATTENTION TO THESE ESSENTIALS NOW MAY SAVE THEM FROM SERIOUS HANDICAPS LATER ON. And remember that no child may be enrolled in any of Maryland schools who has not been vaccinated against smallpox."

"LIVE AND HELP LIVE"

A desire to do something worthwhile for Oakland, a desire to make Oakland a better town in which to live, a desire to make visitors want to return to Oakland, were kindled in nearly every person who were so fortunate as to hear Mr. W. W. Burruss, inspirational sales counselor, deliver an address at Garrett Memorial Presbyterian church on Sunday morning.

His talk revealed the motives of men since they began to live upon the earth. First they killed to live. Then came the motto "Live and let live," and finally came the thought, "Live and Help Live." Those who lived in any town and ridiculed it at every turn, tore down the reputation of its inhabitants and had nothing good to say about it, he termed as still living in the first stage.

Those who wanted things to remain as their grandfathers had found them, asking for no assistance from any one, and giving none, he placed in the second stage, the stage of stagnation, or bare existence.

The third stage was shown by him to be the ideal one, where people lived and helped other people to live. This idea has been the reason for the growth of all public institutions, and could be spread still further by people all over the country if they decided that they want to do it.

Wanting to do something for other people, wanting to make people welcome in Oakland, wanting to make Oakland a better place in which to live, wanting to believe nothing against people until actually proven, was all that was necessary for the growth of the third stage in civic and social relationship, according to Mr. Burruss.

At Camp Dawson, the national guard camp for the 201st infantry of the West Virginia State militia, on Sunday, a guard on duty stopped a Maryland car. "You're an out of the state car, you can go any place in the camp." And it was not only this one Maryland car but all Maryland cars and all cars from other states.

Would your warm feelings toward West Virginia and your desire to return to camp have been the same if some over-sized, hard-boiled-looking boze had hopped on the running board of the car and bellowed, "Hey there, where the h--l do you think you're going? Park over there and don't be so dumb. There's one born every minute."

RETURNS WERE 222 TO 1

An interesting contribution to the lore of advertising results comes from a business statistician, Roger W. Babson. According to his statement in Cleveland he broadcast an advertisement at a cost of $3,000 and received sixteen inquiries and two orders as a result. Two days later for $3,000 he printed the advertisement in five newspapers in as many cities and received 4,000 inquiries. He figured that the radio advertisement cost $166.66 for each reply; the newspaper advertisement 75 cents a reply.

Testimony like this may lead to challenges and tests. No concern disseminating advertising by radio is likely to contend that it produces such results as are obtainable from the use of the best newspapers, yet to find that newspaper has the better of radio advertising in the ratio of 222 to 1, as Mr. Babson's experiment indicated, is perhaps more than the radio folk will concede without further evidence.

It is plain, of course, that in advertising the printed word has a huge advantage over the spoken. The well-written and neatly typed exposition of some desirable thing is laid before the eye of the prospective customer. If he is interested he has time to study, to ponder, and to decide. He need not make notes—as he must in the case of advertisement addressing only the ear—of names, addresses and prices. Also, the type is free from the sometimes distracting mannerisms of the broadcaster.

It has been the experience of The Sun and of other dailies of high class that their advertising lineage, far from being decreased by radio advertising, has grown steadily since the radio period started. Mr. Babson's experiment offers the obvious explanation. No advertiser getting good results from newspaper advertising deserts it for a medium that produces less business, whether he finds the ratio 222 to 1, or 22 to 1, or even 2 to 1, in favor of the columns of the newspaper.—New York Sun.

Should Protect Wild Life

Dear Editor:

Stopping the other day in front of Harry Sincell's "mourners' bench" where a great many questions of importance are discussed, we engaged our fisherman friend, Jim Painter, in conversation and being of an inquiring turn of mind we asked him which parable in the Bible he liked the best. He replied that he always liked the one that spoke of the multitude that loafs and fishes. This struck a responsive chord and we pushed the conversation a little further along towards its real or rather "reel" purpose by asking him who was president of the Isaac Walton League in Oakland. That one stumped him. We then inquired whether or not Garrett county had a Wild Life League. He hung his head in a shame-faced way and replied that there was none such to the best of his knowledge and belief. We were surprised because we wanted to interest some one in a proposition looking to the turning of a "frozen asset" into what the banking fellows call a "liquid asset." Not to be discouraged, however, we asked him what had become of all the fish in the Yough River. We had heard that he had caught some beauties down below Muddy Creek Falls and in the Sang Run country. With language as picturesque as the view from Allegheny Heights, but not quite so spiritual, he replied "That the there, for the sake of the young readers, Scoop, the Boss and the Chief of Staff, we delete) coal mines, tanneries, and saw mills some place, he knew not just where, were permitted to allow so much pollution to flow into the streams that the fish just naturally gave up the ghost and left for parts unknown." We agreed that if Maryland industries were the source of such pollution the State authorities ought to stop it. If West Virginia is the source, then there should be a conference between the proper authorities of the two states looking to ending a situation that is diverting tourists who love the outdoor sports to other states where wild life is protected.

Forests as Farm Relief Measure

Diversion to timber growing of certain marginal lands now being farmed at a loss is advocated as a measure contributing to farm relief by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde. It was pointed out that extension of forestry to marginal and submarginal lands will be not only a practical measure of farm relief but also will increase future supplies of wood and contribute to soil conservation and flood prevention.

"Much land that is submerginal for agriculture still is being cultivated," Secretary Hyde said. "Increasing poverty eventually will force the cultivators of submerginal agricultural land to abandon their farms also. Meanwhile, their misdirected efforts are an important factor in contributing to the depression of the entire industry.

"The proposal that a reasonable amount of such lands be purchased by the federal government, or some other agency financially able to carry the investment for a sufficient period to realize on the greater value of the land for forestry purposes, has much to commend it. Some such plan might be worked out on a scale sufficiently large to be of consequence as a farm relief measure.

"The farm lands which already have been abandoned require attention. Such lands spring up to an incomplete, inferior and relatively unproductive forest. There needs to be a broader conception of the forest as a farm crop, which by proper methods of establishment and culture can be made a revenue producer, and a valuable feature of diversified agriculture.

"The problem of bringing larger areas of land into use for timber growing has been given consideration by this department in recent years. The matter of taxation is important. Many states have tried by exemptions, bounties and by special forms of forest taxation to promote reforestation and forestry practice by private owners. To only a small degree have these efforts been successful. On the whole, it appears that forest lands can and should bear their fair share of taxation. However, it is important to determine what is a fair tax to place on forest lands and then to develop a system providing for payment at such times and in such ways as will not be an unreasonable obstacle to growing forest crops by private owners."—Wall Street Journal, July 30, 1929.

Lone Bandit Gets $1,500

A bandit late Friday afternoon held up the First National Bank at Addison, Pa., near the Garrett county line west of Keyser's Ridge, and escaped with one or two companions who had remained outside in a green sedan. Amount of the loot obtained was said to be about $1,500.

Miss Maude Dean, assistant cashier and daughter of the cashier was alone in the bank when a man entered and asked to see some books. Told he could not see them until the cashier returned, the bandit stuck a gun in Miss Dean's face, scooped up all the cash in sight and fled.

The bandit's car roared out of Addison in the direction of Uniontown, Pa., and a few minutes later sped through Somerfield, four miles away.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear brother Everett, who passed away one month ago today, July 28, 1929:

Time speeds on; one month has passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home where all seemed bright
And took from us a shining light.

We miss that light and ever will;
His vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.

His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.

Some day we hope to meet him—
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

By his loving brother

Mountain Lake Park Is Ideal Resort

The following article is taken from the Daily Notes issue of August 17, a newspaper published in Canonsburg, Pa., and was written by the editorial correspondent of that paper following his visit to the noted resort.

Among "the green walled hills of Maryland," Mountain Lake Park, on the crest of the Alleghenies, 2800 feet above the sea level, is an ideal summer and health resort. It is on the main line of the B. & O. railroad with excellent train service, and by auto 125 miles from Canonsburg and Pittsburgh.

The auto trip, either by way of Waynesburg and Morgantown, or the Keyser Ridge route past the beautiful new Deep Creek lake to the National Old Trails road through Uniontown, affords scenic beauty unsurpassed.

The Park is controlled by the Mountain Lake Association which was organized 75 or 80 years ago. For the past 46 years the Mountain Lake Camp Meeting has held its annual meeting there. The camp meeting is interdenominational and is attended by many thousands of people.

There is an amphitheatre with a seating capacity of 5,000 and as assembly hall seating 1,000. The place has an atmosphere that makes it an ideal meeting place for church conventions and other Christian organizations, many of which take advantage of its excellent equipment. There are 250 comfortable, and some beautiful, cottages on the grounds, also tennis courts, bowling alleys, motion pictures in the amphitheatre, boating and swimming, hotels and boarding houses, affording ample provision for the comfort and entertainment of guests.

Thoburn Inn is headquarters for the officials of the association. It is also headquarters for the conventions and other religious gatherings held in the Park. During this season, in addition to the Camp Meeting, the Association has entertained the Epworth League Institute of the Pittsburgh Conference, the Epworth League Institute of the Baltimore Conference, the National Convention of the United Presbyterian Young Peoples Christian Union, School of Theology of the Pittsburgh area and Methodist Interdenominational Summer School of missions and many other "days," given over to discussions of religious, civic, and educational subjects.

We are here, primarily for rest, and not to attend meetings, but on Sabbath, August 11, which was "Law Enforcement Day," we heard, both morning and afternoon, speakers of note at a meeting in Assembly Hall held under the direction of Dr. G. W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland.

Doctor Crabbe spoke of Maryland as dry outside of Baltimore, which is wet as water, and which for years has been able to control state legislation on the wet and dry question. Dr. Crabbe criticised severely the attitude of the present governor, Ritchie, on the liquor question.

Judge Long, of Dayton, Ohio, delivered a strong address on Law Enforcement. He said with regard to the prohibition law that the bootlegger and the man who buys liquor from the bootlegger, and the editors of wet newspapers are all violaters of the spirit if not the letter of the Volstead law, and should be so regarded by all good citizens. Sheriff William R. Harvey also gave a talk in which he related personal experiences which were of decided interest.

Two bands discoursed excellent music, and the people were appealed to to subscribe funds which the Anti-Saloon League may use in fighting for law enforcement.

With the exception of an evening or two at the movies, this was the sum total of our attendance at public gathering at the Park.

This week the annual Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Women's Civic League, is on, and is attracting players of National fame.

We are staying at the Mountain Lake hotel. This hotel is popular on account of its fine location, its modern equipment, prompt and efficient service, excellent cuisine, and its general air of friendly hospitality. The house has been thoroughly renovated this year, and its continued success for many seasons is largely due to the efficiency of its owner and manager, W. C. Bunnington, and his equally capable wife and daughter, whose aim at all times is to make it a place to which their guests will have a desire to return from season to season.

A gentleman told me this morning that for 37 consecutive summers he had come to this hotel with his wife and family. His family, he said, are now all married and gone from home, but he and his wife continue to come to the Park. His life long motto having been, "When you find a good thing, stay with it."

Among interesting people here with whom we deem it both an honor and a pleasure to convene, is Bishop Warren, of the M. E. church, who, after serving his Master and his church for 40 years as a missionary in India, is here recuperating his health and enjoying this excellent mountain air. Bishop Warren was retired from active work at the General Conference which met in Kansas City, Mo., in 1928, and as his health permits he addresses missionary conferences in different parts of the country and is, as he expressed it, kept busy declining to make appointments which he is not able to fill. Through his long service Bishop Warren is thoroughly familiar with conditions in India. He is a personal friend of E. Stanley Jones, and believes with him that while by the patient work and sacrificial lives of generations of missionaries and Indian Christians a good foundation has been laid for the "new day" for India, and the challenging situation that is now confronting the churches, Christian missions are yet but in their beginnings in India and the work there must be carried on for decades and generations to come.

Bishop Warren is enthusiastic in praise of the work being done by the United Presbyterian church in India and was interested when told that several of the workers there are from our home town of Canonsburg.

Nine acres of beautiful grounds surround this hotel and yet it is within easy walking distance of the rail road station, the amphitheatre, the tennis courts and other places of amusement, and entertainment. But to the tired scribbler the most attractive place of all is a comfortable place in the sun on the broad veranda, alternately dosing, enjoying the beautiful mountain scenery, and an occasional chat with a friendly vacationist.

MT. LAKE PARK.

There seems to be a spirit of optimism abroad concerning the future of Mountain Lake Park and Oakland. Such a spirit has not prevailed for the past two years, at least. It is true that no one can lay his finger on any tangible reason for the belief that better times are coming. Of course they voice the increased number of visitors to this section and the number of tourists that have stopped for a few days or a few hours stay, as the reason for their belief. Another group points to the rumors that there is some sort of a deal pending looking to the change of ownership of the Park and that such change will be for the better because of the fact that the prospective purchaser, owing to the purpose for which organized, will be permitted to expend large sums of money for improvements of various kinds. Whatever the reason, whether this spirit of optimism is based on something tangible or intangible, the fact remains that some of the dyed-in-the-wool pessimists have about-faced and are now predicting that better times for the community are just around the corner. Personally (having fished a great deal with indifferent success) we are, per force of habit, an optimist and are of the opinion that if all hands will join in a boosting campaign something will be jarred loose to our permanent benefit. Well, here's hoping. Remember, as we have before remarked, "The man that aims at the moon is more likely to hit it than the one who does not aim at all."

The DeWitt reunion held here last Saturday was largely attended. Prof. Ed. Browning gave an interesting address and a fine variety of music.

They have planned to be back here next year on the third Saturday of August.

Bishop Welch, who is retired, spent some time at the Mt. Lake Park hotel, has returned to his home much improved. He spent many years in China. He says this is an ideal summer resort.

Dr. M. W. Ehnes and family, after spending two delightful months here, return tomorrow to their home in New York City. He says this place with its delightful climate and atmosphere is the most desirable of the many he has visited in the United States.

Mrs. F. R. Utterback and son Bobby, are spending part of this week in Grafton, West Va.

C. J. Rathbun and family, who have spent about a month in the Romney cottage, return to their home in Florida, Saturday.

Word has been received of the death of Dr. Charles W. Richardson, noted ear, nose and throat specialist, of Washington, D. C. Dr. Richardson was a brother of Mrs. Charles Arthur Oswell and Mrs. Searle, and an uncle of Mrs. Dobel Hill, of the Park.

Miss Kathleen Bishop, Fairmont, is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frame.

Mrs. J. G. Jarboe, after spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Arnold, has returned to her home in Jacksonville, Florida.

Miss Mildred Gray, Baltimore, is spending several days with Mrs. F. P. Arnold.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Arnold and daughter have returned to their home in Clarksburg, after spending several days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Arnold.

The Interdenominational service held in the Auditorium last Sunday was enjoyed by the rather small audience. Much comment is heard on the excellent address by Dr. Wood, of Martinsburg, W. Va., and the solo by Miss Bender.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Clayton, who have been in Fairmont for several days, have returned.

The Mt. Airy Canning Company plans to begin the canning of the crop of Golden Bantam corn next week.

Capt. B. L. Hardesty is visiting friends near Pittsburgh this week.

Mrs. C. S. May is slightly ill at her home.

Mr. Elmus Ream, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ream, is in the Virginia State American Legion Band attending the State Firemen's convention at Lexington, Va. Next week they will play at the National American Legion Convention at Lexington, Ky.

Mr. P. T. Lipscomb is engaged in the construction of a log house for Judge Brown of New York, near Wilson.

Tonight the ladies of the U. B. church will hold a chicken supper in the Aid Hall, Loch Lynn.

Mr. Arthur Martini left yesterday for New York, where he is attending school.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Too many dairy bulls are disposed of before their breeding values are known, according to statistics furnished by the United States department of agriculture. A study has just been made of the ages at which "proved" bulls were disposed of in one state. No bulls disposed of for breeding purposes or for injury or other natural causes, were included in the study.

Of the 121 bulls studied 88 or 71 percent were disposed of before the age of 5 years. One hundred and seventeen, or about 94 percent were disposed of before the age of 8 years. Two bulls were kept until 11 years of age and one bull 14 years old.

Usually a bull will be 5 years old or older by the time he is proven. The disposing of such a large percentage at an early age, or before their true value can be ascertained by means of dam and daughter comparison, is one of the big losses of the dairy industry.

Poultry Hints

Cleanliness is the best preventative of poultry diseases.

Brooder houses should be placed where the drainage is good.

Feed poultry yellow corn, codliver oil, milk and leafy feeds for vitamins.

Small eggs produce small chicks. The size of next year's eggs depend first upon breeding, second upon feeding.

Appointment of A. H. Snyder, former editor of "Successful Farming," as specialist in agricultural journalism for the University of Maryland extension service has just been announced by Dr. T. B. Symons, director. Mr. Snyder will take over the position formerly held by M. D. Bowers, who died very suddenly this past April. Mr. Snyder will assume his new duties September 1.

Contrary to the belief of many poultry raisers, the possibility of trouble is not entirely passed when the pullet chicks no longer need brooder heat and the cockerels have been disposed of since growth must be continued through the hot weather to insure proper development and egg production, according to W. H. Rice, poultry specialist for the University of Maryland Extension service.

This growth and vigor can be maintained through the hot days of late summer and early fall by providing a proper supply of water and food for the pullets on range, and culling of the flock on the basis of growth development and health, and good housing.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE
In Election District No. 9 of Garrett County, Md.

Under and by virtue of the power vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, passed on the 22nd day of August, 1929, in a cause in said Court, wherein Earl Minnick and others were plaintiffs and Vincent Minnick and others were defendants, the same being No. 2890 Equity, I, the undersigned trustee, do hereby give notice that on

FRIDAY,

the 20th Day of September, 1929

at the hour of three o'clock P. M., in front of the Postoffice in the Town of Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland, I will offer for sale at public auction all of the following real estate situate, lying and being in District No. 9 of Garrett County, Maryland, to-wit:

The Northern part of Military Lot No. 595, containing 21 acres, more or less, and fully described in a deed from Samuel Jonnson and others to Julius Minnick, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, dated May 8, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 358, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and being the same land title to which vested in Mary V. Minnick, now deceased, under the provisions of the last will and testament of said Julius Minnick, filed and probated in the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Said land is located about a mile South of the National Pike, about four miles West of Frostburg and near the property of Mr. Thomas J. Johnson. About two-thirds is cleared and under cultivation and the remainder is in woods. It is also improved by a two-story, six-room frame dwelling, a small barn and other necessary buildings.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third cash on the day of sale, one-third in six months, one-third in twelve months, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. Conveyancing at the cost of the purchaser.

ERNEST RAY JONES, Trustee.
28-1 Oakland, Md.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore) ..

Very near at hand now is the time when the life savers must stir themselves if the Democratic party is to have a reasonable chance in next year's election.

What is to be done and when no one seems to know, but it is becoming plainer and plainer day by day that unless some action is soon taken the tide now settling against the Democracy cannot be stemmed.

No one wants to bell the cat. The cat seems to have most of them hypnotized. Once the spell is broken there won't be much more bother with the cat. To date the cat has been putting up a great bluff and scaring the timid. But it is coming to notice that unless the cat is disposed of quickly there won't be much for the Democrats to fight over.

The Governor continues his battle and a fourth nomination and no longer are there any of his followers to say he doesn't want it—he can't see why any Democrat should object to his having four more years. For four more will make only fifteen in all and what's fifteen years nowadays since the scientists are asserting that they are able to prolong human life?

To be sure there are other Democrats besides Ritchie who think they should be honored with the Governorship but they can wait a while. They can go to the scientists and have their lives prolonged and eventually get a chance, for it is hinted that if the Governor cannot, by holding on to the Governorship, get a Presidential nomination by the year 1952 A. D., he will retire on condition that he be permitted to name his successor, a privilege denied Diaz in Mexico.

Same Old Stuff
For Charlottsville

Well, I see that our Governor, fighting for a fourth nomination, gets off his same old States'rights speech at the Charlottesville what-is-it. We have to give the Governor credit for his tirelessness. Others get tired of hearing the same song but the Governor never becomes weary of singing it. As one of his kitchen cabinet members said sadly the other day: "He has only one speech." And that appears to be true.

On occasion after occasion he gets the old document out and rewrites it, tries to put on a new dress but the garment is so transparent that it fools no one. The Governor clings to the delusion that he can get the Presidency of the United States on a platform of alcoholic freedom but few are now clinging to him.

In connection with this week's delivery of the same old speech there was evident a continuation of the team work between the Governor and the Wet Blanket. That journal not only gave up a whole page to a restatement of the Governor's familiar contention but it published one of its sausage link editorials to bolster the Governor up.

It is worthy of note that there is the same team work between these two factors in the State machine today as there was last winter when they cooperated in ousting John N. Mackall from the State Roads Commission. The old Blanket, advised by the Governor, would publish an article at the head of the back page saying that Mackall would have a conference with the Governor in regard to resigning but inquiry of Mackall would reveal that he knew nothing of it. It was the old game, these two agreeing that Mackall must go, and when they got him out, joining in shedding crocodile tears publicly. A spectacle for the unsophisticated.

Methinks it will soon be time for the Wet Blanket to indorse the Governor for a fourth term. Van-Lear Black, the head of the paper, is now home from his flying experiments for a while and he should give the word. He sees how well his paper did in putting Billy Curran over for Mayor with the Ritchie help(?) and he is understood to be an admirer of the Governor's one idea speech, the latest version of which was delivered at Charlottsville to arouse the spirits of the Baltimore wets and get them back of the fourth term candidate once more.

Somerset County
Troubles Adjusted

The squabble over new roads in Somerset county which had had the Democratic party leaders more or less in the air for weeks has been adjusted by a credit scheme. By this arrangement the backers of the Mt. Vernon road are to pay the interest on the money necessary to build the road, the money is to be loaned by local banks and the Roads Commission is to pay the banks next year out of next year's allotment.

This, we understand, is the State Roads Commission's contribution to the Ritchie fourth term campaign in Somerset county and is about as much as can be done under the circumstances.

Setting Portland Right
On Presidential Prospects

We have to go far from home to learn the news sometimes and we are reminded of this fact when we learn that the Portland (Maine) Press Herald recently published an editorial in which it was stated that Governor Ritchie stood high enough in the Democratic party to be considered for the nomination for President in 1932. Thereupon a Marylander residing in that neck of the woods promptly wrote a letter to that paper in an effort to set the editor straight and I here give it in full so that he who runs may also read:

Editor of the Press Herald:

In your editorial in a recent issue Gov. Ritchie over estimated his political power. As a resident in Maryland for five years (all of which time Gov. Ritchie was in office) I am somewhat familiar with his political career in the State of Maryland.

It has been claimed by his admirers that he can have any office within the gift of the people. As to Maryland, where he was elected Governor by repeatedly increased majorities, his popularity seems to be waning. It has been said that Baltimore could be counted on to roll up enough support to overcome the opposition in the remainder of the State. Nine of the 23 counties in Maryland are strongly Republican. In the last city election in Baltimore Gov Ritchie's candidate was defeated and a Republican elected Mayor. The Governor also said he would hand the State over to Smith in the last Presidential election. He failed in this.

Lately the office of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles has shown defelcations in its finances to the extent of more than $300,000. Democrats in Baltimore say that Gov. Ritchie is politically dead in that city. Without Baltimore he cannot win in Maryland. The great deterioration in his popularity has been caused principally by the efforts of his machine to whitewash the highway department scandal. People who have been paying a gas tax for good roads have not been getting the latter 100 percent, according to the tax they have been paying.

As to Gov. Ritchie's wetness you have stated it correctly. It has been said on good authority, and widely quoted, that he not only thinks and speaks wet, but that he looks wet and is wet on some occasions.'

Former Oriole.

I notice that the writer erred in mentioning the office of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles when he plainly meant the State Roads Commission, the latter department being directly under the Governor's thumb while the Motor Vehicles office is not.

Conowingo Provides
Police Headquarters

Some Harford county citizens and perhaps others are wondering a bit about the apparently close connection between the State police force under Commissioner E. Austin Baughman and the Philadelphia Electric company the Pierpont Morgan corporation owning the Conowingo dam.

Not long ago it was announced in Harford county papers that a new and fine police station at Conowingo had been occupied by the State police as headquarters for that section. It is stated that the building is located on the property of the Philadelphia Electric company and that its cost was something like $20,000. As the owners of the dam have recently been fighting the assessments levied against their property for taxation purposes it is apparent they do not care to give the State anything more than they have to, hence there is curiosity as to why the company should build the State a police station unless it be for the special purpose of having the State police the dam as a special enterprise.

To date there has been no explanation of the arrangement that has been made between the State police and the owners of the dam—and the public does not know whether they were entered into by direction of the Governor or not. Of course it is not a secret that the Governor took intense interest in jamming the Conowingo project through the Public Service Commission in 1926, indicating that his relations with the Pierpont Morgan enterprise must have been at that time very close. Probably the Governor knows all about the arrangements for policing Conowingo and if he persists in his candidacy for a fourth term he will undoubtedly be given opportunity to explain.

Banquet Scheme
Dragging a Bit

The suggestion that a banquet be given in honor of Chairman J. J. Nelligan of the Governor's State roads investigation committee is dragging a bit just now but it will probalby be given a push when more of Mr. Nelligan's friends return from their vacations. One of the backers of the banquet proposition is now in Europe but will be home soon. This particular backer, however, was of the opinion that the banquet should be given before the rendering of the whitewash report rather than afterwards.

It is admitted by those who like the suggestion that due credit should be given every member of the committee, there being four of them in all—and it may work out that the banquet will be given for all of them in a group.

Then there are the members of the Ritchie-Brook Lee Legislative committee which also made a gesture of investigating the State roads unpleasantness Are they to be ignored? Hardly, but shall they be included in the dinner to the Nelligan committee which, it appears, is higher up in the estimation of the Governor than the Legislative Committee?

Then the sad fact is recalled that there were on the legislative committee some members who did not fully agree with the program of whitewash. Will it be all right to invite them to the banquet celebrating the grand whitewash? Indeed, some difficult problems are presented.

Queer Manifestations
Mark Early Campaign

Since the Governor has gotten out into the open with his fourth term campaign there are to be noted some queer manifestations among Democratice office holders who are or who will be affected by the result of the approaching battle. For instance there are the court clerks in this city, most of whom want to be reelected and two of whom are talking or hinting Ritchie.

One wonders where they expect to get off. If they have ordinary foresight they must realize that the chances of reelecting Ritchie are next to nothing and that if he is put up again he will carry the whole local ticket down with him, and this ticket will, of course, include such court clerks as get renominated, for it is the word that all are not to be slated again.

So it should be plain that those office holders who are willing to see their ticket loaded down with the State roads and other failures of the Ritchie administration are courting disaster to their own houses. They are, I think, working for their own retirement. They probably have forgotten 1895.

Still Fighting For Old Baltimore

Before me is a copy of the application and exhibits of the Wabash Railway company, which seeks to get into Baltimore by way of the Western Maryland line and at the same time make of itself an Eastern trunk line.

This effort of the Wabash should be helped along by Baltimore's Association of Commerce as a whole but it's a good bet that it never will be, for in the latter days the public service corporations have got themselves so tied into that organization that it is well nigh helpless when it comes to doing something worth while for the city

The trouble here in Baltimore is that there are too many people who are half asleep and who are happier when everything is let alone—the "as is" people, so to speak. They think Baltimore has enough railroad facilities, that two railroads are better than three and that one may be better than two.

We will recall that when the Western Maryland stock belonging to the City of Baltimore was sold years ago, it was with the understanding that a new trunk line was to be created and that Baltimore was to figure. This scheme has slept all these intervening years and now the B. & O. has nearly half of the Western Maryland stock in its strong box. It would use the Western Maryland as a sort of extra track.

Working constantly on this plan to see that the Western Maryland is not throttled by existing Eastern trunk lines has been Wm. M. McCormick, who is apparently filled with optimism, and I hope that he with his colaborers will succeed in doing something for the city.

Marylanders Visit Camp Dawson

Among the several thousand visitors at Camp Dawson, National Guard camp, situated at the foot of Cadiell mountain, near Kingwood, W. Va., Sunday afternoon, were many people from Oakland and vicinity. Holiday hours were observed by the soldiers of the 201st infantry, and formal guard mount and evening parade in the late afternoon proved to be interesting to the spectators from all parts of West Virginia, and parts of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The company from Terra Alta carried off second honors in the athletic meet held on Saturday. The guards will remain in camp until next Sunday.

Home Demonstration Agent's Schedule, September 1-6

The following schedule was given out by Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, for the dates of September 4 to 6 inclusive:

September 4, Grantsville Homemakers club at 2 p. m.

September 5, Red House 4-H club at 2 p. m. at home of the Wolfe girls; Pomona Grange at 7:30 p. m. at the Pleasant Valley Grange hall.

September 6, McHenry 4-H club will meet at the school house at 2 p. m.

To Attend Camp Vail

Sixteen Maryland 4-H club members and leaders are planning to attend Camp Vail, Springfield, Mass., this year, to be held September 15 to 21, in connection with the Eastern States exposition.

The members are expected to bring back to their local clubs many new and worthwhile ideas and suggestions. No one was chosen from this county.

OVER 5,000 PRESENT AT ANNUAL K. OF P. PICNIC

Hon. John J. Cornwell Was Principal Speaker at Afternoon Assembly—Many Attractions

With an estimated crowd of between 5,000 and 6,000 people present, the Tenth Annual Labor Day picnic, held under the auspices of the local lodge, Knights of Pythias, in Helbig's grove on the north edge of town, was said to have been one of the biggest gatherings ever assembled here. Ideal weather prevailed throughout the day and the immense crowd lingered until after the fireworks display at 9:30 in the evening.

The day's festivities was officially opened at 10 o'clock when a parade was held consisting of Alvey R. Martin, marshall; grand lodge officers, Pythian sisters, Knights of Pythias, Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band, Crellin Band, Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts, Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and the Terra Alta Fire Department, a number of trades display and Frank Pugh, of Terra Alta, in his "Whoopee Buggy."

John J. Cornwell Speaks

In the afternoon addresses were made by John J. Cornwell, chief counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and former Governor of West Virginia; Frederick N. Zihlman, congressman from the sixth district of Maryland; and Julius C. Renninger, Oakland attorney. Ex-governor Cornwell delivered a most interesting and pleasing address. He was introduced by W. R. Offutt, local attorney.

Governor Cornwell and his party consisting of Mrs. Cornwell, his niece Miss Cornwell, Winchester, Va.; and Mrs. R. L. Kirk, of Romney, were entertained at luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Offutt. Other guests present were Mrs. Willoughby Chesley, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Irene Bran, New York City; Mrs. D. E. Offutt, Sr., Mr. Julius C. Renninger and Mr. A. Totten Matthews. The luncheon table was beautifully decorated with pink roses and baby breath and each guest was presented with a pink rose and Mrs. Cornwell with an old fashioned corsage.

Weaver's Park Attractions and other amusements held the majority of the picnicers until late in the evening and the two bands entertained with concerts throughout the celebration. The Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts took care of directing and controlling the traffic and parking of cars.

Although no figures as to the financial success of the picnic are available, it was thought that the treasury would be filled slightly more than had been done in the past two or three years. The automobile this year was awarded to Mr. Samuel Aronhalt, Oakland.

Edward P. Kahl, chancellor commander of the local lodge wishes to thank all those who attended the picnic and helped to make it such a success, and he also wishes to thank those members of the lodge who worked so faithfully.

Started Ten Years Ago

The first Labor Day picnic was held ten years ago in Helbig's grove. Since that time it has been an annual affair with the exception of last year when it was necessary to postpone it on account of the infantile paralysis scare. The celebration was held on Hallowe'en last year.

To Hold Examinations for Two Postmasterships

At the request of the Postmaster General, the U. S. Civil Service commission announces an open competitive examination to fill the position of postmaster at Barton, and Mt. Lake Park, at which a vacancy exists or is about to occur.

It is expected that appointments will be made as a result of this examination unless it is found in the interest of the service to fill the vacancy by transfer or promotion. This is not an examination under the Civil Service Act and rules, but is held under an executive order of May 10, 1921, providing for such procedure.

The date for assembling of competitors will be stated on the admission cards. Applications can be secured at Barton or Mt. Lake Park, or from the Commission at Washington, D. C. All applications must be properly executed and filed at Washington prior to the hour of closing business on September 27.

Last Meeting of Union Young People's League To Be Held Sunday Night.

The final meeting of the Oakland Union Young People's League will be held in the Methodist church Sunday night at seven o'clock. William McRobie will be the leader.

The program will include special numbers by the individual leagues making up the union and will close a most successful summer's work. The last social meeting of the league will be held this evening when the members will entertain the young people of Oakland who will soon leave to attend school in other places. The affair will be a lawn social and will be held at Roy O. Winters' grove in the east end of town. It is expected that a similar league will be formed next year.

PAUL WELCH WINS 'SHOE PITCHING CHAMPIONSHIP

Gortner Man Defeats Rival in Close Contest—Will Go To Baltimore September 12

Paul M. Welch, of Gortner, won the official championship of Garrett county in horseshoe pitching by defeating William E. Spoerlein, of the same community, in a hotly contested game at the Knights of Pythias Labor Day picnic grounds in Oakland on Monday afternoon. The score was 26 to 24. The contest was held under the auspices of the Baltimore Sunpapers and the Playground Athletic League of that city.

Frederick N. Zihlman, Congressman from the Sixth District of Maryland, and Lawrence M. Fraley, Mayor of Oakland, opposed each other in an unofficial battle as the crowds assembled to watch the eliminations. Congressman Zihlman defeated Mayor Fraley by a large score.

Many Take Part.

More than fifty contestants were entered in the elimination games from all sections of the county who staged a furious tight for the championship.

Mr. Spoerlein and Mr. Welch were tied at 21 in the twenty-eighth inning. In the thirty-third, with the score 24 to 23 in favor of Mr. Spoerlein, Mr. Welch threw a single to win.

Congressman Zihlman presented the chromium steel horseshoes, the prize given to each of the champions of all the counties of the State, to Mr. Welch. The games were conducted before a crowd gathered to observe Labor Day at a picnic held in Helbig's Grove, by Garrett Lodge, No. 113, Knights of Pythias.

Scorers in the horseshoe-pitching contests were Henry M. Speicher and Charles A. Tower. Judges were William Browning and Benjamin DeWitt. C. W. Ashley, of the Playground Athletic League of Baltimore, was the referee. The local committee in charge was composed of Mayor L. M. Fraley, Dr. Henry W. McComas, W. R. Browning, Henry M. Speicher and Bayard Keller.

The champions from the several counties of the State will go to Baltimore on September 12 to meet for the State championship. During their stay in the city they will be the guests of the Playground Athletic League and the Sunpapers.

PLEASANT VALLEY GRANGE INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

Plans For Community Show Are Being Made for September 28

About thirty members of Pleasant Valley Grange were present at the regular meeting of that body held on last Thursday and witnessed the conferring of the first and second degrees upon a class of candidates. The work was put on by Harry Porter, master, assisted by Grange officers. The degrees were conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bevans, the former being the agriculture instructor in Accident High School; Mrs. John Carter, Mrs. Ernest Friend, Mr. Lowell Loomis and June and Lucille Selbower.

Preparation, for a communnity show, to be held on September 28, are being made by members of the Grange. The show will consist of exhibits of agricultural products, athletic events, an interesting program and a picnic, and everybody is requested to be present and take part.

The next meeting of the grange will be held on September 19 when the third and fourth degrees will be conferred. W. C. Jester, Elkins, W. Va., former county agent of Garrett county, will probably be present at this meeting.

LAKE REGATTA NEXT YEAR TO BE A TWO DAY AFFAIR

Clean-Up Week For Purpose of Beautifying Shore Line. Will be Conducted During October

That the Deep Creek Lake Regatta next year will be held about the middle of July and that it will be a two-day affair; that a clean-up week will be conducted in October of this year for the purpose of cleaning up and making the shore-line of the lake more presentable; that 5,000 six to seven-inch bass and 200 two-foot bass would be placed in Deep Creek Lake late this fall, were all brought out at a formal dinner given last Friday evening by Mrs. Sally Burch, Mountain Lake Park, at Rainbow Inn, seven miles north of Oakland, on the lake

Mrs. Burch had as her guests the members of the executive and finance committees of the Lake Regatta management and a few other interested parties when the above points were brought out by those present.

Mr. Robert Hazlett, of Wheeling, W. Va., who is a summer resident of Oakland, reported on the large water regatta at Marietta, Ohio, and told the committee how it was so successfully conducted in that city.

Swepson Earle, State Conservation Commissioner, was also present and promised that the large number of bass would be placed in the lake this fall. Stocking the lake with bass, it is said, will rid the waters of the apparent millions of small tinch. Bass, it was thought, are more adaptable to the lake than trout.

All property owners along the lake front will be notified of the clean-up week and during this time allotted it is expected that all logs will be cleared off stumps taken out and other rubbish cleared away, so that the shore-line will present a beautiful appearance next year.

The regatta at Marietta cost approximately $8000, and the committees felt that as good a one could be put on here and have it made a paying proposition without donations.

Graf Zeppelin Carries Letter to Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Orendorf

County Commissioner and Mrs. D. E. Orendorf, Oakland, were the recipients of a letter mailed at Los Angeles, Cal., on the Graf Zeppeliu on its first flight around the globe. It was quite a surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Orendorf because it was addressed in German script. The sender was their son-in-law, E. G. Bay, of Detroit, Mich., who mailed the letter by plane to Los Angeles to await the arrival of the big dirigible.

The State Roads Commission of Maryland, by notice published in The Republican today invites bids for the building of a bridge substructure over the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Wilson where the highway leading from Deer Park to Kitzmiller now under course of construction, will pass over the tracks of the railway company. The bids will be opened at the otlice of the Commission in Baltimore on September 16th at noon.

CLUB WORK TO FEATURE AT AGRICULTURAL FAIR

Larger Number of Exhibits and More Competition Promised in 4-H Club Projects.

That there would be a larger number of exhibits and more competition in club work projects at the Thirteenth Annual Garrett County Agricultural Fair, was announced yesterday by J. H. Carter, county agent, who has several of the organizations under his direction. At present there are three potato clubs of ten members each, one calf club, and one pig club, which alone will make approximately fifty boys in competition at the fair.

"Exhibition of club work projects will be one of the features of the fair," Mr. Carter said, "because the products will be of the best quality. In the potato clubs all members have qualified for certification of seed, and in the calf club and pig club the animals are purebred and will compete on even terms with the best in the county. This will undoubtedly tend to raise the quality of exhibits both in live stock and farm products."

The prizes for club work exhibits will be slightly greater than last year and the members will be able to compete in the coumercial classes as well as in the club divisions.

Committees Busy on Parades.

The parade committees for the four days of the fair, October 1, 2, 3 and 4, have been busy within the past few days making preliminary arrangements and predict that they will all be larger and better than last year.

The 1929 catalogue and premium list will be off The Republican press this week and will be ready for distribution early next week, according to H. M. Speicher, general manager of the fair.

"A number of the premiums have been changed and many special prizes added to the list," Mr. Speicher stated, but it is hoped that the farmers of this county will all furnish exhibits of their best products in all lines of agricultural products. Remember, also, that all premiums will be paid immediately."

No Wrecks Over Week-end

No highway accidents were reported to State or county officers over the week-end in this vicinity, it has been announced.

"This is very unusual," W. D. Casteel, sheriff, said, "as there are some mishaps of a more or less serious nature caused by those driving while under the influence of liquor, and even by some who are the reverse, especially when traffic is heavy as it is on Saturday and Sunday as a rule. This week, however, seems to have been an exception, as there were no wrecks from liquorized drivers or from any other cause."

The Mt. Bethel Sunday school will have an ice cream social and lawn fete in the grove by the Altamont springs farm, two miles east of Deer Park, on Saturday evening, September 7. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the Sunday school. Everybody is invited.

Motorcyclist Crashes Into Auto; Loses Foot.

Francis Carey, aged 19 years, son of the late Mervin Carey, well known Garrett county farmer residing near the National Highway east of Grantsville, while on a motorcycle enroute to Frostburg Tuesday night, crashed into a car belonging to James McKenzie just on the western outskirts of the town. Young Carey sustained severe lacerations of his foot and ankle and was taken to the Miners' Hospital in Frostburg where it was found necessary to amputate the foot at the ankle. Dr. A. R. Walker performed the operation.

COUNCILMEN AUTHORIZE AN INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

Plan Was Approved Last Week By Business Group—Will Be Completed In Two Weeks

An industrial survey of the City of Oakland was authorized by the Mayor and Town Council at its regular monthly meeting held Tuesday night in the City hall. The decision was the outcome of a meeting of a number of business men on August 28, when they approved of the plan presented by C. T. Mangum, a representative of the Craig P. Gilbert Company, Inc., industrial engineers of Washington, D. C. The survey will cost $225 and will be completed within two weeks, according to Mr. Mangum.

When completed the survey will contain data concerning labor, transportation laws, taxes, natural resources, freight rates, water supply, building costs, available factory sites, cost of fuel, population, wage scales, housing, recreational and educational facilities, social and living conditions. It will be available to both the company and the Town council.

With this information the company will be able to show manufacturing concerns, to whom they cater, the advantages and disadvantages of Oakland, and will try to induce them to bring their industries into the town. Several proofs were exhibited by Mr. Mangum at the business men's meeting last week, showing where his company had placed industries in towns with fewer advantages than those which Oakland had, and the Mayor and Council were optimistic over prospects for the future.

To Begin Amiesiting

Amiesiting of the streets of Oakland will begin at once, according to L. M. Fraley, mayor. Mr. Fraley received word yesterday from the State roads commission notifying them to go ahead and amiesite the two blocks of State route No. 37, for which they would be paid by the State.

Second street, Alder street, Third street, and Oak street will all be covered with amiesite within a very short time, it was promised. The streets are now practically ready for the covering and the amiesite will be laid by Brady Brothers, of Frostburg.

Passing of the monthly bills and other routine business occupied the remainder of the meeting.

BLUEBIRD INN IS SCENE OF EARLY MORNING FIRE

Blaze Originates In Rubbish Pile In Rear Of Building

Fire, originating in a rubbish pile on the rear porch, partially destroyed the building occupied by the Bluebird Inn, on Second street, about 6:30 Monday morning. The Oakland Volunteer Fire department responded to the call and extinguished the blaze which had gained considerable headway.

The flames spread rapidly through the rafters and side walls of the building and practically the entire second floor was in flames shortly after the firemen reached the scene.

The second floor of the building was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Lauer and child, and Mrs. Frances Paugh, proprietress of the Bluebird Inn, who had to make their exit rather hurriedly.

No estimate as to the amount of the damage done was made by Mr. James Treacy, the owner, as the adjustors had not made their inspection. The building was insured and will probably be repaired to its former condition. The Bluebird Inn was oper for business again Monday afternoon.

GORTNER YOUTH DROWNS AT CAPE HENRY MONDAY

Alvin Yoder, 21, Caught In Undertow and Carried Out While Bathing With Companions

Alvin Yoder, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Yoder, of Gortner, this county, was drowned Monday morning while swimming off Cape Henry, near Norfolk, Va.

Young Yoder was bathing in company with three companions when the strong undertow, which had caused one drowning further down the beach the day before, and had caused several near drownings, carried him out.

Efforts of his companions to reach him were futile and the Coast Guard station at Cape Henry, about half a mile south of the spot where Yoder met his death, was notified and immediately began searching for his body.

The body was recovered yesterday afternoon at three o'clock at a point three miles south of where the victim was caught in the undertow, and will be brought to Oakland on train No. 3 tomorrow morning. Mr. Yoder, the boy's father, will accompany the body home.

The unfortunate young man left Gortner just a week ago and had secured employment in the Ford assembly plant at Norfolk. He was very highly esteemed by the people of the Gortner community. He is survived by his parents, two sisters and one brother. Mr. Yoder, the father, is a progressive farmer at Gortner.

Messrs. N. D. Beachy and Jacob Swartzentruber, the latter an uncle of the drowned youth, who went to Norfolk upon receiving news of the accident, returned home this morning.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at ten o'clock from the Union church at Gortner and interment will be made in the churchyard.

SCOUTS TO HAVE EXHIBIT AT GARRETT COUNTY FAIR

Moathly Inspection Finds Troop In Good Condition

Plans for a large Boy Scout exhibit at the Garrett county Fair will be made at the next meeting of the Scout troop tomorrow evening in the Scout hall. A portion of the exhibit building will be turned over to them and will be fixed up in true boy scout fashion, according to Bernard Gonder, junior assistant, who will be directly in charge.

The exhibit will contain many things that the scouts have made in passing their various tests and merit badges and will also have a number of model airplanes and special articles made by Bernard Gonder and others.

At the monthly inspection last Friday the troop was found to be in excellent condition, according to the scoutmaster. Carroll Casteel joined the troop at the last meeting and passed a number of requirements for a Tenderfoot. He will pass the balance of them at tomorrow's meeting and will be enrolled as a Tenderfoot.

Seaplane Alights On Deep Creek Lake.

A yellow, tri-motored seaplane alighted on Deep Creek Lake last Thursday afternoon and remained for a period of about five or ten minutes. The plane was enorute to Uniontown, Pa.

The pilot of the machine had lost his sense of direction; had thought that Keyser was Cumberland and that Piedmont was Frostburg, and he concluded to drop into Garrett county waters to "get his bearings." The take-off was made above Glendale bridge. The plane is capable of alighting either on land or water. This was the first machine of this type to visit Garrett county's large artificial lake.

Unlawful To Hunt Squirrel and Dove Until October 1.

Attention of the public of Allegany and Garrett counties has been called by E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, to the fact that Chapter 557, Acts of 1929, provide it to be unlawful to hunt squirrel or dove in Allegany and Garrett counties, except between the dates of October 1 and November 9, inclusive.

Any person apprehended for hunting squirrel or dove during any closed season will be prosecuted to the fullest extent o fthe law, Mr. LeCompte says in a letter to The Republican. The penalty for violation is not less than $25 and not more than $100 for each offense.

ALL BARNYARDS ARE FOUND FULL OF "HEAD MEN" AS ARDENT LOVER TRIES TO SELL ROOSTERS AND MARRY

Kingwood Youth Changes Plans About Coming to Oakland when He Fails to Raise Cash

Because all the chicken houses and barnyards of a neighboring town were full of "head men" and all the housekeepers had already obtained their supply of meat for Sunday dinner, a youth of Kingwood, W. Va., was unable to "cash in" on his assets and was thus disappointed in raising the necessary wherewithal to bring his sweetheart to Oakland and here make her his for life eternal.

John Smith (that isn't his right name) had a desire. Even if he is only 16 years old he has as much right to a desire as anybody else and he had nurtured this one in his bosom since the month of May when all the budding flowers and balmy air had turned his thoughts to that age-old subject of love.

He impatiently but secretly bided his time, however, until he could command sutlicient capital wherewith to make the necessary journney and meet the requisite expense of securing a license through the little-thought-of sin of perjury and return to ask his parents' forgiveness and receive their blessing and thereafter settle down with the bride's parents forever and aye.

The budding romance increased with the budding and opening of the flowers until came August and he rejoiced in the fact that he now had enough personal property that he could turn into the coin of the realm so that he might claim his loved one.

His property consisted of three roosters of the Leghorn, or more properly speaking, gutta percha variety, and with the explanation that he desired to go camping he asked his mother to sell the feathered creatures for the highest sum she could obtain.

After calling upon a number of poultry eaters and raisers she found it was no use—the roosters were too skinny to eat, and the barnyards were all supplied with "head men."

The wedding has been indefinitely postponed, but the couple with whom they were coming to Oakland—a "kid" of 16 and a girl of 18—couldn't let three roosters interfere with their happiness, so they followed the original plan and were married in Oakland about three weeks ago.

Lesson for September 8

NEHEMIAH REBUILDING THE WALL OF JERUSALEM

GOLDEN TEXT—The people had a mind to work.

LESSON TEXT—Nehemiah 2:1-7:4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Working Together.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Working Together.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Teamwork.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Co-operation in Religious Work.

In order to prepare to teach this lesson the teacher should master the contents of the book of Nehemiah.

Nehemiah was a cupbearer to the Persian king. While performing his official duty he learned of the distress of his brethren in Jerusalem. The walls of the city were broken down, its gates burnt, and the remnant of the captives were in great affliction. This news brought by his brethren greatly moved Nehemiah. He sat down and wept and mourned several days, fasting and praying before God. In answer to his prayer he was granted a leave of absence from the Persian court, and credentials from the king. He journeyed to Jerusalem and made a survey of the city by night without disclosing his purpose to anyone. Having thus obtained first-hand information, he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem."

I. Preparation for the Building (chap. 3).

The division of labor in this project displayed Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy. Observe some outstanding features of this great work:

1. Stress laid upon indifference (v. 5).

In administrative tasks it is proper that unfaithfulness should be pointed out as a warning to the unfaithful and encouragement to the faithful.

2. Help rendered by the women (v. 12).

Perhaps Shallum had no sons to aid him.

3. Stress laid upon earnestness of some (v. 20).

Recognition of fidelity will spur one to faithfulness.

4. Every one built over against his own house (vv. 10, 23, 28).

No incentive for exertion is quite so strong as that which concerns one's own family.

5. Certain guilds of men undertook certain work (vv. 8, 31, 32).

II. Hindrances Encountered (4:1-6:14).

1. Scoffing of Sanballat and Tobiah (4:1-6, cf. 2:19, 20).

The oppressors of God's servants frequently begin by hurling ridicule.

2. Conspiracy for a sudden attack (4:7-9).

When the enemy saw that the work was actually succeeding they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic.

3. Conspiracy with the Jews (4:10-23).

They sought to hinder by inducing the Jews who were outside to discourage their brethren by the claim that the task was hopeless and that they were liable to sudden and secret attack.

4. Greed and oppression of the rich (5:1-13).

The Jews of that day, like the profiteers of our day, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them, so that they mortgaged their land and even sold their daughters into slavery.

5. Scheme to take Nehemiah's life (6:1-14).

When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every other way they sought by craft to get Nehemiah away, that they might kill him.

III. The Wall Completed (6:15-7:4).

So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. We may learn from this:

1. That though God's children are beset by enemies, they should not fear.

2. That when beset by enemies, we should pray (4:9).

Their faith was accompanied by wise precaution.

(a) They set a watch (4:9).

(b) Men were permitted to be with their families (4:13), and would thus fight better.

(c) Half worked and half watched, all armed for battle.

(d) They worked with sword in one hand (4:17).

(e) They slept in their clothes in readiness (4:23).

Prayer and faith are not slothful or inactive.

A Picture by Plato

Plato pictured the soul under the figure of a many-headed monster, a lion and a man, combined in one form. The man represented the higher nature, the reason; the lion the passionate element; and the many-headed monster the lusts and appetites. The picture is as true today as when first presented. The lion and many-headed monster exists in every person. It can only be changed by the love of the Christ, by which the lion is made to be as a lamb.

A MARYLAND NAVAL HERO OF THE WAR OF 1812

Commodore David Geisinger of Trio to Win Sword for Bravery.

By Herman F. Krafft,
In the Baltimore (Sunday) Sun

A hundred years ago the Legislature of this State voted to present a sword to each of three Marylanders, naval heroes of the War of 1812. On the blade of each one are etched the battles of the Wasp and the words, David Geisinger Filio forti to fiedli Maryland dedit. To Captain Geisinger, then in Philadelphia, went this letter.

Council Chamber
Annapolis, Aug. 27, 1831.

Sir:—In virtue of a Resolution of the General Assembly passed at December Session, 1829, a sword has been procured to be presented to you in testimony of the high sense of approbation entertained by the Legislature of your native State, of your gallant conduct in the late war with Great Britain; and particularly in two brilliant and well fought actions, both of which terminated in victory, viz.: the action between the United States Ship Wasp commanded by the lamented Captain Blakely, and the British sloop of war Reindeer, commanded by Captain Manners; and the action between the United States Ship Wasp commanded by Captain Blakely, and the British sloop of war Avon, commanded by Captain Arbuthnot.

His Excellency Governor Howard proposes to present to you the sword on the third Tuesday of next month, in the Council Chamber, if it will suit your convenience to receive it at that time; when he also proposes to deliver others, voted, at the same time with yours, to Lieutenant Smoot and John Contee, Esq., late Lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Very respectfully your obedient
THO CULBRETH,
Clerk of the Council.

The sword, thus awarded by the State of Maryland to Commodore Geisinger, was doubtless cherished by him through many years of faithful service in the navy. A decade or two ago it was presented to the Naval Academy by one who signed herself Helen Geisinger—perhaps a daughter of the commodore. The other naval officer mentioned in the above letter, Joseph Smoot, also saw many more years of service in the navy subsequent to the presentation to him of a sword by the Maryland Legislature on the same occasion, and of both of these officers the navy has for some years been trying to locate portraits. If any reader knowns of a descendant of either, he will confer a favor by sending the name and address of such relative to Prof. H. F. Krafft, curator of the Naval Academy Museum, Annapolis, Md., who is interested in seeing what these two brave sons of Maryland looked like.

David Geisinger, who entered the navy as a midshipman in 1809, distinguished himself in the War of 1812, a war from which have come down our most cherished sea traditions. Early in this conflict the Constellation, famous Maryland-built frigate, was blockaded at Norfolk by a British squadron. In a boat attack on her, June 22, 1813, a green-painted British barge, appropriately called the Centipede, and commanded by a natural son of George IV, named Hanchett, was captured by Midshipman Josiah Tattnall, David Geisinger and Bladen Dulany. The attack on the Constellation failed, and she lives to this day the oldest ship afloat in the navy.

The next year the new Wasp, third of the name in our navy, started out on her career—the most daring commerce raider in this era of bold sea raiders. Blakely was in command and Geisinger was one of the midshipmen. The British sometimes say that they do not feel their navy is on the job unless it is out of sight of the shores of England, while the same authorities assert that Americans do not feel their navy is doing its duty unless it is in sight of American shores. The Wasp and the other American brigs of 1812 took up their stations about as far from home as possible, mostly in British waters and at the focal points of the enemy trade routes. The English naturally made every effort to destroy these pesky Wasps and Hornets. On June 28, 1814, His Majesty's sloop of war Reindeer, commanded by one of the bravest officers in the British service, William Manners, had a sharp set-to with the Wasp, which was heavier in tonnage and gun power. Manners paid no attention to his first wound. A second shot through both thighs brought him to his knees, but he was up again instantly with the words, "Follow me, my boys; we must board." Springing into the rigging he was killed outright by two bullets fired simultaneously by sharpshooters in the Wasp's topmasts. Then Blakely in turn led a boarding party, and the Reindeer hauled down her flag. With picked and well disciplined crews, led by the finest of officers, it was a brave fight on both sides. In nineteen minutes the conflict was reduced to a complete wreck.

Loaded with prisoners and wounded, the Wasp made for a French port for hasty repairs. Then she renewed her captures of British merchantmen. Two months after the Reindeer fight, the Wasp was overhauled by another British cruiser, the Avon, under Captain Arbuthnot. This time the antagonists were equally matched, but after an action of forty-five minutes the Avon was rapidly sinking. Before Blakely could transfer his prisoners, several other men-of-war appeared on the scene. The Wasp eluded them and made good her escape.

Once more the Wasp renewed her raids on British commerce. One of her prizes taken at this time, the Atlanta, formerly the privateer Siro, of Baltimore, was dispatched with valuable cargo and papers to the United States. Under the command of Geisinger, the Atlanta safely reached Savannah in October. Three weeks after her fight with the Avon the Wasp was spoken, some 900 miles south of Madeira, by a Swedish bark bound for England, which transferred to the Wasp two American naval officers, who had been on another of our famous sea raiders, the Essex. These two men, exchanged prisoners of war, were making their roundabout way home from South America via England. The report of the capture of the Swedish bark was the last word ever heard of the Wasp and her brave captain an derew. To this day her fate is shrouded in mystery.

Young Geisinger and his prize crew were therefore the only survivors of the Wasp's little epic. In the next thirty years, during the regular routine of peace duties, he took his turn ashore and afloat. We find him in command of the East India squadron in 1846, when Japan was ending her 200-year policy of seclusion and hostility to western nations. When Geisinger arrived in Japanese waters the shoguns were holding as prisoners eighteen sailors who had been shipwrecked from an American whaler along their shores. Geisinger sent the U. S. S. Preble, under command of Captain Glynn, to Nagasaki with peremptory orders for the release of these Americans. A few years previous on a similar mission, but with orders not to arouse the hostility of the Japanese, Commodore Biddle had made a futile attempt to protect American rights, and by Biddle's failure the Japanese had been emboldened to try intimidation again. But Geisinger's orders called for results. Captain Glynn broke through the cordon of guard boats that surrounded the Preble the moment he dropped anchor. He brought his broadside to bear on the city, and after some parleying the prisoners were delivered on board the Preble. Thus Geisinger led the way for Commodore Perry's successful efforts half a dozen years later to stop Japanese barbarity to shipwrecked crews of American merchantmen.

From this resume of Commodore Geisinger's career it would appear that the awarding to him of a gold mounted sword by the Maryland Legislature a hundred years ago was a well-merited honor, reflecting credit alike on the giver and the recipient. Commodore Geisinger died in 1860, having rounded out a career of half a century in the navy.

Surprise Reunion Held

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sanders and family, Oakland, and Mrs. C. L. Pifer, Terra Alta, W. Va., motored to Pataskala, Ohio, to spend Labor Day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sanders, formerly of Terra Alta.

Upon their arrival they found Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sanders and family, Detroit, Mich. The following evening Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sanders and family, Loveland, Ohio, and Frank Sanders, Cincinnati, Ohio, arrived. Then with the arrival of the younger daughter, Sylvia Sanders, Columbus, Ohio, the reunion was unexpectedly completed as the youngest son, Walter, of Keene, Ohio, had arrived a few days before.

Birthday Party Held

The many friends and relatives of Mr. William C. Buncutter met on Sunday, August 25, and enjoyed a birthday dinner. The occasion was his 87th birthday. Mr Buncutter is a Civil war veteran. He was born near Winchester, Va., and moved to Maryland nearly 48 years ago. He has five daughters, four of whom spent Sunday with him.

Those present included Mrs. Nelle Feather, Mr. and Mrs. George Fulk, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley White, Mrs. Jennie Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fulk, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hessen, Mr. and Mrs. John Shuttlesworth, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Hardesty, Mr. Jack Shuttlesworth, Mr. Jonas Yutzy, Mr. O. S. Ridder, Misses Geraldine Feather, Byrldine Fulk, Alma and Eleanor White, Lottie Shuttlesworth, Audrey and Pearl Hardesty, Elsie Hessen, Messrs. Paul Sanders, Pierce Warsaw, Revy Beckman, David and Earl Shuttlesworth, Arthur Fulk, Richard Hessen, Guy Hardesty, Billy and George Fulk, all of Oakland.

A number were also in attendance from Aurora, W. Va.; Buckhannon, W. Va.; Newburg, W. Va.; Cumberland, Md., and Keyser, W. Va.

Home Demonstration Agent's Schedule, September 9 to 14

The following schedule was given out by Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, for the week of September 9 to 14 inclusive:

September 10, Oakland Senior 4-H club at 4 p. m., in office; Clothing II and Fair plans.

September 11, Crellin Homemakers at 2 p. m., at home of Mrs. Lester Yntzy; miscellaneous program.

September 12, Sunnyside Homemakers at 2 p. m., at Grange hall; Problem V.

September 13, Kempton 4-H club meeting and camp fire at 5 p. m.; Homemakers meeting at 7:30 p. m., in school house.

September 11, Swanton 4-H club meeting at 2 p. m., in club house. Room improvement project.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad, but loving, remembrance of my dear grandson, William Everett Custer, who departed this life September 1, 1928.

As the shades of night were falling
The angel of death was hovering near,
Came and claimed the soul of one so dear—
For William had answered the angel call.

In the sad and narrow home
Lies sleeping beneath the verdant sod;
Asleep in Jesus, a blessed sleep,
Where none ever wakes to weep.

You have crossed the river cold
To that gate that stands ajar,
The angel came and opened wide the golden gate
And welcomed our loved one home.

God wanted another precious jewel—
The one we prized so dear,
To shine in His mansion fair,
More radiant and bright.

You were so kind, with manly hopes in view;
Your home is sad and lonely now;
Your chair is vacant, your steps will never come—
No one can fill the vacant place.

You have left a mother dear;
God only knows her grief and tears,
And often on her pillow stain
With tears of relentless grief.

All our hopes are vanished,
Like the flowers that fade and die,
But a small, still voice is saying,
Courage, mother, we shall meet again.

On that bright and peaceful shore,
To that home so free from care,
We will meet our William there
And palms of victory we shall wear.

So father, mother, sisters, dear,
God's promise is to you and all,
That He will heal the broken hearts
And give us grace to bear our grief.

Written by his grandmother,
HARRIET A. BLOCHER.

FAIR!

CAPT. E. H. HUGO

Much has been said and written in reference to the thrilling performance of Capt. E. H. Hugo, but mere words seem utterly inadequate in describing his feat of reckless daring.

High up in the air on a huge frame structure, the top of which is a steep incline, this carefree dare-devil astride a bicycle, careens madly down the deep sloping chute and taking off at the end, he precipitates himself and the wheel through space, passing through a blazing barrier of flames in mid-air, to land on a gentle slope a considerable distance away, still seated on the cycle which he nonchalantly rides away.

There have been many dare-devil stunts attempted but none that could ever compare with the hair-raising performance of Capt. Hugo.

CHEFALO

There have been many persons who have proclaimed themselves to be the highest divers in the world, but we are convinced that these same people would surely hide their heads in shame after one glance at the lofty ladders used by Chefalo, for his ladders tower so high in the air that it seems as though they must touch the clouds.

In place of the usual tank for a landing place Chefalo uses only a ridiculously small net, thereby increasing the hazard of his dangerous undertaking tenfold.

Thrill-seekers cannot afford to miss the startling stunts of Chefalo, The Master Sensationalist.

A "Touching" Thought.

While Jimmie Lee was on his vacation in Atlantic City a short time ago he wrote the following to his dad:

"No mon; no fun. Your son."

Mr. Lee replied: "How sad; too bad. Your dad."

The Knights of Pythias are wondering whether the proceeds from the whip out at the picnic on Monday will be sufficient to pay for the unguentine necessary to cure Jud Loar's sunburn which he received while taking tickets there.

And Sam Aronhalt didn't look any whiter after spending the day taking tickets on the chair plane. It is also rumored that he had a stiff neck.

Abe Lawton has the names of all those who were engaged in pulling out his shirt at the horseshoe contest on Monday and is going to enter a complaint against them. "Too much interference or I would have won the match easily," Abe confided to Scoop.

Damage Suit Pressed Out.

Colonel Bell returned to Oakland on Sunday after searching the entire country for legal talent to battle the damage suit brought by Ed White for printing his picture in Scoop's column. He couldn't find a lawyer who would stake his chances on winning, and so he turned over a certified check to Ed on Monday in the sum of ten thousand dollars for "hush money."

They Are Still Squatting.

With the exception of two all squatters are still squattin' in the squattin' contest now being conducted by Col. Bell, Scoop and The Republican, and although they have become weary and weakened as a result of the hot, dry weather and loss of sleep, they are still plugging away. The two who have dropped out are Reed Smouse and the other one doesn't want his name published as his absence any longer from business was not to be tolerated by his employes and anyway it wasn't belitting his dignity to squat there in plain view of everybody for a week or more at a time.

The squatters will have been occupying the fenceposts of Sweeney's lot for 12 days, 10 hours, 63 seconds and 92 ticks at 6:30 this evening and spectators are of the opinion that some are due for a fall about tomorrow.

Scoop is going to leave it up to his readers as to who will win the contest. Send in the name of the one you wish to win and state your reasons. Just send the letter to Scoop, care of The Republican, Oakland, and the winner will be announced next week.

* * *

Testimonial Received

Having nothing to do but squat, and getting mighty tired of that Ed. Wallace wrote Scoop this week in which he said:

"I am a man of few words, and they come forth only at long intervals, but I want to say that if it wasn't for having The Republican to read, I couldn't squat half so long as I am now doing. There is so much county news in it that it keeps me preoccupied and I do not think so much of what I must endure if I am to win this contest.

"Whether a squatter or not, I can recommend The Republican to anyone who desires to get the best, newsiest and neatest paper in the county. If anything printable happens, you'll find it in The Republican.

Contract Job

"Happy" Harned, otherwise known as Andalusia one of the Gold Dust Twins of Harned's drug store, was awakened long after midnight by the violent ringing of his door-bell. On looking out his window he saw a local miss in evening clothes.

"Is somebody ill," he cried excitedly as he hastily pulled on his trousers?

"Oh, no," she replied gaily, "but I'm at a dance close by and I've mislaid my rouge."

"Really?" asked "Happy" a little sarcastically. "Well, I'm sorry, but I never keep enough rouge in stock to cover a cheek like yours."

You surely know who the girl is.

For the County Fair.

Scoop had Col. Bell photograph this thoroughbred which he is going to enter in the County Fair and he offers a challenge to all farmers to beat it if they can. His sire was Noblesse Oblige, and his grandfather came from Ireland, so what more does anybody want? Scoop is going to offer a free copy of the paper to each farmer who competes against this genuine animal.

By a peculiar arrangement Col. Bell got himself hooked in on the picture but anyway, the horse is the one with the big ears and no hat.

THE HOMEMAKERS CORNER

BY MISS ELSIE BENTHIEN
Home Demonstration Agent

Vegetables

Most vegetables should be cooked as quickly as possible and in very little water so that their nutritious substances will not be boiled away. Boiling vegetables in a large quantity of water is no longer considered the best way.

The only exceptions to this rule are potatoes, dried beans and peas, and the other starchy vegetables which should be cooked slowly in plenty of water. Whenever any water is left from cooking vegetables save it and use if for soup.

Baked Macedoine

Three tablespoons butter or drippings, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups canned or stewed tomatoes, 1 cup cooked corn, ½ cup grated cheese, 1½ cups boiled rice, 1 hard cooked egg, chopped; 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Melt shortening, add onion and pimento and cook 3 minutes. Add flour and mix well. Add tomatoes and stir until mixture thickens slightly. Add corn, rice, egg and seasonings. Put in a baking dish, sprinkle cheese over the top and bake in a hot oven 20 minutes. Any combination of cooked vegetables is good in this dish. Peas, lima beans or carrots may be substituted for the corn.

Beets Piquante

One tablespoon butter, ¼ cup water, ½ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 6 small beets.

Cook beets in boiling salted water until tender. Melt butter and add water, vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper and bring to a boiling point. Remove skins of beets. Slice and reheat in sauce. Serve very hot.

Stuffed Onions

Six large white onions, ¾ cup chopped meat, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons melted butter or drippings, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, ¼ cup fine bread crumbs.

Parboil onions 15 minutes and drain. Mix meat, salt, pepper, shortening and catsup. Remove centers from onions and fill with meat mixture.

Arrange in a baking dish, cover and bake in a moderate oven about 1 hour. Remove cover, sprinkle tops with crumbs, dot with small bits of butter or drippings, and bake until crumbs are brown.

Different Cabbage

Five tablespoons butter or fat, 6 cups finely shredded cabbage, ¼ cup milk or cream, ¼ cup water, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon mustard, ½ teaspoon salt.

Melt shortening and fry cabbage in it slowly 10 to 15 minutes. Mix milk, water, sugar, mustard and salt together and add to the cabbage. Mix well and heat thoroughly.

Baked Stuffed Tomatoes

Two cups soft bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons butter or bacon fat, 6 tomatoes.

Mix bread crumbs with salt, pepper, 1 tablespoon sugar and 2 tablespoons melted fat. Cut thin slices from stem end of tomatoes and remove a little of the center. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and sugar. Fill with the stuffing. Dot with small bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven 1 hour.

Squash Saute

Pare summer squash and cut in uniform pieces. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour. Dip in slightly beaten egg, diluted with 2 tablespoons water, then in fine dry bread crumbs. Fry in small quantity of butter or fat 6 to 8 minutes. Brown on both sides.

BIG AND LITTLE FARMS

This is the age of big business and of combinations of business in the distributing as well as in the producing of commodities. We have chain stores of all descriptions, chain newspapers and chain utilities. Of late we have heard the prediction that pretty soon we would have chain farms and that then the farm problem would be solved. The idea of the corporate farm may sound alluring to the theoretical economist, but a great many people believe that the disadvantages would greatly outweigh the advantage.

Since the founding of the republic the agricultural population of America, taken as a whole, has been our sturdiest and our most independent group. It has stood, more than any other class, for the rights of the individual, and for the American form of government.

In view of all the talk we have heard about chain farms and large scale farming it is interesting to note, from the report of the Agricultural Service Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that big scale farming has already been tried out in various parts of the country, and has up to this time proved no more profitable than small, independent farming. While it may have some advantages over the time-honored American system it also has its disadvantages.

The survey of the farming industry, recently completed, shows that small and big farms show profits, while at the same time other big and small farms show losses, with the same variations as discernible in the farming industry as a whole.

The report states that large scale farming is an established industry with over 9,000 corporations engaged in it as far back as 1926. Continuing the report says:

"Taken as a group, the large scale farms apparently have been no more, nor any less, successful than the average of the family-size farms. Furthermore, there are fully as great variations in efficiency among the large farms as has been found in numerous surveys of family farms. It appears, then, that mere incorporation or organization of farming enterprises on a large scale will not automatically solve the problems of the agricultural industry.

"In order to obtain greater net returns than are obtained from the family type of farming, large scale farms must achieve an efficiency considerably greater than the average of such farms now in operation. There is however, a large enough number of scale farms which have reached a high state of efficiency and which are making incomes to refute the arguments often advanced that farms organized on an industrial scale cannot succeed in competing with family farm enterprises.

"From this study it appears that large scale farms may have advantages over family farms in superior management, organization, more efficient utilization of machinery, specialization of labor, buying and selling in wholesale quantities and, in some instances, reduction of overhead expense.

"The large farms also have certain disadvantages. They experienced difficulty in securing efficient labor and in obtaining the degree of interest of the laborers in the success of the business which is found on family farms. The seasonal character of farm work and uncertainties in weather conditions prevent an effective use of machinery and as complete division of labor as is achieved in some other industries."

The report continues that the development of large scale farming in the near future in the United States is still a matter of conjecture and it concludes with the statement that, "Fears as to the probable disastrous effects of an extensive development of large scale farming upon the social life of the rural population are at least premature, since this type of farming still is a relatively unimportant factor in agricultural industry and the rapidity of its future development is uncertain."

All of which is indeed consoling to those of us who believe that one of the real safeguards of American constitutional government and American progress is a vigorous, prosperous and progressive farming element widely distributed over America.

COMMUNISM'S LONG ARM

It is a significant fact that certain important metropolitan newspapers, newspaper chains and newspaper syndicates in the United States have turned press agent for Soviet Russia in her controversy with Nationalist China.

These same newspapers and syndicates have for years been raising outcry against the alleged "imperialism" of the United States. When gunboats were sent to defend American nationals in China they voiced vigorous protest. Any effort to protect American property rights abroad they have denounced as "imperialistic."

Now that Russia is threatening to go to war with China in order to enforce a claim to garrison and police a railway on Chinese soil, and use it for political intrigue against the government in power, these same papers are criticizing China for resisting this flagrant form of imperialism.

In other words, these American Auslanders denounce the fictitious "imperilism" of the United States, and root for the real imperialism of Russia. China's struggle for independent nationality does not appeal to them when it comes into conflict with soviet aspirations to world power.

The labor government of England, a socialist government, refuses to waive the right to prescribe that revolutionary propaganda by Soviet Russia in England must cease as a condition of recognition. But China is asked by the Russian press agentry in the United States to waive a clause in the treaty which gives Russia rights in the Chinese Eastern Railway, which specifically provides that neither nation shall carry on unfriendly political agitation on the soil of the other.

In insisting upon this clause of the treaty under which Russia has been operating a railway on Chinese soil, China is only asserting the most essential right of sovereignty. China is only asking that her proofs of this violation be considered by an impartial international tribunal.

Yet certain American newspapers, claiming to be against "imperialism" are seeking to create sentiment in the United States against Nationalist China because of her assertion of this right. So long as China was in partnership with Soviet Russia these same newspapers were clamoring against the protection of American life and property in China under international law, and lauding Nationalist China to the skies.

This organized attempt to prejudice the cause of China in the United States is a raw exhibition of alien press agentry, invoked in belief of a government that makes no pretense of concealing its organized effort to carry on revolutionary agitation within all non-communist countries, as witness the editorial in the Pravda, official soviet organ, on August 2nd, declaring this purpose. It is well known that this revolutionary agitation extends to the United States itself.

It is passing strange that we see in increasing quantity this alien-inspired propaganda against the interests of the United States, whether it be on such questions as the League of Nations, the tariff, American foreign policy, or revolutionary agitation within the United States. The arm of European radicalism is a long one, and it seems to reach into the sanctums of certain sections of the American press.

DIED

SAMUEL MOSSER

Samuel Mosser, aged 67 years and 5 months died at his home at Farmington, Delaware, on August 28, after an illness of some duration due to an attack of Bright's disease. Mr. Mosser was engaged in farming and was the owner of a highly productive farm in Delaware. Prior to going to that state he was engaged in the mercantile business at Accident where he will be well remembered by the people of that community. He was a member of the Church of the Brethren and his funeral occurred from the church of his faith at Farmington on Friday. He is survived by three sons and two daughters and by a brother, Henry Mosser, of near Oakland, who attended the funeral. Mr. Mosser left this county about fifteen years ago.

Clothes do not make the man—but very often they do help the man to prove his worth. They open the door of opportunity. Success thereafter depends upon the man and his proposition.

LOCAL ROTARIANS MADE WHOOPEE THURSDAY NIGHT

Had As Guests Their Ladies—Program of Music, Dancing

Approximately sixty persons dined at the Mountain Lake Hotel Thursday night, the occasion being the semi-annual Ladies' Night of the local Rotary Club. An elaborate menu was served by the management of the hotel, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

In addition to the menu there was a program of music, specialties and an an address by Mr. W. B. Burruss, whose subject was "Tebuoysuoromuh."

The musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. Frederick Thayer and Mr. Joseph T. Kloman, each of whom rendered solos. Misses Mary and Charlotte Bolgiano gave special dancing numbers. Both young ladies were exceedingly graceful and their numbers were well received and roundly applauded.

Following the dinner a drawing for prizes donated by members of the club was participated in by the ladies which furnished a half hour's diversion of fun. The gifts ran all the way from cash, representing the business of a banker, to that of a ton of coal, the contribution of a coal operator, and a bag of cement from a cement worker. One gift that could not be delivered, however, was a thousand feet of natural gas, drawn by a guest whose residence is located several miles outside the territory served by the gas company.

The evening's pleasure was further added to by dancing in the ball room of the hotel where music was furnished by Paul Graham's orchestra.

EX-MAYOR OF LOCH LYNN ALTERS HIS DISPOSITION

Cheerful Mien Changes After He Finds 6 Chickens Gone

Ex-Mayor Gibson, of Loch Lynn, albeit of solemn mien and visage grim, is noted among his friends as a citizen of cheerful disposition and a kindly feeling for his fellow-men. On Labor Day he arose in a particularly joyous frame of mind, feeling that he held the lucky number on the automobile to be given away at the Knights of Pythias picnic.

Remembering that many a good and bountiful basket of food would be spread beneath the oaks at Helbig's Grove that day, he selected with care a generous supply of the finest ears of corn for the breakfast of his chickens. Whistling blithely he made his way to his poltry yard and on his approach his pure-bred fowls came at his call. He looked and rubbed his eyes in astonishment, for there were missing six of his finest hens—hens that repaid his care and attention abundantly.

He returned to the house, bolted his breakfast, slapped his hat on his head and made his way to the center of the village. There he learned that Harvey & Ream, merchants, had suffered the loss of two young chickens—all that happened to have been left in stock from Saturday night.

Now, the ex-Mayor casts the eye of suspicion at whomsoever he may meet. War has been declared.

However, it has been suggested that the chicken stealing may have been a part of a general plan to hold a banquet some place in the outlying district. The appetizer had already been provided. At least someone with a possible eye to business had entered the Mount Airy Canning Company's plant and took, stole and carried away about half a ton of sugar. And they do say that sugar is one of the ingredients of a first-class run of a very potent drink.

Moonshine and chicken! Yum! Yum! There chile; stop yo' slobberin'.

JUNIOR TENNIS TOURNEY IS WON BY KEELER FAUS

Defeats Frances Grimes In Finals—Many Are Entered

The Junior Tennis Tournament, held last Saturday, was a most successful and pleasing event. The matches were played partly on the courts at Mountain Lake Park and partly on the courts at Mrs. Ralph Weber's home.

The entrants were: Misses Emily Bolgiano, Frances Grimes, Mary Elizabeth Nutter, Martha Gonder, Betty Gonder, Mary Shaffer, and Julia Ann Shaffer; Messrs. Art Calhoun, Clyde Colhoun, Keeler Faus, Harold Bittinger, Fred Chesley, Cassolman Chesley, Nelson Offutt, Thomas Gonder, James Lee, Jack Schill, Harry Bran, Logan, Bond and Jack Weber, J. McFarland, Jimmie Sincell, the latter two from Keyser.

In the girls' finals, Frances Grimes won over Emily Bolgiano, thus giving her the right to play Keeler Faus who won over Jimmie Sincell in the boys' finals.

In the finals, Frances Grimes, who was offered a handicap of two games, but refused to accept it, was defeated by Keeler Faus, to whom the cup was awarded for one year. There was also a trophy for the runner up.

A camp fire supper was served which was greatly enjoyed by the players and friends.

Saturday night a benefit bridge was given at the home of Mrs. Ralph Weber. There were eight tables. Miss Mary Ruhl won first prize, Mrs. Katherine Hardy, the consolation. A delightful evening was spent.

Injured In Automobile Wrecks Over Week-end

Mrs. J. M. Stanton was painfully cut about the face Sunday night when the car in which she and Mr. Stanton were riding, crashed into the covered bridge across Cheat river, near Erwin, W. Va. Mrs. Stanton had a long gash cut in her face from her broken eye glasses that required 15 stitches to close. No one else in the car was injured seriously.

The Buick automobile owned by Mr. Harland Jones was destroyed by fire at a point in New Jersey on Monday. The car was occupied at the time by Mr. and Mrs. Jones and two youthful relatives, all of whom received painful bruises. The car skidded from the road and turned over, which caused it to ignite from the gasoline.

Mrs. W. P. Wachtel, Baltimore, daughter of Dr. Frank Selby, had eight teeth knocked out and otherwise bruised about the face when a car in which she was motoring from Baltimore to Washington was rammed by another car occupied by several colored men, at a point near Rockville, Md. The car occupied by Mrs. Wachtel was stationary at the time of the accident. She was given medical attention in Rockville, and later in Washington. Her father went to Baltimore and she accompanied him home Sunday and will remain here for several days. Mr. Wachtel arrived in Oakland on Tuesday. The negroes were placed under arrest and are being held in the Rockville jail.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Mr. Herbert Leighton has resigned as postmaster at the Park, so we are informed, to take place at the pleasure of the Department. Mr. Leighton has served the patrons of this office well and faithfully. He has been uniformly courteous, and obliging, often going out of his way to accommodate a patron. His place will be hard to fill.

Capt. and Mrs. William W. Skyles have closed their cottage, Allegheny House, and returned to their home in Philadelphia, Capt. Skyle's post.

Mr. J. C. Frame and Mrs. Cora Bishop, Fairmont, motored to the Park Saturday, returning home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. L. M. Cunningham and Mr. Lawrence Cunningham, Fairmont, motored to the Park Sunday.

Mr. Archie Oswell, Washington, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Oswell.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Gibson have brightened up their store room by a fresh coat of paint. It was a much needed improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan spent the week-end at their cottage.

Mr. Lee M. Bender and daughter, Miss Betty, have closed their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shinn, Lexington, Ky., are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fleming.

Mrs. Sadie King, Butler, Pa., is the guest of her brother, Mr. R. W. Stover.

Mr. Frank Moon, Morgantown, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Jane Moon.

Mr. Marshall Brown, principal of a school near Washington, and Miss Edith Ream, principal of a consolidated school, Charlotte Hall, Md., have left to assume their respective duties.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hardesty, son and daughter, are visiting in Baltimore.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Culling the Pullets

Directly contrary to a rather prevalent idea, pullets are very easy to cull when culling is done on the basis of their growth, development, and health. Immature pullets cannot be culled directly for egg production, but must be culled for development and vigor. This is indirect culling for egg production since the slow developing, weak and undersized pullets later make the culls in culling for egg production. Culling growing pullets is very similar to culling potatoes, thinning corn, etc. With pullets, culling should be practiced throughout the growing period, removing any birds that show marked signs of unthriftiness. The final culling can be done when the pullets are placed in the laying house.

When To Cut Corn For Silage

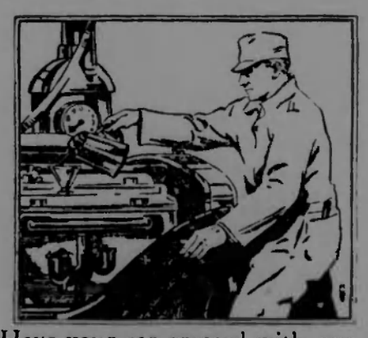
The most palatable and most nutritious corn silage is secured from corn that is fairly ripe when cut. It has been found that the best time to cut the corn for the silo is after the kernels have well passed the milk stage and when all have begun to dent. Naturally some of the earlier ears will be quite dented and the lower leaves will have started to dry.



When corn is cut at this stage and is immediately ensiled it will not need additional water. However, if the bundles lie in the field a few hours they dry rapidly and water must be added.

There are advantages in ensiling corn that is yet in the milk stage. The stalks are greener and need no additional water. Also, even if delays are encountered and the silo filling is not completed for several days, the last corn cut will not be too ripe.

Nevertheless, the objections to early cutting outweigh the advantages. The early cutting catches the corn when its yield of dry matter is considerably less than it would be later. The silage from the green corn also has a lower feeding value per ton than that from more mature corn. Another serious objection to the use of corn that is too green is that the resultant silage is of a poor quality. It is of a dark color, has a foul odor, and is generally unpalatable.

How the Bastile Fell

It was the taking of the Bastile which marked the beginning of the French revolution. It had been a symbol for royal oppression. By its downfall it became a symbol for mankind freed of the shackles of tyrannny, a symbol of freedom and independence.

It took only a few hours of a summer day to capture the Bastile, to massacre certain of its defenders, to raze its walls. It had taken four centuries to give it its evil name, for since 1369 those grim towers had risen like the fingers of a menacing hand above the housetops of Paris.

The Bastile was both a fortress and a prison. Captives were held here without formal accusation, without trial, sometimes without reason. At the whim of a king or a king's favorite, any unfortunate might be locked up, and, because of some private grudge, some personal quarrel, left to rust alive in its gloomy cells. Notoriously it had become a place of confinement for writers who dared to attack the government or persons in power. For these reasons it was hated by the populace. It was an oppressed country's most perfect emblem of imperial despotism.

When the uprising of the people began, the rabble, led on by a few inspired patriots, attacked it on July 14, 1789. Today, July 14 is to France what July 4 is to America.

That date had more and greater significance than merely marking the outbreak of the Revolution. By taking the Bastile the people came to have a realization of their own strength. They discovered that commoner might destroy a stronghold of hated might and not answer for the act with their own lives. The seeds of the French republic were sown in the red ruins of the Bastile. From that sowing came the breaking-down of the ancient feudal system, the overthrow of the aristocrats, the nobility and the throne. From it also sprang the reign of terror.

It is told that when a courier from the rioters brought the news to the King (Louis XVI) at Versailles, the latter in horror cried out, "But this is revolt!" and the messenger answered, "No, sire, it is revolution."

Revolution it was, and by that revolution a new trend was given to the political development of a great nation and an example was given to other king-ruled nations on both sides of the Atlantic ocean.

The details here printed of the siege and surrender of the Bastile were taken from the Gazette Nationale ou le Moniteur Universale, a newspaper of the time. As the Paris Moniteur the journal is still in existence.

IN ITS issue of July 23, 1789—the issue next succeeding the Fall of the Bastile—"le Moniteur"—or The Monitor as we would say—carried an account of the event which perhaps was written by its own editor. Whoever it was, this chronicler must have been an eye-witness. The attention to detail, the certainty with which he speaks of this phase or that, proves this. Besides, in referring to the attacking force he says, "We said this" or "We did that."

After dealing at length with the preliminary stages of the siege of the hated fortress by the populace and with the popular hatred for its commandant, M. de Launay, the paper proceeds to a spirited and circumstantial account of the main engagement:

"At the first news of the attack on the Bastile the very name of which recalled thoughts of lettres de cachet, of shame and of oppression, heads were inflamed, madness transported them and daring suddenly became as great as the terror which had so long been felt at the mention of this formidable name. Moment by moment the crowd of attackers grew. To it were added citizens of every age, of both sexes, of every condition. Officers, soldiers, firemen, women, priests, artisans, journalists, the greater part unarmed, all whirling about excitedly, all moved by a common impulse, dashed from the various quarters of Paris and hastened by a hundred routes towards the Bastile. The Faubourg St. Antoine, which was directly under the artillery of the fort and was even more stirred up because of its proximity, turned out in its entirety. One also saw rushing thither country people, strangers and warriors recently arrived from other countries. One young Greek, subject of a great lord, watched our enthusiasm, and, fired by it, turned French, many, as soon as they learned of the attack on the Bastile, were drawn thither by different motives. Some had the hope of pillage. These received their due.

An Intrepid Patriot.

"Others came only to succor the wounded or to shield from the fury of the attackers persons, friends or those recommended during their captivity had previously received consolations. This humanity, gratitude, and all pure virtues were expressed at the risk of life and limb. However, on the bridges, over around the drawbridge. Women rushing to the aid of their husbands fell wounded. One woman who sought only war and victory fought in the front ranks of the conquerors of the Bastile. Soon the people hurled themselves in a mob into the court of the 'government house' and rushed to take the second bridge, at the same time firing a volley of musketry at the troops. These latter replied with a lively and sustained fire which forced the attackers to retire in disorder. . . .

"This attack had gone on for an hour when suddenly from the arsenal side (of the fort) came the beating of drums and sounds of shouting. At the same instant we saw coming into the Court de Orme, a flag escorted by a crowd of armed citizens. A great company then advanced towards the court of the 'government house' and cried to the enemy to hold their fire, that there were deputies from the Hotel de Ville who wished to speak to the governor. Soon a white flag was raised on the bastions and the signs of peace and parley were multiplied by waving of hats. Upon this friendly invitation, M. de Corney, accompanied by several others including M. Joannel, who carried the flag and was preceded by a drum, began to march toward the arch which led toward the Pont d'Avance. A man called to their attention a cannon which had been pulled into a loophole in the tower and which was aimed into the Court de Porree. Everyone cried to them to put no trust in the perfidious promises which would be made them.

"M. Delaunay alone went forward with drum and flag to the very foot of the post where M. de Corney remained under the arch. Several of the people threw themselves upon him and begged him not to expose himself thus to the fire of the enemy, but the intrepid patriot as strongly urged them to withdraw from him, pointing out that they would do nothing against the fortress since the cannon could easily crush them, that he would remain there alone and that he had nothing to fear.

"The besieged then turned loose musketry fire which dropped the men on either side of him and forced him to withdraw in the midst of the whistle of bullets which seemed to rain upon the wall guarding the arch under which he joined the deputation. Filled with horror and indignation, they retraced their steps to the Hotel de Ville with but a small part of those who had accompanied them.

Hot Fire Greets Peace Offers.

"Shrieking, the furious mob charged the bridge but a volley again scattered them. A part withdrew a short distance, and while those who had guns fired ceaselessly upon the underofficers posted on the bastions, another group with axes beat down the gates of this quarter (a part of the fortress) which was thus open for pillage. A second deputation from the city came to present to the governor the oath of the permanent committee and to try and stop the bloodshed. This deputation carried the decree which ordered the governor, M. de Launay, to surrender the Bastile to the city without spilling the blood of citizens. The Abbe Fauchet was at its head and presented himself under artillery fire. He was answered with shots. The deputation advanced three times, always with a new intrepidity. Three times the answer to the peaceful overtures was given only by overwhelming fire.

"The attackers, more enraged, brought up three wagon loads of straw, set fire to the forward guardhouse and to the 'government house' and to the kitchens. The besieged at this point fired a charge of grape shot. The bastions and the loopholes resounded with the noise of musketry and the officers themselves fired guns.

"The fire was still going on when there was noted in the court a detachment of militiamen made up of the most part of grenadiers from Rathville and of riflemen from the company of Lubersac; with them was a numerous group of bourgeois under the command of M. Hullin. It was he who had just decided on the march of the militia, after having puzzled for over an hour on means of attacking the Bastile successfully. 'My friends,' he said to them, 'are you citizens? Then let us march against the Bastile. There they are slaughtering our friends and our brothers. We have the fatherland to avenge, traitors to punish. Can we doubt victory?'

A Hairdresser on the Rampage.

"At these words the brave warriors fell in step behind him and marched to the fortress with three cannon, reinforcing themselves with two others which they picked up near the arsenal. Several military patients who had been restored to arms that morning joined them and they marched into the Court de l'Orme.

"In one of the courts of the Bastile they captured a young girl equally interesting because of her grace and her candor. Having led her near to the last bridge, 'It is the daughter of de Launay,' cried the enraged people. 'Either he will surrender or he will see his daughter die in flames.' A straw mattress was to serve her as a funeral pyre. They set fire to it and the unfortunate girl disappeared in the smoke.

"The father of Mlle. de Monsigny, for that is the name of the unfortunate young girl, saw from the height of the tower his daughter nearly burned alive. He was going to hurl himself down when he was hit by two bullets and knocked over. The governor Aubin Bernard, of whom we have spoken, terrified by such an attempted crime, had just scattered the blood-soaked bricks of the victim and [illegible] hands returned to the [illegible].

"An event more [illegible] to scene took place in the [illegible]. A hair dresser, drunk or [illegible], armed with [illegible] branding irons, was hurling [illegible] setting fire to the [illegible]. The brave Jean Baptiste Humbert, who had the honor to be the first to mount upon the towers of the Bastile and who was arriving then from the Hotel des Invalides, drawn by the cries of a wom-

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Jennie Weigand vs. George Weigand. No. 2911 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The Bill states that on the .... day of ....., 1922, the plaintiff was married to the defendant, with whom she resided in Pennsylvania and elsewhere until March, 1924.

That although the conduct of the plaintiff toward her husband has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond a reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

That no children were born to the parties as a result of said marriage.

That the plaintiff is a resident of Garrett County and that the defendant is a non-resident of this State.

The Bill then prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii, by the plaintiff from the said defendant.

IT IS, THEREUPON, This 4th day of September, 1929, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett County once in each of four successive weeks before the 5th day of October, 1929, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning him to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 21st day of October next, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

TRUSTEES' SALE

—OF—

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

Lately Owned by George Giessman, Bankrupt.

Under and by virtue of the powers vested in us as Trustees in Bankruptcy and by an order of the United States District Court for the District of Maryland, passed in the matter of George Giessman, Bankrupt, the same being No. 309 Bankruptcy, bearing date November 22, 1927, authorizing the sale of said bankrupt's property, we, the undersigned trustees, do hereby give notice that on at the hour of two o'clock P. M., in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Maryland, we will offer at public auction to the highest bidders all of the following real estate of the said George Giessman, situate, lying and being in Garrett County, to-wit:

FRIDAY,

SEPTEMBER 27, 1929,

1. All that lot of ground situate on Water Street in the Town of Oakland and described as follows: Beginning for the same at the Northwest corner of Edward Welch's lot and running thence South 67 degrees East, 148½ feet, South 23 degrees West, 209¾ feet to the Little Youghiogheny River, thence down said river to a line drawn South 30 degrees West, from the beginning of said lot, this being the lot of ground which was conveyed unto George Giessman by A. T. Matthews and P. A. Naylor, Trustees, by deed bearing date February 10, 1926, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 95, folio 158, one of the Land Records of Garrett County.

This lot is improved by a dwelling house.

2. All that lot of ground known as the "WELCH FARM," situate along the Youghiogheny River in Garrett County, containing the quantity of 140 acres, more or less, and being the same which was conveyed unto the said George Giessman by deeds from John T. Mitchell and G. S. Hamill, trustees, dated August 6, 1906, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 52, folio 542, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, and from William H. Smouse and wife, dated February 23, 1911, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 62, folio 46, one of said Land Records, save and excepting therefrom the coal underlying said property as reserved in former deeds.

3. All that tract of land called "KNICKERBOCKER," situate in District No. 1, of Garrett County, Maryland, containing the quantity of 311 acres, more or less, and described in a deed therefor from Albert L. Lee, Treasurer, to the said George Giessman bearing date the 27th day of May, 1925, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 89, folio 421, one of the Land Records of Garrett County.

This land is located along the county road leading from Swanton to Bittinger; is covered with a good growth of timber, of which a considerable part is hickory, and is readily accessible to both the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the so-called Jennings Railroad. It is said to be a very good timber proposition.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

in Election District No. 9 of Garrett County, Md.

Under and by virtue of the power vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, passed on the 22nd day of August, 1929, in a cause in said Court, wherein Earl Minnick and others were plaintiffs and Vincent Minnick and others were defendants, the same being No. 2890 Equity, I, the undersigned trustee, do hereby give notice that on

FRIDAY,

the 20th Day of September, 1929

at the hour of three o'clock P. M., in front of the Postoffice in the Town of Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland, I will offer for sale at public auction all of the following real estate situate, lying and being in District No. 9 of Garrett County, Maryland, to-wit:

The Northern part of Military Lot No. 595, containing 21 acres, more or less, and fully described in a deed from Samuel Johnson and others to Julius Minnick, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, dated May 8, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 558, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and being the same land title to which vested in Mary V. Minnick, now deceased, under the provisions of the last will and testament of said Julius Minnick, filed and probated in the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Said land is located about a mile South of the National Pike, about four miles West of Frostburg and near the property of Mr. Thomas J. Johnson. About two-thirds is cleared and under cultivation and the remainder is in woods. It is also improved by a two-story, six room frame dwelling, a small barn and other necessary buildings.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third cash on the day of sale, one-third in six months, one-third in twelve months, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. Conveyancing at the cost of the purchaser.

ERNEST RAY JONES, Trustee.
28-4 Oakland, Md.

RECORD FOR MARRIAGES IN ANY MONTH IS BROKEN

One Hundred Fifty-four Applications Granted By Local Clerk Beats Former Record by Five

The record for the number of marriage licenses issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court in Oakland during any one month was exceeded last month when 154 applicants applied and were granted licenses to wed. The previous record was 149, made in June, 1928, and in August, 1927.

There were forty-five licenses issued during the week ending on Tuesday morning, nineteen of the number being granted on Saturday. The pre-Labor Day rush was greater than usual this year, according to E. Z. Tower, clerk, which accounts for the record-breaking number for August.

Five licenses were issued and marked "don't publish," while two applicants were refused permits on account of the youthfulness of the contracting parties.

FOR SALE—I will sell at private sale the large house and lot on the Northeast corner of Oak and Third streets, Oakland, Maryland. This property is one of the best locations in the town and is very desirable as a small hotel, private sanatorium, or apartment house, as it is located at the intersection of the two principal State highways passing through Oakland. The house is piped for gas and water and wired for electricity, and has 18 rooms in addition to bath. Suitable terms. Frederick A. Thayer, Jr., Oakland, Maryland. Advertisement 27-tf.

There is a "Death Chamber" in the FLY-TOX factory. This chamber is about the room size. It is used to test the quality of FLY-TOX as a spray to kill flies, mosquitoes, bedbugs, roaches, etc. During a test a large number of young, healthy insects are placed inside the cabinet. These insects are raised in incubators for testing purposes. While the insects are flying and crawling around in the "Chamber of Death," FLY-TOX is sprayed inside. Less than a teaspoonful is used. Instantly there is a change. Within five minutes not a buzz is heard. All insects are dead. To make sure they are really dead, the insects are carefully removed from the "Chamber of Death" and placed in incubators in an effort to revive them. If a wing flutters, the FLY-TOX tested never leaves the factory. This test is your guarantee of FLY-TOX quality. It does what you want it to do—kill insects in and about your home. Yet FLY-TOX is positively harmless to people. FLY-TOX was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. It will not stain. Has a delightful perfume-like fragrance. There is only one FLY-TOX—insist upon the genuine in bottles with blue labels.—Advertisement 29-1t.

COUNTY FAIRS DEVELOP COMMUNITY, SAYS CARTER

County Agent Writes Article in Support of the Thirteenth Annual Garrett County Exhibit

"The Garrett County Fair is a means of developing the county, especially the farm practices, the school and the home," John H. Carter, county agent, writes in support of the coming 13th Annual Garrett County Fair to be held in Oakland on October 1, 2, 3 and 4.

"It is a means of bringing together the people socially and in a common frame of mind to study local problems and to work out a program to bring about needed development of the county agriculturally. Team work is needed not only in athletics but in all kinds of organizations, especially those of a rural type.

"The county fair brings out the best products that can be provided by the home or the farm and is indirectly a review of the year's work. The competitive spirit is an educational stimulus for greater achievement rather than winning prizes in money. Prize money is not given to reimburse one for exhibiting at the fair, but is given as a token of appreciation for the spirit people have in promoting their county.

"Everyone in the community, and the community includes the entire county, is counted upon to be in this fair. Everyone may not be competing for prizes, but the program is arranged to entertain and benefit everyone.

"The value of comparing by sight can hardly be determined financially. A fair should be an educational institution calculated to raise the standard of the county, to encourage the production of better crops and better livestock, and to promote the highest standards of living.

"Remember, the Garrett County Fair depends upon the people in the county. The time is drawing near. Start now to select your products or prepare your exhibit, and let us make the 1929 fair one of which every citizen will be proud."

West Penn Employes Give Program at Rotary Meeting

A talk by E. B. Smith, of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company and the presentation of a comedy sketch, "Electrolizing Eliza," presented by Miss Betty Harper and Miss Mary Lee Weitzell, members of the Home Service Department of the electric company, featured the meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club last Friday evening at the William James Hotel.

The entertainment afforded by the two young women was appreciated by members of the club and the visiting Rotarians who were present from various sections of the country.

Eighteen members of the local club went to Kingwood Tuesday evening and attended the Inter-City meeting of the clubs of Morgantown, Kingwood, Terra Alta and Oakland. The meeting was held in the social room of the M. E. church where dinner was also served. Covers were laid for eighty. The program of the evening was in charge of the Morgantown club.

Rev. William G. Gehri, Morgantown, gave the principal address in which the value of friendship and fellowship was the central theme. Dr. Carl P. Schott, head of the department of physical education in West Virginia University, led the group singing and read several poems in the Swedish dialect. Mrs. Samuel J. Morris, contralto, sang a group of songs with Miss Frances Sanders as accompanist.

Sunday School Conferences To Be Held In County

A series of three Sunday School conferences will be held in the county September 23, 24, and 25 under the auspices of the Garrett County Council of Religious Education. These conferences will take the place of the annual convention.

The first will be held at Kitzmiller for that entire vicinity on Monday, September 23; the second at Oakland on Tuesday, September 24, and the third at Grantsville on Wednesday, October 25.

The conferences will be in charge of the state officers and other competent persons trained in this work. Each Sunday School of the county is supposed to have its annual report in the hands of the county secretary, Miss Coral McRobie, Oakland, before the conference.

RUBBER MANUFACTURERS CONVENE AT DEER PARK

Ninth Annual Meeting Covers Two Days at Famous Resort

The ninth annual Cumberland meeting of the Rubber Manufacturers' Association traffic committee, also the second annual Cumberland meeting of the Accessory Division of the same association, was held at the Deer Park Hotel on Monday and Tuesday of this week. More than one hundred representatives of these committees from rubber manufacturing companies from different parts of the United States were represented.

This number also included prominent railroad officials of America's principal railways. The party arrived in Pullman cars of a special train at Cumberland and were then transported to Deer Park.

A lengthy docket of important matters were discussed, following which a golf tournament was arranged. The party returned to Cumberland Tuesday.

Invitations to hold these meetings in Cumberland are extended annually by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. These gatherings serve to bring many prominent railroad officials to this vicinity, and in addition to many traffic managers and railroad officials representatives of the leading rubber manufacturers are in attendance.

GRANTSVILLE MAN HURT IN MOTORCYCLE MISHAP

John C. Miller Suffering With a Fracture of His Skull

John C. Miller, aged 29, married and the father of a large family residing at Grantsville, is in a serious condition at the Miners Hospital, Frostburg, where he is suffering with a fracture of his skull, which he sustained Saturday night when his motorcycle overturned at Sand Spring, on the National Highway, west of Frostburg, after colliding with a culvert alongside the roadway. The injured man remains in a semi-conscious condition, hospital attaches report.

Mr. Miller was returning to his home from Frostburg with his two small daughters who were riding in a side-car, after attending a moving picture show, when the accident happened, the cause of which is not now known.

One of the children was slightly injured but the other escaped. Mr. Miller was taken to the hospital by Chas. Schaffer, also of Grantsville who arrived at the scene shortly afterwards. The injured girl was attended by Dr. A. R. Walker while her father is under the care of Dr. W. O. McLane, Jr.

Mr. Miller's wife and her sister, Miss Gertrude Hone, with other relatives, remained at the hospital thruout Sunday. The injured man is well known in Grantsville and community.

Promises Are Made to Furnish Uniforms for Three Members of the Boys' Band

Promises to furnish uniforms for three members of the Boys' Band of Oakland and a donation of $5.00, has been received by R. R. Gilbert, director, since making an appeal just two weeks ago for funds with which to equip each member of the organization with uniforms.

Messrs. A. D. Naylor, C. N. McIntire and the Coffman-Fisher Company, through I. R. Rudy, manager, have agreed to furnish three uniforms. The donation of $5 was received from an Oakland woman who does not desire her name published.

The needed uniforms which Mr. Gilbert has in mind will cost approximately $15 each. Thirty members of the band will be equipped.

"The attempt to raise the necessary fund is being made in order that the band members may look presentable when they are engaged to play in concerts out of town," Mr. Gilbert said. "Any donations or other valuable assistance given will be greatly appreciated by the members and myself."

1930 WATER REGATTA TO BE HELD JULY 4 AND 5

Dates Fixed at Meeting On Monday Night—Celebration to be Made Self-Supporting

That the regatta to be held at Deep Creek Lake next year will be a sure-fire success was the unanimous opinion of the members of the regatta committee at a meeting held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Sally Burch, the chairman.

The date set for the holding of the regatta is July 4th and 5th. The fact that these dates fall on Friday and Saturday will give an opportunity to those desiring to spend the National holiday out of the cities to make it a 3-day week-end trip to the mountains.

A number of committees were authorized the appointment being left in the hands of the executive committee. By the first of October it is expected these committees will be organized for action, plans formulated and definite objectives adopted.

In addition to securing the very best attractions in the way of water sports —motor boat races, aqua plane stunts and every event that goes into the making of an interesting and thrilling regatta, the committee decided to put on a water carnival and regatta that will be novel and entertaining. It is believed, too, that the committee in charge of that part of the program will be able to create one or more novelties, as it was recently decided that the ideal for the alighting contest of a plane of this character.

To Be Self-Supporting

After the matter had been thoroughly discussed the committee was of the opinion that the regatta could be made self-supporting. This would do away with the labor and annoyance of personal solicitation of funds. However, it was further decided that a certain amount must be underwritten in order that the committee might have in hand a sufficient amount of cash to enable it to do the necessary preliminary work in the shape of publicity, carrying on correspondence incident to soliciting advertising for the program, securing entrants, etc. In other words the committee decided to put this regatta at the start on a sound business basis, feeling that if it could do so, it would become a big annual event. Front accounts already pledged the underwriting is assured it has been learned.

Being Held Under Bond

Leo Merchey, Oakland blacksmith, was arrested last Thursday afternoon by county officers on a bench warrant and is being held under $700 bond for his appearance at the December Term of the Circuit Court. Following his arrest he was placed in jail but was released Saturday upon furnishing the requisite surety. Merchey was indicted at the June session of the Garrett County grand jury on a liquor charge but could not be apprehended as he had left the State and remained away until after court had adjourned.

649 STUDENTS ENROLLED IN OAKLAND'S SCHOOLS

High School Opens With 312 on Roll; Grammar School Has 269 and Parochial School 68

With an enrollment of 312 pupils, Oakland High School opened for the nine-months' term Monday, September 9, more crowded than ever before.

Oakland Grammar School opened the same day with an enrollment of 269, with the probability of several more who are usually delinquent in the beginning of the term, according to Miss Marion B. Leary, the principal.

The enrollment at St. Peter's Parochial school was 68, making the total number of children attending school in Oakland 649.

Conditions Crowded.

Conditions in the High School and in the Grammar School seem to be more crowded than at any time heretofore. Two years ago at the high school the assembly room was converted into several class rooms and all available space taken and at that time there were only 271 pupils enrolled. One hundred and twenty of the pupils enrolled in high school this year are freshmen.

Classes in all three schools are being conducted on a temporary schedule and a more complete and permanent one can be arranged.

Instructors Listed

The high School instructors include Miss Katharine Conley, principal; W. W. Jenkins, mathematics; Miss Edna Kraft, French and English; Miss Rose Price, English and Latin; Miss Cornelia Fennell, mathematics; Mr. Arthur Crumrine, commercial; Miss Martha Engle, Biology; Mr. Walter Smith, physics and general science; Miss Vida Broadwater, music; Miss Ina Falkenstein, home economics; Mr. Foster Teicher, History and general science; Mr. O. T. Graser, agriculture, and Miss Margaret Kochenderfer, English.

Teachers in Oakland Grammar school are the same as last year with the addition of Mr. Elias Smith of Frostburg, who will instruct the fifth grade pupils.

Mrs. Marion B. Leary, principal, 7th grade, 30 enrolled; Mrs. Ernest C. Lilley, 6th grade, 19 enrolled; Mr. Elias Smith, 5th grade, 29 enrolled; Mrs. Mabel Sellars, 4th grade, 36 enrolled; Miss Lucille Mitchell, 3rd grade, 35 enrolled; Miss Beulah Lowbridge, 2nd grade, 37 enrolled; Miss Edna Baker, 1st grade, 36 enrolled.

This is the first year for several years that the Grammar school has retained seven instructors, one for each grade, and this has been made possible, it was stated, through transportation of pupils from outlying districts.

Mr. F. O. Swindler and sons Glenn, of Endicott, N. Y., and Ralph, of Acton, Ontario, Canada, who were visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Scott and other relatives in this section the past week, left for their homes today.

FIFTEEN GRADUATES OF O. H. S. '29 TO BE ADDED TO LIST OF COLLEGE STUDENTS WHO WILL LEAVE SHORTLY

Five Others To Take Post-Graduate Course—Almost Fifty To Seek Higher Education

Fifteen graduates of Oakland High School, class of '29, will be added to the list of students who will attend various business schools, colleges and universities when the doors of those institutions open for the coming school year.

Five other graduates of last year's class will return to the High school for post-graduate courses, making 20 out of a class of 37 who are continuing their education in higher fields.

This list of 20 will be added to a list of 24 who are returning within a few days to their respective schools to further complete their work.

Those who will begin their advanced school careers this week or within the next few weeks are Dorothea Sturgess, Linwood School, St. Charles, Mo.; Helen Leighton, Maryland College for Women, Lutherville; Adeline Smeeth, Potomac State college, Keyser, W. Va.; Dorothy Stevenson, State Teachers' College, Harrisonburg, Va.; Blanche Gilbert, Parkersburg Business college; Wilda Adams and Gladys Sanders, Morgantown Business college; Ernest Sperkein, Blue Ridge college, New Windsor; Verna Calhoun, Lyla Calhoun, Lester Winters and Archie Ridder, Fairmont Business college; Dorothy Welch, a college in the middle west; Frances Thrasher and Helen Gibson, Frostburg State Normal; Martha Gonder, Lorraine Bittinger, Ethel Fike, Clara Dean Helbig, and Richard Stemple, post-graduates.

Leonard Murphy, a graduate of the class of '28, will attend St. John's College, Annapolis; and Elwood Hauser, '28, will enter Gettysburg. Those who will return to their respective schools soon are George Altstetter, Johns Hopkins, Baltimore; Virginia Hamill, Warrenton Country school; Nelle Offutt, Dodd's Ferry; Thurl Tower, Kenneth Stahl, Niles Falkenstine, Carl McIntire, McClelland Dixon, James Lee, Mitchell Franklin, Irving Baumgartner, Margaret Leighton, and Gerald Biggs, all to University of Maryland; Martha Townshend, Davis Elkins college, Elkins, W. Va.; Hasaleah Yutzy, West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va.; Theoda Rice, Mt. St. Joseph's, Emmittsburg; Mary Louise Helbig and Helen Jones, Strayer's Business college; Evelyn Bosley, Notre Dame, Baltimore; Edith Bittinger, [illegible] Normal; Junior Bittinger, and Elinor Hamill, Princeton university; Nelson Offutt, Citizen; Henry Hamill, Washington College.

DEAD FISH ARE LINING THE BANKS OF YOUGHIOGHENY

Reports From Friendsville Says Great Numbers are Found

That hundreds of dead fish were lining the banks of the Youghiogheny river in the vicinity of Friendsville, was reported yesterday to The Republican by R. E. Guard, Friendsville, and a number of other interested parties.

The dead fish included bass, suckers, sunfish and trout, and all seemed to be affected from the same cause. It is not known whether the fish died from some source of pollution of the river or as a result of the low water.

An inquiry at Crellin revealed that nothing of the same character had occurred to the fish in the upper reaches of the Youghiogheny.

An attempt will be made to have the State Game Department investigate the cause and find a remedy, if possible.

The river for several years past has yielded few fish according to local fishermen and if the comparatively few that remain are not protected the river will become depopulated of the game tribe.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE FAIR WILL BE GREATEST EVER

Henry Speicher, Manager, Says He Has Several Unique Performers for Spectators

Free attractions, amusements and other entertainment will be better this year at the Thirteenth Annual Garrett County Fair, to be held October 1, 2, 3 and 4, than ever before, according to Henry Speicher, manager, who has obtained the services of several unique performers in an effort to attract a great number of people here on those days.

The latest attraction he has booked is the double parachute leap of W. J. "Thunderbolt" Knight, who will jump from the wing of an airplane 3000 feet in the air on Wednesday afternoon, October 2. This is the only day that Knight will be available here. He will make his leap from the wing of the Reiby Shaw plane, which has its permanent landing field at Weber's near Oakland. This is one entertainment that is costing the Fair Association quite a sum of money, it is stated.

The Reiby Shaw plane will be at the fair grounds during the four days of the fair, Mr. Speicher announced, and will fly with passengers. A runway is to be built on the field for use in taking off.

There will be a number of shows and rides and independent concession tents, many of them by local people. Capt. E. H. Hugo will leap daily thru the fiery chasm on a bicycle and Chefalo will dive into a small net from a great height every day during the four days' entertainment.

"Everything possible is being done to entertain the people who are going to attend the fair," Mr. Speicher said, "and it is to be hoped that they not only attend, but bring in their exhibits and take an active interest in this year's exposition.

"I will do all I can to furnish entertainment for the people if they come and provide adequate space for all of their exhibits, but without their presence their exhibits and their whole hearted assistance and cooperation, the fair is bound to fail."

K. of P. Building Brick Work to be Completed This Week

Brick veneering of the Knights of Pythias building on Third street and the addition being built to it to accommodate a kitchen and paraphernalia room on the third floor of the structure, will be completed the latter part of this week, providing the material required arrives without undue delay, according to the committee in charge of the work.

Arthur Cogley, contractor, has had a force of men working on the building for several weeks and practically everything has been completed. Mr. John Ault is superintending the construction.

The dressing rooms of the Maryland Theatre which are located on the first floor of the building, have been improved and enlarged and the two rooms above them have also been considerably enlarged. The new portion of the structure is also being veneered with brick.

Miss Virginia Scott, of Morgantown, was here with relatives a day or two last week.

GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENT, DEER PARK, CLAIMS VICTIM

Paul Liller, 22, of Loch Lynn, Killed Yesterday When Truck Was Hit By Fast Mail Train

Paul Elwood Liller, 22, of Loch Lynn Heights, employed as a truckman by H. V. Leighton & Son, timber dealers, was instantly killed yesterday morning on the grade crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Deer Park village when the vehicle he was operating was struck by passenger and mail train No. 22 at 9:17 o'clock.

The body of the victim was severed into three parts and mangled almost beyond recognition. The train struck the truck in the center and lifted it bodily from the track onto the pilot and forward part of the locomotive and carried it a distance of perhaps a hundred and fifty yards before the engineer brought it to a stop. The truck had to be dislodged from the locomotive it being wedged so tightly on the locomotive.

The youthful victim was engaged in hauling timber from the mountain south of Mountain Lake Park for the Messrs. Leighton and had arrived with a load a few minutes before the accident. Leaving the lumber yard and skirting the railway tracks for a short distance before coming into the roadway, Liller turned his truck toward the crossing which is reached over a very steep grade.

Train No. 22, which struck the truck, does not stop at Deer Park and was traveling at a rate of thirty miles an hour. It is presumed that Liller did not see the train until it was upon him and too late to escape.

The remains were brought to Bolden's morgue where they were prepared for burial, the service to be held from the U. B. church at Loch Lynn this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. F. L. Fultz officiating. Interment will will be made in Pleasant Valley cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his widow and two small children, his mother, Mrs. Henry R. Liller, who resides on the home farm, and several brothers and sisters. He was born March 2, 1907, at Eglon, West Va.

Scout Officers To Be Chosen Soon By Troop Committee

Appointment of officers and patrol leaders of Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, for the ensuing year, will be made within the next week by the Troop committee, composed of Mr. W. W. Dawson, chairman; Harland Jones, Donald Sincell, F. E. Rathbun, and L. M. Fraley, and installation will take place on Friday evening, September 20, it has been announced.

Recommendations for the offices will be made by the scoutmaster and will be based on the scouts' interest and achievements throughout the past year. The recommendations will be turned over to the Troop committee for their approval or disapproval.

"Election of new men to fill these responsible positions is necessary each year because of scouts departing for college, etc.," the scoutmaster said, "and it is not until after these vacancies are filled that the troop can get down to real work for the coming year."

Crellin Employes To Have Picnic

Employees of the Stanley Coal Co., Inc., and the Preston Railroad Co., of Crellin, will hold a basket picnic at Table Rock south of Oakland, on Sunday, September 15. The Crellin Band will furnish the music during the day.

The management of the coal and railway companies, as well as the employes wish to extend an invitation to all who wish to join in the picnic and spend the day with them at Table Rock.

Men to Conduct Union Evening Service in Presbyterian Church

The Union evening service, to be held this Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church, will be in charge of the men of the various churches of the community. The address will be a surprise and a men's choir will sing. The service will begin at 7:30 o'clock, and it is hoped that the church will be filled.

The concluding service of the Union meetings will be held in the Lutheran church on Sunday evening, September 15, and will be in charge of the women of the community. Both meetings promise to be spirited and interesting.

Lesson for September 15

TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

GOLDEN TEXT—The entrance of thy words giveth light.
LESSON TEXT—Nehemiah 8:1-18.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Studying God's Word.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Studying God's Word.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding Joy in God's Word.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Call for Trained Teachers.

This lesson is a fine illustration of the rightful place of God's Word in the life of a nation. The only certain cure for national ills is a return to God and obedience to His Word.

I. The Word of God Being Read (vv. 1-3).

1. The eager assembly (v. 1).

The people gathered themselves together and requested Ezra to bring the book of the law.

2. A representative assembly (v. 2).

It was made up of men, women and children. The men did not leave the spiritual affairs to the women, neither were the children left at home. The Spirit of God can speak through God's Word to the whole family sitting in the pew.

The lesson lasted for five or six hours, from morning until midday.

II. The People's Attitude Toward God's Word (vv. 4-6).

1. Due reverence shown (vv. 4, 5).

When Ezra opened the law, all the people stood up out of respect for God's Word.

2. They joined heartily in the prayer (v. 6).

As Ezra led them in prayer, they joined heartily in saying, "Amen, Amen," bowing their faces to the ground.

III. God's Word Being Interpreted (vv. 7, 8).

The attitude of the people toward God's Word largely depends upon the minister. Proper dignity and solemnity should be manifested by the minister when reading the Holy Scriptures.

1. He stood up where the people could see him (v. 5).
2. He read distinctly (v. 8).
3. He caused the people to understand the reading (v. 8).

IV. The Effect of Applying God's Word to the Life of the People (vv. 9-18).

1. Conviction of sin (v. 9).

The Word of God is quick and powerful (Heb. 4:12). It brings conviction of sin (Acts 2:37). The divine method of convicting men of sin is to have God's Word applied by the Holy Ghost.

2. Weeping turned into joy (vv. 10-12).

When sins have been perceived and confessed, there is forgiveness. God desires forgiven sinners to enter into the joy of forgiveness. Continued mourning will not atone for sins that are past, unfits one for present tasks, and dishonors a pardoning God. Besides, joy has a salutary effect on one's entire being. "The joy of the Lord is your strength" (v. 10).

3. Blessings were shared with others (vv. 10-12).

True joy manifests itself in giving to others; pure religion goes out to minister to the poor (Jas. 1:27).

4. The people obeyed (vv. 13-18).

From the reading of the Scriptures, they found that the Feast of Tabernacles had long been neglected. They proceeded to keep this sacred feast in a way that had not been observed since the days of Joshua (v. 17). In the keeping of this feast they dwelt in booths, thus typifying their pilgrim character and bringing to remembrance the days of their wilderness journey.

V. Separation from the Ungodly (Neh. 13:1-3).

As soon as they had heard the Word of God, they separated themselves from the mixed multitude.

VI. The House of Worship Was Cleared and Order Restored (Neh. 13:4-14).

No nation or people can be strong which neglects the worship of the true God.

VII. Restoration of the Sabbath (Neh. 13:15-22).

Israel had long violated the Sabbath. To ignore the essential law of the Sabbath is national suicide. Unnumbered evils follow in the wake of the desecration of God's Holy day.

VIII. Restoration of God's Law of Marriage (Neh. 13:23-31).

When those who had intermarried with the heathen were brought face to face with their sin, they separated themselves from their ungodly companions.

Magnetic Power of God

God's word of old, given through His prophet Isaiah, was for the multitudes without the gate, and remained now as ever: "I am found of them that sought me not." Strait is the gate indeed, but it is ever an open gate; and the Heaven behind is too full of love divine for any barrier to constrain it. Many an erring human soul has been drawn to the gate unawares, despite its folly of blindness, by the sheer magnetic force of God's unfailing love within.

ACCIDENT.

Church Notes.

Church of the Brethren, Rev. A. D. Wagner, pastor—9:30 a. m., Sunday school; 10:30 a. m., worship.

English Lutheran Parish, Rev. G. W. W. Amick, pastor—Accident, 1:30 p. m., Sunday school; 2:30 p. m., worship. Cove, 9:30 a. m., Sunday school; 10:30 a. m., worship.

Zion Lutheran church, Rev. A. W. Gode, pastor—9:30 a. m., Sunday school; 10:30 a. m., German service; 7:30 p. m., English service.

Schools Reopen.

The schools opened Monday with a large attendance in both high and grammar departments. The High School faculty remains the same as last year with the exception of Miss Brown, who heads the Home Economics department, instead of Mrs. Thomas. We feel that the school and pupils should be congratulated in thus having Miss Brown as an instructor, she being considered one of the best in the State in this particular course. Misses Hildegarde Miller and Dora Schlossnagle have charge of the same grades in the grammar school as last year with Miss Frances Wagner, of Frostburg, in charge of grades 6 and 7, which were formerly taught by Miss Grace Speicher.

Missionary Society Meets.

The Missionary Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church met in the church on Thursday evening of last week. Mrs. J. L. Englehart was the leader and the topic discussed was Race Relation. Readings were given by Mrs. Smith Friend and daughter Margaret. There were twelve members and guests present.

Y. P. Meeting.

The young people of Zion Lutheran church met in the church Friday evening of last week for a business session. Refreshments were served by Messrs. Carl Miller and Fred. Kahl.

Leave For School

Messrs. Robert DeWitt, John Speicher, Marvin Callis and Marrell Glover left on Monday for Blue Ridge College, New Windsor, Md., where they will attend school this term. These young men are all graduates of Accident High School.

Personal Mention.

Miss Olga Georg, of Baltimore, arrived recently to spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Georg.

Mr. N. M. Humberson and family were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Humberson.

Mr. Grant Uncel and family, of Uniontown, spent Sunday evening in Accident with Mr. N. M. Humberson and family.

Mrs. E. H. Georg and Misses Elma and Olga Georg spent Tuesday in Oakland.

Mr. Luther Keller and son Glenn motored to Wadsworth, Ohio, Sunday. They returned Monday and were accompanied by Mrs. Keller and Mrs. James Stephens, of New Germany, who had spent the week visiting relatives and friends in Wadsworth.

Mr. Wm. Zinkan and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Liston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McGettigan and Mr. Foster Glover and family motored to Somerset Sunday and spent the day visiting at the home of George Feik, Mrs. McGettigan's brother.

Miss Hazel Speicher was taken to the Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, on Thursday of last week where she underwent a minor operation.

Mrs. S. K. Welch, from Mountain Lake Park, spent Monday here with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McGettigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Coit Speicher, of Cumberland, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Speicher at present.

David Humberson and son were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gochringer on Saturday.

Do Not Force Pullets Into Premature Laying

It is usually considered better not to force pullets into premature laying by feeding large quantities of mash. Instead, limit the mash until pullets are quite ready to lay and by feeding a greater amount of grain, to get them fat. Such a ration emphasizes the fat making material and by withholding the egg-making materials, removes the danger of a too early maturity. Mash should not be entirely eliminated, as it contains material needed for building up the muscles of young fowls. Too much of it, however, may precipitate egg laying before it is desirable. Give the developing pullets all the grain they will eat during early fall and after they come into normal laying, gradually decrease grain with a corresponding increase in mash feeding.

Cleanliness is next to godliness. In the chicken business it spells success or failure.

Eggs from hens have a higher rate of hatchability than those from pullets, and produce larger and more vigorous chicks.

Records kept by poultry flock owner shows that culling of flocks and marketing of unprofitable layers and surplus broilers are highly profitable practices.

Death claimed James McCoy, 85, in his mountain home of Kentucky recently, he being the last survivor of the Hatfield-McCoy feud which flourished for many years in that State.

The Greater Garrett County FAIR!

A EUROPEAN CREATION

CAPT. E. H. HUGO

Much has been said and written in reference to the thrilling performance of Capt. E. H. Hugo, but mere words seem utterly inadequate in describing his feat of reckless daring. : : : : : :

High up in the air on a huge frame structure, the top of which is a steep incline, the carefree daredevil astride a bicycle, careens madly down the deep sloping chute and taking off at the end, he precipitates himself and the wheel through space, passing through a blazing carrier of flames in mid-air, to land on a gentle slope a considerable distance away, still seated on the cycle which he nonchalantly rides away.

There have been many dare-devil stunts attempted that could ever compare with the hair raising performance of Capt. Hugo.

CHEFALO

There have been many persons who have proclaimed themselves to be the highest divers in the world, but we are convinced that these same people would surely hide their heads in shame after one glance at the lofty ladders used by Chefalo, for his ladders tower so high in the air that it seems as though they must touch the clouds. : :

In place of the usual tank for a landing place Chefalo uses only a ridiculously small net, thereby increasing the hazard of his dangerous undertaking tenfold. : : : : : :

Thrill-seekers cannot afford to miss the startling stunts of Chefalo, The Master Sensationalist.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

The great American pastime is in progress—for every half dozen men working, there are a dozen to watch. See it almost any minute during the amiesiting of the streets of Oakland.

Contest Called Off.

All squatters were disqualified from competing in the contest Monday morning when they left their squatting posts on Sweeney's lot and moved to Alder street where they could watch Brady Brothers "simonize" the bricks. One of the rules of the contest was that contestants should squat their utmost, but a deep plot hatched by Neil Fraley and Jim Kerins put this rule in the discard. At a given signal everybody hopped from their perches and raced for the reserve seat section on Alder street.

Carl Brown, Bill Sturgiss, Bob Wolf, Butsy Hart and Jim Kerins got box seats, but the rest had to be content with what they could get, for "Doc Web," Doc Broady, Ed. Shaffer, Dave Stephens and Walt Janoske were already in possession of the most advantageons positions and could not be dislodged. Harry Sincell, the community superintendent, was directing the foreman of the road gang how to go about it; Andy Shartzer was supervising it, and "Simon Legree," the foreman himself, needed only a raw hide whip to make the scene complete. (Two more strikes and the batter's out).

Since the simonizing began the squatter list has been nearly doubled. This mark will be surpassed before the end of the week.

In order that the public can get a good idea of what a squatter looks like when he is standing, Col. Bell happened to get a nice snap shot of one of them. The view is a rare one for a squatter, and Col. Bell had to wait around for fifteen hours and a half before being able to catch him in this position.

Col. Bell and Scoop are undecided as yet whether to renew the building of Follywood, near Grantsville, immediately, or to bide their time until a number of developments now in the formative process, takes place. The school year is young, and the filming of the proposed picture in that vicinity may not be necessary. If the actors function, though, plans will go forward immediately for "shooting" the scenes.

Local Notes of Interest

From the personal and local notes of interest column appearing last week in the rival across the way, "Among those present were ——"

Near Fight Averted

What might have been a serious fistic encounter was strategically averted Monday by Col. Bell. It seems that Jimmie Aronhalt, from around Bayard came to Oakland with the intention of cleaning up on Scoop, and it was for no other reason than that of never having had his picture taken by Col. Bell and printed in Scoop's column, Col. Bell readily admitted that he had been overlooked or looked over, but consented to take a life-size portrait when told that The Republican was Garrett County's leading paper in his as well as in all other sections of the county. At the thought of reading this issue of The Republican he broke into a broad grin just as the Colonel snapped him.

Jimmie in Person.

Sapolio Writes

Briefense Sapolio, the little feller who was here a month or so ago, has been heard from again. He is New York bound to take a position as a linotype operator and wants to know the following:

How much did Philadelphia Pa?
How much does Columbus O?
How many eggs did Louisiana La?
What grass did Joplin Mo?

We call Minneapolis Minn,
Why not Annapolis Ann?
If you can't tell the reason why,
I'll bet Topeka Kan.

No Challenges Yet

As yet Scoop has received no challenges to trim his entry in the Garrett County Fair, the picture of which was printed last Thursday. As told last week, the horse has been well "breaded," and will be hard to beat. If the farmers are afraid to compete against this animule, Scoop is going to enter something else. This harmless creature whispers only innocent nothings in the ears of all who stand close, as can be surmised from his dainty facial expression.

Scoop will enter him in the fowl class, and if there is any doubt about his classification, there won't be after the judges take a look at his mouth. It's foul, to say the least. He speaks only the Fiji tongue, so don't get alarmed.

SUMMER ENDS; SCHOOL DAYS BEGIN

After all summer has to end sometime. Life can't be all swimming, town ball and berry bushes. It is a busy time and a serious time for everybody. Schools have begun to function.

The opening of the school year is always the signal for cartoonists to depict the American youth as reluctant to return to his classes, but in this day of interesting education we believe that the paragraph depicting the youth dejected at the sound of the school bell on the opening day should be classed with the mother-in-law joke of the past decade. Doubtless there are individuals who rebel against school but they are youngsters who rebel against any environment.

And for the thousands who will be wishing they could go back to schools there are extension classes that may be taken in the normal and other schools of higher education by means of which this urge may be satisfied. If you feel you are growing stale or settling down too rapidly in your little niche, try taking some of these extension courses this winter. It will be most stimulating. If you have a special need, you might call on Superintendent Rathbun, who is always glad to encourage and help.

There is no excuse for tears and repinings when you hear the sound of the bell calling you to your studies. If you are a student you are lucky and the chances are you know it. And if you are an old student, with a hankering for more "larnin'", you will not be denied.

School days will live forever and we can all enjoy them if we wish.

TIRED OF MONARCHY

Everything points to a real scrap in the Democratic party when the time comes to choose the party's candidate for Governor. Last week Baltimore county Democrats endorsed Senator McIntosh as their candidate. This action was taken by many to be more anti Ritchie than pro-McIntosh.

Some time ago when pressed as to his position on the seeking of a fourth term Governor Ritchie stated that there was ample time for the discussion and selection of the party's candidate at a later date. Being the head of the Democratic organization in the State, Ritchie's statement was taken by many to mean that the party should lay off any discussion as to possible candidates until 1930. The action of the Baltimore countians is a slap at the Governor and will be the cue for different factions throughout the State to start the ballyhoo for their favorite sons.

And one thing is apparent throughout it all—the people of Maryland, the Democrats, the Republicans, the Independents, are tired of the Ritchie monorchy. The next Governor of Maryland may be a Democrat but his name won't be Albert Cabell Ritchie. —Cheltenham Enterprise.

LET DOCTOR PRESCRIBE IN CASE OF SICKNESS

State Department Points Out Danger of Self-Medication

Calling attention to the danger of self-medication and advising those in need of medical treatment to let their doctors prescribe for them, Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, said:

"People do not seem to realize that medicines are drugs and that drugs are potent substances, which in all cases exert a marked influence on physiological processes. They also fail to appreciate the fact that the administration of drugs can be safely directed only by a person who has had the necessary training and who is familiar with their characteristic actions and reactions.

"Just recently there came to the attention of the State Department of Health a case of poisoning by acetanilid, as a result of taking one of the widely advertised "cold and grippe" remedies. Incidentally, nearly all of these preparations and the large class of products known as headache remedies, contain acetanilid. This substanet is one of the coal tar derivitives and in action, is classed as a powerful heart depressant. In the case referred to, the medicine consisted of tablets and the label indicated that each tablet contained 1.5 grains of acetanilid. This dose would ordinarily be considered safe, but it proved to be the opposite to the patient, who had followed the directions and had taken a tablet every three hours.

"When seen by a physician, the patient had marked symptoms of acetanilid poisoning. The lips were blue, (cyanosed), the pulse was slow and weak, the respiration slow and shallow, with convulsions and general weakness. Fortunately, the patient responded to the treatment given by the physician and recovered.

"That there is always danger in self medication is well known to all persons familiar with the action of drugs. But the people who know nothing at all about drugs or about the effect of certain drugs upon various vital processes frequently learn, only after disastrous experiences, how great such danger really is. There is no hard and fast rule for the administration of drugs. The age of the person, his habits, his physical condition must all be considered. Some persons have a pronounced antipathy for certain drugs. They become dangerously ill when these drugs are taken. Since this is the case, the safest thing to do, when you require medical treatment of any sort, is to LET YOUR DOCTOR PRESCRIBE."

BITTINGER.

Joyriders Borrow Automobile

The big, mysterious event of the week in this community, was the taking of a new Plymouth sedan, the property of Miss Anna Belle Bowser, from a shed on the Perry Bowser farm near here by some unknown person or persons, one day last week. Miss Bowser says that she, together with all the other members of the family, locked the farmhouse at about ten o'clock in the morning of last Wednesday and went to work in a back field. When they returned to the house at noon they discovered the automobile in the shed with the windshield broken out, a fender crumpled and other evidences of a collision. There were blood marks about the car, but no other clue to the parties guilty of taking the car and returning it to the shed. Miss Bowser at once followed the car tracks and discovered that the car had been driven from the shed and out upon the public road for a distance of a mile or more where it was turned about and on the return trip the driver evidently lost control of the machine and ran it into a rail fence by the roadside, demolishing eight panels of the fence and damaging the car as above stated. The motor was still warm when Miss Bowser and her brother discovered the car in the shed but no clew has been found which would indicate who the guilty party or parties were who "borrowed" the car.

One of Triplets Dead

One of the triplets born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brenneman, of the Amish Settlement, near here, as reported last week, died last Saturday morning, but the remaining two boys are said to be quite well.

Personal Mention.
